Reds Strike Two Sharp Blows

Long-Awaited Enemy Drive Might Be Near

Communists Force ROKs From Inje

TOKYO, Wednesday, May 16 (AP)—Chinese and North Korean Communist troops struck two sharp blows in Central Korea today and the stepped-up Red activity indicated the long-awaited Communist push might be imminent.

South Korean troops withdrew from Inje, strategic road center four miles north of the 38th parallel, under Communist pressure. Soon afterwards the Reds moved into the town.

Field dispatches described the new Red thrusts as "heavy probing attacks." They were accompanied by the usual whistle and bugle-blowing that mark the customary Chinese attack.

AP Correspondent Nate Polowetzky at U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said the Chinese struck at Allied positions east of Chunchon at 1:30 a. m. They laid down raking rifle and automatic weapons fire until United Nations forces withdrew.

Allied Guns Disperse Attackers

Then Allied big guns roared and dispersed the Red attackers with heavy losses 40 minutes after fight began.

There were few details available on abandonment of Inje itself. The town was retaken last week by South Korean troops as the Communists built up heavy concentrations of men and supplies to the north.

An Eighth Army briefing officer announced that following the South Korean withdrawal, Communist trucks filled with soldiers were observed moving into the town late into the night. Red artillery opened up in a three-hour barrage against South Koreans still northeast of the town.

The Communists who have been preparing a new major spring drive since early May apparently shifted the center of their attack force from the westen front north of Seoul to the Chunchon area in the center of the peninsula.

Bad Weather Boon To Reds

The briefing officer said that "the enemy attitude has changed from relatively light to strong resistance against friendly patrols." He estimated 2,850 Reds were killed or wounded in ground action Tuesday.

Bad weather proved a boon to the Reds and a hindrance to the Allied air arm. Heavy rain and low clouds limited 50 Air Force planes to only 15 sorties after dark. It made a total of only 178 sorties for the day.

Red forces were on the move Tuesday both west and east of Chunchon in the center of the Allied defense line. They hurdled two river defense barriers in front of strong American defense positions.

No Red Peace Feelers, Top Officials Say

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP) — Government authorities said today there have been no peace feelers from the Chinese Communists.

The high command's hope is to force the Reds to seek peace eventually by inflicting heavy losses on them, but so far the enemy has shown no slackening in his determination to throw U. N. forces out of Korea.

A flurry of peace feeler rumors had gone the rounds at the Capitol, evidently set off by misunderstanding of Defense Secretary Marshall's testimony at the MacArthur hearing. This prompted questions to fully informed officials as to just what the situation is and how bright are the prospects for an early peace.

The specific answer was that all the evidence the American government can get indicates that the Reds are still determined to try to expel the U. N. forces from Korea.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White declared today in comment on the rumors at the Capitol that "I know of no peace feelers."

Committee Votes Half-Cent Boost In Gasoline Tax

Prospective Hikes Exceed $6.5 Billion

WASHINGTON, May 15. (AP)—Prospective tax increases mounted above $6,500,000,000 today as the House Ways and Means Committee voted to raise the federal levy on gasoline from 1½ to two cents a gallon.

The half-cent increase is expected to bring in an additional $210,000,000 annually, if approved by House and Senate. The Treasury has asked that the rate be raised to three cents. The committee boggled at the increase, rejecting it tentatively yesterday only to approve it today. An alternative proposal, to reestablish the $5 a year use tax ("windshield tax") on cars, was turned down.

The tax-drafting group voted to cut the tax on domestic telegrams from 25 per cent to 20 per cent, for an estimated $8,000,000 revenue loss. A million dollars of the loss would be offset, however, by raising the rate on bowling alleys and pool tables from $20 to $25 a unit.

The committee rejected a series of other revenue raising proposals, including:

A penny a bottle tax on soft drinks, which with a one-cent per ounce tax on fountain syrups, also rejected, was estimated to be good for $280,000,000 a year.

Taxes on candy and chewing gum at the rate of 20 per cent at the manufacturers' level; estimated revenue, $230,000,000.

Application of the cabaret tax to ballrooms.

A proposed increase in the tax on local telephone service, from 15 to 20 per cent.

A 20 per cent jewelry tax on silver plated flatware—knives, forks and spoons.

A tax on fur-lined and fur-trimmed coats where the fur is the component of chief value.

A tax on electric saws and other power tools used in hobby shops.

Deputies Nod, Adjourn

PARIS, May 15 (AP)—The deputies of the U. S., Britain, France and the Soviet Union met today, but had just about time enough to nod to each other, and then adjourned their 52nd fruitless meeting trying to work out an agenda for a foreign ministers' conference.

Nobody wanted to speak, so the session was adjourned until tomorrow.

Defense Effort Leaders Seek Wider Powers

But Maybank Says Cut Is More Likely

WASHINGTON, May 15. (AP)—The top men of economic mobilization teamed up today in urging pleas for wider emergency powers. But the answer from a key senator was that they may have to give up some authority they already have if they are to save anything at all.

After a day of hearings on the proposal to extend and broaden the Defense Production Act, Chairman Maybank (D-SC) of the Senate Banking Committee told Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle:

"I want to warn the administration it is going to be very, very hard to get any bill passed at all. I don't know if there is going to be any extension."

DiSalle came back with the statement that he has "more confidence in the sense of responsibility of Congress than to think they would not pass" the extension for the emergency law, now due to expire June 30.

The price chief, protesting against any such step by Congress, did agree to bring the committee an estimate of the possible effects if the lawmakers should require relaxation of some of the price controls on farm products. The proposition was put up to him as a price the administration might have to pay to keep any sort of price and wage powers and other economic control authority.

Maybank said he did not advocate the formula but asked for a study of the effects of an amendment which would require that price ceilings on farm products not be set lower than parity or the highest price level in February or March, 1951. The limit now is parity or the highest price between May 24 and June 25, 1950.

Parity is a price level determined by legal formula, designed to be fair to farmers in terms of the cost of things they buy.

Chairman Spence (D-Ky) of the House Banking Committee, which also is busy on the production law, called its extension "absolutely essential."

These generally parallel views, meanwhile, were expressed by other members of the economic high command:

Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston—"We simply cannot mount the defense effort we need" without a stabilized economy and tight curbs on inflation. He said extension and broadening of the defense production act is essential.

Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson—His job is proceeding faster than he expected and the need for curbs may taper off a year from now "if we have some unity." But he said one result will be greater business dislocations late this year and early in 1952.

Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer—It will be "disastrous" if the production act, due to expire June 30, is not extended, and wage-price controls are needed along with other powers.

Mendelssohn Drops Dead During Concert

BALTIMORE, May 15 (AP)—Felix Robert Mendelssohn, concert cellist and great grand nephew of the famous composer, fell dead tonight while giving a concert at the Cadoa Hall.

He was playing Dohnanyi's Concert Piece in D Major, which he played in its world premier in Berlin in 1918.

Mendelssohn fled to this country from Nazi Germany in 1937. Since 1942 he has played with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.

Dealer Getting Rid Of Huge Stock Of TV Sets Via Auction

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—A man had $5,000,000 of television sets on his hands and mighty few buyers.

So he hired a hotel ballroom and began the first large-scale auction of television sets, running full blast from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m., and selling well below wholesale to anyone who raised a hand.

Now in its second day, the auction has cleared 1,300 of the 8,000 sets out of his warehouses, with nearly 50 more going out each hour.

Dollar volume has been running around $125,000 daily.

Prices? A 14-inch table model which retails for $220 sold for $140 today. A 17-inch set retailing at $320 sold for $175. A 21-inch combination including radio, phonograph and built-in bar which listed for $895 sold for $485.

Al Saphin, president of Monarch-Saphin Co., inc., said he's going to keep on selling until his huge stock is gone. He thinks that will take about ten days.

He asserted he bought sets last summer and fall and was heavily stocked when the government tightened up on credit and made the minimum cash down payment 25 per cent.

"We were all sitting around with our tongues hanging out" after that happened," Saphin said, so he decided to auction off his sets.

Returning Korea Veterans Greeted

Friends and relatives aboard a ferryboat (foreground) wave greetings to 1,422 American veterans of Korean fighting who crowd the rails of the transport Lt. Raymond Beaudoin as it steams toward its berth in San Francisco harbor yesterday. The troops were brought home under the Army's rotation plan.

France Would Broaden Planned China Embargo

Proposes Including Transport Materials

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., May 15 (AP)—France moved today to broaden the projected world-wide United Nations embargo against war materials for Communist China to include transportation materials, such as locomotives and steel rails.

French Delegate Francis Lacoste tossed in the proposal. One aim apparently is to prevent the shipment of steel rails and other supplies from West Germany to Peiping.

Soviet Blast Expected

These supplies would be wrapped up within the embargo on arms, ammunition, war materials and supplies for making war materials which was approved yesterday by an 11 to 0 vote of a U. N. sanctions committee.

The Soviet bloc, headed by Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik, is certain to blast the United States and United Nations policies toward Red China and the Korean war in debate in the Political Committee of the U. N. General Assembly, called to meet at 9:30 a. m. E.S.T. Thursday.

British, French Change Minds

That is standard procedure for Malik. But there are reports from reliable quarters that nations usually considered friendly to the United States and the Western Powers may have something to say about testimony which has been given on the U. N. before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees in Washington.

Testimony concerning the amount of outside aid going to Communist China was said in diplomatic circles here have been a major factor in overcoming British and French resistance to an embargo at this time. The British and French held out against a resolution for weeks but suddenly changed their minds last week and welcomed the United States proposal for an embargo.

Gov. Wright Again Aims To Command States Righters

PALM BEACH, Fla., May 15 (AP)—Mississippi's Gov. Fielding L. Wright, who led the southern Democrats' rebellion in 1948, wants to do it again in '52.

This time he wants his "States Rights" supporters to come from the ranks of unhappy Republicans as well as Democrats.

In a speech before the National Cottonseed Products Association today, Gov. Wright outlined a plan which he said would avoid a "splinter" party but nevertheless would bring about a third party coalition under the banner of States' Rights and Americanism.

"The old traditional Republican Party is too reactional to inspire confidence. The present party in power has lost the confidence of the American people and I am convinced will not be returned to office," he declared.

Congress Backs Proposed Arms Embargo On China

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Congress called on the United Nations today to ban shipment of war goods to Communist China.

By unanimous vote, both Senate and House adopted a resolution making the request to the U. N. General Assembly.

The House adopted also a resolution saying the Communist Chinese government should not be allowed to membership in the U. N. This also was approved by unanimous voice vote.

The resolution against sending war materials to Red China is aimed at strengthening the hand of the United States delegation to the U. N.

The delegation is trying to get the U. N. General Assembly to approve an embargo.

Bernard Baruch Hails Marshall

LEXINGTON, Va., May 15 (AP) — Elder Statesman Bernard M. Baruch hailed Defense Secretary Marshall today as the author of the global strategy which saved the free world once and can save it again.

Baruch was the speaker at full-dress military ceremonies honoring the 70-year-old soldier statesman whose military career of more than half a century began here at Virginia Military Institute in 1897.

It was officially Marshall Day at the institute and the day was mainly Marshall. Fifteen of his classmates of the class of '01 were in the brass-sprinkled crowd of some 8,000 that turned out in his honor.

And the old classmates offered him "a delightful respite" at a reunion dinner last night from the big debate on military policy now going on in Washington, Marshall said.

Baruch's tribute to Marshall in a speech dedicating a barracks entrance as the George C. Marshall Arch was the climatic honor to a series given VMI's most distinguished alumnus.

Power-For-Industry Plan Started By AEC

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission announced today the start of a new program to determine the feasibility of private firms producing atomic power for industry and cities.

The announcement said contracts are being signed with four groups of companies to make studies that will help decide costs and other factors involved in atomic plant construction. Also they will help decide whether private firms can construct such plants within the next few years.

An AEC spokesman said a by-product of such plants would be the production of fissionable materials—the stuff out of which atomic weapons are made. By law the government would be the only customer for such materials.

Chandler Won't Run

VERSAILLES, Ky., May 15 (AP)—Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler said tonight he would not enter the governor's race in Kentucky this year.

Truman's Sister Involved In Auto Speeding Case

Was "Sightseeing" In Government Car

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Rep. Keating (R-NY) told the House today Presidents Truman's sister figured in a 75-mile-an-hour speeding incident over the weekend while "sightseeing" in a government limousine.

He said the sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman, was escorted by two U. S. Secret Service guards.

Dryly, Keating commented:

"The President has been taking everybody else in the country for a ride for six years. Why not his own sister?"

Republican House members chuckled as Keating related details of the incident, peppered with gibes at Mr. Truman's "squandering" of American taxpayers' money.

The New York legislator said the episode took place last Saturday night when the government automobile, with Miss Truman as a passenger, was nabbed for speeding at 70 to 75 m.p.h. through Hopewell, N. Y.

Hopewell is a little town near Canandaigua, south of Rochester, N. Y.

Keating said the car was driven by Grady A. Stowe, who gave his occupation as a special U. S. agent assigned to guard a member of the president's family.

In Canandaigua, Deputy Sheriff Arthur Scammel said today Stowe was arrested and fined $20 for doing 70 m.p.h. along two highway routes east of Canandaigua.

The woman riding in Stowe's automobile did not identify herself or get out of the car.

Stowe reported to Secret Service headquarters in Washington that he was going 55 to 60 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone when he was stopped by a deputy sheriff.

Stowe, 33, is listed on Secret Service records as a native of Greenville, S. C., who was assigned to Grandview, Mo., in 1946, to help protect the President's family. He became a uniformed guard in the Secret Service in 1941, served in the Navy 1942-45, and then returned to the guard force.

Ohio Couple Can't Decide Whether To Accept Fortune

AKRON, O., May 15 (AP)—Salesman James N. Gape and his wife couldn't decide today whether they will accept an estate worth nearly a quarter-million dollars.

The estate, in England, includes two huge manor houses on 1,000 acres of rolling, beautiful land, and belonged to his cousin, Mrs. Sibyl Gape. It is worth $254,941 in American money. However, before she died in Caxton, Cambridgeshire, Dec. 30, she specified in her will that Gape must take up "permanent residence in England" within six months of her death. This in effect would mean Gape giving up his American citizenship. U. S. law provides a naturalized citizen who leaves the U. S. and resides in his country of origin for three years or any foreign state for five years loses his citizenship.

It is that, among other things, that makes Gape, British-born but a naturalized citizen, hesitate. The deadline is June 30.

Gape, who is 46, and came to the United States at the age of 12, was out on his rounds as a salesman for the Jenkins Valve Co. But his wife, found at their modest home in neighboring Cuyahoga Falls, spoke for him.

"It would be heartbreaking," she conceded, "to turn down such a fortune. But we still haven't decided what we will do. Leaving America is something hard to do. My husband has been very upset about making such a difficult decision."

General Rejects MacArthur's Plans But Refuses To Reveal Details Of Pre-Ouster Parley

Talk Of Possible Contempt Action Against Chairman Of JCS Follows

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley opened fire on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Korean war plans today but he refused to tell senators anything that was said at the first White House meeting on the MacArthur ouster.

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff declared MacArthur's war proposals "would involve us in the wrong war, at the wrong place, at the wrong time and with the wrong enemy."

With this sweeping declaration, Bradley rejected the MacArthur program for stronger measures against Red China. He also said such a move would "increase the risk of global war" at a time when the United States is not ready for a showdown with Russia.

Then Bradley lined up with Secretary of Defense Marshall in holding out hope the Chinese Reds can be forced into peace terms in Korea without spreading operations beyond that country.

"We think," he said, "that if we can punish the Chinese severely enough in Korea xxx then we will be in a position, and they will be in an attitude, where some kind of an arrangement may be reached and a settlement made."

In the midst of this testimony, the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees' hearing into Asia policy and the MacArthur firing was thrown into sharp dispute when Bradley refused to tell what was said at the meeting on April 6—five days before the General officially was fired.

Contempt Action Possible

The refusal immediately brought talk of possible contempt action to test Bradley's right to refuse but there was no real indication such action would be taken.

"If I have to publicize my recommendations and my discussions," Bradley said, "my value as a (presidential) adviser has been ruined."

He said he could not reveal what was said at the meeting without the permission of President Truman himself. Others present were Secretary of Defense Marshall, Secretary of State Acheson, and Presidential Adviser W. Averell Harriman.

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis) sought to get the information from Bradley during today's session of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees, which are inquiring into Asian policy and MacArthur's ouster.

Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the inquiry group upheld Bradley's position but he said the committee members have "a very effective and thorough way" of deciding the matter if they desire.

"They can overrule the chair," Russell said, "and decide Gen. Bradley in contempt and let the courts pass on the issue once and for all."

Bradley To Testify Again

Sen. Lodge (R-Mass) said: "I do think we might as well face the fact that what we face is the question of citation of centempt." But he said the question should not be pushed at this time because he is convinced the procedure never results in getting the desired information.

Bradley was called back to the witness chair for another session tomorrow, starting at 9 a. m., E.S.T. The transcript of the hearing showed that Chairman Russell (D-Ga) told him: "Be back with us (tomorrow), General. I don't know whether you will have a chance to testify or not."

It was not stated whether this meant the committee might consume tomorrow's time arguing whether to try to compel Bradley to

British Far East Policy Defended By U. N. Delegate

Jebb Praises Truman Limited War Course

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—Sir Gladwyn Jebb defended British Far East policy today against American criticism. He pledged that, despite differences, "Great Britain is wholeheartedly with the United States in the general struggle against Communist-inspired aggression."

Without mentioning either President Truman or Gen. MacArthur by name, he also praised Truman's policy of a "limited war" in Korea as taking "more guts" than the policy of expanding the conflict to China.

Jebb's speech, to the New York City Bar Association and billed as a major policy address, was one of the most forthright exposition of British views since the "greatest debate" began following the ouster of Gen. MacArthur.

Opposes Total Embargo

The British delegate to the U. N. said his government would not support a total embargo on trade with Red China because it would be "cutting off your nose to spite your face" and that it would keep the port of Hong Kong open to such trade.

He said British recognition of the Chinese Reds was not a moral judgment but recognition that they control the mainland. He said, hawever, that Britain would not support Peiping's bid for admission into the U. N. until Peiping ends its aggression in Korea.

Jebb then outlined a four-point policy which he urged Britain and America to follow jointly to prosecute the Korean war and avoid world war III. It was:

1. "We should not take any action which conceivably might result in a quick ending of the war x x x, but which might equally well, if not more probably, result x x x in a wide extension of the conflict.

Backs Negotiated Peace

2. "x x x A world war, even though it may be forced upon us, should not be allowed to occur through any deliberate action on our part."

3. "x x x The word appeasment should be avoided x x x since it can be interpreted as excluding any kind of negotiations—even for a cease fire."

4. "x x x We should, by resolute and determined action in Korea, seek to bring the Chinese to a conference table at which, first of all, a Korean settlement, in harmony with the declared principles of the United Nations and involving the withdrawal of all non-Korean troops, will be negotiated and, this having been done, other subjects of obvious interest to the Chinese will at least be debated."

Quake-Proof Town

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador, May 15 (AP)—The government announced plans today to build a $6,000,000 earthquake-proof town to house the homeless from El Salvador's disastrous quake of last Thursday.

Reds Reported At U. S. Sub Yard

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 15. (AP)—Navy intelligence and the Federal Bureau of Investigation are investigating American Legion assertions that a Communist cell capable of sabotage is operating at the Portsmouth naval submarine shipyard.

The Navy made this announcement at Boston today. At the same time Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said he has asked the House Un-American Activities Committee to inquire into the charges.

The charges of Communist activity was voiced by Frank Sawyer adjutant of the New Hampshire American Legion, who said "we are convinced that a sufficient amount of evidence exists to warrant a thorough investigation." He added that the Legion had passed on its findings to Sen. Bridges after investigating since October.

The yard is on the border between New Hampshire and Maine. It builds and reconditions submarines.

The Communists who have been preparing a new major spring drive since early May apparently shifted the center of their attack force from the westen front north of Seoul to the Chunchon area in the center of the peninsula.

Bad Weather Boon To Reds

The briefing officer said that "the enemy attitude has changed from relatively light to strong resistance against friendly patrols." He estimated 2,850 Reds were killed or wounded in ground action Tuesday.

Bad weather proved a boon to the Reds and a hindrance to the Allied air arm. Heavy rain and low clouds limited 50 Air Force planes to only 15 sorties after dark. It made a total of only 178 sorties for the day.

Red forces were on the move Tuesday both west and east of Chunchon in the center of the Allied defense line. They hurdled two river defense barriers in front of strong American defense positions.

Committee Votes Half-Cent Boost In Gasoline Tax

Prospective Hikes Exceed $6.5 Billion

WASHINGTON, May 15. (AP)—Prospective tax increases mounted above $6,500,000,000 today as the House Ways and Means Committee voted to raise the federal levy on gasoline from 1½ to two cents a gallon.

The half-cent increase is expected to bring in an additional $210,000,000 annually, if approved by House and Senate. The Treasury has asked that the rate be raised to three cents. The committee boggled at the increase, rejecting it tentatively yesterday only to approve it today. An alternative proposal, to reestablish the $5 a year use tax ("windshield tax") on cars, was turned down.

The tax-drafting group voted to cut the tax on domestic telegrams from 25 per cent to 20 per cent, for an estimated $8,000,000 revenue loss. A million dollars of the loss would be offset, however, by raising the rate on bowling alleys and pool tables from $20 to $25 a unit.

The committee rejected a series of other revenue raising proposals, including:

A penny a bottle tax on soft drinks, which with a one-cent per ounce tax on fountain syrups, also rejected, was estimated to be good for $280,000,000 a year.

Taxes on candy and chewing gum at the rate of 20 per cent at the manufacturers' level; estimated revenue, $230,000,000.

Application of the cabaret tax to ballrooms.

A proposed increase in the tax on local telephone service, from 15 to 20 per cent.

A 20 per cent jewelry tax on silver plated flatware—knives, forks and spoons.

A tax on fur-lined and fur-trimmed coats where the fur is the component of chief value.

A tax on electric saws and other power tools used in hobby shops.

Deputies Nod, Adjourn

PARIS, May 15 (AP)—The deputies of the U. S., Britain, France and the Soviet Union met today, but had just about time enough to nod to each other, and then adjourned their 52nd fruitless meeting trying to work out an agenda for a foreign ministers' conference.

Nobody wanted to speak, so the session was adjourned until tomorrow.

Defense Effort Leaders Seek Wider Powers

But Maybank Says Cut Is More Likely

WASHINGTON, May 15. (AP)—The top men of economic mobilization teamed up today in urging pleas for wider emergency powers. But the answer from a key senator was that they may have to give up some authority they already have if they are to save anything at all.

After a day of hearings on the proposal to extend and broaden the Defense Production Act, Chairman Maybank (D-SC) of the Senate Banking Committee told Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle:

"I want to warn the administration it is going to be very, very hard to get any bill passed at all. I don't know if there is going to be any extension."

DiSalle came back with the statement that he has "more confidence in the sense of responsibility of Congress than to think they would not pass" the extension for the emergency law, now due to expire June 30.

The price chief, protesting against any such step by Congress, did agree to bring the committee an estimate of the possible effects if the lawmakers should require relaxation of some of the price controls on farm products. The proposition was put up to him as a price the administration might have to pay to keep any sort of price and wage powers and other economic control authority.

Maybank said he did not advocate the formula but asked for a study of the effects of an amendment which would require that price ceilings on farm products not be set lower than parity or the highest price level in February or March, 1951. The limit now is parity or the highest price between May 24 and June 25, 1950.

Parity is a price level determined by legal formula, designed to be fair to farmers in terms of the cost of things they buy.

Chairman Spence (D-Ky) of the House Banking Committee, which also is busy on the production law, called its extension "absolutely essential."

These generally parallel views, meanwhile, were expressed by other members of the economic high command:

Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston—"We simply cannot mount the defense effort we need" without a stabilized economy and tight curbs on inflation. He said extension and broadening of the defense production act is essential.

Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson—His job is proceeding faster than he expected and the need for curbs may taper off a year from now "if we have some unity." But he said one result will be greater business dislocations late this year and early in 1952.

Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer—It will be "disastrous" if the production act, due to expire June 30, is not extended, and wage-price controls are needed along with other powers.

Mendelssohn Drops Dead During Concert

BALTIMORE, May 15 (AP)—Felix Robert Mendelssohn, concert cellist and great grand nephew of the famous composer, fell dead tonight while giving a concert at the Cadoa Hall.

He was playing Dohnanyi's Concert Piece in D Major, which he played in its world premier in Berlin in 1918.

Mendelssohn fled to this country from Nazi Germany in 1937. Since 1942 he has played with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.

Dealer Getting Rid Of Huge Stock Of TV Sets Via Auction

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—A man had $5,000,000 of television sets on his hands and mighty few buyers.

So he hired a hotel ballroom and began the first large-scale auction of television sets, running full blast from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m., and selling well below wholesale to anyone who raised a hand.

Now in its second day, the auction has cleared 1,300 of the 8,000 sets out of his warehouses, with nearly 50 more going out each hour.

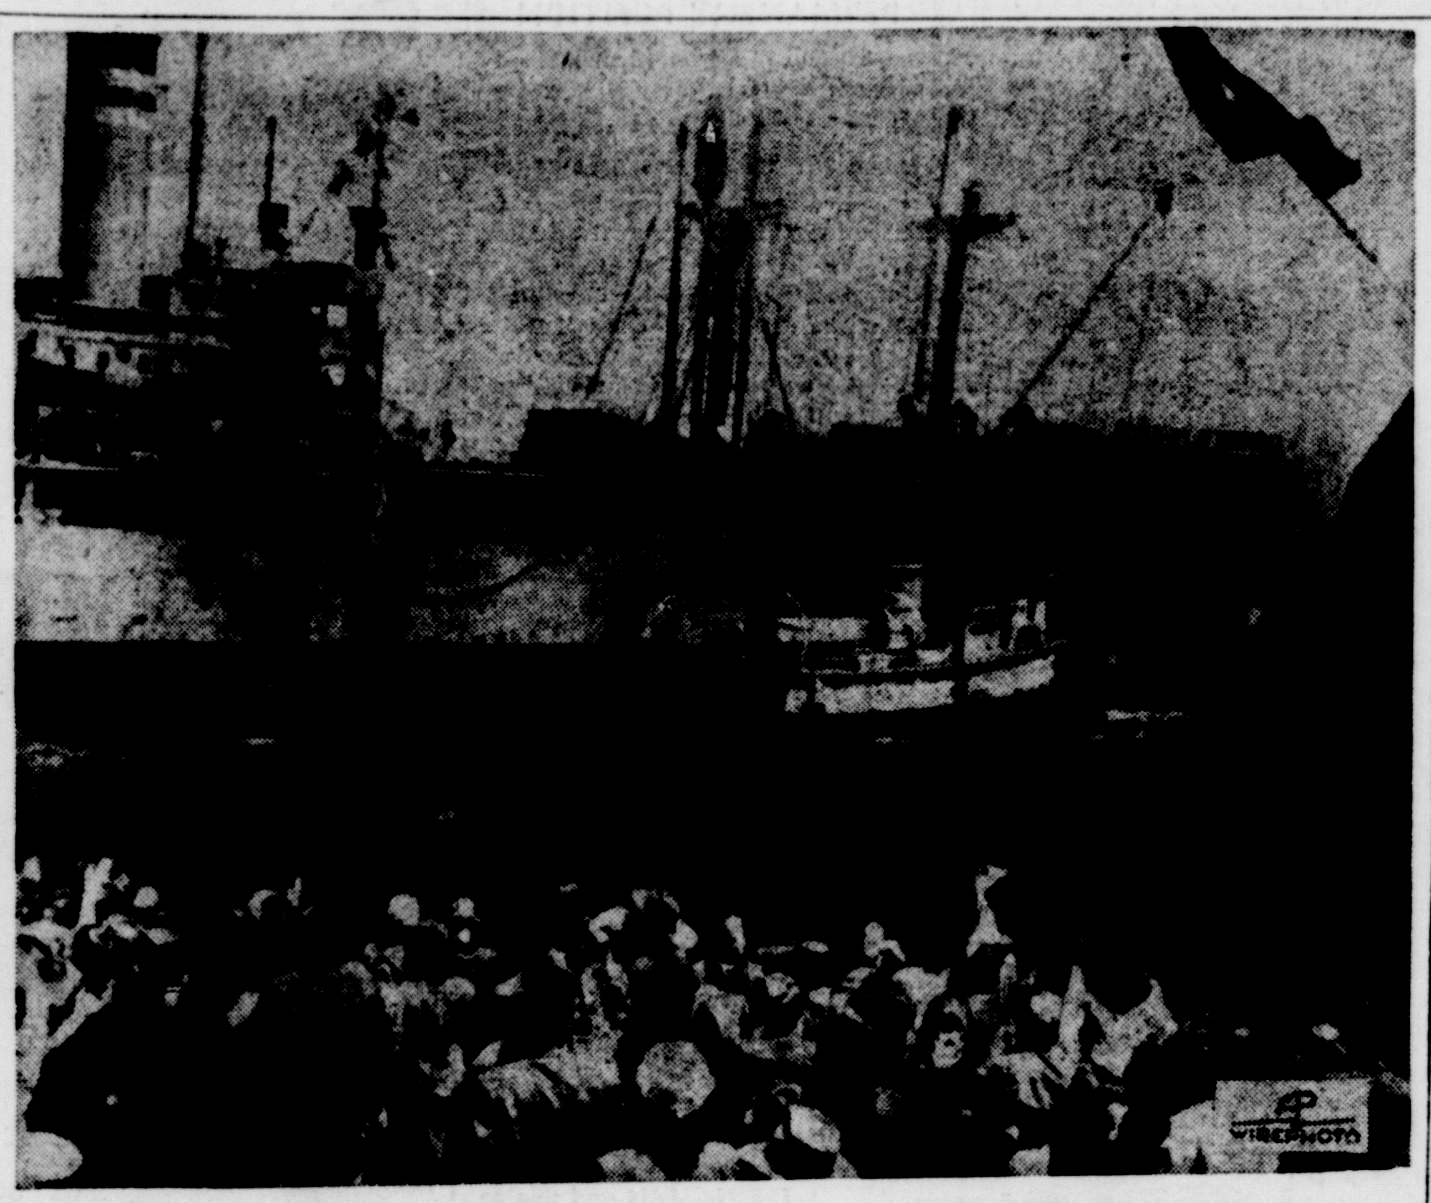
Dollar volume has been running around $125,000 daily.

Prices? A 14-inch table model which retails for $220 sold for $140 today. A 17-inch set retailing at $320 sold for $175. A 21-inch combination including radio, phonograph and built-in bar which listed for $895 sold for $485.

Al Saphin, president of Monarch-Saphin Co., inc., said he's going to keep on selling until his huge stock is gone. He thinks that will take about ten days.

He asserted he bought sets last summer and fall and was heavily stocked when the government tightened up on credit and made the minimum cash down payment 25 per cent.

"We were all sitting around with our tongues hanging out" after that happened," Saphin said, so he decided to auction off his sets.



Returning Korea Veterans Greeted

Friends and relatives aboard a ferryboat (foreground) wave greetings to 1,422 American veterans of Korean fighting who crowd the rails of the transport Lt. Raymond Beaudoin as it steams toward its berth in San Francisco harbor yesterday. The troops were brought home under the Army's rotation plan.

France Would Broaden Planned China Embargo

Proposes Including Transport Materials

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., May 15 (AP)—France moved today to broaden the projected world-wide United Nations embargo against war materials for Communist China to include transportation materials, such as locomotives and steel rails.

French Delegate Francis Lacoste tossed in the proposal. One aim apparently is to prevent the shipment of steel rails and other supplies from West Germany to Peiping.

Soviet Blast Expected

These supplies would be wrapped up within the embargo on arms, ammunition, war materials and supplies for making war materials which was approved yesterday by an 11 to 0 vote of a U. N. sanctions committee.

The Soviet bloc, headed by Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik, is certain to blast the United States and United Nations policies toward Red China and the Korean war in debate in the Political Committee of the U. N. General Assembly, called to meet at 9:30 a. m. E.S.T. Thursday.

British, French Change Minds

That is standard procedure for Malik. But there are reports from reliable quarters that nations usually considered friendly to the United States and the Western Powers may have something to say about testimony which has been given on the U. N. before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees in Washington.

Testimony concerning the amount of outside aid going to Communist China was said in diplomatic circles here have been a major factor in overcoming British and French resistance to an embargo at this time. The British and French held out against a resolution for weeks but suddenly changed their minds last week and welcomed the United States proposal for an embargo.

Gov. Wright Again Aims To Command States Righters

PALM BEACH, Fla., May 15 (AP)—Mississippi's Gov. Fielding L. Wright, who led the southern Democrats' rebellion in 1948, wants to do it again in '52.

This time he wants his "States Rights" supporters to come from the ranks of unhappy Republicans as well as Democrats.

In a speech before the National Cottonseed Products Association today, Gov. Wright outlined a plan which he said would avoid a "splinter" party but nevertheless would bring about a third party coalition under the banner of States' Rights and Americanism.

"The old traditional Republican Party is too reactional to inspire confidence. The present party in power has lost the confidence of the American people and I am convinced will not be returned to office," he declared.

Congress Backs Proposed Arms Embargo On China

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Congress called on the United Nations today to ban shipment of war goods to Communist China.

By unanimous vote, both Senate and House adopted a resolution making the request to the U. N. General Assembly.

The House adopted also a resolution saying the Communist Chinese government should not be allowed to membership in the U. N. This also was approved by unanimous voice vote.

The resolution against sending war materials to Red China is aimed at strengthening the hand of the United States delegation to the U. N.

The delegation is trying to get the U. N. General Assembly to approve an embargo.

Bernard Baruch Hails Marshall

LEXINGTON, Va., May 15 (AP)—Elder Statesman Bernard M. Baruch hailed Defense Secretary Marshall today as the author of the global strategy which saved the free world once and can save it again.

Baruch was the speaker at full-dress military ceremonies honoring the 70-year-old soldier statesman whose military career of more than half a century began here at Virginia Military Institute in 1897.

It was officially Marshall Day at the institute and the day was mainly Marshall. Fifteen of his classmates of the class of '01 were in the brass-sprinkled crowd of some 8,000 that turned out in his honor.

And the old classmates offered him "a delightful respite" at a reunion dinner last night from the big debate on military policy now going on in Washington, Marshall said.

Baruch's tribute to Marshall in a speech dedicating a barracks entrance as the George C. Marshall Arch was the climatic honor to a series given VMI's most distinguished alumnus.

Power-For-Industry Plan Started By AEC

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission announced today the start of a new program to determine the feasibility of private firms producing atomic power for industry and cities.

The announcement said contracts are being signed with four groups of companies to make studies that will help decide costs and other factors involved in atomic plant construction. Also they will help decide whether private firms can construct such plants within the next few years.

An AEC spokesman said a by-product of such plants would be the production of fissionable materials—the stuff out of which atomic weapons are made. By law the government would be the only customer for such materials.

Truman's Sister Involved In Auto Speeding Case

Was "Sightseeing" In Government Car

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Rep. Keating (R-NY) told the House today Presidents Truman's sister figured in a 75-mile-an-hour speeding incident over the weekend while "sightseeing" in a government limousine.

He said the sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman, was escorted by two U. S. Secret Service guards.

Dryly, Keating commented:

"The President has been taking everybody else in the country for a ride for six years. Why not his own sister?"

Republican House members chuckled as Keating related details of the incident, peppered with gibes at Mr. Truman's "squandering" of American taxpayers' money.

The New York legislator said the episode took place last Saturday night when the government automobile, with Miss Truman as a passenger, was nabbed for speeding at 70 to 75 m.p.h. through Hopewell, N. Y.

Keating said the car was driven by Grady A. Stowe, who gave his occupation as a special U. S. agent assigned to guard a member of the president's family.

In Canandaigua, Deputy Sheriff Arthur Scammel said today Stowe was arrested and fined $20 for doing 70 m.p.h. along two highway routes east of Canandaigua.

The woman riding in Stowe's automobile did not identify herself or get out of the car.

Stowe reported to Secret Service headquarters in Washington that he was going 55 to 60 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone when he was stopped by a deputy sheriff.

Stowe, 33, is listed on Secret Service records as a native of Greenville, S. C., who was assigned to Grandview, Mo., in 1946, to help protect the President's family. He became a uniformed guard in the Secret Service in 1941, served in the Navy 1942-45, and then returned to the guard force.

Ohio Couple Can't Decide Whether To Accept Fortune

AKRON, O., May 15 (AP)—Salesman James N. Gape and his wife couldn't decide today whether they will accept an estate worth nearly a quarter-million dollars.

The estate, in England, includes two huge manor houses on 1,000 acres of rolling, beautiful land, and belonged to his cousin, Mrs. Sibyl Gape. It is worth $254,941 in American money. However, before she died in Caxton, Cambridgeshire, Dec. 30, she specified in her will that Gape must take up "permanent residence in England" within six months of her death. This in effect would mean Gape giving up his American citizenship. U. S. law provides a naturalized citizen who leaves the U. S. and resides in his country of origin for three years or any foreign state for five years loses his citizenship.

It is that, among other things, that makes Gape, British-born but a naturalized citizen, hesitate. The deadline is June 30.

Gape, who is 46, and came to the United States at the age of 12, was out on his rounds as a salesman for the Jenkins Valve Co. But his wife, found at their modest home in neighboring Cuyahoga Falls, spoke for him.

"It would be heartbreaking," she conceded, "to turn down such a fortune. But we still haven't decided what we will do. Leaving America is something hard to do. My husband has been very upset about making such a difficult decision."

General Rejects MacArthur's Plans But Refuses To Reveal Details Of Pre-Ouster Parley

Talk Of Possible Contempt Action Against Chairman Of JCS Follows

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley opened fire on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Korean war plans today but he refused to tell senators anything that was said at the first White House meeting on the MacArthur ouster.

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff declared MacArthur's war proposals "would involve us in the wrong war, at the wrong place, at the wrong time and with the wrong enemy."

With this sweeping declaration, Bradley rejected the MacArthur program for stronger measures against Red China. He also said such a move would "increase the risk of global war" at a time when the United States is not ready for a showdown with Russia.

Then Bradley lined up with Secretary of Defense Marshall in holding out hope the Chinese Reds can be forced into peace terms in Korea without spreading operations beyond that country.

"We think," he said, "that if we can punish the Chinese severely enough in Korea xxx then we will be in a position, and they will be in an attitude, where some kind of an arrangement may be reached and a settlement made."

In the midst of this testimony, the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees' hearing into Asia policy and the MacArthur firing was thrown into sharp dispute when Bradley refused to tell what was said at the meeting on April 6—five days before the General officially was fired.

Contempt Action Possible

The refusal immediately brought talk of possible contempt action to test Bradley's right to refuse but there was no real indication such action would be taken.

"If I have to publicize my recommendations and my discussions," Bradley said, "my value as a (presidential) adviser has been ruined."

He said he could not reveal what was said at the meeting without the permission of President Truman himself. Others present were Secretary of Defense Marshall, Secretary of State Acheson, and Presidential Adviser W. Averell Harriman.

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis) sought to get the information from Bradley during today's session of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees, which are inquiring into Asian policy and MacArthur's ouster.

Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the inquiry group upheld Bradley's position but he said the committee members have "a very effective and thorough way" of deciding the matter if they desire.

"They can overrule the chair," Russell said, "and decide Gen. Bradley in contempt and let the courts pass on the issue once and for all."

Bradley To Testify Again

Sen. Lodge (R-Mass) said: "I do think we might as well face the fact that what we face is the question of citation of centempt." But he said the question should not be pushed at this time because he is convinced the procedure never results in getting the desired information.

Bradley was called back to the witness chair for another session tomorrow, starting at 9 a. m., E.S.T. The transcript of the hearing showed that Chairman Russell (D-Ga) told him: "Be back with us (tomorrow), General. I don't know whether you will have a chance to testify or not."

It was not stated whether this meant the committee might consume tomorrow's time arguing whether to try to compel Bradley to

British Far East Policy Defended By U. N. Delegate

Jebb Praises Truman Limited War Course

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—Sir Gladwyn Jebb defended British Far East policy today against American criticism. He pledged that, despite differences, "Great Britain is wholeheartedly with the United States in the general struggle against Communist-inspired aggression."

Without mentioning either President Truman or Gen. MacArthur by name, he also praised Truman's policy of a "limited war" in Korea as taking "more guts" than the policy of expanding the conflict to China.

Jebb's speech, to the New York City Bar Association and billed as a major policy address, was one of the most forthright exposition of British views since the "greatest debate" began following the ouster of Gen. MacArthur.

Opposes Total Embargo

The British delegate to the U. N. said his government would not support a total embargo on trade with Red China because it would be "cutting off your nose to spite your face" and that it would keep the port of Hong Kong open to such trade.

He said British recognition of the Chinese Reds was not a moral judgment but recognition that they control the mainland. He said, hawever, that Britain would not support Peiping's bid for admission into the U. N. until Peiping ends its aggression in Korea.

Jebb then outlined a four-point policy which he urged Britain and America to follow jointly to prosecute the Korean war and avoid world war III. It was:

1. "We should not take any action which conceivably might result in a quick ending of the war x x x, but which might equally well, if not more probably, result x x x in a wide extension of the conflict.

Backs Negotiated Peace

2. "x x x A world war, even though it may be forced upon us, should not be allowed to occur through any deliberate action on our part."

3. "x x x The word appeasment should be avoided x x x since it can be interpreted as excluding any kind of negotiations—even for a cease fire."

4. "x x x We should, by resolute and determined action in Korea, seek to bring the Chinese to a conference table at which, first of all, a Korean settlement, in harmony with the declared principles of the United Nations and involving the withdrawal of all non-Korean troops, will be negotiated and, this having been done, other subjects of obvious interest to the Chinese will at least be debated."

Reds Reported At U. S. Sub Yard

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 15. (AP)—Navy intelligence and the Federal Bureau of Investigation are investigating American Legion assertions that a Communist cell capable of sabotage is operating at the Portsmouth naval submarine shipyard.

The Navy made this announcement at Boston today. At the same time Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said he has asked the House Un-American Activities Committee to inquire into the charges.

The charges of Communist activity was voiced by Frank Sawyer adjutant of the New Hampshire American Legion, who said "we are convinced that a sufficient amount of evidence exists to warrant a thorough investigation." He added that the Legion had passed on its findings to Sen. Bridges after investigating since October.

The yard is on the border between New Hampshire and Maine. It builds and reconditions submarines.

Fearless Fagan, Master Reunited

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—Fearless Fagan, the 400-pound, four-year-old Nubian lion the Army did not want, was back home in Los Angeles today.

The big cat slipped into the limelight a few months ago when his owner, 24-year-old Floyd Humeston, of nearby Thousand Oaks, was drafted into the Army.

The Army wanted Humeston; it did not want Fagan.

So, the lion began to travel. He first went to a park in Venice, Cal., and then to Fort Ord where his young master was stationed. Again the Army said, "no soap."

The Monterey, Cal., Humane Society took over the task of seeing that Fearless Fagan got his meals on time. From there he went on tour with a Columbus, O., circus and then on a short visit to a Columbus zoo.

Meanwhile, Humeston, fearing that he would lose his knack of animal training, managed to line up a deal with a San Francisco theater chain for an exhibition.

Lion and master were reunited at Burbank airport.

Fagan arrived aboard the Flying Tiger Airlines.

PITTSBURGH, May 15 (AP)—Arthur P. Shultz of Cheverly, Md., was bitten on the right hand by "Jumbo Rollerhead," a 700-pound pig at the Somerset (Pa) County Fair Sept. 1, 1948.

Shultz filed a $10,000 damage suit against the fair association. The association claimed Shultz teased "Jumbo."

This, Shultz emphatically denied.

That's the way things stood until today when the fair association and Shultz reached a settlement. Federal Judge Nelson Stewart approved an agreement whereby Shultz agreed to settle his claim for $1,550.

Baltimore Judge Gets Pain From This Case

BALTIMORE, May 15 (AP)—Magistrate Avrun Rifman got a pain out of one case yesterday.

Payne blamed Bayne and Bayne blamed Payne for smashing a pane and stealing a pair of shoes.

The accused were Raymond Bayne, 27 and Thomas Payne, 43. They were charged with breaking a clothing store window yesterday and stealing the shoes.

Police Sergeant Dennis Roche said Payne was arrested with the shoes in his pocket.

But as for the pane—Bayne blamed Payne and Payne blamed Bayne.

That was enough for Rifman. He held both in $500 bail for grand jury action.

Scientific Basis Offered For Old Belief Moon Affects Emotions

By JACK McLAUGHLIN

PINEHURST, N. C.—(INS)—The idea that the moon can affect human emotions has fired the imaginations of men for centuries—and now a young psychiatrist offers a scientific basis for the belief.

Dr. Leonard J. Ravitz, of Duke University, told the North Carolina Medical Society of his discovery of a connection between the moon and people's moods.

Ravitz's research resulted from earlier findings which showed that all living beings are complex electrical circuits. Research at Yale University developed methods for measuring the minute electrical currents present in trees and mice. Dr. Ravitz carried the same methods over into the study of human beings.

He took 17 college students, 11 men and six girls, and began testing them with a highly sensitive instrument, the microvoltmeter, which measures the voltage differences between the head and chest.

At the same time the testing was being done, careful notes were taken on the students' moods and personal problems.

When the electrical readings were compared with the record of mood changes, Dr. Ravitz made a startling discovery. There was a definite relationship between the two.

What was even more astonishing is that the variations in electrical voltage showed a cyclical pattern—a pattern that duplicated the phases of the moon. During a full and new moon, the voltage readings were either very high or very low.

Since the electrical readings varied with the students' moods and these voltage changes also showed a direct connection with the moon's cycle, Dr. Ravitz concluded that the moon definitely affected a person's emotions.

Most engine wear comes from engine deposits—Amoco-Gas leaves

NO METALLIC DEPOSIT!

The kind of gas you buy has a direct connection with the bills you have to pay for engine repair.

For science now knows that most engine cylinder wear is caused by deposits remaining after combustion, and contamination. These cause wear, serious wear to pistons, cylinder walls and valves.

Amoco-Gas helps prevent this wear because it contains no harmful ingredients. It leaves no metallic deposit.

Moreover, Amoco-Gas can burn completely because it is all petroleum with no harmful ingredients added. This means more useful power, superior performance and mileage.

Use Amoco-Gas—for longer car life. There's nothing like it!

Ravitz's research resulted from earlier findings which showed that all living beings are complex electrical circuits. Research at Yale University developed methods for measuring the minute electrical currents present in trees and mice. Dr. Ravitz carried the same methods over into the study of human beings.

He took 17 college students, 11 men and six girls, and began testing them with a highly sensitive instrument, the microvoltmeter, which measures the voltage differences between the head and chest.

At the same time the testing was being done, careful notes were taken on the students' moods and personal problems.

When the electrical readings were compared with the record of mood changes, Dr. Ravitz made a startling discovery. There was a definite relationship between the two.

What was even more astonishing is that the variations in electrical voltage showed a cyclical pattern—a pattern that duplicated the phases of the moon. During a full and new moon, the voltage readings were either very high or very low.

Since the electrical readings varied with the students' moods and these voltage changes also showed a direct connection with the moon's cycle, Dr. Ravitz concluded that the moon definitely affected a person's emotions.

Sunrise at the top of the Woolworth building in New York occurs about half an hour earlier than it does at street level.

Most engine wear comes from engine deposits—Amoco-Gas leaves
NO METALLIC DEPOSIT!

The kind of gas you buy has a direct connection with the bills you have to pay for engine repair.

For science now knows that most engine cylinder wear is caused by deposits remaining after combustion, and contamination. These cause wear, serious wear to pistons, cylinder walls and valves.

Amoco-Gas helps prevent this wear because it contains no harmful ingredients. It leaves no metallic deposit.

Moreover, Amoco-Gas can burn completely because it is all petroleum with no harmful ingredients added. This means more useful power, superior performance and mileage.

Use Amoco-Gas—for longer car life. There's nothing like it!

Mathematician Believes His Tests Show It's Possible To See Future

Is it possible for man to see into the future? Dr. Samuel G. Soal, lecturer in pure mathematics at Queen Mary College of the University of London, answers a dramatic "yes," and the following story tells why.

By JACK McLAUGHLIN

DURHAM, N. C.—(INS)—When Dr. Samuel G. Soal began experiments in telepathy he was frankly skeptical. He did not think it possible for any man to transmit thoughts to another without using one of the five senses.

However, he explained to International News Service today, he devised a test that he hoped would determine whether telepathy is a reality. It involved the use of five playing cards with pictures of animals on them. The subject was to guess which card a "sender" behind a screen was looking at.

There was no communication of any kind between the two persons and a choice was made every three seconds until 25 guesses were made.

By chance, the subject should have guessed one out of five. Anything greater than this was to be evidence of extra-sensory perception, or telepathy.

Experiments with 160 persons ended in failure. The guesses were no better than could be expected by chance. Dr. Soal was more than ever convinced that telepathy was impossible.

But he decided that perhaps this gift was possessed by only a very few. A wealthy friend put an advertisement in a London newspaper offering 500 pounds to anyone scoring 18 out of 25 on the test.

One person answered — Basil Shackleton, a London photographer. Shackleton was so positive he possessed the power of telepathy that Dr. Soal began a series of tests with him. But they too, ended in failure.

Shackleton guessed no better than the rest, but in studying the results of the tests, Dr. Soal noticed a peculiar thing. Shackleton was not guessing the card the sender was looking at, but he was guessing the next card—one that was to be picked three seconds later. And he was doing it eight to ten times out of 25—far greater than could be expected by chance.

Dr. Soal, who is now doing research at Duke University, said he could hardly believe what was happening. The photographer was guessing the card 2-½ seconds before anyone knew what it would be. He was actually looking 2-½ seconds into the future.

Elaborate precautions were then taken to insure that no one knew the card until a fraction of a second before it was picked and the tests were continued until 11,000 guesses were made.

Shackleton guessed one-third of the cards before they were thought of. The mathematical odds against his doing this by chance were a decillion to one. (A decillion is a 1 with 33 zeros after it.) This, said Dr. Soal, amounted to a practical impossibility that it was chance.

Dr. Soal says Shackleton's amazing ability "forces us to re-evaluate our notions of time." He thinks the past, present and future all exist simultaneously in our subconscious mind.

"Philosophers and physicists have long realized that our ideas of time are illusory," Dr. Soal said. "Our conscious mind becomes aware of events as they occur in the present, but the subconscious mind knows the future also. Shackleton was in some way able to foresee the future in his conscious mind a few seconds before it became the present."

Dr. Soal realizes that this explanation sounds fantastic, but he is firmly convinced that his tests show it is so.

Deferment For Students

Yesterday was the deadline (it may be extended) for college students to apply for scholastic aptitude tests to establish eligibility for draft deferment. The tests will be given on May 26, June 16, and June 30, Saturdays, also on Thursday, July 12, for students certifying that their religious principles forbid them to take the test on a Saturday. At least 225,000 of the one million non-veteran males now in college are expected to apply for examination.

The tests will be offered at about 1,200 centers in the United States and territories under the administration of the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N. J. This agency conducts examinations at present for the U. S. Navy, Department of State, Atomic Energy Commission, Military and Naval Academies.

Application blanks and instructions have been made available to students at all 4,000 local boards in the Selective Service system. Each registrant must meet the cost of his transportation to and from a testing center.

The elaborate testing system would have been junked under a proposal by Rep. Kilday (D., Texas) in its original form. On April 4 Kilday offered an amendment to the Military Training and Service bill forbidding educational deferment "as the result of, or on the basis of, any test, examination, selection system, or any other means" conducted by a government agency or private institution.

But the Kilday amendment as adopted by the House on April 11 provided merely: "No local board, appeal board, or other agency of the Selective Service System shall be required to postpone or defer any (student) . . . solely on the basis of any test (or) examination." Thus Selective Service could go ahead with its examinations, but the final decision on deferment would remain with the local boards.

The Senate version of the bill specifically authorizes the President to remove temporarily from training "not to exceed 75,000 persons annually in order to . . . engage in study or research . . . determined by him to be in the national interest." Conferences on the Senate and House versions of the bill were postponed during the Senate MacArthur hearings.

To take the aptitude tests, students must: 1) intend to request occupational deferment; 2) be under 26 years of age; 3) have already begun college or university studies and plan to continue them; 4) be taking the test for the first time. No provision has been made for high school students. Selective Service Director Hershey has said he believes "the great mass of college freshmen will assemble freely next fall without interference from Selective Service."

Students in professional schools of medicine, dentistry, osteopathy, or veterinary medicine would be deferred on the basis of a certificate from the school stating that they are satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course. Students in other graduate schools would present a statement from the school attesting that they are meeting requirements for a degree and are expected to obtain it. Students entering graduate schools would be required either to be in the upper half of the male section of their classes or to score 75 or better on the aptitude test—equal to a score of 120 or better on the Army General Classification Test.

Students entering senior year or taking five- or six-year undergraduate courses would have either to be in the upper three-fourths of the class or to score 70 or better on the aptitude tests. Students entering junior or sophomore year in college would have either to score 70 or better on the aptitude tests or stand, respectively, in the upper two-thirds or upper one-half of the class.

Subsidy Issue Revived

Any expectation that revision of the Defense Production Act would be accomplished with reasonable expedition fades with Mobilization Director Wilson's advocacy of granting authority now for "limited" farm subsidies as a means of rolling back food prices.

He thereby introduces a highly controversial issue and places himself on the side of labor union leaders, who have been highly critical of him in other matters, and in opposition to most farm organizations.

In his appearance before the Senate Banking Committee at the opening of hearings on amendment of the act, Mr. Wilson was represented as supporting all of President Truman's recommendations as presented to Congress last month. But Mr. Truman appeared to urge subsidies only as a last resort.

Either Mr. Truman has changed his mind or Mr. Wilson has gone a step beyond what the President asked for. In any event, the unfavorable reaction to the mobilization director's proposal was immediately manifested by some members of the committee.

Senator Bricker wanted to know, for instance, if the proposal was not in principle a version of Secretary Brannan's plan, rejected by Congress last year. Mr. Wilson admitted it was "in a marginal way," adding that he didn't like the plan, either, but that subsidies would be used only in an emergency.

That is a statement not likely to be readily accepted in view of the aggressive use of subsidies during World War II, once they had congressional authorization, at a cost to the taxpayers of $4,250,000,000 in the 1941-46 period.

Well Rejected

Several months ago the Soviet Union, without explanation, withdrew from negotiations among the United States and the other interested parties for a peace pact with Japan. These negotiations went forward in Russia's absence and have now reached the point where peace with Japan is counted upon this summer.

But now the Soviet Union proposes that a conference of foreign ministers, including a representative of Communist China, be convened within two months to prepare a peace draft for Japan. The gist of the Russian program is a demilitarized Japan, from which American occupation forces would be withdrawn.

In this and other respects, such as admission of Red China to the pact negotiations, the Russian script runs counter to the draft that the United States has presented to the other interested powers. The Soviet outline is a maneuver to split the Western allies and to forestall a separate peace pact between them and Japan.

The United States wants to push through a peace treaty without further delay. A conference of foreign ministers, with Russia participating, to negotiate a peace for Japan would get nowhere.

The Department of State did well to issue an immediate forthright, public rejection of the latest Soviet proposal "which the Soviet Union makes periodically whenever it wants to stall the conclusion of a Japanese peace. It has always been rejected and will be again.'

Rashes May Be Perplexing

DERMATOLOGY is that branch of medicine concerned with the skin and the physician who has made this phase his speciality is known as a dermatologist. His lot is not an easy one because there are more than 2,000 skin disturbances and many are so closely related it may be difficult to tell them apart. Furthermore, the cause so often escapes detection that treatment is necessarily handicapped.

Some blemishes have a preference for certain parts of the body. Acne, for example, favors the face chest, and back. Psoriasis, eczema, and seborrhea are not unusual on the scalp, and cold sores select the lips and other mucous membranes. Contrary to popular opinion, fungous infections account for only a few of the eruptions noted on the hands and feet. Contact dermatitis and bacterial infections are just as prevalent and more disabling.

Individuals with chronic skin disorders are prone to go from one dermatologist to another. The one who is on the case when the eruption disappears is hailed as a hero. This is justifiable in some cases, whereas in others nature should be given some of the credit. Certain outbreaks, for example, are self-limited; they last six to eight weeks and then vanish spontaneously. The physician who is on the job at that time obviously is the man of the hour.

But there are tricks to every trade and the wise dermatologist has found that many miracles occur by letting well enough alone. Skin blemishes are unsightly and the victims are likely to apply anything to obtain relief. They are so insistent, the dermatologist is almost forced to give a prescription. Sometimes the rash continues even though the original lesions are gone. The explanation is that dermatitis has developed because of irritation or sensitivity produced by the medication. Such an outbreak often disappears as soon as all drugs are stopped. Meanwhile, a simple cream may be employed to satisfy man's inherent desire for "something to put on." Overtreatment dermatitis is common, especially among those who think they are suffering from ringworm of the feet. There are other origins of blisters in this area, and they flare up when irritated. The same thing may occur even though ringworm exists; the solution that was strong enough to kill the fungus was also strong enough to burn or irritate the skin.

Many skin disorders are of internal origin, hence salves and ointments are of no value. One of the toughest involves the nervous system and the patient may be doubtful of the physician's skill when he says that the dermatitis is brought on by nerves. The second obstacle is to find the cause of the cause. Why is the patient upset emotionally and why are these cutaneous manifestations occurring? In many, the lesions appear only when the individual is upset; they fade when everything becomes peaceful.

Skin cancer also falls into the realm of the dermatologist. These lesions do not grow as rapidly as other malignancies but when unattended their ultimate fate is the same. Sores that do not heal are open to suspicion; many become crusted but peel before complete healing has taken place. Others ulcerate and may or may not bleed. The lips and cheeks are favorite locations. The pigmented mole also must be treated with respect. Whenever it increases in size or deepens in color, complete removal is likely to be recommended.

TOMORROW: When an enlarged prostate requires treatment.

REDUCING AND PREGNANCY

Mrs. N. writes: Three months ago I started dieting to lose weight and now find I'm pregnant three months. Have I harmed my baby by going on a diet?

REPLY

No. From this point on, eat food that is nourishing but not fattening.

LET HIM DECIDE

A writes: My 23 year old brother, who is entering his third year of medical school, is seeing a girl who is trying to get married. It is a hardship for his family to see him through school and I don't think we should be called upon to support a wife also. This girl says she is willing to work and see him through the hard years but we tell him to wait until he has time to meet different kinds of girls and make enough money to meet responsibilities. But he says he will be too old if he waits until then. What do you think?

REPLY

He is old enough to decide what he wants to do. His financial status should govern his decision rather than the fact that you want him to meet other girls.

JOINT STRAIN

E. O. writes: Are bowlegged people more susceptible to arthritis?

Fabulous Greeks Control Large Part Of World Shipping; Marshall Plan Shipments Paid For Liberty Ships; Rollcall Reveals Vast Empire

(Ed. Note—This is the second column by Drew Pearson on Greek shipping).

WASHINGTON.—While the United States has poured several billion dollars into Greece to prevent that country from going Communist, a little group of Greek shipping men have put across the type of high finance that helps inspire communism.

Paying almost no taxes in their own country, and not carrying Marshall Plan goods to Greece free, as did the government-owned vessels of France, England, Italy, etc., these Greek shipping men bought surplus American Liberty ships at bargain rates and, using Greek government finances to guarantee their deals, now control a large part of the world's shipping.

Meanwhile the American public has been paying heavy taxes to support Greece. Meanwhile also the average Greek citizen living in Greece is only a few steps removed from poverty, while the Greek shipping magnates live in luxury in New York and London.

What they did was to buy 98 surplush Liberty ships with Greek government credit. Immediately thereafter, shipping rates went up, thanks to the shipment of Marshall Plan goods abroad, and in two or three trips the Greek magnates were able to pay for the purchase price of the Liberty ships.

Then they turned around and used the huge profits to buy American oil tankers, and more recently to order construction of some of the biggest tankers in the oil industry. As a result they will almost dominate the long-term oil transport business.

Greek Rollcall

Aristoles S. Onassis, who operates a great tanker fleet through a Panamanian corporation, the Olympic Oil Line has just ordered two 40,000-ton tankers to be built at Hamburg, plus three 21,000-ton tankers. Furthermore he has the cash to pay for them. Onassis also has a fleet of dry cargo vessels under the Panamanian flag, another fleet under the Honduran flag and at least one or two ships under the Norwegian flag. Formerly an Argentine resident, he owns homes in Athens, Greece; and Montevideo, Uruguay; is represented in this country by Simpson, Spence and Young of New York City.

Another fabulous Greek shipping czar is the Callimanopulos combine, owner of the Hellenic Lines, Ltd., and purchasers of two of the original, bargain-rate Liberty ships; also owners of at least one Panamanian shipping company, the General Shipping Corporation, which has been buying American ships and transferring them to the Panamanian flag. Callamanopulos also owns an interest in the Fenton Steamship Company, Ltd.

Plenty of Cash

On March 28, 1946, Callimanopulos reported the following assets to the Maritime Commission: $79,840.94 in cash at the National City Bank of New York; $500,000 in 2½ per cent U. S. bonds; $260,000 in 2¼ per cent U. S. bonds; $58,000 in U. S. certificates of indebtedness. He also reported a joint account with his wife of $23,466.60 in cash in the National City Bank and 1,500 shares of the American Export Line. In escrow, he had $342,500 in 2¼ per cent U. S. bonds and $155,000 in U. S. certificates of indebtedness.

Another Greek magnate, John M. Carras has been buying American ships and transferring them to Panamanian registry under his own name, listing Santa Monica, Calif., as his address. He also owns Cia De Navegacion Las Cruces, S. A., a Panamanian corporation, together with a 25 per cent interest in the Atlantic Maritime Corporation, the Panamanian company controlled by the Livanos Brothers. Carras also has holdings in London, has been vice president and general manager of the Standard Shipbuilding Corporation of San Pedro, Calif.

A. G. Pappadakis owns the Panamanian corporation, Cia Lama De Vapores, which has been buying American vessels for Panamanian registry. Pappadakis also bought one of the original Liberty ships in his own name. On March 30, 1947, he reported to the Maritime Commission that he had $275,000 in American banks.

C. G. Gratsos bought two of the original Liberty ships as C. G. Gratsos and Bros., and another one as Constantine G. Gratsos. He now owns several vessels, flying both the Panamanian and Honduran flags.

On August 1, 1946, Gratsos reported to the Maritime Commission that he had $85,000 in cash in New York banks and large holdings in Dracoulis Ltd. of London.

Greek Prime Minister

George N. Moatsos and Sophocles E. Venizelos, now premier of Greece, bought an original Liberty ship, and are now listed as the owners of the Compania Maritima Isthmenia, a Panamanian corporation.

M. C. and J. C. Hadjipateras bought one Liberty ship each, are reported to be big operators in the Greek maritime circle. In 1947, M. C. Hadjipateras informed the Maritime Commission that he had $160,000 in New York banks and 15,000 pounds in London banks; J. C. Hadjipateras reported that he had $210,000 in New York banks and 25,000 pounds in London banks.

John S. Coumantaros is another fabulous Greek shipper who has heavy holdings in Nomikos, Ltd., of London; J. Coumantaros, Ltd., of Buenos Aires; and considerable real estate and shipping interests in Greece, itself. The record of the 98 Liberty ships shows that one was sold to John S. Coumantaros and one sold to Panos S. Coumantaros. John S. also told the Maritime Commission that he had $170,000 in deposit in the National City Bank of New York and other deposits in British and South American banks.

Other Greeks with big shipping interests include Dimitrios J. Chandris; George Coutsouvelis; S. G., Maris A. and Michael A. Embiricos; Leonard, Basil, Nicholas and Michael Goulandris; Constantine Konialidis; Panaghis C. Lemos; Dimitrios Pateras; Nicholas Rethymnis; G., Alexandros and Nomicos Sigalas; Evangelos Nomikos, George Vergottis and D. J. Negroponte. Of these, Constantine Konialidis lists himself as a citizen of Uruguay, but has bought several American ships for various South American registry.

Errors In China

By MARK SULLIVAN

THE MILLIONS of official words that stream out of Senate committee hearings, and the more millions of unofficial words spoken or written in popular discussion, all deal with one broad question, is Gen. MacArthur right or is President Truman right? The question has many angles and facets. The broad answer, likely to reflect the opinions and emotions of most of the people lies in a comparison of the two men and their respective associations with two countries in the Far East—MacArthur's with Japan, Truman's with China.

The comparison is contrast. Japan, when MacArthur took it over, was an enemy nation. MacArthur's taking over was by conquest. China, when Mr. Truman became responsible for our relations with it after becoming President in 1945, was a friend and ally—had been our ally throughout the war and our friend historically. At the end of five years, MacArthur's charge had become our friend. China, after our relations with it had been in charge of the Truman administration for five years, was our enemy, its government a Communist one making war upon us.

While all this is an extremely simplified picture, it is essentially accurate, it is withn the framework of the controversy between and about Presdent Truman and Gen. MacArthur. This picture is largely what the Senate committee dealt with in the six days of its hearings of Secretary of Defense Marshall last week. The committee aimed to determine what is best to do with our present relations with Communist China, a relation of war; whether it is best to adopt a plan about conduct of the present stage of the war, proposed by Gen. MacArthur, or a different thought overlapping one proposed by President Truman. Along with this the committee went deep into the whole history of the Truman Administration policy about China.

With that policy Gen. Marshall had had close association. For more than a year—from December, 1945, to January, 1947—he was in China as a special representative of the President, later he was Secretary of State; still later he became and is now Secretary of Defense.

Answers Were Candid

Many of the questions asked of Secretary Marshall last week had to do with an important part of the policy about China, and his answers were candid. The directive he had received from the Administration was to bring about a truce between the longexisting Nationalist government of China under Chiang Kai-shek and a group that was attacking it. Upon arrival in China Marshall discovered that the leaders of the attacking group were Communists, zealous and truculent ones. Nevertheless Marshall tried (vainly as it turned out) to bring the two groups into an integrated government. The attempt at an integrated government stands as justification for criticism of Marshall's judgment. Critics of his course are on tenable grounds when they say he ought to have known that whenever communism gets a foothold in an existing government it strives hard to take the country all the way into communism. An outstanding example of success in this is Czechoslovakia.

Tragic Error

One detail of the Truman Administration's course about China, now readily recognizable as a tragic error was discouragement of the long-standing and thoroughly anti-Communist Nationalist government under Chiang Kai-shek, resulting in advantage to the anti-Chiang group that is today the Communist government of China. Another error was failure to take with sufficient seriousness warnings of how great a danger to the United States the fall of China to Russian communism would be. The warnings were many and from high sources, including military experts and scholars familiar with world history. The gist of the warnings was that if Russian communism should overrun China, the capacity of the United States to defend itself agianst attack by Russia would come in question. The warnings are now largely supported by present conditions. It is familiar that the Pacific defense line of the United States has been endangered by aggression of Russian communism in China and Korea, and would be more than merely endangered if Formosa should pass under control of Russian communism.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Truman placed upon General MacArthur on January 13 last the responsibility of deciding whether or not to evacuate United Nations troops from Korea—a question of both policy and military importance not only to America but to her allies.

That's the reason why the January 13 message from the President was not a "directive." General MacArthur was to decide, after reading some general observations from the President.

This information, obtained from Capitol Hill sources, is partly revealed in the testimony of General Marshall.

The all-important message which General MacArthur sent to Washington just prior to January 13 asked specific instruction on three points—whether he was to evacuate his troops from Korea, hold on for a limited period, or try to stay on indefinitely. The General asked for such instructions because previous messages to him were not clear. He never did get a direct reply to his queries. Instead, a message in abstract terms came from the President referring to various objectives of the war in Korea and winding up with the comment that the message was not a "directive."

Declined Taking Responsibility

General Collins, who was in Tokyo conferring with General MacArthur at the time, thought Mr. Truman meant that the UN forces were to stay a limited time. General Vandenberg, who was present at the Tokyo conference, expressed the opinion that the President's message meant an indefinite resistance and no evacuation.

General MacArthur himself interpreted the President's message to mean that he should continue indefinitely to resist and that evacuation was not to be considered at all. He promptly notified General Ridgway of this decision.

The interesting thing about the episode is that, despite the presence in Washington of most of the high officials who comprise the National Security Council, including the President, the Administration here declined to take the responsibility for making the real decision of policy at that time in Korea.

While this very important conference was going on in Tokyo, General Collins had with him a copy of the January 12 recommendations of the Joint Chiefs of Staff covering the four points first mentioned in General MacArthur's address to Congress concerning a blockade, the use of Nationalist troops, and air reconnaissance over Manchuria and China's coastal areas.

It was mentioned in the conference but no copy of this memorandum was left with General MacArthur. Nothing was said to him to the effect that, when he did get the January 12 communication—as he did two weeks later by mail—he was to disregard it or to consider it as having been modified by the very general observations made in the January 13 message of the President.

The foregoing illustrates why Senator Russell of Georgia, Democrat, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, notified General Marshall on Monday that the committee had been getting information and messages in "dribbles" and that now it wanted a complete and comprehensive account of the messages exchanged and not just portions of the messages.

Testimony Not Clear

Again and again senators asked the Secretary of Defense to point out in what respects the January 13 message from President Truman to General MacArthur was to be considered as modifying or contradicting the January 12 paper of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Secretary Marshall declined to give this information, stating that he preferred the committee get it from General Bradley.

Senator Russell also pointed out to Secretary Marshall that the committee was desirous of getting a written memorandum stating specifically what directives or orders or policies General MacArthur is alleged to have violated as a forerunner to dismissal. Up to now the testimony of the Secretary of Defense on this has been far from clear.

When other witnesses are put on the stand, it will become apparent that the so-called "directive" of December 6, which asked that all officials here and abroad refrain from making public statements without clearing them with Washington, was interpreted by Washington officials themselves—who advised General MacArthur—as intended to apply to adresses and speeches and not to the commander's comment on military events in Korea nor to conversations or letters. If the latter fact is established—namely, that General MacArthur was so advised subsequent to the December 6 "directive"—this important bit of evidence would throw a good deal of light on the whole controversy. Senators familiar with the background say such evidence exists and will be produced.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Doctrine Of Perfection

FRANKLIN D. Roosevelt tried to establish the doctrine that there are good countries and bad; that there are good dictators and bad ones. Stalin was a good dictator; Hitler and Franco were bad dictators. Chiang Kai-shek, during part of this period, was a good dictator; then he became corrupt.

The doctrine of perfection which Roosevelt applied abroad, neither he nor Harry Truman applied in the United States or among the countries which we supported with our largesse. The Kefauver investigation surely disclosed numerous corruptions in our own country, to say nothing of the existence of a black market during the war which was not without some sanction by official personalities. Some day, when there is another dispensation, investigations will be made into the extraordinary earnings by public officials, during periods of high taxation, when most Americans can barely put away a dollar.

However, that is not the point of this discussion, which is, rather, that when the United States needs and seeks allies, its measure must be their value to the United States. We have been led astray from that basic doctrine by the global baloney which is constantly being sliced for us. We are brought back to it by General Douglas MacArthur, who in his testimony said:

"The basic reason for the support that might be rendered to (Chiang Kai-shek) is . . because the interests of the United States of America coincide with anyone who is opposed to communism. It doesn't necessarily mean that we approve of everything he says or does. But it does mean that he assists us in our resistance to this world menace; and that any choice between him and communism would naturally resolve in his favor."

General Douglas MacArthur knows, as does everybody who has worked in this field, that the Acheson-Marshall-Truman policy on Formosa is unrelated to the needs and purposes of the United States but is a defensive measure to protect their vested interest in their own mistakes. That they should so respond to a situation that can ruin their reputations and destroy their political careers is neither unusual nor unnatural.

Yet, the issue is so much bigger than these men, and as General MacArthur has said, it is not dust that is settling on the soil of Korea but the blood of our sons. If Formosa is unnecessary for the defense of the United States, then there can be no reason for quarreling over this issue, but General MacArthur holds:

"A—It is my own personal opinion that the greatest political mistake we made in a hundred years in the Pacific, was in allowing the Communists to grow in power in China.

"I think, at one stroke, we undid everything, starting from John Hay, through Taft, Leonard Wood, Woodrow Wilson, Henry Stimson, and all those great architects of our Pacific policy.

"I believe it was fundamental, and I believe we will pay for it, for a century.

"Q — Well, let us ask the direct question:

"What would you have done — what would you have advised, under the circumstances that existed back there in 1945 — what would you have done?

"A — I would have given such assistance to the conservative government of China as to have checked the growing tide of communism.

"A very little help and assistance, in my belief, at that time, would have accomplished that purpose.

"Q — For a good many years you have been acquainted, I take it, with the Russians and with the Communist infiltration.

"Would you have sought to have gotten those two forces together?

"A — I did not catch the question.

"Q — Would you have sought to have amalgamated the Commies and Nationalists — have gotten them together?

"A — Just about as much chance as getting them together as that oil and water will mix.

"Q — That was your idea at that time, too, was it not?

"A — It would be then, and always. The whole history of the world shows that."

In that colloquy lies the whole story of the greatest mistake in a century. Time alone can show how damaging, how devastating have been the errors of Teheran and Yalta. But this we do see: MacArthur in five years won the friendship of 80,000,000 conquered Japanese; in the same five years, the Acheson-Marshall-Truman policy lost us the friendship of 450,000,000 Chinese, who for more than a century respected Americans above all other Westerners. They are now satellites of Soviet Russia.

Deferment For Students

Yesterday was the deadline (it may be extended) for college students to apply for scholastic aptitude tests to establish eligibility for draft deferment. The tests will be given on May 26, June 16, and June 30, Saturdays, also on Thursday, July 12, for students certifying that their religious principles forbid them to take the test on a Saturday. At least 225,000 of the one million non-veteran males now in college are expected to apply for examination.

The tests will be offered at about 1,200 centers in the United States and territories under the administration of the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N. J. This agency conducts examinations at present for the U. S. Navy, Department of State, Atomic Energy Commission, Military and Naval Academies.

Application blanks and instructions have been made available to students at all 4,000 local boards in the Selective Service system. Each registrant must meet the cost of his transportation to and from a testing center.

The elaborate testing system would have been junked under a proposal by Rep. Kilday (D., Texas) in its original form. On April 4 Kilday offered an amendment to the Military Training and Service bill forbidding educational deferment "as the result of, or on the basis of, any test, examination, selection system, or any other means" conducted by a government agency or private institution.

But the Kilday amendment as adopted by the House on April 11 provided merely: "No local board, appeal board, or other agency of the Selective Service System shall be required to postpone or defer any (student) . . . solely on the basis of any test (or) examination." Thus Selective Service could go ahead with its examinations, but the final decision on deferment would remain with the local boards.

The Senate version of the bill specifically authorizes the President to remove temporarily from training "not to exceed 75,000 persons annually in order to . . . engage in study or research . . . determined by him to be in the national interest." Conferences on the Senate and House versions of the bill were postponed during the Senate MacArthur hearings.

To take the aptitude tests, students must: 1) intend to request occupational deferment; 2) be under 26 years of age; 3) have already begun college or university studies and plan to continue them; 4) be taking the test for the first time. No provision has been made for high school students. Selective Service Director Hershey has said he believes "the great mass of college freshmen will assemble freely next fall without interference from Selective Service."

Students in professional schools of medicine, dentistry, osteopathy, or veterinary medicine would be deferred on the basis of a certificate from the school stating that they are satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course. Students in other graduate schools would present a statement from the school attesting that they are meeting requirements for a degree and are expected to obtain it. Students entering graduate schools would be required either to be in the upper half of the male section of their classes or to score 75 or better on the aptitude test—equal to a score of 120 or better on the Army General Classification Test.

Students entering senior year or taking five- or six-year undergraduate courses would have either to be in the upper three-fourths of the class or to score 70 or better on the aptitude tests. Students entering junior or sophomore year in college would have either to score 70 or better on the aptitude tests or stand, respectively, in the upper two-thirds or upper one-half of the class.

Subsidy Issue Revived

Any expectation that revision of the Defense Production Act would be accomplished with reasonable expedition fades with Mobilization Director Wilson's advocacy of granting authority now for "limited" farm subsidies as a means of rolling back food prices.

He thereby introduces a highly controversial issue and places himself on the side of labor union leaders, who have been highly critical of him in other matters, and in opposition to most farm organizations.

In his appearance before the Senate Banking Committee at the opening of hearings on amendment of the act, Mr. Wilson was represented as supporting all of President Truman's recommendations as presented to Congress last month. But Mr. Truman appeared to urge subsidies only as a last resort.

Either Mr. Truman has changed his mind or Mr. Wilson has gone a step beyond what the President asked for. In any event, the unfavorable reaction to the mobilization director's proposal was immediately manifested by some members of the committee.

Senator Bricker wanted to know, for instance, if the proposal was not in principle a version of Secretary Brannan's plan, rejected by Congress last year. Mr. Wilson admitted it was "in a marginal way," adding that he didn't like the plan, either, but that subsidies would be used only in an emergency.

That is a statement not likely to be readily accepted in view of the aggressive use of subsidies during World War II, once they had congressional authorization, at a cost to the taxpayers of $4,250,000,000 in the 1941-46 period.

Well Rejected

Several months ago the Soviet Union, without explanation, withdrew from negotiations among the United States and the other interested parties for a peace pact with Japan. These negotiations went forward in Russia's absence and have now reached the point where peace with Japan is counted upon this summer.

But now the Soviet Union proposes that a conference of foreign ministers, including a representative of Communist China, be convened within two months to prepare a peace draft for Japan. The gist of the Russian program is a demilitarized Japan, from which American occupation forces would be withdrawn.

In this and other respects, such as admission of Red China to the pact negotiations, the Russian script runs counter to the draft that the United States has presented to the other interested powers. The Soviet outline is a maneuver to split the Western allies and to forestall a separate peace pact between them and Japan.

The United States wants to push through a peace treaty without further delay. A conference of foreign ministers, with Russia participating, to negotiate a peace for Japan would get nowhere.

The Department of State did well to issue an immediate forthright, public rejection of the latest Soviet proposal "which the Soviet Union makes periodically whenever it wants to stall the conclusion of a Japanese peace. It has always been rejected and will be again.'

Rashes May Be Perplexing

DERMATOLOGY is that branch of medicine concerned with the skin and the physician who has made this phase his speciality is known as a dermatologist. His lot is not an easy one because there are more than 2,000 skin disturbances and many are so closely related it may be difficult to tell them apart. Furthermore, the cause so often escapes detection that treatment is necessarily handicapped.

Some blemishes have a preference for certain parts of the body. Acne, for example, favors the face chest, and back. Psoriasis, eczema, and seborrhea are not unusual on the scalp, and cold sores select the lips and other mucous membranes. Contrary to popular opinion, fungous infections account for only a few of the eruptions noted on the hands and feet. Contact dermatitis and bacterial infections are just as prevalent and more disabling.

Individuals with chronic skin disorders are prone to go from one dermatologist to another. The one who is on the case when the eruption disappears is hailed as a hero. This is justifiable in some cases, whereas in others nature should be given some of the credit. Certain outbreaks, for example, are self-limited; they last six to eight weeks and then vanish spontaneously. The physician who is on the job at that time obviously is the man of the hour.

But there are tricks to every trade and the wise dermatologist has found that many miracles occur by letting well enough alone. Skin blemishes are unsightly and the victims are likely to apply anything to obtain relief. They are so insistent, the dermatologist is almost forced to give a prescription. Sometimes the rash continues even though the original lesions are gone. The explanation is that dermatitis has developed because of irritation or sensitivity produced by the medication. Such an outbreak often disappears as soon as all drugs are stopped. Meanwhile, a simple cream may be employed to satisfy man's inherent desire for "something to put on." Overtreatment dermatitis is common, especially among those who think they are suffering from ringworm of the feet. There are other origins of blisters in this area, and they flare up when irritated. The same thing may occur even though ringworm exists; the solution that was strong enough to kill the fungus was also strong enough to burn or irritate the skin.

Many skin disorders are of internal origin, hence salves and ointments are of no value. One of the toughest involves the nervous system and the patient may be doubtful of the physician's skill when he says that the dermatitis is brought on by nerves. The second obstacle is to find the cause of the cause. Why is the patient upset emotionally and why are these cutaneous manifestations occurring? In many, the lesions appear only when the individual is upset; they fade when everything becomes peaceful.

Skin cancer also falls into the realm of the dermatologist. These lesions do not grow as rapidly as other malignancies but when unattended their ultimate fate is the same. Sores that do not heal are open to suspicion; many become crusted but peel before complete healing has taken place. Others ulcerate and may or may not bleed. The lips and cheeks are favorite locations. The pigmented mole also must be treated with respect. Whenever it increases in size or deepens in color, complete removal is likely to be recommended.

Fabulous Greeks Control Large Part Of World Shipping; Marshall Plan Shipments Paid For Liberty Ships; Rollcall Reveals Vast Empire

(Ed. Note—This is the second column by Drew Pearson on Greek shipping).

WASHINGTON.—While the United States has poured several billion dollars into Greece to prevent that country from going Communist, a little group of Greek shipping men have put across the type of high finance that helps inspire communism.

Paying almost no taxes in their own country, and not carrying Marshall Plan goods to Greece free, as did the government-owned vessels of France, England, Italy, etc., these Greek shipping men bought surplus American Liberty ships at bargain rates and, using Greek government finances to guarantee their deals, now control a large part of the world's shipping.

Meanwhile the American public has been paying heavy taxes to support Greece. Meanwhile also the average Greek citizen living in Greece is only a few steps removed from poverty, while the Greek shipping magnates live in luxury in New York and London.

What they did was to buy 98 surplush Liberty ships with Greek government credit. Immediately thereafter, shipping rates went up, thanks to the shipment of Marshall Plan goods abroad, and in two or three trips the Greek magnates were able to pay for the purchase price of the Liberty ships.

Then they turned around and used the huge profits to buy American oil tankers, and more recently to order construction of some of the biggest tankers in the oil industry. As a result they will almost dominate the long-term oil transport business.

Greek Rollcall

Aristoles S. Onassis, who operates a great tanker fleet through a Panamanian corporation, the Olympic Oil Line has just ordered two 40,000-ton tankers to be built at Hamburg, plus three 21,000-ton tankers. Furthermore he has the cash to pay for them. Onassis also has a fleet of dry cargo vessels under the Panamanian flag, another fleet under the Honduran flag and at least one or two ships under the Norwegian flag. Formerly an Argentine resident, he owns homes in Athens, Greece; and Montevideo, Uruguay; is represented in this country by Simpson, Spence and Young of New York City.

Another fabulous Greek shipping czar is the Callimanopulos combine, owner of the Hellenic Lines, Ltd., and purchasers of two of the original, bargain-rate Liberty ships; also owners of at least one Panamanian shipping company, the General Shipping Corporation, which has been buying American ships and transferring them to the Panamanian flag. Callamanopulos also owns an interest in the Fenton Steamship Company, Ltd.

Plenty of Cash

On March 28, 1946, Callimanopulos reported the following assets to the Maritime Commission: $79,840.94 in cash at the National City Bank of New York; $500,000 in 2½ per cent U. S. bonds; $260,000 in 2¼ per cent U. S. bonds; $58,000 in U. S. certificates of indebtedness. He also reported a joint account with his wife of $23,466.60 in cash in the National City Bank and 1,500 shares of the American Export Line. In escrow, he had $342,500 in 2¼ per cent U. S. bonds and $155,000 in U. S. certificates of indebtedness.

Another Greek magnate, John M. Carras has been buying American ships and transferring them to Panamanian registry under his own name, listing Santa Monica, Calif., as his address. He also owns Cia De Navegacion Las Cruces, S. A., a Panamanian corporation, together with a 25 per cent interest in the Atlantic Maritime Corporation, the Panamanian company controlled by the Livanos Brothers. Carras also has holdings in London, has been vice president and general manager of the Standard Shipbuilding Corporation of San Pedro, Calif.

A. G. Pappadakis owns the Panamanian corporation, Cia Lama De Vapores, which has been buying American vessels for Panamanian registry. Pappadakis also bought one of the original Liberty ships in his own name. On March 30, 1947, he reported to the Maritime Commission that he had $275,000 in American banks.

C. G. Gratsos bought two of the original Liberty ships as C. G. Gratsos and Bros., and another one as Constantine G. Gratsos. He now owns several vessels, flying both the Panamanian and Honduran flags.

On August 1, 1946, Gratsos reported to the Maritime Commission that he had $85,000 in cash in New York banks and large holdings in Draculis Ltd. of London.

Greek Prime Minister

George N. Moatsos and Sophocles E. Venizelos, now premier of Greece, bought an original Liberty ship, and are now listed as the owners of the Compania Maritima Isthmenia, a Panamanian corporation.

M. C. and J. C. Hadjipateras bought one Liberty ship each, are reported to be big operators in the Greek maritime circle. In 1947, M. C. Hadjipateras informed the Maritime Commission that he had $160,000 in New York banks and 15,000 pounds in London banks; J. C. Hadjipateras reported that he had $210,000 in New York banks and 25,000 pounds in London banks.

John S. Coumantaros is another fabulous Greek shipper who has heavy holdings in Nomikos, Ltd., of London; J. Coumantaros, Ltd., of Buenos Aires; and considerable real estate and shipping interests in Greece, itself. The record of the 98 Liberty ships shows that one was sold to John S. Coumantaros and one sold to Panos S. Coumantaros. John S. also told the Maritime Commission that he had $170,000 in deposit in the National City Bank of New York and other deposits in British and South American banks.

Other Greeks with big shipping interests include Dimitrios J. Chandris; George Coutsouvelis; S. G., Maris A. and Michael A. Embiricos; Leonard, Basil, Nicholas and Michael Goulandris; Constantine Konialidis; Panaghis C. Lemos; Dimitrios Pateras; Nicholas Rethymnis; G., Alexandros and Nomicos Sigalas; Evangelos Nomikos, George Vergottis and D. J. Negroponte. Of these, Constantine Konialidis lists himself as a citizen of Uruguay, but has bought several American ships for various South American registry.

By MARK SULLIVAN

THE MILLIONS of official words that stream out of Senate committee hearings, and the more millions of unofficial words spoken or written in popular discussion, all deal with one broad question, is Gen. MacArthur right or is President Truman right? The question has many angles and facets. The broad answer, likely to reflect the opinions and emotions of most of the people lies in a comparison of the two men and their respective associations with two countries in the Far East—MacArthur's with Japan, Truman's with China.

The comparison is contrast. Japan, when MacArthur took it over, was an enemy nation. MacArthur's taking over was by conquest. China, when Mr. Truman became responsible for our relations with it after becoming President in 1945, was a friend and ally—had been our ally throughout the war and our friend historically. At the end of five years, MacArthur's charge had become our friend. China, after our relations with it had been in charge of the Truman administration for five years, was our enemy, its government a Communist one making war upon us.

While all this is an extremely simplified picture, it is essentially accurate, it is withn the framework of the controversy between and about Presdent Truman and Gen. MacArthur. This picture is largely what the Senate committee dealt with in the six days of its hearings of Secretary of Defense Marshall last week. The committee aimed to determine what is best to do with our present relations with Communist China, a relation of war; whether it is best to adopt a plan about conduct of the present stage of the war, proposed by Gen. MacArthur, or a different thought overlapping one proposed by President Truman. Along with this the committee went deep into the whole history of the Truman Administration policy about China.

With that policy Gen. Marshall had had close association. For more than a year—from December, 1945, to January, 1947—he was in China as a special representative of the President, later he was Secretary of State; still later he became and is now Secretary of Defense.

Answers Were Candid

Many of the questions asked of Secretary Marshall last week had to do with an important part of the policy about China, and his answers were candid. The directive he had received from the Administration was to bring about a truce between the longexisting Nationalist government of China under Chiang Kai-shek and a group that was attacking it. Upon arrival in China Marshall discovered that the leaders of the attacking group were Communists, zealous and truculent ones. Nevertheless Marshall tried (vainly as it turned out) to bring the two groups into an integrated government. The attempt at an integrated government stands as justification for criticism of Marshall's judgment. Critics of his course are on tenable grounds when they say he ought to have known that whenever communism gets a foothold in an existing government it strives hard to take the country all the way into communism. An outstanding example of success in this is Czechoslovakia.

Tragic Error

One detail of the Truman Administration's course about China, now readily recognizable as a tragic error was discouragement of the long-standing and thoroughly anti-Communist Nationalist government under Chiang Kai-shek, resulting in advantage to the anti-Chiang group that is today the Communist government of China. Another error was failure to take with sufficient seriousness warnings of how great a danger to the United States the fall of China to Russian communism would be. The warnings were many and from high sources, including military experts and scholars familiar with world history. The gist of the warnings was that if Russian communism should overrun China, the capacity of the United States to defend itself agianst attack by Russia would come in question. The warnings are now largely supported by present conditions. It is familiar that the Pacific defense line of the United States has been endangered by aggression of Russian communism in China and Korea, and would be more than merely endangered if Formosa should pass under control of Russian communism.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Truman placed upon General MacArthur on January 13 last the responsibility of deciding whether or not to evacuate United Nations troops from Korea—a question of both policy and military importance not only to America but to her allies.

That's the reason why the January 13 message from the President was not a "directive." General MacArthur was to decide, after reading some general observations from the President.

This information, obtained from Capitol Hill sources, is partly revealed in the testimony of General Marshall.

The all-important message which General MacArthur sent to Washington just prior to January 13 asked specific instruction on three points—whether he was to evacuate his troops from Korea, hold on for a limited period, or try to stay on indefinitely. The General asked for such instructions because previous messages to him were not clear. He never did get a direct reply to his queries. Instead, a message in abstract terms came from the President referring to various objectives of the war in Korea and winding up with the comment that the message was not a "directive."

Declined Taking Responsibility

General Collins, who was in Tokyo conferring with General MacArthur at the time, thought Mr. Truman meant that the UN forces were to stay a limited time. General Vandenberg, who was present at the Tokyo conference, expressed the opinion that the President's message meant an indefinite resistance and no evacuation.

General MacArthur himself interpreted the President's message to mean that he should continue indefinitely to resist and that evacuation was not to be considered at all. He promptly notified General Ridgway of this decision.

The interesting thing about the episode is that, despite the presence in Washington of most of the high officials who comprise the National Security Council, including the President, the Administration here declined to take the responsibility for making the real decision of policy at that time in Korea.

While this very important conference was going on in Tokyo, General Collins had with him a copy of the January 12 recommendations of the Joint Chiefs of Staff covering the four points first mentioned in General MacArthur's address to Congress concerning a blockade, the use of Nationalist troops, and air reconnaissance over Manchuria and China's coastal areas.

It was mentioned in the conference but no copy of this memorandum was left with General MacArthur. Nothing was said to him to the effect that, when he did get the January 12 communication—as he did two weeks later by mail—he was to disregard it or to consider it as having been modified by the very general observations made in the January 13 message of the President.

The foregoing illustrates why Senator Russell of Georgia, Democrat, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, notified General Marshall on Monday that the committee had been getting information and messages in "dribbles" and that now it wanted a complete and comprehensive account of the messages exchanged and not just portions of the messages.

Testimony Not Clear

Again and again senators asked the Secretary of Defense to point out in what respects the January 13 message from President Truman to General MacArthur was to be considered as modifying or contradicting the January 12 paper of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Secretary Marshall declined to give this information, stating that he preferred the committee get it from General Bradley.

Senator Russell also pointed out to Secretary Marshall that the committee was desirous of getting a written memorandum stating specifically what directives or orders or policies General MacArthur is alleged to have violated as a forerunner to dismissal. Up to now the testimony of the Secretary of Defense on this has been far from clear.

When other witnesses are put on the stand, it will become apparent that the so-called "directive" of December 6, which asked that all officials here and abroad refrain from making public statements without clearing them with Washington, was interpreted by Washington officials themselves—who advised General MacArthur—as intended to apply to adresses and speeches and not to the commander's comment on military events in Korea nor to conversations or letters. If the latter fact is established—namely, that General MacArthur was so advised subsequent to the December 6 "directive"—this important bit of evidence would throw a good deal of light on the whole controversy. Senators familiar with the background say such evidence exists and will be produced.

The Doctrine Of Perfection

FRANKLIN D. Roosevelt tried to establish the doctrine that there are good countries and bad; that there are good dictators and bad ones. Stalin was a good dictator; Hitler and Franco were bad dictators. Chiang Kai-shek, during part of this period, was a good dictator; then he became corrupt.

The doctrine of perfection which Roosevelt applied abroad, neither he nor Harry Truman applied in the United States or among the countries which we supported with our largesse. The Kefauver investigation surely disclosed numerous corruptions in our own country, to say nothing of the existence of a black market during the war which was not without some sanction by official personalities. Some day, when there is another dispensation, investigations will be made into the extraordinary earnings by public officials, during periods of high taxation, when most Americans can barely put away a dollar.

However, that is not the point of this discussion, which is, rather, that when the United States needs and seeks allies, its measure must be their value to the United States. We have been led astray from that basic doctrine by the global baloney which is constantly being sliced for us. We are brought back to it by General Douglas MacArthur, who in his testimony said:

"The basic reason for the support that might be rendered to (Chiang Kai-shek) is . . because the interests of the United States of America coincide with anyone who is opposed to communism. It doesn't necessarily mean that we approve of everything he says or does. But it does mean that he assists us in our resistance to this world menace; and that any choice between him and communism would naturally resolve in his favor."

General Douglas MacArthur knows, as does everybody who has worked in this field, that the Acheson-Marshall-Truman policy on Formosa is unrelated to the needs and purposes of the United States but is a defensive measure to protect their vested interest in their own mistakes. That they should so respond to a situation that can ruin their reputations and destroy their political careers is neither unusual nor unnatural.

Yet, the issue is so much bigger than these men, and as General MacArthur has said, it is not dust that is settling on the soil of Korea but the blood of our sons. If Formosa is unnecessary for the defense of the United States, then there can be no reason for quarreling over this issue, but General MacArthur holds:

"A—It is my own personal opinion that the greatest political mistake we made in a hundred years in the Pacific, was in allowing the Communists to grow in power in China.

"I think, at one stroke, we undid everything, starting from John Hay, through Taft, Leonard Wood, Woodrow Wilson, Henry Stimson, and all those great architects of our Pacific policy.

"I believe it was fundamental, and I believe we will pay for it, for a century.

"Q — Well, let us ask the direct question:

"What would you have done — what would you have advised, under the circumstances that existed back there in 1945 — what would you have done?

"A — I would have given such assistance to the conservative government of China as to have checked the growing tide of communism.

"A very little help and assistance, in my belief, at that time, would have accomplished that purpose.

"Q — For a good many years you have been acquainted, I take it, with the Russians and with the Communist infiltration.

"Would you have sought to have gotten those two forces together?

"A — I did not catch the question.

"Q — Would you have sought to have amalgamated the Commies and Nationalists — have gotten them together?

"A — Just about as much chance as getting them together as that oil and water will mix.

"Q — That was your idea at that time, too, was it not?

"A — It would be then, and always. The whole history of the world shows that."

In that colloquy lies the whole story of the greatest mistake in a century. Time alone can show how damaging, how devastating have been the errors of Teheran and Yalta. But this we do see: MacArthur in five years won the friendship of 80,000,000 conquered Japanese; in the same five years, the Acheson-Marshall-Truman policy lost us the friendship of 450,000,000 Chinese, who for more than a century respected Americans above all other Westerners. They are now satellites of Soviet Russia.

Tales Of Heroism Emerge In Wake Of Ship Collision

NORFOLK, Va., May 15 (AP) — Stories of heroism emerged today from the welter of flame, smoke and death that engulfed the seaplane tender Valcour after her collision with the collier Thomas Tracy.

Men on rescue ships leaped overboard and saved the Valcour's men who had jumped from her flaming decks. Men on rescue ships boarded the Valcour and helped her remaining crewmen to fight flames that threatened to explode her ammunition.

The fire-ravaged tender, a big hole in her starboard quarter where the collier rammed her yesterday five miles off Cape Henry, was expected to begin discharging the remainder of her 70,000 gallons of high octane gasoline this afternoon.

The body of one of her crew has been recovered. Four other enlisted men are missing and presumed dead.

After the Valcour's gasoline is discharged, her ammunition will be removed and her fume-filled compartments will be decontaminated. Then a search will be made of four compartments, not yet entered, in the hope of finding the bodies of the four missing men.

Three Of Four Britons Over Age 16 Gamble

LONDON, May 15 (AP)—Three out of every four Britons over the age of 16 gamble on horses, dogs, soccer pools or lotteries, a government survey showed today.

The total wagered is around $1,000,000,000 a year, or $20 a head for the population of 50,000,000.

Gambling is legalized in Britain. On a single day each spring when the English Derby is run, half the men and a third of the women in the United Kingdom have bets down.

Baltimore Ore Pier Opened By B. & O.

BALTIMORE, May 15 (AP) — A $5,000,000 pier was put into service here today to handle increased shipments of vital iron ore from mines in foreign countries.

The 650-foot long structure, owned by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, will be able to unload 30,000 tons of ore from incoming ships and load it on 500 railroad cars in 24 hours.

One of the chief workhorses in this process is a conveyor belt 1,812 feet long. It carries the ore along the pier and up to a high storage bin with a 500 ton capacity.

Baltimore Pier Roof Collapses, Killing Two

BALTIMORE, May 15 (AP)—The sagging roof on a waterfront pier collapsed as it was being torn down today. Two workmen were killed and six injured.

Dead are William Disharoon, 33, and Raymond Johnson. Both are Baltimore negroes.

A foreman, William D. Jones, said the roof let go after his wrecking crew pulled down one of the pillars supporting it.

Jones said his men had worked through the day rigging the overhead so that at the right time it would topple into the harbor.

Washington County To Buy Vote Machines

HAGERSTOWN, Md., May 15 (AP) —The Washington Board of County Commissioners today authorized the purchase of 95 voting machines at a total cost of $114,285.

The Board of Elections Supervisors were instructed to buy the machines from the low bidder, Automatic Voting Machine Corporation of Jamestown, N. Y. Cost of each machine is $1,203.

The commissioners said they plan to finance the equipment by borrowing at local banks, rather than issuing bonds.

Washington Hospital Plunge Fatal To Nurse

WASHINGTON, May 15. (AP)—Patricia M. Casey, 25, nurse, died today from injuries suffered in a plunge from a fifth-floor window at George Washington Hospital.

She had returned to work yesterday after being ill for a week.

Before she died she told her mother: "Mother, I just fainted."

Rejects Reds' Bonus, Pitches No-Hitter

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—Regis King, who refused a $40,000 bonus from the Cincinnati Reds, hurled a no-hit, no-run game for the Manhattan College baseball team against Kings Point today. Manhattan won, 9 to 0.

King rejected the red offer because he wants to be a doctor.

A's Catcher Injured

PHILADELPHIA, May 15 (INS)—Philadelphia Athletic catcher Joe Tipton was hit in the head by a swinging bat in tonight's game with the St. Louis Browns at Shibe Park.

The catcher dropped to the ground and after a quick examination by the Athletics' trainer he was carried from the field unconscious, on a stretcher.

Terps Top Hoyas

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Don Soderberg, Maryland's rapid right hander from Baltimore won his seventh game of the year today as the Terps won their eighth straight with a 4 to 2 win over Georgetown.

Peggy Lee Wins Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif., May 15 (AP)—Peggy Lee, the curvy blonde singer, divorced her guitar-playing husband, Dave Barbour, today with the testimony: "He said he didn't love me any more."

Miss Lee, 30, said she became emotionally upset and lost weight after Barbour, arranger of many of her song successes, told her he wanted his freedom. Barbour, 37, is now leading his own orchestra.

Md. Appeals Court Again Considers Edwards Case

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 15 (AP)—The life of Thomas A. Edwards, twice convicted of the Glen Burnie murders that shocked Maryland in 1948, was in the hands of the Court of Appeals again tonight.

For the second time in 16 months, the state's high court heard lawyers for the 26-year-old negro gardner demand that he be turned free.

It again heard prosecutors insist that Edwards be hanged for the bloody gun slayings of John Mahlan and Mary Kline, the youthful Glen Burnie couple who met death under a full moon the night of Sept. 17, 1948.

Unlike its first hearing early last year, the court today heard rape suggested as the most likely motive.

Assistant Attorney General Robert M. Thomas, making his first appearance in courtroom probing of one of the state's "most heinous crimes," propounded the rape theory. Little emphasis had been placed on a sex motivation in either of Edwards' two trials in Baltimore Criminal Court or his first appeal.

Thomas pointed to a state medical examiner's report, which found no traces of rape but noted the condition of the girl's body prevented a positive analysis. Torn underclothing also supported the theory, Thomas said.

Two of the six judges immediately expressed skepticism.

"There is very, very thin basis for that," Chief Judge Ogle Marbury said.

Thomas observed the killer may have been frightened by Miss Kline's screams and fired at her after shooting Mahlan.

"A most extraordinary kind of rape that starts out in cold blood by killing the man," Judge Charles Markell said.

The state added robbery as a conceivable motive. Mahlan's wallet has never been found.

Free Mail Bill OK'd

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—A bill to extend the free mail privilege for members of the armed forces, including the Coast Guard, was approved by the Senate Post Office Committee today.

The present law expires June 30.

testify on what was said at the White House.

Sen. Wiley brought up the question of the top-level meeting called to discuss the MacArthur situation.

"All right," Wiley said, "tell us what was said."

Bradley replied: "Senator, at that time I was in a position of a confidential adviser to the President. I do not feel at liberty to publicize what any of us said at that time."

Russell Upholds Bradley

Wiley turned to Sen. Russell and asked if Bradley should be required to answer.

After a lengthy discussion, Russell upheld Bradley by ruling "any matter that transpired in the private conversation between the President and the chief of staff (Bradley) xxx can be protected by the witness if he so desires."

Tonight, eight of the 12 Republicans on the joint inquiry committee met to discuss what should be done about Bradley's refusal to answer.

Wiley told reporters afterward that the group had decided to study the legal precedents overnight and meet again in the morning to decide a course.

If the recommendations should be to seek contempt proceeding, provided Bradley still refuses to answer, the matter then would be brought up for discussion by all 12 Republicans on the inquiry committee, Wiley said.

Wiley said he already has made up his mind that Bradley should be required to answer, but he said he would abide by the decision of the majority of the Republicans.

Thousands Of Toys Destroyed By Fire

MCMECHEN, W. Va., May 15 (AP) —Thousands of children's toys went up in flames today when fire swept the Marx Toy Manufacturing Co. warehouse here today.

A company official said the loss would be at least $1,000,000.

Fire companies from at least five communities in West Virginia and Ohio, across the Ohio River, battled the blaze which broke out about 4 a. m. (EST).

The warehouse, containing about 125,000 cartons of toys of the Christmas trade was destroyed along with two loaded freight cars.

100 Reported Killed Or Injured In Blast

BERLIN, May 15 (INS)—More than 100 persons were reported killed or injured tonight in an explosion at an East German railroad repair shop where workers had been decorated for their ability only hours earlier.

East German sources said the boiler on which the decorated repair crew had been working blew up and crashed into a nursery school nearby.

The Board of Elections Supervisors were instructed to buy the machines from the low bidder, Automatic Voting Machine Corporation of Jamestown, N. Y. Cost of each machine is $1,203.

The commissioners said they plan to finance the equipment by borrowing at local banks, rather than issuing bonds.

Washington Hospital Plunge Fatal To Nurse

WASHINGTON, May 15. (AP)—Patricia M. Casey, 25, nurse, died today from injuries suffered in a plunge from a fifth-floor window at George Washington Hospital.

She had returned to work yesterday after being ill for a week.

Rejects Reds' Bonus, Pitches No-Hitter

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—Regis King, who refused a $40,000 bonus from the Cincinnati Reds, hurled a no-hit, no-run game for the Manhattan College baseball team against Kings Point today. Manhattan won, 9 to 0.

King rejected the red offer because he wants to be a doctor.

A's Catcher Injured

PHILADELPHIA, May 15 (INS)—Philadelphia Athletic catcher Joe Tipton was hit in the head by a swinging bat in tonight's game with the St. Louis Browns at Shibe Park.

The catcher dropped to the ground and after a quick examination by the Athletics' trainer he was carried from the field unconscious, on a stretcher.

Peggy Lee Wins Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif., May 15 (AP)—Peggy Lee, the curvy blonde singer, divorced her guitar-playing husband, Dave Barbour, today with the testimony: "He said he didn't love me any more."

Miss Lee, 30, said she became emotionally upset and lost weight after Barbour, arranger of many of her song successes, told her he wanted his freedom. Barbour, 37, is now leading his own orchestra.

Md. Appeals Court Again Considers Edwards Case

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 15 (AP)—The life of Thomas A. Edwards, twice convicted of the Glen Burnie murders that shocked Maryland in 1948, was in the hands of the Court of Appeals again tonight.

For the second time in 16 months, the state's high court heard lawyers for the 26-year-old negro gardner demand that he be turned free.

It again heard prosecutors insist that Edwards be hanged for the bloody gun slayings of John Mahlan and Mary Kline, the youthful Glen Burnie couple who met death under a full moon the night of Sept. 17, 1948.

Unlike its first hearing early last year, the court today heard rape suggested as the most likely motive.

Assistant Attorney General Robert M. Thomas, making his first appearance in courtroom probing of one of the state's "most heinous crimes," propounded the rape theory. Little emphasis had been placed on a sex motivation in either of Edwards' two trials in Baltimore Criminal Court or his first appeal.

Thomas pointed to a state medical examiner's report, which found no traces of rape but noted the condition of the girl's body prevented a positive analysis. Torn underclothing also supported the theory, Thomas said.

Two of the six judges immediately expressed skepticism.

"There is very, very thin basis for that," Chief Judge Ogle Marbury said.

Thomas observed the killer may have been frightened by Miss Kline's screams and fired at her after shooting Mahlan.

"A most extraordinary kind of rape that starts out in cold blood by killing the man," Judge Charles Markell said.

The state added robbery as a conceivable motive. Mahlan's wallet has never been found.

Free Mail Bill OK'd

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—A bill to extend the free mail privilege for members of the armed forces, including the Coast Guard, was approved by the Senate Post Office Committee today.

The present law expires June 30.

testify on what was said at the White House.

Sen. Wiley brought up the question of the top-level meeting called to discuss the MacArthur situation.

"All right," Wiley said, "tell us what was said."

Bradley replied: "Senator, at that time I was in a position of a confidential adviser to the President. I do not feel at liberty to publicize what any of us said at that time."

Russell Upholds Bradley

Wiley turned to Sen. Russell and asked if Bradley should be required to answer.

After a lengthy discussion, Russell upheld Bradley by ruling "any matter that transpired in the private conversation between the President and the chief of staff (Bradley) xxx can be protected by the witness if he so desires."

Tonight, eight of the 12 Republicans on the joint inquiry committee met to discuss what should be done about Bradley's refusal to answer.

Wiley told reporters afterward that the group had decided to study the legal precedents overnight and meet again in the morning to decide a course.

If the recommendations should be to seek contempt proceeding, provided Bradley still refuses to answer, the matter then would be brought up for discussion by all 12 Republicans on the inquiry committee, Wiley said.

Wiley said he already has made up his mind that Bradley should be required to answer, but he said he would abide by the decision of the majority of the Republicans.

Thousands Of Toys Destroyed By Fire

MCMECHEN, W. Va., May 15 (AP) —Thousands of children's toys went up in flames today when fire swept the Marx Toy Manufacturing Co. warehouse here today.

A company official said the loss would be at least $1,000,000.

Fire companies from at least five communities in West Virginia and Ohio, across the Ohio River, battled the blaze which broke out about 4 a. m. (EST).

The warehouse, containing about 125,000 cartons of toys of the Christmas trade was destroyed along with two loaded freight cars.

100 Reported Killed Or Injured In Blast

Flintstone Club Has Program

The Flintstone Homemakers Club named delegates to the RWSC; had an imaginary trip to Scotland, and received announcements at the meeting Friday at the high school.

Mrs. Katie Oster and Mrs. R. O. Dolly were named delegates to short course, being held at the University of Maryland next month.

It was announced that a rug making demonstration will be held at the Flintstone High School, May 19.

Mrs. J. S. Roland, International Relations chairman, took the group in imagination on a tour of Scotland. She spoke of the "very clean, upright, generous and thrifty people," and the country that is only about twice the size of Maryland, which she pointed out is divided into the Uplands and the Lowlands, with most everyone belonging to a clan, distinguished by the plaids they wear. The speaker also touched on the castles, schools and religion, predominantly Presbyterian; their dances, "Highland Fling;" and the origin of the Airshire, Aberdeen, Angus and Galloway cows and the Clydsdale horse.

Following the talk Mrs. R. O. Dolly, and Mrs. Leah Twigg, Food chairmen, served scones and tea.

Highlights of the meeting of Clothing chairmen with Miss Helen Shelby, specialist from the university, were given by Miss Maude A. Bean and Mrs. B. C. Robinette. The former also reported on the table setting contest. The Music chairman, Mrs. Ruland Gilson, gave the story of the composer of the hymn of the month, "Faith of Our Fathers," and led the group singing of it. Mrs. Harry Bender presided and led the group in repeating the 23rd Psalm by Betty W. Stoffel and the group sang, "America the Beautiful."

A style show, in pageant form, followed by a Mother's Day program was planned by Mrs. Chester Robinette, Mrs. Howard Robinette and Miss Catherine Robinette. A box of candy was given to Mrs. Willie Robinette, the oldest mother present; one to Mrs. Howard Robinette the youngest; and one to Miss Maude A. Bean, "having the largest family."

Mrs. Victor G. Long, Bowman's Addition is a surgical patient in Memorial Hospital.

JUST MARRIED—Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lewis Warner are shown leaving St. Luke's Lutheran Church following their marriage, May 5. The bride is the former Miss Lucille Frances Creegan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Creegan, 608 Louisiana Avenue. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Warner, York, Pa. Behind them are Mrs. John C. Burdette, Jr., Baltimore, who was her cousin's matron of honor; Rev. H. Hall Sharp, who officiated at the ceremony; and Louis Ashby, Roanoke, Va., a former resident, who served as best man.

Delegates Are Named

Plans for the county and state conventions were formulated at the meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the LaVale Fire Company, recently at the fire hall.

The State convention is being held in Cumberland, June 20, 21 and 22. Delegates from the auxiliary named are Mrs. Flo Alexander, Mrs. Elva Schell, Mrs. Virginia Law, Mrs. Leona Long and Mrs. Edith Cessna.

June 7th is the date for the county convention, which is being held in Accident.

A rummage sale will be held May 24 in Cumberland, and anyone having any contributions to make is asked to leave them at the fire hall.

Girl Scout Troop 13 Has Investiture, Honor Court

International Program Given

Girl Scout Troop 13 had fly up ceremonies, an investiture, court of honor and International Friendship program at the meeting last evening at the Johnson Heights School.

The meeting opened with the pledge of Allegeance to the flag and everyone singing the National Anthem, with Mrs. Monroe MacKenzie at the piano and leading the singing.

Brownies flying up from Troop 34 were Vera Elaine MacKenzie, Betsy Bartlett and Carol Ann Dunlap. Two girls completed six years in Girl Scouting and had a fly up to the Senior Girl Scouts. They are Charleine Hornbrook and Patricia Weaver.

Twelve girls were invested into Troop 13. Charleine Hornbrook acted as master of ceremonies and read a poem dedicated to mothers. The girls invested were Barbara Shaffer, Doris Kalbaugh, Katherine Ayers, Shirley Bible, Helen Shelley, Gail Garlitz, Maxine Hudson, Brenda Johnson, Mary Callis, Sherry Breighner, Patricia Wheeler and Barbara Fisher.

During the Court of Honor every one of the 29 girls in the troop received badges and certificates earned during the year.

Gifts were presented to the three girls who had perfect attendance all year. They were Charleine Hornbrook, Mary Jane Howell and Elaine Martin.

An International Friendship program was presented under the direction of Mrs. Madeline Hornbrook, leader. The girls each in the official Girl Scout uniform of the country she represented were Janet Kessell, as a French Girl Guide; Gail Garlitz, Australian Girl Guide; Sherry Breighner, Canadian Girl Guide; Patricia Wheeler, India Girl Guide; and Mary Jane Howell, American Girl Scout.

Mrs. Roberta McFarland, executive director of the local Council, spoke on scouting. The girls sang the "Girl Scouts Together" and the program closed with Indian taps.

Refreshments were served by committeewomen, Mrs. Ember Johnson, Mrs. Alonzo Plummer, Mrs. Wilma Brown, Mrs. Robert Lewis, Mrs. Monroe MacKenzie and Mrs. William Bartlett.

Corriganville Pupils Giving "Cinderella"

Corriganville Elementary School will present the operetta "Cinderella" at the Reformed Church hall in Corriganville, Friday evening at 8 o'clock. The production is under the direction of the teachers of the school and music supervisors.

The cast for the two act production includes Carole Brashears as Cinderella; Paul Lohr, the prince; Shirley Turley, the godmother; Verna Hasselrode, step-mother; Margaret Harden and Bessie Foley, the step-sisters; Kenneth Taylor, the duke; and choruses of fairies, cupids, lords and ladies.

The production follows the well known fairy tale of Cinderella planning to go to the prince's ball with the help of her godmother, fairies and cupids; of her changing to the kitchen wench at midnight and the happy ending.

Opening the program will be selections by the primary band and a musical number by the boys glee club.

Plans for the banquet for the graduates will be completed at the meeting of the St. Mary's Mothers Club tomorrow night, and officers are to be installed.

A Mother's Day banquet will be held by the Excelsior Class of Grace Methodist Church tomorrow night at Central YMCA.

Allegany Beauticians Send Invitation To State Group

The Allegany County Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association extended an invitation to the state association at the meeting of the local group Monday night at Central YMCA, at which time Charles Ignozzi, Baltimore, president of the state group, was guest speaker. The state meeting will be held here, sometime in September.

Mrs. Eloise Ack presided and appointed three members to serve on the Legislative committee of the state association and attend the quarterly meetings, in Baltimore. They are Miss Nyna Fey, Mrs. Pauline Smith and Mrs. Virginia Powell.

A contribution of $5 was donated to the Cancer Fund and two new members were received. They are Mrs. Nancy Muir and Mrs. Anna Mary Stoudt. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Alice Sines and Miss Edith Crabtree. Reports of committees were given also. A group volunteered to go to the County Infirmary May 21.

Mr. Ignozzi talked on the amendment proposing shop owners attend meetings in Baltimore and also conducted a round table discussion on membership and ways and means of improving meetings.

Others attending were Mrs. Catherine Welton, Miss Ethel Henry, Mrs. Mabel Gross, Mrs. Pauline Smith, Mrs. Irene Critzman, Miss Fey, Mrs. Virginia Sunderlin, Mrs. Powell, Miss Elsie Henry and Mrs. Esther Smith.

Demonstrations in hooking rugs will be given at 1:30 p. m., Saturday in the Flintstone School by Mrs. James A. Morgan, Mrs. Mabel Shoemaker and Mrs. Chester Robinette. It is not necessary to be a club member to attend.

Girl Scout Troop 13 had fly up ceremonies, an investiture, court of honor and International Friendship program at the meeting last evening at the Johnson Heights School.

The meeting opened with the pledge of Allegeance to the flag and everyone singing the National Anthem, with Mrs. Monroe MacKenzie at the piano and leading the singing.

Brownies flying up from Troop 34 were Vera Elaine MacKenzie, Betsy Bartlett and Carol Ann Dunlap. Two girls completed six years in Girl Scouting and had a fly up to the Senior Girl Scouts. They are Charleine Hornbrook and Patricia Weaver.

Twelve girls were invested into Troop 13. Charleine Hornbrook acted as master of ceremonies and read a poem dedicated to mothers. The girls invested were Barbara Shaffer, Doris Kalbaugh, Katherine Ayers, Shirley Bible, Helen Shelley, Gail Garlitz, Maxine Hudson, Brenda Johnson, Mary Callis, Sherry Breighner, Patricia Wheeler and Barbara Fisher.

During the Court of Honor every one of the 29 girls in the troop received badges and certificates earned during the year.

Gifts were presented to the three girls who had perfect attendance all year. They were Charleine Hornbrook, Mary Jane Howell and Elaine Martin.

An International Friendship program was presented under the direction of Mrs. Madeline Hornbrook, leader. The girls each in the official Girl Scout uniform of the country she represented were Janet Kessell, as a French Girl Guide; Gail Garlitz, Australian Girl Guide; Sherry Breighner, Canadian Girl Guide; Patricia Wheeler, India Girl Guide; and Mary Jane Howell, American Girl Scout.

Mrs. Roberta McFarland, executive director of the local Council, spoke on scouting. The girls sang the "Girl Scouts Together" and the program closed with Indian taps.

Refreshments were served by committeewomen, Mrs. Ember Johnson, Mrs. Alonzo Plummer, Mrs. Wilma Brown, Mrs. Robert Lewis, Mrs. Monroe MacKenzie and Mrs. William Bartlett.

Corriganville Pupils Giving "Cinderella"

Corriganville Elementary School will present the operetta "Cinderella" at the Reformed Church hall in Corriganville, Friday evening at 8 o'clock. The production is under the direction of the teachers of the school and music supervisors.

The cast for the two act production includes Carole Brashears as Cinderella; Paul Lohr, the prince; Shirley Turley, the godmother; Verna Hasselrode, step-mother; Margaret Harden and Bessie Foley, the step-sisters; Kenneth Taylor, the duke; and choruses of fairies, cupids, lords and ladies.

The production follows the well known fairy tale of Cinderella planning to go to the prince's ball with the help of her godmother, fairies and cupids; of her changing to the kitchen wench at midnight and the happy ending.

Opening the program will be selections by the primary band and a musical number by the boys glee club.

Plans for the banquet for the graduates will be completed at the meeting of the St. Mary's Mothers Club tomorrow night, and officers are to be installed.

A Mother's Day banquet will be held by the Excelsior Class of Grace Methodist Church tomorrow night at Central YMCA.

Allegany Beauticians Send Invitation To State Group

The Allegany County Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association extended an invitation to the state association at the meeting of the local group Monday night at Central YMCA, at which time Charles Ignozzi, Baltimore, president of the state group, was guest speaker. The state meeting will be held here, sometime in September.

Mrs. Eloise Ack presided and appointed three members to serve on the Legislative committee of the state association and attend the quarterly meetings, in Baltimore. They are Miss Nyna Fey, Mrs. Pauline Smith and Mrs. Virginia Powell.

A contribution of $5 was donated to the Cancer Fund and two new members were received. They are Mrs. Nancy Muir and Mrs. Anna Mary Stoudt. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Alice Sines and Miss Edith Crabtree. Reports of committees were given also. A group volunteered to go to the County Infirmary May 21.

Mr. Ignozzi talked on the amendment proposing shop owners attend meetings in Baltimore and also conducted a round table discussion on membership and ways and means of improving meetings.

Others attending were Mrs. Catherine Welton, Miss Ethel Henry, Mrs. Mabel Gross, Mrs. Pauline Smith, Mrs. Irene Critzman, Miss Fey, Mrs. Virginia Sunderlin, Mrs. Powell, Miss Elsie Henry and Mrs. Esther Smith.

Demonstrations in hooking rugs will be given at 1:30 p. m., Saturday in the Flintstone School by Mrs. James A. Morgan, Mrs. Mabel Shoemaker and Mrs. Chester Robinette. It is not necessary to be a club member to attend.

WASHINGTON

THERE'S plenty of crabbing about the free-spending government.... That it throws money right and left. . . . Also left and right. . . . And back and front. . . . But I have fouhd that most individuals, even in Washington, have some thrifty habits. . . . I started collecting "pet economies" after a newsgal pal, Hope Ridings Miller, first pointed out that some of the richest and most important persons in town are misers in small ways. . . . Even those notoriously extravagant with the government's money are stingy with themselves.

JUSTICE WILLIAM O. DOUGLAS is no spendthrift and neither is his wife. . . . Among other pet economies, she invariably saves all Christmas wrapping paper. "I always put it away until next year and use it again." . . . MRS. OMAR BRADLEY makes the G.I.'s General write on both sides of bridge pads. "I also save old invitations, to write notes on the backs."

All kinds of invitations and announcements and circulars are hoarded by MRS. FRANCIS BIDDLE, wife of the former Attorney General. . . . She uses the backs for writing notes — on poetry. . . . And her husband economizes by doing all the minor repairing and painting on their house.

MRS. CLARK HOWELL, wife of the Atlanta Constitution publisher, saves string and ribbon off presents. . . . Later she presses out the ribbon to use on her own presents.

EVIE ROBERTS' pet economy is pocketbooks. . . . "If I ever have a decent pocketbook, somebody buys it for me," says the wife of the former secretary of the National Democratic Committee.

MARRINER ECCLES member of the Federal Reserve Board, is a genius at figuring out ways to save money. . . . In private life he says he saves "golf strokes—and I waste far too many of them."

MRS. WALTER GEORGE, "Miss Lucy" as her Senator husband still fondly calls her, hates to throw away a nice-looking box. . . Keeps them around for six months or so. . . . Suspects they're fire hazards, but keeps them anyhow.

When JUSTIN MILLER, until recently president of the National Association of Broadcasters, vacations at his California estate, he works from dawn 'til dusk in his garden. . . . The weeds take over when he's away because the millionaire thinks a professional gardener is "sheer extravagance."

MRS. J. HOWARD McGRATH is another economist on boxes and ribbons. . . . Stores them on her third floor until she can use them again.

The price of nylons gives Madame Minister PERLE MESTA a sharp pain in the purse. . . . SEN. ROBERT TAFT saves — on socks . . . . He never throws away a pair that can be darned.

Another sock saver, MRS. JOSEPH FARRINGTON, wife of the Delegate from Hawaii, "can't bear not to mend men's socks."

MRS. LOWELL STOCKMAN saves time and money setting her own hair. . . . This wife of a Congressman from Oregon and both of her daughters give each other home permanents. . . . MRS. FRED VINSON shampoos and waves her own hair, too.

Every four years, GEORGE ALLEN, the former White House jester, argues with himself, "Will I have to buy a new pair of striped trousers for inauguration?" . . . The ones he got back in early New Deal days split out every four years but periodically he tries to squeeze into them rather than invest again.

U. S. Treasurer GEORGIA NEESE CLARK hates to throw away any food. . . . Has her wardrobe made by a "little dressmaker" but her pet economy is saving paper bags.

SEN. HOMER FERGUSON will make any number of excuses to keep from having his car washed. . . . And his wife says she "never buys a new umbrella."

MRS. CHARLES BRANNAN always saves turkey carcasses — gives the Secretary of Agriculture the best soup this side of heaven. . . . Does her own canning as well, and specializes in pepper relish and cranberry jelly.

MRS. STYLES BRIDGES refuses to have a cook, or an interior decorator. . . . But insists her real pet economy is government expenditures.

Connecticut's First Lady, MRS. JOHN DAVIS LODGE, saves elastic bands and hairpins. "I use the elastic bands for my braids. Also, I always sit on my old hats, throw them around and punch them to see if I can give them a different look."

But MRS. RUSSELL LONG beats all. . . . The Louisiana Senatorial lady drawls prettily, "Ah save everything — I jes hay-et to throw anything away!"

With an adequate wardrobe of planned accessories you can accept any spur-of-the-moment invitation!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

HOW DO YOU BUY your accessories? By inspiration or by plan?

If you wait until you receive an intriguing invitation to go dinner-dancing before you buy a swish, dress-up accessory to turn your basic black into a glamor frock, you may find yourself "busting" your budget unnecessarily. Too often a hasty purchase only plays a one-night stand. You discover that it's a poor makeshift for a perfectly chosen accessory.

A much less expensive and more effective way of making quick changes in the appearance of your basic clothes is by anticipating accessory needs and acquiring them with careful thought.

Seasonal Accessories

Right now, for instance, a glimpse at today's date should be warning enough that the first real summery day is near. When it arrives, your current crop of spring accessories will look one season behind. The bunch of mimosa you've been wearing on the lapel of your suit won't look so jaunty in June, the month of roses. The heavily-dotted veiling with which you've been swathing your head to glamorize your black dress will look and feel something like a horse banket when the temperature rises.

Don't wait! Take inventory of your present accessories to decide which must be replaced for summertime. Determine which of your basic clothes you will wear during the summer and for what occasions. Then plan the necessary accessories — and go out and find the ones that will best serve your needs.

By starting now you will have a whole month in which to seek the ones that will be just right — those that will never fail to provide a lift for your clothes, your spirits and your looks, everytime you wear them.

Fashion in Accessories

Before starting your search, consider the accessories which are slated for a long summer run: The open pink rose; starchy, pique bows and gloves in gold or white; crisp lengths of maline to halo your head; handsome, jeweled belts; delicate flower earbobs; gauzy stoles.

The woman of fashion knows that an exquisitely chosen accessory can double the value of any basic costume. Two can triple it. In this day of spiraling prices, it's a good thing to know!

Ancient Hindu Shrine Rebuilt Seventh Time

BOMBAY, India — (AP) — One of Hinduism's ancient and most sacred shrines—the Somnath Temple dedicated to the moon god Siva—was open again to pilgrims today in the small coastal town of Patan after its seventh restoration.

India's President Rajendra Prasad opened the temple, believed first to have been built at the beginning of the Christian era, in a colorful ceremony Friday. The booming of 101 guns and the chanting of "long live Somnath" by 60,000 worshipers accentuated the ceremony.

The dedication was climaxed by the installation of a seven-and-one-half-foot phallic image of black and grey marble called the "Jyotir Lingam," representing the reproductive powers of the moon god.

All last week, Brahmin priests held non-stop religious ceremonies preparing for the installation of the "Lingam" inside the nine-story temple.

As the black and grey column was placed on a 12-foot plinth in the sanctum sanctorum, clays from the Andes, the Alps, the Rocky Mountains and other great mountain ranges were smeared on it. Then water from the seven seas, the Grand Canyon, the Tigris, Yangtse and other great rivers was sprinkled over it.

Thousands of pilgrims arrived by special trains and chartered planes to take part in the rites. Huge kitchens were set up. Mounds of non-rationed food were stocked to feed the multitude and four-foot-deep caldrons were built to hold vegetable curries.

President Prasad told the throng the restoration of the temple — which took five years and cost 20,000,000 rupees ($4,200,000)—represented India's desire for complete religious tolerance, and not any desire for the reestablishment of the old political and social conditions.

The impressive temple, with its many carved images, was first destroyed in 1026 by Mahmud of Ghazni, a Moslem ruler whose hodes swept through the land of the rajahs. It was restored and destroyed several times. It was first believed to have been made of gold, then silver, then wood and finally stone.

The town in which the Somnath Temple stands was originally called Comanatha Patan and was mentioned by Marco Polo in the 13th century and by other famous chroniclers as an important trade center.

Following the dedication ceremonies, a new world academy for the study of Sanskirt and Indian culture was inaugurated by Purshotamadas Tandon, president of the ruling Congress Party. The bearded Tandon told about 200 Sanskirt scholars that India's salvation lay in the revival of her ancient culture.

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)—WE SURVIVE in Korea for a number of reasons, and not the least of these is a rugged, two-fisted aircraft pioneer named Croil Hunter. He kept open a vital aerial avenue to that ravaged land.

He heads up a good airline named Northwest, now 25 years old and the first to fly out of the U. S. (to Canada) and one of the first to carry the mail.

Airlines in general have taken on an unusual role in the pattern of the United States since coming of age. They are a pool of know-how without which we could no longer meet the emergencies forced upon us by tension and war in the air age.

Hunter, for instance, made the modifications in the B-25 bombers used by Jimmy Doolittle on his still incredible raid on Tokyo, nine years and a month ago. Without those modifications, born of years of airline operation and the need of knowing how to make a plane fly as far as possible on the gasoline it could lift, the heart of the Japanese empire could not have been hit at a time when the free world needed this rousing lift of its morale.

Northwest also re-shaped standard B-24 Liberators into long-range camera planes which were used as trail-blazers before such crucial wartime raids as the one on the Ploesti oil fields, which drained Hitler's crankcase, and the raids on Schweinfurt, which took away the ball-bearings he needed for his war machine.

During World War II, Northwest, just to mention one of the commercial airlines which rendered tremendous service, jumped its personnel from 800 workers to 10,000. It created the tanker planes that flew the Hump to keep the fighting lamps of China glowing until the Army built pipe lines from India to gas up that blockaded country.

Hunter seemed a hopeless visionary in the late 1930's when he applied for a "Northwest Passage" route to the Orient. Sure, Col. Lindbergh and his wife had flown that route and reported favorably on it. But in the public's eye the Lindberghs were fathered by Pegasus and had nothing to do with the human species which rode in airplanes as passengers.

As war came to us, from the Far East, we knew that the framework of Hunter's commercial line up through Alaska, out along the Aleutians and down into the Orient was a priceless piece of pioneering. It was about 2,000 precious miles shorter than the West Coast-Hawaii-Wake route.

• — • — •

On Northwest's private enterprise the Army Air Force built a mammoth chain of bases, costing perhaps more than a billion dollars.

But after the Japs had been routed from those areas, and we had used them to supply our believed ally Russia, and the a-bomb had ended the business in the Far East, the cost of keeping the bases in operation became too prohibitive for the money-short Air Force.

It began to close shop, even to the point of destroying shop and runways so painfully built — to keep them from falling into the hands of a potential enemy who might strike from that point of the globe.

Hunter went into Washington swinging both dukes. He saved this field and that one, leased them from the government, kept them tidy, and along came the end of June, 1950, and the Korean war — with all its urgent needs for supplies by air.

Since the Korean eruption, Northwest has been operating an air lift which pales the historic Berlin air lift. It has carried mountains of arms, supplies, medicine, spare parts and vital personnel to the battlefront, over a once-disputed route which now plainly shows that it saves 4,000 miles on a roundtrip. It hasn't lost a ship or a life.

Oxygen Mask For Airline Passengers Costs 40 Cents

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

DENVER—(AP)—A 40-cent oxygen mask for airline passengers was announced to the Aero Medical Association today.

It is light as a handkechief, you can talk with it on, and if you don't use it you can keep it as a souvenir, or throw it away. The airline makes it a present, free.

A small box containing the first 40 masks was on exhibition here, along with the scientific paper announcing this new step in passenger flying. The mask is for use in a pressurized plane, if pressure is accidentally lost at high altitude. That risk has been worrying the aviation world, because without masks which they can put on almost instantly, passengers will get little air to breathe during the minutes the plane takes to drop to a level where there is good air.

The report was by Dr. Arnold L. Tuttle, medical director United Airlines, Chicago, Dr. John P. Marberger, University of Illinois at Chicago, and Dr. Uhlrich C. Luft, U. S. Air Force School of Aviation Medicine, Randolph Field, Texas.

The cheaper oxygen masks have up to now cost about 15 dollars each. The new mask is a white semi-transparent plastic. It is shaped just like a little feed bag. It looks like one when worn. It slips on as easily as a Halloween mask, and in the same way, with an elastic that goes around the back of your head.

The top rim of the bag has a light aluminum metal strip that you push with your fingers to fit over nose and cheeks. At the bottom of that bag is a connector which you stick into the plane's oxygen tube alongside your seat.

There is only one size. The doctors said it fits a baby as easily as an adult, and as quickly. There are no valves, and no change required in breathing. Two almost invisible holes in the bag let out the carbon dioxide as it is exhaled from your lungs.

The mask is made by the Ohio Chemical and Surgical Equipment Co., a division of Air Reduction Company, at Cleveland Ohio. The company representative said that aviation companies have ordered masks as soon as they can be made in quantity.

Investigate Complaints

Hitchcock emphasized that any residents who have complaints on dustfall are urged to telephone or write to the smoke abatement office.

He said that a thorough investigation has been made by himself or a member of his staff in every complaint that has been brought to the attention of the department.

The office and our records, he added, are open for public inspection at all times.

Hitchcock added that citizens may be more conscious of the present dustfall since it is a lighter type of dust and is more obvious than the older and heavier type.

There are spotty area in the city, he added, citing both local hospitals, but progress is being made.

Contract negotiations will be discussed at a membership meeting of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the union hall.

Playford Aldridge, president, said the union will probably call a special meeting before June 9, when a 60-day notice of intentions of modifying the contract must be submitted.

He said contract talks must open within 10 days after the notice is sent.

Boy Struck On Head

Ronald Whetsell, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Whetsell, 609 Lincoln Street, was admitted to Memorial Hospital last night about 9:25 o'clock after being struck on the head by a thrown ball at Pennsylvania Avenue field. Hospital attaches said the youth was unconscious when brought to the hospital but regained his senses shortly afterwards.

The boy was admitted for observation and x-rays and his condition was listed as good by authorities.

Whetsell a member of the Kiwanis Hot Stove League team was practicing in the outfield when a transformer shorted and the lights went out. The ball was thrown in the darkness by a teammate.

outlying sections want to tie into the system they can do so as the plant will have sufficient handling capacity.

Hall stated yesterday it now is estimated that a service charge of about $2.60 per capita would be required to handle Cumberland's program alone. If county areas were included the service charge would drop to about $2.20 per capita.

Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., appeared before the board after Hall left to ascertain some features of the plan. He said that many inquiries were noted from residents along George's Creek who were disturbed over the possibility of increased county taxes if the program were adopted outside Cumberland.

Pricing Experts Will Visit Here

Pricing experts from the Maryland Office of Price Stabilization will be here Thursday and Friday to assist area businessmen in problems resulting from OPS ceiling price regulations.

The men, J. Raymond Rodgers and George Osterman, will set up temporary offices in City Hall Auditorium all day Thursday beginning at 10:30 a. m. and from 7 to 9 p. m. that evening, according to William H. Buchholtz, chairman of the local OPS advisory committee.

On Friday, the pricing experts will be on duty from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., when they will leave for Oakland, where a meeting is scheduled Friday night in the William James Hotel.

that area were good during April, with a 2.92 reading at SS. Peter and Paul School; 2.03 at Fairmont Lane, 0.80 at Allegany High School, 2.15 in the Dingle and 0.59 at the Ridgedale Avenue reservoir, the lowest dustfall area on the West Side.

Investigate Complaints

Hitchcock emphasized that any residents who have complaints on dustfall are urged to telephone or write to the smoke abatement office.

He said that a thorough investigation has been made by himself or a member of his staff in every complaint that has been brought to the attention of the department.

The office and our records, he added, are open for public inspection at all times.

Hitchcock added that citizens may be more conscious of the present dustfall since it is a lighter type of dust and is more obvious than the older and heavier type.

There are spotty area in the city, he added, citing both local hospitals, but progress is being made.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Ridgedale Playground Association will meet today at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Rose Diehl, 819 Mann's Terrace.

Lindsay F. Phares, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Phares, 529 Patterson Avenue, has been accepted for enrollment with the Freshman Class this fall at Davis and Elkins College, Elkins, W. Va. Phares will graduate in June from Allegany High School.

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the Junior Association of Commerce will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Jaycee office, Liberty Trust Building.

Robert L. Troxell, 223 Fayette Street, was among 238 senior students named on the class honor list at the annual Honors and Awards Day convocation last Friday at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio.

TWUA Will Discuss Contract Changes

Contract negotiations will be discussed at a membership meeting of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the union hall.

Playford Aldridge, president, said the union will probably call a special meeting before June 9, when a 60-day notice of intentions of modifying the contract must be submitted.

He said contract talks must open within 10 days after the notice is sent.

Boy Struck On Head

Ronald Whetsell, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Whetsell, 609 Lincoln Street, was admitted to Memorial Hospital last night about 9:25 o'clock after being struck on the head by a thrown ball at Pennsylvania Avenue field. Hospital attaches said the youth was unconscious when brought to the hospital but regained his senses shortly afterwards.

The boy was admitted for observation and x-rays and his condition was listed as good by authorities.

Whetsell a member of the Kiwanis Hot Stove League team was practicing in the outfield when a transformer shorted and the lights went out. The ball was thrown in the darkness by a teammate.

State Official

John Adams, Wiley Ford, W. Va., forfeited $26.45 bond yesterday on a charge of unauthorized use of an automobile owned by the Second National Bank. Authorities said the car was taken Saturday night from the Alexander Service Station, South Centre Street, where Adams was employed. The vehicle was recovered on a local parking lot with the right rear fender and back bumper smashed.

Kelly Run-Off Election Slated

Local 26, Rubber Workers Union (CIO), will hold a run-off election Thursday at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant.

Four Executive Board members, one member of the Labor-Management committee and one member of the Policy committee will be elected.

L. G. Jenkins, chairman of the election committee, said voting will be held Thursday from 6 to 8 a. m.; 2 to 4 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to midnight.

Certified for the run-off were:

Executive Board—James P. Farrell, Earl Harrison, A. J. Jenkins, Delton Johnson, Albert Lynch, B. O. Shaffer, Earl Thompson and F. W. Warnick.

Policy committee—Lester Fatkin and Stanley Zorick.

Labor-Management committee—C. G. Arnold and Paul Ritter.

outlying sections want to tie into the system they can do so as the plant will have sufficient handling capacity.

Hall stated yesterday it now is estimated that a service charge of about $2.60 per capita would be required to handle Cumberland's program alone. If county areas were included the service charge would drop to about $2.20 per capita.

Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., appeared before the board after Hall left to ascertain some features of the plan. He said that many inquiries were noted from residents along George's Creek who were disturbed over the possibility of increased county taxes if the program were adopted outside Cumberland.

A-Bomb Film To Be Shown At Cresaptown

Local 261, International Chemical Workers Union, will present a showing of the new Civil Defense film, "You Can Beat The A-Bomb," at 9 p. m. today in the Cresaptown Fire Hall.

Byron H. Kiser, Jr., local program director, said the film is being offered as a part of the public safety program of the Western Maryland Safety Council.

The film is considered the best information on defense against the A-bomb.

Rev. J. W. Russell Appointed Pastor

The Rev. W. Joyce Russell, formerly assistant pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church here, has been appointed pastor of the newly-created St. Catherine Labourne parish in Montgomery county (Maryland) by the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, archbishop of Washington.

Boundaries of the new parish have not been finally determined, but the church property is located at Viers Mill and Claridge roads.

Father Russell, who assumed his duties Sunday, has been pastor of St. Francis de Sales Church, Benedict, Md., since leaving St. Mary's here in 1946. He was transferred to the Archdiocese of Washington after formerly serving in the Archdiocese of Baltimore.

Father Russell is a brother of the Most Rev. John J. Russell, bishop of Charleston, S. C., and former pastor of St. Patrick's and Nativity parishes in Washington.

A Millionaire For A Couple Of Days

THERE was a character out west several years ago who, I think, was Death Valley Scotty and who wanted to be a millionaire for a week. As I recall it, he hired a private train and asked a few friends to go along as his guests, with the sky as the limit. Recently, this writer was invited to St. Catherine's Island off the coast of Georgia by its owner, Ed Noble, for a couple of days.

"How do we get there?" I asked him.

"We fly," he answered. A little later came a letter with instructions to be at the Newark Airport, Gate I, to take off at ten-thirty.

Always punctual, I got there 15 minutes early and found the owner of the plane and Hugh Baillie, president of the United Press, waiting. It turned out, because of unexpected big business, the proprietor of the aircraft could not go, so he turned the ship over to us, adding generously.

"Make yourselves at home. There is a bar on board, and it's yours over the weekend. If you don't like where you're going, fly somewhere else."

We thanked him, the man slammed the door, and my companion and I settled ourselves comfortably, as the motors started, and we taxied for a takeoff. Here we were just two in this big comfortable vehicle, with a captain, a co-pilot, and a cabin attendant. Talk about being a millionaire for a day or two! We even had stools for our feet.

Our first stop was Washington where we picked up Dr. John Oliver La Gorce, editor of the National Geographic Magazine, and headed for Savannah. When I left, I had a cane for utilitarian purposes and a diet for the gout, from which I had been suffering, in my pocket as well as some pills.

That's a fine thing to start off on a trip like this one with the gout, so I stuck to the rules until we left Washington, and then threw the food chart in the ash can, as I ordered a Scotch and soda. I still kept the pills. We arrived in Savannah 20 minutes after the No. 2 company which had flown straight for Teterboro in the converted bomber belonging to Roy Howard, the newspaper publisher. His caste included Gene Tunney, John Reed Kilpatrick, Bernard Gimbel, William Zeckendorf, a real estate man, and Bill Robinson. Mr. Z made the deal for the United Nations site with Mr. Rockefeller.

Our host met us at the airport with a Greyhound bus carrying a crew of two in which we ambled 45 miles to the dock and tested the acoustics en route. We could have used a couple of introverts in the crowd. This was followed by a boat ride of an hour until we finally dismounted on the island. It has 25,000 acres, is 14 miles long, has a beautiful old mansion, and is populated mostly by black angus cattle, alligators, and mosquitoes.

On the way back from fishing the first day, the caretaker's wife rushed out with a telegram for General Kilpatrick which he read with a solemn expression on his pan and stuck in his pocket without comment. That evening I heard Gene Tunney say to Gimbel,

"Was there any bad news in that message Reed got today?"

"I don't know," answered the other.

At dinner, the former heavyweight champion brought up the telegram again and seemed to have a suspiciously detailed knowledge of its contents. It turned out the message was signed by Ned Irish, one of Kilpatrick's assistants at Madison Square Garden, and warned it was reported the Cardinal was going to forbid the basketball teams of any Catholic school or college playing in the big arena next year because of the recent scandal. It urged the General to try to do something about the matter.

We later found by shrewd cross-examination Mr. Tunney had arranged to send the wire before we left New York which he does occasionally to stir things up. He has done the same thing rather successfully before as when he telegraphed one of two bitter enemies of 20 years' standing signing the other's name suggesting he let bygones be bygones. The surprised party of the first part got an indignant reply, saying he did not want to make up. So if you should happen to receive a telegram inviting you to appear before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee, signed by Senator Herbert R. O'Conor, the new chairman, you had better check to be sure it isn't Tunney pulling your leg.

There's an old saying that "fish and house guests smell after two days." Our host, wearing a relieved expression on his pan, said goodbye and rather faintly added we should make it an annual party. Then he went inside to help clean up the debris. We flew home in style, and I stepped out of the plane at the Westchester County Airport and back into this workaday world, with no symptoms of gout.

New Home Given To Blind Marine

LAKEWOOD, N. J. (AP)—A marine named Ray Marine, who was blinded by Japanese bullets on Iwo Jima, was given a $23,000 home this week by grateful townspeople of Lakewood.

By his side was his fiancee, Mary Jane Shafto. They will be married June 2 and move into the six-room, white frame house on a shady residential street.

The home was built by donations of nickels and dimes and dollars and the labor of many carpenters and builders on weekends. Dealers in material from Long Branch to Barnegat gave the lumber and nails and plaster.

The fund was started by Ocean County Judge Harry E. Newman, publisher of the Lakewood Daily Times. Before long $6,300 had come in to the newspaper and a trust fund was set up.

About 300 persons came to the dedication ceremonies. The trustees of the fund were there, representatives of local veterans groups, county and local officials.

Representatives from the Lakehurst Naval Air Station transmitted the message from the Navy: "Well done."

Finally 25-year-old Raymond Marine mounted the steps of the front porch of his home which he has never seen.

He accepted the key and held it over his head. In a voice choked with emotion, he said:

"When you are asked why we are fighting today, here is your answer."

Plymouth's New "Safety-Flow Ride" Takes Bounce Out of Bumps

MOTION PICTURES made by our engineers show how little the new Plymouth goes up and down when passing over a bump, compared to cars that do not have the new "Safety-Flow Ride." New Oriflow shock absorbers, along with balanced weight distribution, synchronized springing, and other engineering features, hold the car closer to a level plane. They give Plymouth the riding qualities of a car weighing a thousand pounds more, in the opinion of Tom McCahill, automotive expert, writing in Mechanix Illustrated.

OUR TEST DRIVERS repeatedly drove the new Plymouth across ditches and deep holes. Instead of the terrific pitching and tossing you'd expect, the car absorbed the impact and stayed under easy control.

"SAFETY-FLOW RIDE" IS SO STEADY, even on rough roads, that you don't worry about giving rear seat passengers a toss or thump. This means peace of mind as well as bodily comfort. It's relaxed and restful—a completely new experience in riding comfort.

HEADS UP! With "Safety-Flow Ride" you can forget about the condition of the road immediately in front of the car and give your entire attention to oncoming traffic, pedestrians, and intersections ahead.

City To Investigate Alley Light Complaint

The Mayor and Council told a Columbia Avenue man it will investigate his complaint concerning the lack of light and unsanitary conditions near his home.

Joseph Seifers, 840 Columbia Avenue, asked that a light be placed in the alley at the rear of his home.

He said he asked for the light eight months ago but had received no answer.

Mayor Thomas S. Post promised that Commissioner George H. Tederick will check on the matter.

He also complained that dirt from sewers was being dumped in the area, constituting a health menace to the children.

Red Sox Take Little League Opener In 8th

Frank Toler Pitches No-Hitter Against PE

The electric power failed twice as the 1951 Little League and Hot Stove League season got under way last night at Penn Avenue Field but two of the three games were completed as a crowd of approximately 800 looked on.

In the Little League lid lifter, the Red Sox won an overtime slugfest from the Pirates by the score of 16-13.

Campbell and Hines of the Red Sox hit homers.

The game went two extra innings and was decided to the 8th frame.

Due to the power failure, believed to have been caused by the additional lights having too much "drag" on the line, the Hot Stove League opener didn't get under way until 9:30. With the Kiwanis and Optimists tied at 1-1 in the second inning it was decided to halt hostilities and continue play from that point at some other time. At 10 o'clock deadline was set because the boys are of school age.

Frank Toler, former Wellersburg ace, pitched a no-run, no-hit contest as Hercules Powder defeated Potomac Edison in an Industrial Softball League contest, third and final on the program. The score was 7-0.

Toler fanned 15 while Hayden Phillips of P. E. whfifed seven.

Three games are scheduled for today.

The Cardinals and Giants of the Little League will play at 6:15 followed by a game between the Athletics and Senators at 7:30. Kelly-Springfield will meet C. & P. Telephone Company in an Industrial Softball League contest at 9 o'clock. Score:

HERCULES .......... 100 060 0—7 4 2
P. E. ................ 000 000 0—0 0 6

Toler and Cassidy. Phillips and Caldwell.

Mike Mulvey's two-run triple in the top of the 7th inning enabled the F. O. Eagles to defeat the Loyal Order of Moose yesterday at Fort Hill Field for their fourth straight win in the Rocking Chair Softball League. The score was 3-2.

Mulvey's blow broke up a mound duel between Allan Sheetz and "Fats" Weltman.

Harry Minnicks was the Moose team's batting star with a homer, double and single to his credit. Lou Riehl hammered a pair of two-baggers to pace the Eagles.

Bill Underdonk notched his 4th straight win by pitching the Elks to a 7-2 decision over the winless Amvets.

Junior Hardy led the winners with a double and home to deep left field and Underdonk helped his cause with two singles. Roy Whiteman also rapped two safeties. The Amvets' infield executed three double plays and Schoenadel accounted for two of the losers' six hits.

The Outdoor Club marked up eight runs in the first stanza to wallop the Knights of Columbus at East Side, 9 to 1. Bill Dean led the winners at the plate with a pair of two-base clouts. Jim Morrison was the victor. The scores:

| LaSalle | 2 | 6 | .250 |

Beall High School completed the first half of its Bi-State Baseball Conference schedule with an unblemished record by registering its 7th triumph yesterday at the expense of Allegany High School at Campobello. The score was 4-1.

Enardo Arnone, Beall's star portsider, held the Campers to a double and two singles, struck out four and defeated Ronnie Sisk in a mound duel to notch his 6th conference triumph of the current campaign. Arnone has fanned 65 batters in six games.

Beall sewed up the game in the first inning by scoring two runs. Coach Ed Finzel's defending champions added single tallies in the 3rd and 5th stanzas.

George Miller was the Frostburg team's batting star with a triple and double to his credit in five trips.

Central Upsets Bruce

Beall increased its lead to three full games when Central upset the runner-up Bruce High nine in an 11-inning thriller at Midland Ball Park by the score of 4-3.

Kenneth Burt, pinch-hitting for Nightengale in the 11th singled through short to score Tommy Kelly with the run that gave the decision to Jack Brodie over Bobby Raines in a slab duel.

Kelly beat out a bunt, stole second base and after two out, Burt delivered the winning wallop in the clutch.

Don McKenzie garnered three of the nine hits yielded by Raines who suffered his first loss after four straight wins. The Bruce twirler fanned 15, upping his season's total to 72.

Marple and Fazenbaker shared four of Bruce High's seven hits yielded by Brodie who whiffed nine while posting his initial win of the campaign.

Hyndman Wins Another

Coach Ed McVicker's Hyndman High nine extended its winning streak to four games by handing LaSalle its 6th consecutive setback at Hyndman, 12 to 1. The Explorers have scored only three runs in their last three conference tilts. Hyndman has racked up 36 runs in the last three contests at the expense of Fort Hill, Bruce and LaSalle pitchers.

"Duck" Buskirk made his record 4-2 for the season and shared batting honors with Clay Leldig, top hitter in the circuit, each player getting four-for-four. Leydig, incidentally, sent his batting average soaring to .679—19 hits in 28 trips to the plate. Cunningham collected two of LaSalle's seven hits. Doug Connolly was the loser.

Barton Spills Sentinels

Fort Hill's Sentinels suffered their 4th straight league loss at the hands of Barton High School at Barton, 5 to 3.

Coach Johnny Thomas' Braves put the game on ice in a hurry by scoring four runs in the opening frame. "Tim" Clark and Paul Bailey double and singled to drive in two runs each.

Dickel fanned 12 Barton batsmen while Clark threw the third strike past 10 Sentinels.

Fort Hill threatened in the last frame when Cage tripled and Frye walked but Clark struck out Lewis and Eckard and forced Ritter to pop up.

McGregor and Ronnie Cage collected five of the losers' eight hits, both of the latter's blows being triples.

Red Sox Take Little League Opener In 8th

Frank Toler Pitches No-Hitter Against PE

The electric power failed twice as the 1951 Little League and Hot Stove League season got under way last night at Penn Avenue Field but two of the three games were completed as a crowd of approximately 800 looked on.

In the Little League lid lifter, the Red Sox won an overtime slugfest from the Pirates by the score of 16-13.

Campbell and Hines of the Red Sox hit homers.

The game went two extra innings and was decided to the 8th frame.

Due to the power failure, believed to have been caused by the additional lights having too much "drag" on the line, the Hot Stove League opener didn't get under way until 9:30. With the Kiwanis and Optimists tied at 1-1 in the second inning it was decided to halt hostilities and continue play from that point at some other time. At 10 o'clock deadline was set because the boys are of school age.

Frank Toler, former Wellersburg ace, pitched a no-run, no-hit contest as Hercules Powder defeated Potomac Edison in an Industrial Softball League contest, third and final on the program. The score was 7-0.

Toler fanned 15 while Hayden Phillips of P. E. whfifed seven.

Three games are scheduled for today.

The Cardinals and Giants of the Little League will play at 6:15 followed by a game between the Athletics and Senators at 7:30. Kelly-Springfield will meet C. & P. Telephone Company in an Industrial Softball League contest at 9 o'clock. Score:

Mike Mulvey's two-run triple in the top of the 7th inning enabled the F. O. Eagles to defeat the Loyal Order of Moose yesterday at Fort Hill Field for their fourth straight win in the Rocking Chair Softball League. The score was 3-2.

Mulvey's blow broke up a mound duel between Allan Sheetz and "Fats" Weltman.

Harry Minnicks was the Moose team's batting star with a homer, double and single to his credit. Lou Riehl hammered a pair of two-baggers to pace the Eagles.

Bill Underdonk notched his 4th straight win by pitching the Elks to a 7-2 decision over the winless Amvets.

The Elks gathered 12 hits off the slants of Angellatta and Delbrugge.

Junior Hardy led the winners with a double and home to deep left field and Underdonk helped his cause with two singles. Roy Whiteman also rapped two safeties. The Amvets' infield executed three double plays and Schoenadel accounted for two of the losers' six hits.

The Outdoor Club marked up eight runs in the first stanza to wallop the Knights of Columbus at East Side, 9 to 1. Bill Dean led the winners at the plate with a pair of two-base clouts. Jim Morrison was the victor. The scores:

Giants Lose To Pirates

25,838 See Buccos Grab 7-3 Decision

PITTSBURGH, May 15 (AP) — George Strickland's bat hammered out two homers and a single, drove in five runs and gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 7-3 victory over the New York Giants before a crowd of 25,838 tonight at Forbes Field.

Bill Werle, getting his first chance to start when other probable hurlers reported sore arms, gave up only two hits in the first five scoreless innings. Then the Giants landed on him like an avalanche, slapping him for five hits, including Bobby Thomson's homer and Rafael Noble's double. Werle yielded to Vernon Law, who gave up only two hits in the last three innings. Score:

Jackets Swamp Vikings, 27-5

Moorefield Scores Ninth P.V.C. Win

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., May 15—Moorefield High School closed its regular baseball season with a seven-game winning streak by taking Petersburg High School into camp here today by the lop-sided score of 27-5.

The triumph gave Coach Johnny Paugh's Yellow Jackets a 9-1 record in the Potomac Valley Conference.

Sherman paced Moorefield's 14-hit assault with two triples and two singles while Landes of Petersburg collected a pair of three-baggers and a single. Petersburg pitchers issued 13 bases on balls. Box:

| Fort Hill | 2 | 5 | .286 |
| LaSalle | 2 | 6 | .250 |

Beall High School completed the first half of its Bi-State Baseball Conference schedule with an unblemished record by registering its 7th triumph yesterday at the expense of Allegany High School at Campobello. The score was 4-1.

Enardo Arnone, Beall's star portsider, held the Campers to a double and two singles, struck out four and defeated Ronnie Sisk in a mound duel to notch his 6th conference triumph of the current campaign. Arnone has fanned 65 batters in six games.

Beall sewed up the game in the first inning by scoring two runs. Coach Ed Finzel's defending champions added single tallies in the 3rd and 5th stanzas.

George Miller was the Frostburg team's batting star with a triple and double to his credit in five trips.

Central Upsets Bruce

Beall increased its lead to three full games when Central upset the runner-up Bruce High nine in an 11-inning thriller at Midland Ball Park by the score of 4-3.

Kenneth Burt, pinch-hitting for Nightengale in the 11th singled through short to score Tommy Kelly with the run that gave the decision to Jack Brodie over Bobby Raines in a slab duel.

Kelly beat out a bunt, stole second base and after two out, Burt delivered the winning wallop in the clutch.

Don McKenzie garnered three of the nine hits yielded by Raines who suffered his first loss after four straight wins. The Bruce twirler fanned 15, upping his season's total to 72.

Marple and Fazenbaker shared four of Bruce High's seven hits yielded by Brodie who whiffed nine while posting his initial win of the campaign.

Hyndman Wins Another

Coach Ed McVicker's Hyndman High nine extended its winning streak to four games by handing LaSalle its 6th consecutive setback at Hyndman, 12 to 1. The Explorers have scored only three runs in their last three conference tilts. Hyndman has racked up 36 runs in the last three contests at the expense of Fort Hill, Bruce and LaSalle pitchers.

"Duck" Buskirk made his record 4-2 for the season and shared batting honors with Clay Leldig, top hitter in the circuit, each player getting four-for-four. Leydig, incidentally, sent his batting average soaring to .679—19 hits in 28 trips to the plate. Cunningham collected two of LaSalle's seven hits. Doug Connolly was the loser.

Barton Spills Sentinels

Fort Hill's Sentinels suffered their 4th straight league loss at the hands of Barton High School at Barton, 5 to 3.

Coach Johnny Thomas' Braves put the game on ice in a hurry by scoring four runs in the opening frame. "Tim" Clark and Paul Bailey double and singled to drive in two runs each.

Dickel fanned 12 Barton batsmen while Clark threw the third strike past 10 Sentinels.

Fort Hill threatened in the last frame when Cage tripled and Frye walked but Clark struck out Lewis and Eckard and forced Ritter to pop up.

McGregor and Ronnie Cage collected five of the losers' eight hits, both of the latter's blows being triples.

Romney Puts Keyser Out Of Tourney

Pioneers Score 10th P.V.C. Victory, 18-3

ROMNEY, May 15—Romney High School eliminated Keyser High School from the sectional tournament today by defeating the Mineral Countians by the decisive score of 18 to 3.

The victory was the Pioneers' 10th in 11 starts in the Potomac Valley Conference this season.

Four Keyser pitchers gave up 14 bases on balls and were nicked for 10 safeties, including two doubles by Joe Ely, a triple by Orvill- Payne and a circuit wallop by Jack Heavener.

Romney will play Fort Ashby next in the finals of the sectional tournament.

Next Tuesday the Pioneers will play at Capon Bridge. Box:

Frosh Are Eligible

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—The sprawling Eastern College Athletic Conference today declared freshmen eligible for varsity competition during the 1951-52 college year. But one of its most important segments, the Ivy group, will not fall in line.

Tech Gives Boot To Two Gridders

ATLANTA, May 15 (AP)—John Weigle, a topflight end from Augusta, Ga., and Rollie Rhodes, a guard from Alexandria, Va., have been dropped from the Georgia Tech football squad, head coach Bobby Dodd disclosed today.

Dodd said the two men were "permanently separated" from the squad for misconduct but did not go into detail.

Weigle, a 195-pound junior, was rated the best offensive end at Tech. Rhodes was a "B" squad player. Brown and Weigle both were letter winners in 1950 and the former was being counted on as number one replacement for Center George Morris.

Cubs Option Lade To Coast League

CHICAGO, May 15 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs reduced their roster to the 25-player limit today by optioning right-handed pitcher Doyle Lade to Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League.

Lade, 30, last year appeared in 30 games and had a 5-6 record for the Cubs. This season, Lade who had an 11-10 Cub record in 1947, failed to pitch an inning.

Duke Snider's Circuit Clout Sinks Cubs, 8-4

Bases Loaded Homer Wins For Brooklyn

CHICAGO, May 15 (AP) — Duke Snider's bases-loaded homer in the seventh, two circuit wallops by league-leader Gil Hodges and another by Jackie Robinson swept the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers to an 8-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs today.

Snider's grand slam blow, after striking out three straight times, wiped out a 4-3 Cub lead and successfully opened the first western swing by the Dodgers before a Wrigley Field ladies' day throng of 29,069, including 17,835 paid. The big smash was Snider's eighth homer of the season.

The winning pitcher was Clyde King, second of three Dodger hurlers. Cal McLish, third of five Cub tossers, was the loser.

Hodges banged the first and last round-trippers in Brooklyn's four-homer assault, his 10th of the season coming as the first Dodger run in the second and his No. 11 completing a five-run punishing for McLish in the seventh.

Robinson's homer, his fifth of the season, came with none aboard in the fourth for a 2-0 Brooklyn lead. Robinson's blow and Hodges' first homer came off Cub starter Bob Rush, who went five innings. Box:

Herring, Diamond Fight At St. Nick's

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—Youthful Jimmy Herring and Artie Diamond come out of the clubs for a network shot tomorrow night at St. Nicholas Arena.. It will be 19-year-old Herring's first crack at the big time.

The middleweight scrap, scheduled for 9:00 p. m. (EST) on CBS radio and tv, will be limited to eight rounds because of Herring's age.

Herring is a veteran of 50 pro fights. He has won 41, lost seven and fought two draws. He has 21 knockout wins.

Diamond, who will be 23 in June has lost only six of 29 fights, winning 15 by knockouts.

BEARD WINS NEW EVENT—Richard "Dick" Beard, above, of Fort Hill High School, won the discus throw in the Allegany County Senior High School Meet Monday at the Stadium by tossing the plate 114 feet, 11 inches. It was an added event to this year's program. Beard also won the running, hop, step and jump and scored 15 points as Fort Hill won the meet for the 5th straight year with a total of 106 tallies.

Agramonte Is Ill

DETROIT, May 15 (AP)—Embrell Davidson, an unbeaten rookie in the heavyweight ranks, will substitute for Omelio Agramonte of Cuba in a May 23 fight here against Clarence Henry of Los Angeles.

Stomach trouble forced Agramonte to withdraw from the 10-round bout, which will be nationally televised.

U. S. To Oppose Japan In Davis Cup Opener

NEW YORK, May 15 (INS)—The United States Davis Cup team, challenging Australia for the coveted international tennis trophy, will face Japan—its first-round foe in the zonal eliminations — at the Louisville, Ky., Boat Club on July 20, 21 and 22.

The U. S. - Japan play will be the only first-round match in the American Zone, the other entrants—Canada, Cuba and Mexico—having drawn byes. In the second round, Canada faces Cuba and Mexico plays the Japan-U. S. winner.

Twenty-one nations have entered European competition. The final interzone winner will play Australia in the challenge round at Sydney, Australia, next Dec. 26, 27 and 28.

Tribe Sells Flores

CELVELAND, May 15 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians reduced their squad to the regulation 25 player today by cutting loose pitchers Jesse Flores and Charley Harris.

Flores was sold outright to San Diego of the Pacific Coast League.

Harris, bought recently from the Philadelphia Athletics, was sent to San Diego on 24-hour recall.

Chicago Whips Bosox In 11th

Nelson Fox's Homer Decides Game, 9-7

BOSTON, May 15—(AP)—Nelson Fox poled a two-run homer in the 11th inning today, the first of his major league career, to lead the Chicago White Sox to a 9-7 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

Fox sliced a drive just inside the foul pole in rightfield after a walk to Ed Stewart. Those two runs cracked a 7-7 tie which had existed from the ninth inning.

Harry Dorish, who came on in the eight inning, was the winning pitcher, picking up his first victory against one loss. Ray Scarborough, fourth Bosox hurler, was charged with his first defeat. He has won once.

Chicago Manager Paul Richards pulled an odd bit of strategy in the ninth inning.

With his team ahead by one run and Ted Williams leading off for Boston, Richards summoned lefthander Billy Pierce from the bullpen and moved Dorish from the mound to third-base.

Pierce got Williams on a high, high pop to the shortstop in back of second base.

Dorish then returned to the mound, Pierce to the bench and Floyd Baker went to third, which had been guarded until the last of the ninth by Orestes Minoso.

The other homers were walloped by Ted Williams, his seventh, and by Chicago's Eddie Robinson, his fifth. Box:

Bratton, Gavilan To Meet For Title

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP) — Chicago's Johnny Bratton will seek to add New York recognition to his NBA welterweight title Friday night when he collides with Cuba's Kid Gavilan in a 15-round championship bout.

The hard-hitting 23-year old negro won the NBA crown when he defeated Charlie Fusari. New York will recognize Friday's winner as world champion.

Gavilan, who lost a 15-rounder to Ray Robinson when Sugar Ray was the welter boss, will be a strong favorite to win.

The 25-year old Cuban flash, winner of his last eight fights over formidable opposition, figures to be too smart for the Chicagoan. Bratton, however, is confident he will win. Johnny has won his last five fights, four of them via knockouts.

The 9 p. m. (E.S.T.) bout will be broadcast by ABC and telecast by NBC.

Romney Puts Keyser Out Of Tourney

Pioneers Score 10th P.V.C. Victory, 18-3

ROMNEY, May 15—Romney High School eliminated Keyser High School from the sectional tournament today by defeating the Mineral Countians by the decisive score of 18 to 3.

The victory was the Pioneers' 10th in 11 starts in the Potomac Valley Conference this season.

Four Keyser pitchers gave up 14 bases on balls and were nicked for 10 safeties, including two doubles by Joe Ely, a triple by Orville Payne and a circuit wallop by Jack Heavener.

Romney will play Fort Ashby next in the finals of the sectional tournament.

Next Tuesday the Pioneers will play at Capon Bridge. Box:

Frosh Are Eligible

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—The sprawling Eastern College Athletic Conference today declared freshmen eligible for varsity competition during the 1951-52 college year. But one of its most important segments, the Ivy group, will not fall in line.

Tech Gives Boot To Two Gridders

ATLANTA, May 15 (AP)—John Weigle, a topflight end from Augusta, Ga., and Rollie Rhodes, a guard from Alexandria, Va., have been dropped from the Georgia Tech football squad, head coach Bobby Dodd disclosed today.

Dodd said the two men were "permanently separated" from the squad for misconduct but did not go into detail.

Weigle, a 195-pound junior, was rated the best offensive end at Tech. Rhodes was a "B" squad player. Brown and Weigle both were letter winners in 1950 and the former was being counted on as number one replacement for Center George Morris.

Cubs Option Lade To Coast League

CHICAGO, May 15 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs reduced their roster to the 25-player limit today by optioning right-handed pitcher Doyle Lade to Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League.

Lade, 30, last year appeared in 30 games and had a 5-6 record for the Cubs. This season, Lade who had an 11-10 Cub record in 1947, failed to pitch an inning.

Duke Snider's Circuit Clout Sinks Cubs, 8-4

Bases Loaded Homer Wins For Brooklyn

CHICAGO, May 15 (AP) — Duke Snider's bases-loaded homer in the seventh, two circuit wallops by league-leader Gil Hodges and another by Jackie Robinson swept the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers to an 8-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs today.

Snider's grand slam blow, after striking out three straight times, wiped out a 4-3 Cub lead and successfully opened the first western swing by the Dodgers before a Wrigley Field ladies' day throng of 29,069, including 17,835 paid. The big smash was Snider's eighth homer of the season.

The winning pitcher was Clyde King, second of three Dodger hurlers. Cal McLish, third of five Cub tossers, was the loser.

Hodges banged the first and last round-trippers in Brooklyn's four-homer assault, his 10th of the season coming as the first Dodger run in the second and his No. 11 completing a five-run punishing for McLish in the seventh.

Robinson's homer, his fifth of the season, came with none aboard in the fourth for a 2-0 Brooklyn lead. Robinson's blow and Hodges' first homer came off Cub starter Bob Rush, who went five innings. Box:

Herring, Diamond Fight At St. Nick's

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—Youthful Jimmy Herring and Artie Diamond come out of the clubs for a network shot tomorrow night at St. Nicholas Arena.. It will be 19-year-old Herring's first crack at the big time.

The middleweight scrap, scheduled for 9:00 p. m. (EST) on CBS radio and tv, will be limited to eight rounds because of Herring's age.

Herring is a veteran of 50 pro fights. He has won 41, lost seven and fought two draws. He has 21 knockout wins.

Diamond, who will be 23 in June has lost only six of 29 fights, winning 15 by knockouts.

Chicago Whips Bosox In 11th

Nelson Fox's Homer Decides Game, 9-7

BOSTON, May 15—(AP)—Nelson Fox poled a two-run homer in the 11th inning today, the first of his major league career, to lead the Chicago White Sox to a 9-7 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

Fox sliced a drive just inside the foul pole in rightfield after a walk to Ed Stewart. Those two runs cracked a 7-7 tie which had existed from the ninth inning.

Harry Dorish, who came on in the eight inning, was the winning pitcher, picking up his first victory against one loss. Ray Scarborough, fourth Bosox hurler, was charged with his first defeat. He has won once.

Chicago Manager Paul Richards pulled an odd bit of strategy in the ninth inning.

With his team ahead by one run and Ted Williams leading off for Boston, Richards summoned left-hander Billy Pierce from the bullpen and moved Dorish from the mound to third-base.

Pierce got Williams on a high, high pop to the shortstop in back of second base.

Dorish then returned to the mound, Pierce to the bench and Floyd Baker went to third, which had been guarded until the last of the ninth by Orestes Minoso.

The other homers were walloped by Ted Williams, his seventh, and by Chicago's Eddie Robinson, his fifth. Box:

Bratton, Gavilan To Meet For Title

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP) — Chicago's Johnny Bratton will seek to add New York recognition to his NBA welterweight title Friday night when he collides with Cuba's Kid Gavilan in a 15-round championship bout.

Gavilan, who lost a 15-rounder to Ray Robinson when Sugar Ray was the welter boss, will be a strong favorite to win.

The 25-year old Cuban flash, winner of his last eight fights over formidable opposition, figures to be too smart for the Chicagoan. Bratton, however, is confident he will win. Johnny has won his last five fights, four of them via knockouts.

The 9 p. m. (E.S.T.) bout will be broadcast by ABC and telecast by NBC.

"Little Man In Pentagon" Is Successor To Gremlins

By JIM BECKER

WITH THE U. S. MARINES IN KOREA—(AP)—Remember the Gremlins of World War II? There's a new fictional little character in the Korean war who gets the blame for various acts of mischief in the field.

Troops call him "the Little Man in the Pentagon."

He's the "Little Man" who leaves things like spoons and can-openers out of C-rations and invents things like water-resistant towels and tent stoves that function like a combination blast furnace-refrigerator.

This "man" went into action in the early days of the war, when he observed that the C-ration situation was going altogether too smoothly.

The C-ration consists of two cans. One contains meat and vegetables—ham and lima beans or spaghetti, or any of a dozen other mixtures concocted by the army.

Almost all of them can be heated and eaten right in the can.

The other can contains biscuits, candy and coffee. It opens with a coffee-can type of key.

The "Little Man" turned his ingenuity toward the can of meat. He reasoned that to eat the meat would require (1) a spoon and (2) a can opener.

He is tricky, this fellow. In the next shipment of rations he included the can opener—but left out all the spoons. This had the result of reducing strong fighting men to screaming wrecks when faced with an open, steaming can of food and nothing with which to scoop it out.

A month or so ago a new shipment of C-rations began to arrive in Korea. This one, numbered the C-7, has spoons galore—but no can openers.

The "Little Man's" greatest performance came just the other day when new cases of C-rations contained neither spoons nor can-openers.

Right on the box, in bold black letters, the presence of both a spoon and can-opener was advertised on each box.

Among his better efforts is the water-resistant towel. This is an olive-drab affair that might fool the novice into thinking it works like a regular bath towel. He would soon find his mistake.

Step out dripping from a shower and grab the towel. Within seconds it is wringing wet and so are you. It is treated with some mysterious chemical which renders it a sopping mass upon contact with ordinary water but never soaks up moisture on the human body.

Masterful as is the invention, the tent stove is a superior job. The tent stove—there are at least 4,000,000 of them in Korea—uses more fuel than an outmoded F-38 fighter plane, but gives off less heat.

It is a circular object and its stove pipes must be opened every hour on the half-hour. When it is blazing merrily away at a fuel consumption rate which causes it to run dry at the coldest possible hour of the morning, it is a physical impossibility to get within three feet of it. Within that radius it throws more heat than a blast-furnace.

Three-feet and one inch from it, however, and you will have to ask if the thing is turned on.

These little refinements are not simple, but they are what the "Little Man in the Pentagon" is paid for.

With the wicked Korean winter a thing of the past, our mythical Pentagonian was forced to exert himself in another direction. He produced probably the most inefficient item of equipment yet devised.

It's a canteen cup. It has a neat rolled edge of aluminum which retains the heat just beautifully. In fact long after the coffee in the cup is cooler than a summer romance on New Year's Eve, the edge of the cup will sear the skin right off the drinker's lip.

There is a petition circulating among the marines and soldiers now and it urges the following sentences upon the "Little Man in the Pentagon":

"He shall spend the next year of his life at the North Pole alternately roasting and freezing around his stove, trying to dry his hands on his soggy towel, searing his lips on a cup of lukewarm coffee and staring at a huge pile of spoons and can-openers—but no C-rations."

PIN-WORMS GO! Jayne's P-W Gets Real Results

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

KEEPING UP WITH # HOLLYWOOD
By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, May 15 (INS)—Barron Polan comes up with as many ideas as his brother-in-law, Jerry Wald. Barron called on me enthusiastically discussing "Meet Me In New York," a motion picture he and Fred Finklehoffa plan to make.

Mary Astor

"It's a sequel to 'Meet Me in St. Louis,' the Judy Garland hit," said Barron, "and it continues the story of the Smith family whom you knew so well. Sally Benson, the author and youngest of the Smiths, takes her colorful family from St. Louis to Manhattan.

"We want Mary Astor to play her original role of Mrs. Smith, and we'd like to get Margaret O'Brien for the youngest Smith girl and we'll have Tom Drake again. He played the boy next door. We don't know whether we can get Judy Garland. If we can't we'll try to get Ann Crawley who is opening in Sally's adaptation of Booth Tarkington's 'Seventeen'."

• — • — •

"High Heels" will have a completely unknown cast—and that's straight from Wald and Krasna. Jerry tells me that Howard Hughes goes along with them in the idea of putting new faces in this story about "taxi dancers."

I can see how Howard would go for this. He discovered both Jean Harlow and Jane Russell when no one knew them from beans and built them into great stars.

If he needed any more evidence—look at "The Thing"—the biggest box-office grosser of the season and without one well-known name in the cast.

• — • — •

When the New York Yankees were here playing an exhibition series versus our Hollywood stars, I was the first to tell the world that Joe DiMaggio and his ex-wife, Dorothy Arnold, would remarry.

At that time Joe told me that I wasn't wrong in my predictions, but that the wedding wouldn't take place until late summer, when his team was at the Yankee Stadium and their son could join them in Manhattan.

Now I hear that those high up in sports circles insist Joe and Dorothy are already married. This, however, I was unable to check.

Theres' really no business like show business—and how wonderful to be a part of it! The great stars who appeared at Ciro's for the Examiner fund for the war wounded overseas, gave their time so gladly and happily.

Popular Sophie Tucker circulated around before and after her song numbers getting a big greeting; Tony Martin sang the Jolson songs with such feeling; Dinah Shore so graciously singing her popular numbers (she had to be up, too, at 5:30 and on the set); Dan Dailey dancing better than ever and what a hand he got; George Jessel, that wonderful person who never fails when there's a benefit so witty and so apt in his introductions.

Marion Davies who was one of the hostesses, brought a party of celebrities. She bought a big block of tickets. A nice sum will be realized for our wounded boys.

• — • — •

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

When Jack Carson makes his next flying trip to Hollywood he's bringing home a stepmother for his children. She's Lola Albright, leading lady on his TV series.

A tip from Florida is that Phil Berg has sold his fabulous yacht to a Florida millionaire for $400,000.

Dorothy Dandridge continues to pack them in at Mocambo and I'm not surprised. She sings "I've Got You Under My Skin" in the same throaty voice that first won Lena Horne such acclaim. Lena, by the way, is doing terrific business at the Cocoanut Grove.

Lloyd Bacon is trying to buy the original "Show Boat" and bring it to the coast for the purpose of a theater and dinner spot cruising up and down the coast between San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego. For the tired business man thats' some dinner date.

Rosalind Russell and Freddie Brisson are in New York to talk to Leland Hayward about a play he wants Roz to do.

Kay Francis wires me she's going out on a nine-week tour of George Oppenheim's new play, "Mirror, Mirror," which may later hit Broadway. She says her toe is completely healed.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Birthday Meeting

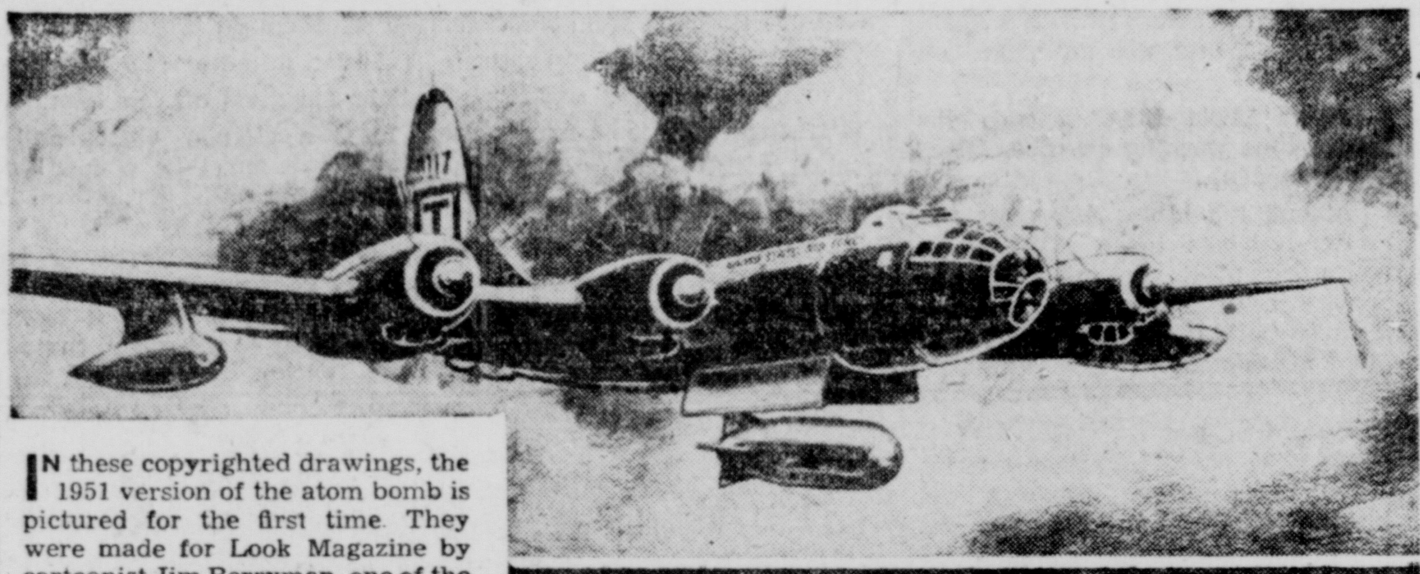
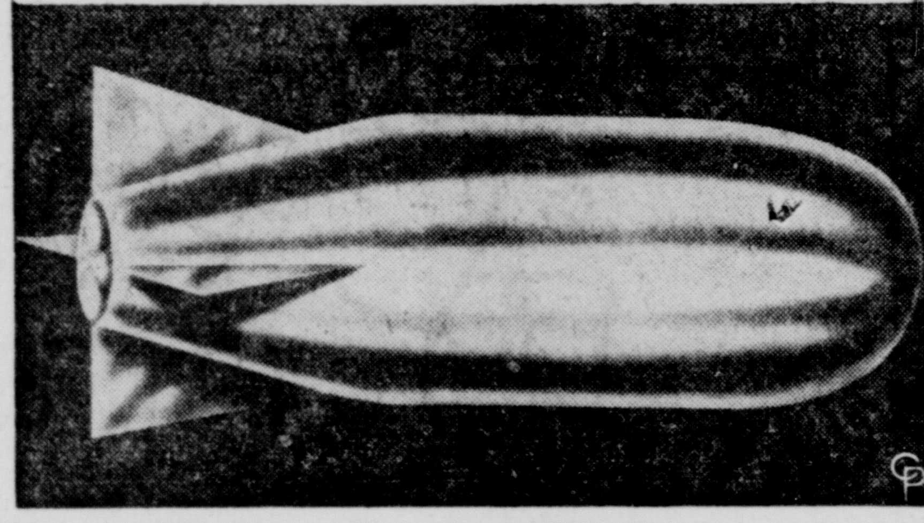
PIEDMONT, W. Va.—The annual birthday meeting of the Women of the Presbyterian Church will be held in the assembly room of the church this evening at 8 o'clock. The program will be presented by Mrs. Roy Cave and refreshments will be served.





IN these copyrighted drawings, the 1951 version of the atom bomb is pictured for the first time. They were made for Look Magazine by cartoonist Jim Berryman, one of the first civilians to have flown on an A-bomb test mission and the first authorized to illustrate and describe the missile's exterior for the public. The report was cleared through the U. S. Air Force for security reasons. The bomb, it was stated, is approximately 20 feet long; 9 to 10 feet in diameter, and weighs 10,000 pounds. It can be set to explode 40 seconds after its release. How the new atom bomb looks when emerging from the bomb bay of a B-50 over target, is shown above. At right is a close-up sketch of the deadly missile. (Photos by Look Magazine from International)

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Does "indulgence" make spoiled children?

Answer: Not primarily, says Dr. C. Anderson Aldrich, noted child psychiatrist. "Any one who cares to do so may study, as I have, the early history of spoiled children. In vain will he search for a story of indulgence at the start. With tiresome regularly he will find the same old tale of strict adherence to rigid forms of child training and an inhuman sort of reliance on the theory that affectionate treatment is bad for babies." It is the insecurity which such a start in life creates that makes the spoiled child grab at everything he can get and fly into a rage if his least wish is frustrated.

Is brain surgery based on exact knowledge?

Answer: No, says Drs. Carney Landis, Joseph Zubin and Fred A. Mettler of Columbia University in the Journal of Psychology. No one yet knows certainly just what are the functions of the frontal lobe of the brain, and the consequences of cutting it off from the rest are "ambiguous and uncertain." Neither from the physical nor from the mental standpoint does this type of brain surgery have a specific or predictable effect on the behavior of the patient. It seems mainly to limit his powers of attention and add to his mental and emotional confusion.

Can your reason rule your conscience?

Answer: Never wholly, no matter how sound and correct your thinking may be. You learn to associate punishment or disapproval with certain acts and feelings long before you can think logically, and logical ideas never are entirely successful in wiping out these "first impressions." That is why you cannot do anything that your childish conscience tells you is wrong without feeling some degree of guilt, however, wise or necessary your intelligence may tell you that the once forbidden action now is. But when necessary, such guilt can be much reduced by psychiatric treatment.

KEEPING UP WITH
By LOUELLA PARSONS

Mary Astor

HOLLYWOOD, May 15 (INS)—Barron Polan comes up with as many ideas as his brother-in-law, Jerry Wald. Barron called on me enthusiastically discussing "Meet Me In New York," a motion picture he and Fred Finklehoffa plan to make.

"It's a sequel to 'Meet Me in St. Louis,' the Judy Garland hit," said Barron, "and it continues the story of the Smith family whom you knew so well. Sally Benson, the author and youngest of the Smiths, takes her colorful family from St. Louis to Manhattan.

"We want Mary Astor to play her original role of Mrs. Smith, and we'd like to get Margaret O'Brien for the youngest Smith girl and we'll have Tom Drake again. He played the boy next door. We don't know whether we can get Judy Garland. If we can't we'll try to get Ann Crawley who is opening in Sally's adaptation of Booth Tarkington's 'Seventeen'."

• — • — •

"High Heels" will have a completely unknown cast—and that's straight from Wald and Krasna. Jerry tells me that Howard Hughes goes along with them in the idea of putting new faces in this story about "taxi dancers."

I can see how Howard would go for this. He discovered both Jean Harlow and Jane Russell when no one knew them from beans and built them into great stars.

If he needed any more evidence—look at "The Thing"—the biggest box-office grosser of the season and without one well-known name in the cast.

• — • — •

When the New York Yankees were here playing an exhibition series versus our Hollywood stars, I was the first to tell the world that Joe DiMaggio and his ex-wife, Dorothy Arnold, would remarry.

At that time Joe told me that I wasn't wrong in my predictions, but that the wedding wouldn't take place until late summer, when his team was at the Yankee Stadium and their son could join them in Manhattan.

Now I hear that those high up in sports circles insist Joe and Dorothy are already married. This, however, I was unable to check.

• — • — •

Theres' really no business like show business—and how wonderful to be a part of it! The great stars who appeared at Ciro's for the Examiner fund for the war wounded overseas, gave their time so gladly and happily.

Popular Sophie Tucker circulated around before and after her song numbers getting a big greeting; Tony Martin sang the Jolson songs with such feeling; Dinah Shore so graciously singing her popular numbers (she had to be up, too, at 5:30 and on the set); Dan Dailey dancing better than ever and what a hand he got; George Jessel, that wonderful person who never fails when there's a benefit so witty and so apt in his introductions.

Marion Davies who was one of the hostesses, brought a party of celebrities. She bought a big block of tickets. A nice sum will be realized for our wounded boys.

• — • — •

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

When Jack Carson makes his next flying trip to Hollywood he's bringing home a stepmother for his children. She's Lola Albright, leading lady on his TV series.

A tip from Florida is that Phil Berg has sold his fabulous yacht to a Florida millionaire for $400,000.

Dorothy Dandridge continues to pack them in at Mocambo and I'm not surprised. She sings "I've Got You Under My Skin" in the same throaty voice that first won Lena Horne such acclaim. Lena, by the way, is doing terrific business at the Cocoanut Grove.

Lloyd Bacon is trying to buy the original "Show Boat" and bring it to the coast for the purpose of a theater and dinner spot cruising up and down the coast between San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego. For the tired business man thats' some dinner date.

Rosalind Russell and Freddie Brisson are in New York to talk to Leland Hayward about a play he wants Roz to do.

Kay Francis wires me she's going out on a nine-week tour of George Oppenheim's new play, "Mirror, Mirror," which may later hit Broadway. She says her toe is completely healed.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Birthday Meeting

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—The annual birthday meeting of the Women of the Presbyterian Church will be held in the assembly room of the church this evening at 8 o'clock. The program will be presented by Mrs. Roy Cave and refreshments will be served.

IN these copyrighted drawings, the 1951 version of the atom bomb is pictured for the first time. They were made for Look Magazine by cartoonist Jim Berryman, one of the first civilians to have flown on an A-bomb test mission and the first authorized to illustrate and describe the missile's exterior for the public. The report was cleared through the U. S. Air Force for security reasons. The bomb, it was stated, is approximately 20 feet long; 9 to 10 feet in diameter, and weighs 10,000 pounds. It can be set to explode 40 seconds after its release. How the new atom bomb looks when emerging from the bomb bay of a B-50 over target, is shown above. At right is a close-up sketch of the deadly missile. (Photos by Look Magazine from International)

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Does "indulgence" make spoiled children?

Answer: Not primarily, says Dr. C. Anderson Aldrich, noted child psychiatrist. "Any one who cares to do so may study, as I have, the early history of spoiled children. In vain will he search for a story of indulgence at the start. With tiresome regularly he will find the same old tale of strict adherence to rigid forms of child training and an inhuman sort of reliance on the theory that affectionate treatment is bad for babies." It is the insecurity which such a start in life creates that makes the spoiled child grab at everything he can get and fly into a rage if his least wish is frustrated.

Is brain surgery based on exact knowledge?

Answer: No, says Drs. Carney Landis, Joseph Zubin and Fred A. Mettler of Columbia University in the Journal of Psychology. No one yet knows certainly just what are the functions of the frontal lobe of the brain, and the consequences of cutting it off from the rest are "ambiguous and uncertain." Neither from the physical nor from the mental standpoint does this type of brain surgery have a specific or predictable effect on the behavior of the patient. It seems mainly to limit his powers of attention and add to his mental and emotional confusion.

Can your reason rule your conscience?

Answer: Never wholly, no matter how sound and correct your thinking may be. You learn to associate punishment or disapproval with certain acts and feelings long before you can think logically, and logical ideas never are entirely successful in wiping out these "first impressions." That is why you cannot do anything that your childish conscience tells you is wrong without feeling some degree of guilt, however, wise or necessary your intelligence may tell you that the once forbidden action now is. But when necessary, such guilt can be much reduced by psychiatric treatment.

POTOMAC STATE QUEEN—This view of the May Queen and her King, together with her court of honor at Potomac State School, Keyser, W. Va., was taken Saturday in the college gymnasium following the coronation. The queen was Miss Helen Funk, seated rear center, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Funk, Fort Ashby, W. Va. Beside her is her king, John Wiles, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Wiles, Rowlesburg, W. Va. Beside the king in the rear is Dean K. S. McKee and beside Miss Funk is President E. E. Church, who officiated at the coronation. The festivities this year were a joint affair in celebration of the opening of spring, and as a tribute to Mother's Day on Sunday. It was the 22nd annual May Day celebration at the college, beginning with a tea for parents, visitors and friends in Reynolds Hall. Dinner was served in Davis Hall and dancing climaxed the day's festivities until midnight.

Truck Fired On At Mine Entrance

KINGWOOD, W. Va.—State Police reported that two shots were fired Monday at an Industrial Coal Company truck as it was leaving the mine entrance for the tipple.

Investigating officers said one bullet went through the radiator of the truck driven by Ralph Catlett of Kingwood.

Police said the shooting occurred about 8:30 a. m., and quoted Catlett as saying that he saw a movement in the brush in the direction from which he thought the sots came. Tey later found tracks of two men at that spot.

The shooting is believed to have been done by men who have been picketing the non-union mines in Preston county for several weeks.

The Industrial mine is located about 1½ miles from Kingwood.

Hill Becomes New Mayor Of Piedmont

Officials To Take Posts On June 4

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—Allan L. Hill will take office June 4 as new mayor of Piedmont as a result of overwhelming Donald M. Mellor, 555 to 237, in Monday's municipal election.

Both men are veterans of World War 2 and are employed at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. Hill will serve a two-year term.

A total of 790 votes was cast out of an estimated 1,300 qualified registrants. Some 911 votes were cast in the last election.

Hill succeeds the incumbent Mayor Harold Fredlock, who was not a candidate for reelection. Fredlock had served three terms as mayor and three as councilman.

The Citizen's Ticket, headed by Hill, swept two of the three places on the Town Council. Incumbent Eugene Paxton topped the council slate by polling 481 votes and W. Garland Cheshire followed with 473 tallies. The third member of the council who was elected was Norman B. Baughman, who received 453 votes.

Paxton and Cheshire will serve four-year terms, and Baughman will serve for two years.

A surprise in the voting Monday was the failure of incumbent Councilman William T. Davis to retain office. He placed fourth in the balloting with 342 votes. He was a candidate on the Citizen's Ticket along with Edward J. Cheshire, 285 votes, and Charles L. Davis, 230 votes. Cheshire and Davis are former councilmen.

Holdover councilmen are Mervin High and Joseph Maybury. John Ward was not a candidate for reelection as councilman.

Truck Fired On At Mine Entrance

KINGWOOD, W. Va.—State Police reported that two shots were fired Monday at an Industrial Coal Company truck as it was leaving the mine entrance for the tipple.

Investigating officers said one bullet went through the radiator of the truck driven by Ralph Catlett of Kingwood.

Police said the shooting occurred about 8:30 a. m., and quoted Catlett as saying that he saw a movement in the brush in the direction from which he thought the sots came. Tey later found tracks of two men at that spot.

The shooting is believed to have been done by men who have been picketing the non-union mines in Preston county for several weeks.

The Industrial mine is located about 1½ miles from Kingwood.

Crosby, the Actor

AWAY back in 1911, or some such — the calendar always confuses me — "Rube" Marquard, a wry-necked left-hander with a sharp curve and a blazing fast ball, waxed so rash as to marry Blossom Seeley, a rowdy little soubrette who could inflame the peasants with a popular song. In a fit of lunacy Miss Seeley decided that her act might be enhanced, her salary rocket, did she share the platform with the "Rube," than a Giant hero. On the dubious theory that as a provider he should be gainfully employed the year round, Mr. Marquard agreed to this conspiracy, shortly found himself on the stage of Hammerstein's Victoria in the heart of Times Square engaged in banter with his mate, even helping her out with a ballad.

A critic, whose name I can't remember, on viewing the act of a Monday afternoon thus appraised the Rube's contribution to stage history: "Marquard can sing as well as Caruso can pitch."

As you may have guessed I'm wrestling with a parable, or an erratic variation thereof. Not so long ago John Crosby, the fugitive conductor of this column, called me of a midnight to suggest that I spin out some 800 words about either the plight or progress of radio and television which, provided it not outrage the canons of good taste or sound subversive, he would use as a guest column. "A guest column?", I rebutted. "Why? Have you succumbed to the singing commercial? Or are you thinking of getting into a more reputable business?"

Mr. Crosby quickly briefed me. An old Francophile he felt that he would be a traitor to his emotions did he not participate in some small degree in the celebration of the 2000th anniversary of the city of Paris, prove by trial and error to his own satisfaction the validity of the ancient axiom, "Champagne is the imprisoned laughter of the peasant girls of France." "Don't you think it's a little late to go into that?" I vollied (from Tennyson's 'vollied and thundered' as in 'The Charge of the Light Brigade'). "I thought you were an old Martini man! Doesn't the Crosby crest bear the inscription, 'Honi soit qui Noilly Prat'?"

"Don't try to measure my motives by your standards," replied Mr. Crosby, a little churlishly I thought. "Will you or won't you?" "Will I or won't I what?" I shouted. I had to shout because my mynah bird had gone berserk and was making nasty cracks about room service. "Write a guest column, witch," replied my gallant foe. "And pronto! I take off at dawn, into the wide blue yonder. Paris calls, and that's a call no man in his right mind can ignore. Ever ride up the Champs Elysees at dusk, through the Arc and into the Bois?"

With that I capitulated, and that's why I'm presently all tangled up with "Rube" Marquard and Blossom Seeley, with 400 words to go. Well, as I said first, I can write as well as Crosby can act. Or can I?

I've seen Crosby act and he has touches of all the Barrymores, Coquelin, E. H. Sothern and Milton Berle. In front of a microphone he also gives off a slight aroma of what is perhaps Virginia's most tasty product. It happened like this.

And some of you may know I have lately been curdling Sabbath evenings as mistress of ceremonies of "The Big Show," six to seven-thirty, NBC. It was on the night of April 8, 1951, that Mr. Crosby crashed into the program, dressed to the nines, his hair on fire, to banter words with the likes of Fred Allen, Rudy Vallee, Jimmy Durante, and Vivian Blaine, to say nothing of this guest whatyumacallit.

Mr. Crosby used a very cunning device to muscle his way into the proceedings. He interrupted Fred Allen to say that he was a messenger from the Newspaper Guild, come to pin a Page-One Award on me "for putting new life into radio," six words which he delivered with both eloquence and conviction. When the ovation from the audience was stilled I bussed Mr. Crosby on the brow (a salute which, since radio is vocal rather than visual, was unseen by an audience conservatively estimated at 30,000,000, not counting Bette Davis). Then I cleared up his identity to Fred and Jimmy, both of whom thought that he was Bing Crosby's son.

I must say that given his head, Crosby took the bit in his mouth, lived up to all the best traditions of my craft. He stole two laughs from Durante, stepped on Allen's lines, and in a spasm of candor named his qualifications as a critic: "A college education, a typewriter and a gall bladder condition." When I suggested that his appearance on 'The Big Show' might enlighten him on the more subtle arcana of the medium, thus enable him to more intelligently judge 'The Big Show,' he acted like that Spartan lad who warmed a starving wolf under his jacket only to have the ungrateful cub eat out his innards. What do you think was the ingrate's last quip? Only this:

"I wrote my review yesterday. It starts off, 'The Big Show' this week was given a tremendous lift by the appearance of yours truly, whose ready wit and charm caused the professionals to turn pale with envy."

• — • — •

Since I'm notorious for my modesty, devoted to self-depreciation, and cramped by a lofty ethical code, I'll not resort to a piece of Crosby treachery in my invasion of his field. Why? Well, dahlings, Crosby will be writing other columns, offering other judgments. I'd better keep a civil tongue in my head.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

G U W R N G Q C L R N, L U D P U D G R S W
G Q T W G U W U D M U W F G H W N C W P G D Q Y
Q C U E A R Y S Y Q L O W J M W — J W C Q W.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: HENCEFORTH THE MAJESTY OF GOD REVERE; FEAR HIM, AND YOU HAVE NOTHING ELSE TO FEAR—FORDYCE.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to thank those who in any way helped us during the illness and at the death of our daughter, Linda Diana and especially those who donated flowers and cars and acted as flowerbearers and pallbearers, the Rev. Bruce Shanholtz for his message of hope.

MR. & MRS. HARRY NEALIS & FAMILY

In Memoriam

Our Tribute to Mother
Mrs. Alice K. Robison
Dearest mother you have left us,
And we miss your tender love,
But some day we hope to meet you
In that happy home above.
That the Savior has gone to prepare,
We will meet Him in the air,
And together we shall dwell,
In our home so fair.
It seems we can almost hear,
Your sweet voice kind and true,
We know you cannot come to us,
But we can go to you.
When we meet up Yonder,
And beside the river walk,
Of all the Heavenly Glories,
We can forever talk.

Her children

Cards of Thanks

We wish to thank those who in any way helped us during the illness and at the death of our daughter, Linda Diana and especially those who donated flowers and cars and acted as flowerbearers and pallbearers, the Rev. Bruce Shanholtz for his message of hope.
MR. & MRS. HARRY NEALIS & FAMILY

In Memoriam

Our Tribute to Mother
Mrs. Alice K. Robison
Dearest mother you have left us,
And we miss your tender love,
But some day we hope to meet you
In that happy home above.
That the Savior has gone to prepare,
We will meet Him in the air,
And together we shall dwell,
In our home so fair.
It seems we can almost hear,
Your sweet voice kind and true,
We know you cannot come to us,
But we can go to you.
When we meet up Yonder,
And beside the river walk,
Of all the Heavenly Glories,
We can forever talk.
Her children

Selling Onslaught Forces Sharp Decline In Market

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—The stock market gave way today before a selling onslaught that forced prices down by as much as $5 to $6 a share.

The loss amounted to more than $1,500,000,000 in the quoted value of all listed securities.

Selling pressure reached a peak shortly before noon that was intense enough to put the ticker four minutes behind in reporting business on the floor of the stock exchange.

The congestion lasted about 30 minutes, and thereafter trading progressed at an orderly pace.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $1.60 to $93.50, the sharpest fall since March 13. The industrial component of the average was down $2.20, rails $1.50, and utilities 20 cents.

The day's total volume came to 2,020,000 shares. (Yesterday's total was a slow 1,250,000 shares.)

The market broadened considerably to 1,195 individual issues traded from the total of 1,086 issues yesterday. Today saw the highest total since March 13. There were only 118 issues advancing and 894 issues declining.

The number of new lows for the year expanded sharply to 84 (yesterday there were only 37), and there were but seven new highs for the year established.

There were no plus signs in the list of 15 most active issues. The first five in the list were General Motors off ½ at 50, Universal Laboratories ⅞ at 2¾, RKO Pictures ¼ at 3⅝, Socony-Vacuum ¼ at 31, and Pennsylvania Railroad ⅜ at 20⅜.

"The Authority on Authorities"

VIRTUE ITS OWN REWARD

MAKING the correct bid or play at some crucial stage will usually prove more profitable to your side than will a mistake of some kind. But you must get used to seeing some of your best work go for naught, producing either the same result as if you had erred, or upon rare occasions giving you a worse result. Then is the time to be philosophical and not let it upset you for the ensuing deals.

With that identical bidding at two tables of a team match, West also made the same lead in each case, his fourth-best diamond 4. In each case South called the 9 from dummy. One East put on his K and the A won. The heart A was scored next at this table, then South took the marked finesse of the diamond 10, following it with the Q. He now finessed the heart J, felled the Q with the K and scored the 10 to have seven tricks.

With the black aces available to complete his sure game, he shadow-boxed for an extra trick by leading the spade 6. West won with the Q and raked in two diamonds, then returned the club J to the A. South now decided to score the spade A for his game and give up the last trick to the spade K.

At the other table, when the diamond 9 was played on the lead of the 4, East saw that by playing low and holding up his K he could limit South to two tricks in diamonds instead of three. It was a good play, but made no eventual difference, for South next finessed hearts and then led spades until he had a trick developed in that suit in addition to the A. So he too got nine tricks with two in spades, four in hearts, two in diamonds and one in clubs. East's good play to the first trick gained nothing, but he had the satisfaction of having done the right thing.

After normal bidding West leads the spade 5 against South's No Trump game, the K winning the J and the club Q being sent through? What should East then do?

"The Authority on Authorities"

VIRTUE ITS OWN REWARD

MAKING the correct bid or play at some crucial stage will usually prove more profitable to your side than will a mistake of some kind. But you must get used to seeing some of your best work go for naught, producing either the same result as if you had erred, or upon rare occasions giving you a worse result. Then is the time to be philosophical and not let it upset you for the ensuing deals.

With that identical bidding at two tables of a team match, West also made the same lead in each case, his fourth-best diamond 4. In each case South called the 9 from dummy. One East put on his K and the A won. The heart A was scored next at this table, then South took the marked finesse of the diamond 10, following it with the Q. He now finessed the heart J, felled the Q with the K and scored the 10 to have seven tricks.

With the black aces available to complete his sure game, he shadow-boxed for an extra trick by leading the spade 6. West won with the Q and raked in two diamonds, then returned the club J to the A. South now decided to score the spade A for his game and give up the last trick to the spade K.

At the other table, when the diamond 9 was played on the lead of the 4, East saw that by playing low and holding up his K he could limit South to two tricks in diamonds instead of three. It was a good play, but made no eventual difference, for South next finessed hearts and then led spades until he had a trick developed in that suit in addition to the A. So he too got nine tricks with two in spades, four in hearts, two in diamonds and one in clubs. East's good play to the first trick gained nothing, but he had the satisfaction of having done the right thing.

After normal bidding West leads the spade 5 against South's No Trump game, the K winning the J and the club Q being sent through? What should East then do?

Selling Onslaught Forces Sharp Decline In Market

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—The stock market gave way today before a selling onslaught that forced prices down by as much as $5 to $6 a share.

The loss amounted to more than $1,500,000,000 in the quoted value of all listed securities.

Selling pressure reached a peak shortly before noon that was intense enough to put the ticker four minutes behind in reporting business on the floor of the stock exchange.

The congestion lasted about 30 minutes, and thereafter trading progressed at an orderly pace.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $1.60 to $93.50, the sharpest fall since March 13. The industrial component of the average was down $2.20, rails $1.50, and utilities 20 cents.

The day's total volume came to 2,020,000 shares. (Yesterday's total was a slow 1,250,000 shares.)

The market broadened considerably to 1,195 individual issues traded from the total of 1,086 issues yesterday. Today saw the highest total since March 13. There were only 118 issues advancing and 894 issues declining.

The number of new lows for the year expanded sharply to 84 (yesterday there were only 37), and there were but seven new highs for the year established.

There were no plus signs in the list of 15 most active issues. The first five in the list were General Motors off ½ at 50, Universal Laboratories ⅞ at 2¾, RKO Pictures ¼ at 3⅝, Socony-Vacuum ¼ at 31, and Pennsylvania Railroad ⅜ at 20⅜.

AreaBungalow Destroyed In Morning Blaze

Crosten Home Gutted On Cash Valley Road

An early morning fire yesterday gutted the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oda Crosten and family, about three-quarters of a mile from Corriganville, causing damages estimated at $3,500 according to Fire Chief Harry Martz, Corriganville. The small frame bungalow, located on the Cash Valley Road, caught fire about 2 a. m. No one was injured.

Four fire trucks from the Corriganville and LaVale Volunteer Fire Companies battled the early morning blaze for an hour before bringing it under control. About 500 feet of hose were used, Martz added, and water was pumped from a nearby stream.

Neighboring homes were threatened but firemen managed to keep the blaze confined to the immediate structure.

Cause Is Unknown

Cause of the fire is unknown, and Martz said Crosten was listening to the radio when the fire broke out. He attempted to extinguish the flames with several buckets of water and when it got out of control he notified the fire department.

Martz added the fire got such a start that few belongings were saved. Most of the furnishings were destroyed.

Crosten, an Amcelle worker, and other members of the family are now staying with relatives in the area. Damage to the bungalow was reputed partially covered by insurance.

Explosion Burns Two

Two men were burned about noon yesterday after natural gas backed up into a sewer and exploded at the Star Dye Works, 513 Necessity Street.

An employe, Herbert Stevey, 24, Oldtown, was treated at Allegany Hospital for first degree burns of the face, neck and upper arms.

Central firemen answered a call to the plant at 11:56 a.m. and remained there about an hour. Investigation revealed the blast apparently was set off by a spark from an electric motor.

Damage was confined to the motor.

South End Fire Company answered two calls last evening. A grass fire was reported at the rear of 117 Laing Avenue at 5:36 o'clock but firemen reported no damage. A small blaze was reported in a garage belonging to Mrs. Donald Harden, 401 Springdale Street at 8:45 o'clock. The fire was out upon arrival. No damage was caused.

Dashiell's Term Nears Finish

Edgar A. Dashiell presided at a meeting of the Allegany County Board of Education yesterday afternoon which in all probability was the last he will attend as a board member.

The chairman's term expires at the end of this month. Under the new law adopted at the recent session of the General Assembly this county will have a five-member Board of Education beginning June 1.

This new legislation also provides that at least two members of the board shall be women and at least two members of the political party which polled the second highest number of votes in the most recent gubernatorial election in the state.

Because the other two present board members, Wilbur V. Wilson and Edward J. Ryan, are Democrats like Dashiell, it appears likely that three Republicans, including two women, will be named to the new board by Governor McKeldin.

School Superintendent Charles L. Kopp said that yesterday's meeting was inauspicious.

Labor Meeting Set

The Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference will meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in Allegany Trades Council Hall.

Cash Valley Home Destroyed

Shown above is an upstairs bedroom of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oda Crosten, near Corriganville on Cash Valley Road, which was gutted by fire early yesterday morning. The bed in which one of two children was sleeping can be seen to the right of the wall completely destroyed in the $3,500 blaze. Four trucks from Corriganville and LaVale Volunteer Fire Companies answered the call about 2:30 a. m. Hose was laid for a distance of 500 feet and water pumped from a nearby stream. Cause of the fire is undertermined according to Fire Chief Harry Martz, Corriganville.

Police Solve Recent Series Of Car Thefts

Three Teen-Agers Sentenced In Cases

Maryland State Police from LaVale Barracks in cooperation with Washington County and Baltimore authorities have cleared up a series of recent auto thefts and three teen-aged youths have been incarcerated as a result of charges pressed in the cases.

Robert Gerald Black, 17, of 406 Riverside Road, Baltimore, was sentenced yesterday morning in Trial Magistrates Court here to one year in the Maryland Reformatory for Males after he pleaded guilty to unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

One Of Three Youths

Black was one of three teen-age youths involved in a series of auto thefts last April, authorities said, the trio having taken cars from Baltimore, Hancock and Frostburg, before being picked up by State Police April 14.

According to local authorities the Baltimore youth and James Edward Farley, 18, and Robert Ernest Paul, 16, also of Baltimore stole an automobile in Baltimore April 14 and drove to Eckhart where they abandoned the car when it became stuck in the mud.

Walking to Frostburg the three boys then took a Ford coupe belonging to Harry Ort and drove to Hancock. At this point Farley and Black stole another car and the trio with Ort's Ford and the second car drove in Howard County where the second car was demolished in a smashup at a gasoline station when the group was chased by the state police.

Sentenced Here

Paul was sentenced to Maryland Training School for Boys until he becomes 18 years of age in Juvenile Court here on a charge of juvenile delinquency and Farley and Black received 30-day jail sentences in Washington County jail on a minor charge resulting from the Hancock theft.

Upon release from the Washington County jail Farley was sentenced to 18 months in Maryland Reformatory for Males in Washington County Circuit Court on an auto larceny charge and state police in Allegany County and Baltimore now hold detainers for the 18-year-old boy on the charges resulting from the thefts in Frostburg and Baltimore.

Black was picked up by local state police upon his release from Washington County jail and brought before Magistrate J. Milton Dick here on the unauthorized use charge in the Ort case.

Detainers Are Held

Detainers are also being held against Black in Baltimore and Washington County, police said.

Large Construction Program Planned For State Highways

Work Contracts To Total $30,000,000

Contracts for $30,000,000 more work on Maryland highways are expected to be awarded or advertised by the end of this year, State Roads Commission Chairman Russell H. McCain announced.

According to a program which the Commission is formulating for the remainder of the current construction year contracts will provide approximately 60 miles of entirely new roads and about 130 miles of widening, resurfacing and general rehabilitation of present highways.

Included in the program will be extension of each of the five divided highways which have been under construction for several years and which, since they link major population centers, are considered primely important in the development of Maryland's roads system.

These five thoroughfares are the Baltimore-Harrisburg Expressway, Baltimore National Pike, Washington National Pike, Annapolis-Washington Expressway and the highway being built across the Eastern Shore to connect with the Chesapeake Bay Bridge.

In addition to these major projects the 1951 schedule will include construction of some new two-way roads considered necessary but also believed capable of carrying their predictable traffic volume safely without a center parkway.

In announcing the program, following two meetings of the State Roads Commission with the Highway Advisory Council recently named by Governor McKeldin, Chairman McCain said he believed it should provide assurance that there is to be no abrupt abandonment of Maryland's highway improvement program.

Hundreds Witness Strange Object Over Cumberland

People who were talking of flying saucers in Cumberland several weeks ago were shaking their heads in bewilderment again last night after an unusual object was sighted in the skies over the city about 8:30 in the evening.

Hundreds of phone calls flooded the Cumberland NEWS office, state and city police stations and the Cumberland Airport as persons who sighted the phenomonem sought to report it or seek information about it.

Andrew M. Whetzel, 114 Arch Street, who called the NEWS, stated he watched "The Thing" through binoculars and said it appeared to be about a yard long and a foot wide, through the glasses. "It was arched like a rainbow and had two shades of flame shooting from the forward part," Whetzel reported.

The object did not look like an airplane and appeared to be a great distance away as it traveled over the city from the direction of Oldtown and disappeared over the horizon in the northwest.

Defense Rests In Sewer Suit

Closing Arguments Due This Morning

Albert S. Paye, Cumberland engineer, the 15th and last defense witness in the third trial of the $5,000 damage suit by Mrs. Minnie True Droege against the Town of Westernport, testified in Allegany County Circuit Court late yesterday afternoon that the sewer which collapsed under Mrs. Droege's Westernport home was properly constructed and properly maintained.

The engineer, acknowledged he had not inspected the sewer until last February, more than 18 months after the sewer collapsed under Mrs. Droege's house, July 12, 1949. His opinions were based on testimony that he heard at the trial Monday and yesterday.

After Paye left the witness stand around 4:10 p. m., Defense Attorneys Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., and Walter C. Capper rested their case. Mrs. Droege's attorneys, Thomas Lohr Richards and H. Gassaway Shores informed Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, presiding, that they would offer no rebuttal witnesses. Whereupon, Judge Harris excused the 12 jurors until 9:15 a. m. today when the four attorneys will give closing arguments. It is expected the jury will not get the case until about noon.

Most of the other 14 defense witnesses yesterday were past or present Westernport officials. An exception was Frank Snyder, Keyser, W. Va., contractor, who had estimated the costs necessary to repair Mrs. Droege's house after it was damaged by the collapse of the sewer.

Among other witnesses were Mayor George Kight, Police Chief Burza Hanlin, Mrs. Catherine Dailey, town clerk, and Water Commissioner Francis Glass.

Associate Judge George Henderson's judgment for the Town of Westernport after the first trial was reversed by the Maryland Court of Appeals last year. The second trial, last February, closed with a hung jury.

State Official Explains Points In Sewage Plan

County Board Takes No Action In Matter

Some misunderstandings concerning the proposed county authority for handling sewage disposal were cleared up by George L. Hall, chief engineer of the State Department of Health, at a meeting yesterday of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

After hearing Hall's statement the commissioners withheld any action concerning the proposal. They emphasized they have made no decision in the matter and stated that interested county residents will be given a chance to be heard when the matter again comes up for discussion.

Users Will Pay

One fact stressed by Hall was that only the people who use the service will pay for it. He told the commissioners that legislation passed by the recent session of the Maryland General Assembly provides for revenue bond issues to pay the cost of such sewage systems. The bond issues will not affect the borrowing capacity of the county, he added.

Areas mentioned specifically as being more or less within the scope of the plan whereby Cumberland would handle their sewage are LaVale, Cresaptown and intervening areas. In other words, all communities in the county probably would not be brought in but only those in the Cumberland suburban area.

A trunk sewer line would be built from Cresaptown across a section of the Celanese plant property and thence into this city to connect with the interceptor sewers. Residents of Bowling Green, Fairgo and other McMullen Highway communities could, if they desired, tie into the main trunk line by installation of lateral sewer lines, according to Hall.

Hall recommended that the county board get together with the Allegany County Metropolitan Sanitary Commission, the LaVale Sanitary District and determine whether an overall authority for the county, including Cumberland, could not be achieved.

Cumberland intends erecting a $1,480,000 sewage disposal plant. If

William H. Geppert Selected For Navy Reserve Promotion

William H. Geppert, assistant state's attorney and member of the U. S. Naval Reserve, has received notification from the Fifth Naval District Intelligence Office, Norfolk, Va., that he has been selected for promotion to the rank of Commander in the Naval Reserve.

In a letter from Captain A. M. Hurst, district intelligence officer, Geppert was told that a selection board which recently convened in Washington had made the selection and that further information on the promotion would be forthcoming from the district commandant.

Geppert has been in the Naval Reserve for 10 years and was ordered to active duty three months prior to Pearl Harbor. He served throughout World War II as a Naval Intelligence Officer and spent two years with the Amphibious Forces in the Pacific. The local attorney took part in operations at Saipan, Guam, Tinian, Leyte, Iwo Jima and Okinawa.

WILLIAM H. GEPPERT

Since 1946 he has served as chairman of the Naval Advisory Committee here and at present is attached to the Naval Reserve Intelligence Division in Norfolk.

Armed Forces Day Programs Are Outlined

Guard To Escort Gen. Olmsted Here

The Armed Forces Day luncheon and park programs have been completed and plans are being organized to escort the principal speaker to Cumberland Saturday for the event, Thomas F. Conlon, general chairman, said yesterday.

The local National Guard plans to rendezvous with Brigadier General George H. Olmsted, deputy assistant chief of staff, Pentagon Building, Washington, D. C., who is the main speaker for the occasion. The Guardsmen will meet the General's entourage on Route 20, West Virginia and escort him to the Blue Bridge across the Potomac River at Ridgeley where a state police escort will pick up the convoy and bring it to the Post Office building. A special reception on the Post Office lawn will be held honoring the general, at 12:15 o'clock.

To Attend Luncheon

Following the reception the general and his escort will attend a luncheon at the B.P.O. Elks home, South Centre Street at 1 p. m.

The invocation at the luncheon will be administered by Rev. Edgar W. Gearhart, pastor of First Christian Church, and Mayor Thomas S. Post will deliver the address of welcome. Associate Judge George Henderson will be the principal speaker at the Elks' Club luncheon and following his address Rabbi H. J. Wilner, B'er Chayim Congregation, will speak. General Olmsted will then deliver a talk and the luncheon will close with benediction by Rev. Father Lewis Glantz, OFM, pastor of SS. Peter and Paul's Catholic Church.

Col. Randolph Millholland will be master of ceremonies for the luncheon affair.

Following the Elks' Club program the general and his party will go to the reviewing stand at Fort Hill High School to witness the giant Armed Forces Day parade which will begin at 3 p. m. from Oldtown Road.

Program At Park

Upon completion of the parade a special program will then be held at Constitution Park with Thomas B. Finan as master of ceremonies.

The park portion of the celebration will begin with the playing of the Star Spangled Banner by Allegany High School band followed by the invocation by Major Elmer Wall, Salvation Army. Mayor Post will again deliver the address of welcome and Rabbi Wilner will speak briefly prior to the principal address by Gen. Olmsted. The benediction will be administered by Fr. Glantz and the program will close with the playing of "God Bless America," by Fort Hill High School band.

A final organizational meeting of the Armed Forces Day committee will be held tonight in the Post Office building at 8 o'clock, Conlon stated. Reservations for the luncheon still are available according to Howard M. Spiker, luncheon chairman.

Ridgeley Woman Hurt In Mishap

The condition of Mrs. Georgia Gray, 22 Perry Street, Ridgeley, is reported as "good" at Memorial Hospital where she was admitted early yesterday following an automobile accident near Greene and South Lee Streets.

The 25-year-old Ridgeley woman suffered injuries to the left leg when the car in which she was riding struck a tree and was wedged between a house near Greene and South Lee Streets.

Mrs. Gray was riding with Howard D. Broomhall, 30, of 6531 Broad Street, Washington, headed north on Greene, when the car went out of control, jumped a curb and hit the tree. Broomhall escaped injury.

Lt. James E. Van, who investigated, said the machine made a right turn into Lee Street after the operator "fell asleep" at the wheel. Considerable damage resulted from the crash but no charges were preferred.

David McKinley, 18, Frostburg, who was seriously hurt May 3 in a traffic mishap on Route 36 near Moscow, continued to improve today at Memorial Hospital. A soldier, he is stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C.

Improving at Allegany Hospital are Ressie L. Teter, 141 Kornhoff Place, and Ivan Lloyd Mills, 215 Hay Street, who were hurt Saturday night in a crash on Dingle Hill.

Equity Suit Filed

An equity suit was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bill of complaint was titled Mrs. Mary G. Walsh vs. Joseph P. Walsh.

WEATHER

How beautiful can the weather get? Yesterday certainly gave Cumberlanders incentive to putter about their gardens and cultivate their flowers. Spring housecleaners are taking advantage of the pretty days. The weather station at Constitution Park reports a high of 86, the warmest day thus far this year, a low of 44 and at 8:30 p. m. the temperature was 75. Yesterday's dewpoint was 45 and humidity 34.5 percent. Today's forecast is for continued fair weather.

Acting City Engineer

William H. Marean, acting city engineer and building engineer, is seen yesterday at his office in City Hall following his temporary appointment Monday. Marean, who has been assistant city engineer for some time, will assume the work of Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, during the latter's leave of absence due to ill health. Marean, a registered professional engineer, has been affiliated with the department for almost 20 years.

Scout Executive Stresses Need For Additional Leaders

James H. Gelwicks, deputy regional executive Boy Scouts of America, Philadelphia, Pa., last night stressed the need for additional manpower to carry out the scouting program on a district level at a meeting of Cumberland District Boy Scouts at Central YMCA.

Speaking before an audience of approximately 40 district cubbers, scouters and den mothers Gelwicks noted that additional commissioner service training for unit leaders was also required to give a better program for the scouts. The tremendous increase in scout membership but lack of additional adult leaders has been the main fault with the current program, Gelwicks said.

The speaker outlined recruiting plans to aid in betterment of the scouting program and explained how available manpower could best be utilized to better advantage.

Prior to last night's district meeting Gelwicks spoke on "Scouts and Rotary" at the weekly Rotary Club luncheon yesterday afternoon at the "Y." Later he conducted a Den Mothers training course.

Gelwicks will visit the Tri-Towns District of Potomac Council today, speaking at the Piedmont, W. Va., Rotary Club at noon and conducting a den mothers training course at Trinity Methodist Church in Piedmont at 2 p. m. He will then speak at the Lonaconing Rotary Club dinner at 6 p. m. prior to attending the Tri-Towns District Scout meeting at the Odd Fellows Hall, Westernport, at 7:30 o'clock. Dr. D. P. Whitworth is chairman of the Tri-Towns District.

Flood Control Work On Greene Street To Begin

Plan To Reroute Traffic Is Made

Preliminary work for construction of a pressure conduit on Greene Street between Walnut Street and Paw Paw alley will get underway this week, army engineers with the local flood control project said yesterday.

Erection of barricades and placing of electric lights will be the first step in commencing the new portion of flood work on the West Side. A blacktop filling will also be placed on one side of the street, covering the curb and sidewalk so vehicular traffic may use the sidewalk to travel on when actual construction work begins, the engineers said.

Plans already have begun to reroute the traffic that normally would use Greene Street over Lee and Washington Streets to Allegany Street and around the work. It is expected that work on Walnut Street will be completed enough that Beall and Paca Streets will not be tied up and traffic may go around the Greene Street area via those routes.

The engineers and construction company are endeavoring to complete the Greene Street phase before racing season begins here in July.

A temporary bridge over the huge sewer ditch on Mechanic and Frederick streets has been built and the streets are now open to vehicular traffic although the block between Frederick and Bedford Streets on Mechanic is still closed.

Work on the Williams Street syphon will begin this week also and engineers expect the syphon to be completed within two weeks, thus closing an open ditch which has blocked the roadway on Williams Street for almost a year. A diversion chamber at the Williams Street B & O railroad crossing is also expected to be finished within the next 10 days to two weeks, thus completing work in that section of town, they noted.

Water Officials To Attend Convention

Two city officials will leave today to attend the annual meeting of the Maryland-Delaware Waterworks Association in Ocean City Thursday and Friday.

They are Water Commissioner George H. Tederick and Simon K. Carroll, city plumber.

BIRTHS

A deed filed in the office of the clerk of circuit court yesterday recorded the sale by Louis R. Dreyer and Phyllis E. Dreyer to Stanley W. Grubb and Betty C. Grubb for about $6,500 or property at 615 Fairview Avenue.

New Assistant Fire Chiefs

Three new assistant fire chiefs appointed by the Mayor and Council to assist Fire Chief J. T. Defibaugh, have assumed their new duties. They are Assistant Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, (left) who will be in charge of Civil Defense activities; Assistant Chief Robert C. Long, (center), who will be in charge of the training program, and Assistant Chief James A. Jackson, (right) head of the inspection department. Parker who has been a member of the department since 1925, first served at West Side for several years and then went to East Side Fire Station. Long entered the department in 1937 and has served at Central, East and West Side departments during his career. Jackson, a fireman since 1931, served at Central for about 14 years before going to South End Station, where he was serving at the time of his promotion. All held permanent ratings of captain and Parker and Long were acting assistant chiefs at the time of their promotions.

Smoke Engineer Cites Progress In Program Here

Says April Record Is Best In History

Cumberland is enjoying lower dustfall readings than any city in the United States which has a smoke abatement ordinance on its books, George M. Hitchcock, city smoke abatement engineer, reported yesterday.

He said the record was achieved as a result of the splendid cooperation being offered by industries of this city.

Records prove, Hitchcock said, that dustfall in the city is being brought down rapidly to a tolerable medium. He said he hoped chemical analysis would bear out the improvement in relation to irritability.

Hitchcock termed the March dustfall figures as "very good", with last month's results "the best on record" in the city.

During March, 1950, Hitchcock said, when the smoke control work was just getting under way, some 50.06 tons of dust fell in each square mile of the city. By March, of 1950, the dustfall dropped to 43.63 tons and in March, 1951, to 15.61 tons.

Low Record Recalled

April's record breaking 12.34 tons a year average was contrasted to 40.03 tons in 1949 and 36.85 in 1950.

Hitchcock said readings taken at the B. and O. hump in the Thomas Street area, which used to average 300 tons a square mile, dropped to 98.21 in April as a result of the Dieselization of power in the Cumberland yards.

At the B. and O. roundhouse, which used to average 100 tons, 42.39 tons were recorded in April.

At the lake, far from the industrial area, dustfall averaged 0.12 last month as compared to 0.10 reading at Constitution Park.

Records taken on a yearly basis, he said, showed the same improvement.

Notes Yearly Decrease

The average dustfall in the city in 1949, he reported, was 28.87 tons per square mile. The average rose to 31.24 in 1950 but has been dropping steadily this year.

In January, the average was 26.55; February, 30.33; March, 15.61 and in April, the lowest figure yet, a record breaking 12.34.

Referring to West Side complaints, Hitchcock said readings in Showers, incumbent, unopposed, Americanism Officer, James McFarland, Richard Tabler, Chaplain, James O. Phillips, incumbent, unopposed, Three-year Trustee, Earl M. Whetsel, unopposed.

Delegates and alternates to the 10th District Convention at the Moorefield Legion Home June 10 were also named.

Six delegates are Commander Roland S. Tabler, Leo V. Mills, W. C. Knieriem, Paul McFarland, Robert Zimmerman, Arch Lough. Alternates K. Albert Wolfe, Roland Showers, Eugene Mulligan, James McFarland, Darby Healy, Richard Swick.

June 14 has been set as the date for the dedication of the new Legion Home in Ridgeley. Representatives have been invited from the Maryland Mountain District and W. Va. 10th District.

AreaBungalow Destroyed In Morning Blaze

Crosten Home Gutted On Cash Valley Road

An early morning fire yesterday gutted the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oda Crosten and family, about three-quarters of a mile from Corriganville, causing damages estimated at $3,500 according to Fire Chief Harry Martz, Corriganville. The small frame bungalow, located on the Cash Valley Road, caught fire about 2 a. m. No one was injured.

Four fire trucks from the Corriganville and LaVale Volunteer Fire Companies battled the early morning blaze for an hour before bringing it under control. About 500 feet of hose were used, Martz added, and water was pumped from a nearby stream.

Neighboring homes were threatened but firemen managed to keep the blaze confined to the immediate structure.

Cause Is Unknown

Cause of the fire is unknown, and Martz said Crosten was listening to the radio when the fire broke out. He attempted to extinguish the flames with several buckets of water and when it got out of control he notified the fire department.

Martz added the fire got such a start that few belongings were saved. Most of the furnishings were destroyed.

Crosten, an Amcelle worker, and other members of the family are now staying with relatives in the area. Damage to the bungalow was reputed partially covered by insurance.

Explosion Burns Two

Two men were burned about noon yesterday after natural gas backed up into a sewer and exploded at the Star Dye Works, 513 Necessity Street.

An employe, Herbert Stevey, 24, Oldtown, was treated at Allegany Hospital for first degree burns of the face, neck and upper arms.

Central firemen answered a call to the plant at 11:56 a.m. and remained there about an hour. Investigation revealed the blast apparently was set off by a spark from an electric motor.

Damage was confined to the motor.

South End Fire Company answered two calls last evening. A grass fire was reported at the rear of 117 Laing Avenue at 5:36 o'clock but firemen reported no damage. A small blaze was reported in a garage belonging to Mrs. Donald Harden, 401 Springdale Street at 8:45 o'clock. The fire was out upon arrival. No damage was caused.

Dashiell's Term Nears Finish

Edgar A. Dashiell presided at a meeting of the Allegany County Board of Education yesterday afternoon which in all probability was the last he will attend as a board member.

The chairman's term expires at the end of this month. Under the new law adopted at the recent session of the General Assembly this county will have a five-member Board of Education beginning June 1.

This new legislation also provides that at least two members of the board shall be women and at least two members of the political party which polled the second highest number of votes in the most recent gubernatorial election in the state.

Because the other two present board members, Wilbur V. Wilson and Edward J. Ryan, are Democrats like Dashiell, it appears likely that three Republicans, including two women, will be named to the new board by Governor McKeldin.

School Superintendent Charles L. Kopp said that yesterday's meeting was inauspicious.

Labor Meeting Set

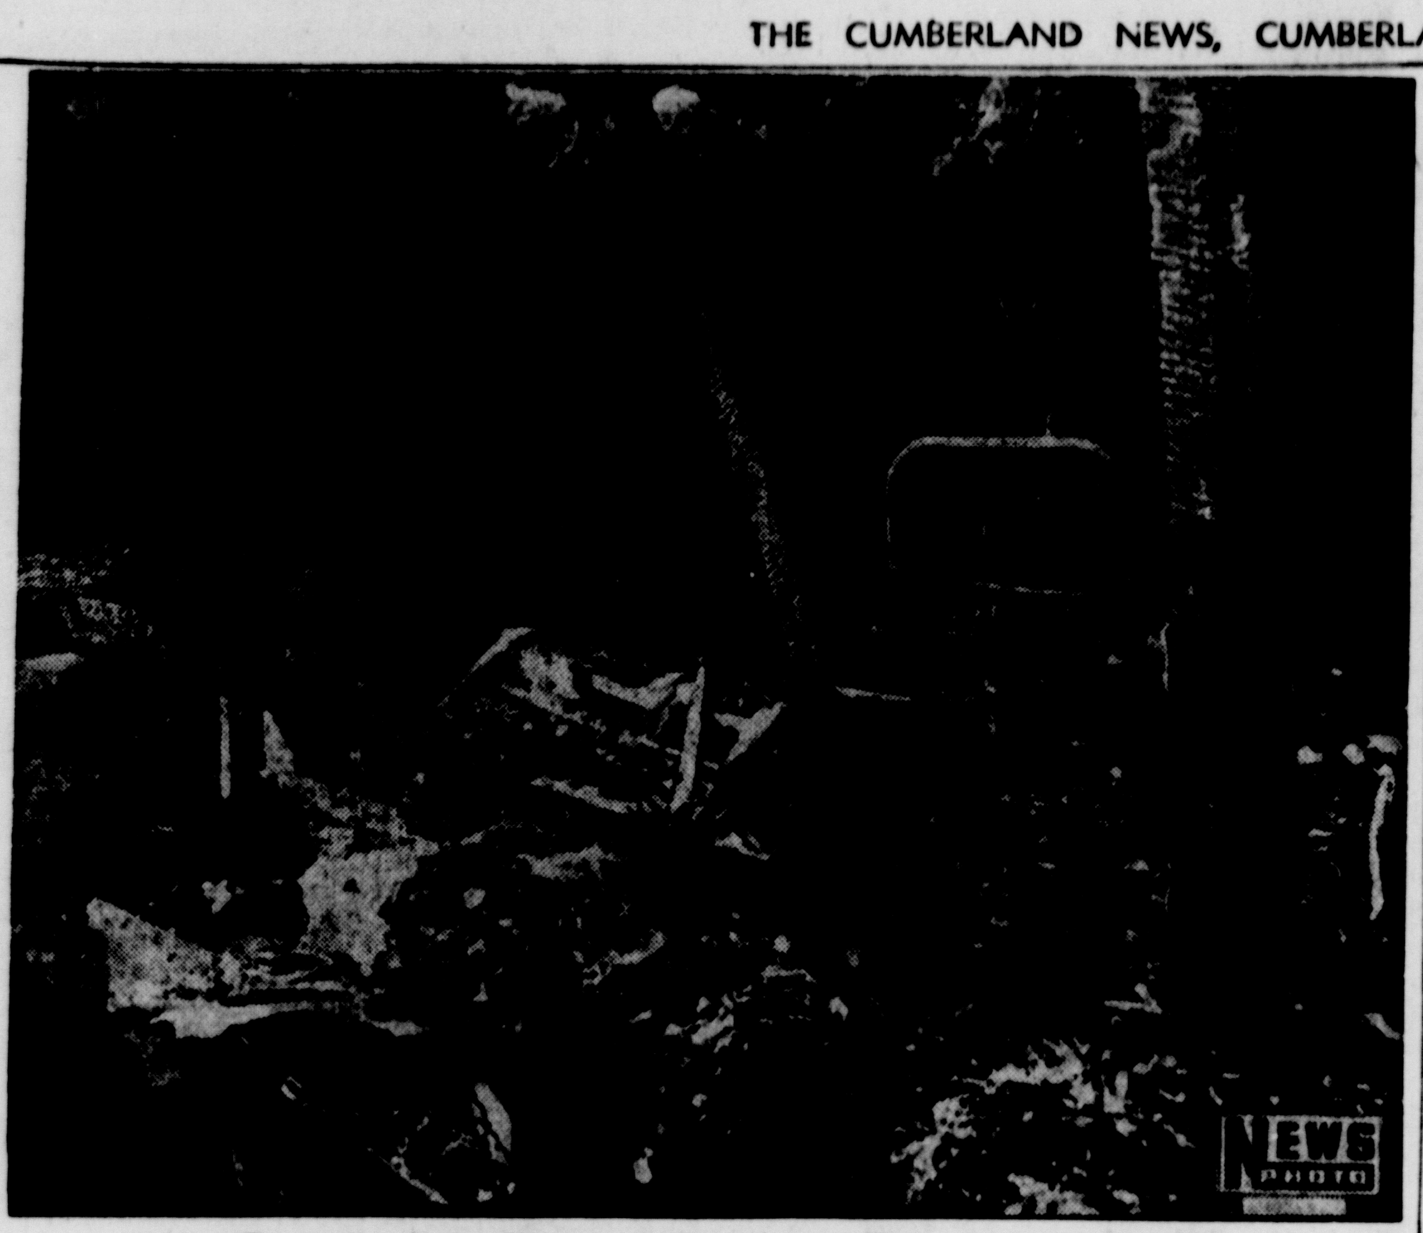
The Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference will meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in Allegany Trades Council Hall.



Cash Valley Home Destroyed

Shown above is an upstairs bedroom of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oda Crosten, near Corriganville on Cash Valley Road, which was gutted by fire early yesterday morning. The bed in which one of two children was sleeping can be seen to the right of the wall completely destroyed in the $3,500 blaze. Four trucks from Corriganville and LaVale Volunteer Fire Companies answered the call about 2:30 a. m. Hose was laid for a distance of 500 feet and water pumped from a nearby stream. Cause of the fire is undertermined according to Fire Chief Harry Martz, Corriganville.

Police Solve Recent Series Of Car Thefts

Three Teen-Agers Sentenced In Cases

Maryland State Police from LaVale Barracks in cooperation with Washington County and Baltimore authorities have cleared up a series of recent auto thefts and three teen-aged youths have been incarcerated as a result of charges pressed in the cases.

Robert Gerald Black, 17, of 406 Riverside Road, Baltimore, was sentenced yesterday morning in Trial Magistrates Court here to one year in the Maryland Reformatory for Males after he pleaded guilty to unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

One Of Three Youths

Black was one of three teen-age youths involved in a series of auto thefts last April, authorities said, the trio having taken cars from Baltimore, Hancock and Frostburg, before being picked up by State Police April 14.

According to local authorities the Baltimore youth and James Edward Farley, 18, and Robert Ernest Paul, 16, also of Baltimore stole an automobile in Baltimore April 14 and drove to Eckhart where they abandoned the car when it became stuck in the mud.

Walking to Frostburg the three boys then took a Ford coupe belonging to Harry Ort and drove to Hancock. At this point Farley and Black stole another car and the trio with Ort's Ford and the second car drove in Howard County where the second car was demolished in a smashup at a gasoline station when the group was chased by the state police.

Sentenced Here

Paul was sentenced to Maryland Training School for Boys until he becomes 18 years of age in Juvenile Court here on a charge of juvenile delinquency and Farley and Black received 30-day jail sentences in Washington County jail on a minor charge resulting from the Hancock theft.

Upon release from the Washington County jail Farley was sentenced to 18 months in Maryland Reformatory for Males in Washington County Circuit Court on an auto larceny charge and state police in Allegany County and Baltimore now hold detainers for the 18-year-old boy on the charges resulting from the thefts in Frostburg and Baltimore.

Black was picked up by local state police upon his release from Washington County jail and brought before Magistrate J. Milton Dick here on the unauthorized use charge in the Ort case.

Detainers Are Held

Detainers are also being held against Black in Baltimore and Washington County, police said.

Large Construction Program Planned For State Highways

Work Contracts To Total $30,000,000

Contracts for $30,000,000 more work on Maryland highways are expected to be awarded or advertised by the end of this year, State Roads Commission Chairman Russell H. McCain announced.

According to a program which the Commission is formulating for the remainder of the current construction year contracts will provide approximately 60 miles of entirely new roads and about 130 miles of widening, resurfacing and general rehabilitation of present highways.

Included in the program will be extension of each of the five divided highways which have been under construction for several years and which, since they link major population centers, are considered primely important in the development of Maryland's roads system.

These five thoroughfares are the Baltimore-Harrisburg Expressway, Baltimore National Pike, Washington National Pike, Annapolis-Washington Expressway and the highway being built across the Eastern Shore to connect with the Chesapeake Bay Bridge.

In addition to these major projects the 1951 schedule will include construction of some new two-way roads considered necessary but also believed capable of carrying their predictable traffic volume safely without a center parkway.

In announcing the program, following two meetings of the State Roads Commission with the Highway Advisory Council recently named by Governor McKeldin, Chairman McCain said he believed it should provide assurance that there is to be no abrupt abandonment of Maryland's highway improvement program.

A final organizational meeting of the Armed Forces Day committee will be held tonight in the Post Office building at 8 o'clock, Conlon stated. Reservations for the luncheon still are available according to Howard M. Spiker, luncheon chairman.

Ridgeley Woman Hurt In Mishap

The condition of Mrs. Georgia Gray, 22 Perry Street, Ridgeley, is reported as "good" at Memorial Hospital where she was admitted early yesterday following an automobile accident near Greene and South Lee Streets.

The 25-year-old Ridgeley woman suffered injuries to the left leg when the car in which she was riding struck a tree and was wedged between a house near Greene and South Lee Streets.

Mrs. Gray was riding with Howard D. Broomhall, 30, of 6531 Broad Street, Washington, headed north on Greene, when the car went out of control, jumped a curb and hit the tree. Broomhall escaped injury.

Lt. James E. Van, who investigated, said the machine made a right turn into Lee Street after the operator "fell asleep" at the wheel. Considerable damage resulted from the crash but no charges were preferred.

David McKinley, 18, Frostburg, who was seriously hurt May 3 in a traffic mishap on Route 36 near Moscow, continued to improve today at Memorial Hospital. A soldier, he is stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C.

Improving at Allegany Hospital are Ressie L. Teter, 141 Kornhoff Place, and Ivan Lloyd Mills, 215 Hay Street, who were hurt Saturday night in a crash on Dingle Hill.

Equity Suit Filed

An equity suit was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bill of complaint was titled Mrs. Mary G. Walsh vs. Joseph P. Walsh.

WEATHER

How beautiful can the weather get? Yesterday certainly gave Cumberlanders incentive to putter about their gardens and cultivate their flowers. Spring housecleaners are taking advantage of the pretty days. The weather station at Constitution Park reports a high of 86, the warmest day thus far this year, a low of 44 and at 8:30 p. m. the temperature was 75. Yesterday's dewpoint was 45 and humidity 34.5 percent. Today's forecast is for continued fair weather.

Acting City Engineer

William H. Marean, acting city engineer and building engineer, is seen yesterday at his office in City Hall following his temporary appointment Monday. Marean, who has been assistant city engineer for some time, will assume the work of Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, during the latter's leave of absence due to ill health. Marean, a registered professional engineer, has been affiliated with the department for almost 20 years.

Scout Executive Stresses Need For Additional Leaders

James H. Gelwicks, deputy regional executive Boy Scouts of America, Philadelphia, Pa., last night stressed the need for additional manpower to carry out the scouting program on a district level at a meeting of Cumberland District Boy Scouts at Central YMCA.

Speaking before an audience of approximately 40 district cubbers, scouters and den mothers Gelwicks noted that additional commissioner service training for unit leaders was also required to give a better program for the scouts. The tremendous increase in scout membership but lack of additional adult leaders has been the main fault with the current program, Gelwicks said.

The speaker outlined recruiting plans to aid in betterment of the scouting program and explained how available manpower could best be utilized to better advantage.

Prior to last night's district meeting Gelwicks spoke on "Scouts and Rotary" at the weekly Rotary Club luncheon yesterday afternoon at the "Y." Later he conducted a Den Mothers training course.

Gelwicks will visit the Tri-Towns District of Potomac Council today, speaking at the Piedmont, W. Va., Rotary Club at noon and conducting a den mothers training course at Trinity Methodist Church in Piedmont at 2 p. m. He will then speak at the Lonaconing Rotary Club dinner at 6 p. m. prior to attending the Tri-Towns District Scout meeting at the Odd Fellows Hall, Westernport, at 7:30 o'clock. Dr. D. P. Whitworth is chairman of the Tri-Towns District.

Flood Control Work On Greene Street To Begin

Plan To Reroute Traffic Is Made

Preliminary work for construction of a pressure conduit on Greene Street between Walnut Street and Paw Paw alley will get underway this week, army engineers with the local flood control project said yesterday.

Erection of barricades and placing of electric lights will be the first step in commencing the new portion of flood work on the West Side. A blacktop filling will also be placed on one side of the street, covering the curb and sidewalk so vehicular traffic may use the sidewalk to travel on when actual construction work begins, the engineers said.

Plans already have begun to reroute the traffic that normally would use Greene Street over Lee and Washington Streets to Allegany Street and around the work. It is expected that work on Walnut Street will be completed enough that Beall and Paca Streets will not be tied up and traffic may go around the Greene Street area via those routes.

The engineers and construction company are endeavoring to complete the Greene Street phase before racing season begins here in July.

A temporary bridge over the huge sewer ditch on Mechanic and Frederick streets has been built and the streets are now open to vehicular traffic although the block between Frederick and Bedford Streets on Mechanic is still closed.

Work on the Williams Street syphon will begin this week also and engineers expect the syphon to be completed within two weeks, thus closing an open ditch which has blocked the roadway on Williams Street for almost a year. A diversion chamber at the Williams Street B & O railroad crossing is also expected to be finished within the next 10 days to two weeks, thus completing work in that section of town, they noted.

Water Officials To Attend Convention

Two city officials will leave today to attend the annual meeting of the Maryland-Delaware Waterworks Association in Ocean City Thursday and Friday.

They are Water Commissioner George H. Tederick and Simon K. Carroll, city plumber.

Smoke Engineer Cites Progress In Program Here

Says April Record Is Best In History

Cumberland is enjoying lower dustfall readings than any city in the United States which has a smoke abatement ordinance on its books, George M. Hitchcock, city smoke abatement engineer, reported yesterday.

He said the record was achieved as a result of the splendid cooperation being offered by industries of this city.

Records prove, Hitchcock said, that dustfall in the city is being brought down rapidly to a tolerable medium. He said he hoped chemical analysis would bear out the improvement in relation to irritability.

Hitchcock termed the March dustfall figures as "very good", with last month's results "the best on record" in the city.

During March, 1950, Hitchcock said, when the smoke control work was just getting under way, some 50.06 tons of dust fell in each square mile of the city. By March, of 1950, the dustfall dropped to 43.63 tons and in March, 1951, to 15.61 tons.

Low Record Recalled

April's record breaking 12.34 tons a year average was contrasted to 40.03 tons in 1949 and 36.85 in 1950.

Hitchcock said readings taken at the B. and O. hump in the Thomas Street area, which used to average 300 tons a square mile, dropped to 98.21 in April as a result of the Dieselization of power in the Cumberland yards.

At the B. and O. roundhouse, which used to average 100 tons, 42.39 tons were recorded in April.

At the lake, far from the industrial area, dustfall averaged 0.12 last month as compared to 0.10 reading at Constitution Park.

Records taken on a yearly basis, he said, showed the same improvement.

Notes Yearly Decrease

The average dustfall in the city in 1949, he reported, was 28.87 tons per square mile. The average rose to 31.24 in 1950 but has been dropping steadily this year.

In January, the average was 26.55; February, 30.33; March, 15.61 and in April, the lowest figure yet, a record breaking 12.34.

Referring to West Side complaints, Hitchcock said readings in

Ridgeley Legion Lists Nominees

Officers Will Be Elected June 5

Nomination of officers for the ensuing year was held at a meeting of Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion, Ridgeley, W. Va., last night at the post home. The election meeting will be June 5.

Candidates for Commander are Leo V. Mills, William McCullough; Vice-Commander, William L. Dailey, Eugene Mulligan; Adjutant, Paul F. McFarland, Richard Swick, Financial Officer, Arch Lough, incumbent, unopposed; Historian, Roland S. Tabler, present commander, unopposed.

Sergeant-at-arms, Dorsey Fleight, Charles E. Mulligan, Child Welfare, I. E. Detrick Jr., William C. Knieriem, Service Officer, Roland S. Showers, incumbent, unopposed, Americanism Officer, James McFarland, Richard Tabler, Chaplain, James O. Phillips, incumbent, unopposed; three-year Trustee, Earl M. Whetsel, unopposed.

Delegates and alternates to the 10th District Convention at the Moorefield Legion Home June 10 were also named.

Six delegates are Commander Roland S. Tabler, Leo V. Mills, W. C. Knieriem, Paul McFarland, Robert Zimmerman, Arch Lough. Alternates K. Albert Wolfe, Roland Showers, Eugene Mulligan, James McFarland, Darby Healy, Richard Swick.

June 14 has been set as the date for the dedication of the new Legion Home in Ridgeley. Representatives have been invited from the Maryland Mountain District and W. Va. 10th District.

New Assistant Fire Chiefs

Three new assistant fire chiefs appointed by the Mayor and Council to assist Fire Chief J. T. Defibaugh, have assumed their new duties. They are Assistant Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, (left) who will be in charge of Civil Defense activities; Assistant Chief Robert C. Long, (center), who will be in charge of the training program, and Assistant Chief James A. Jackson, (right) head of the inspection department. Parker who has been a member of the department since 1925, first served at West Side for several years and then went to East Side Fire Station. Long entered the department in 1937 and has served at Central, East and West Side departments during his career. Jackson, a fireman since 1931, served at Central for about 14 years before going to South End Station, where he was serving at the time of his promotion. All held permanent ratings of captain and Parker and Long were acting assistant chiefs at the time of their promotions.

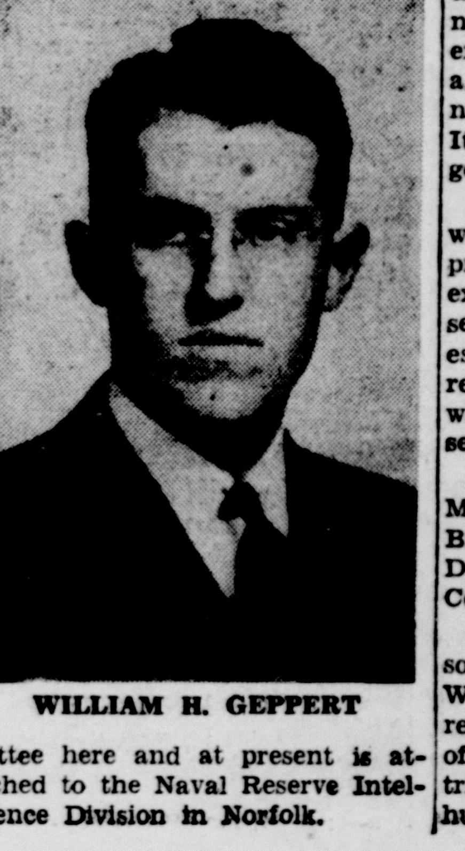
William H. Geppert Selected For Navy Reserve Promotion

William H. Geppert, assistant state's attorney and member of the U. S. Naval Reserve, has received notification from the Fifth Naval District Intelligence Office, Norfolk, Va., that he has been selected for promotion to the rank of Commander in the Naval Reserve.

In a letter from Captain A. M. Hurst, district intelligence officer, Geppert was told that a selection board which recently convened in Washington had made the selection and that further information on the promotion would be forthcoming from the district commandant.

Geppert has been in the Naval Reserve for 10 years and was ordered to active duty three months prior to Pearl Harbor. He served throughout World War II as a Naval Intelligence Officer and spent two years with the Amphibious Forces in the Pacific. The local attorney took part in operations at Saipan, Guam, Tinian, Leyte, Iwo Jima and Okinawa.

Since 1946 he has served as chairman of the Naval Advisory Committee here and at present is attached to the Naval Reserve Intelligence Division in Norfolk.



WILLIAM H. GEPPERT

Weather Forecast

Reds Strike Two Sharp Blows

Long-Awaited Enemy Drive Might Be Near

Communists Force ROKs From Inje

TOKYO, Wednesday, May 16 (AP)—Chinese and North Korean Communist troops struck two sharp blows in Central Korea today and the stepped-up Red activity indicated the long-awaited Communist push might be imminent.

South Korean troops withdrew from Inje, strategic road center four miles north of the 38th parallel, under Communist pressure. Soon afterwards the Reds moved into the town.

Field dispatches described the new Red thrusts as "heavy probing attacks." They were accompanied by the usual whistle and bugle-blowing that mark the customary Chinese attack.

AP Correspondent Nate Polowetzky at U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said the Chinese struck at Allied positions east of Chunchon at 1:30 a. m. They laid down raking rifle and automatic weapons fire until United Nations forces withdrew.

Allied Guns Disperse Attackers

Then Allied big guns roared and dispersed the Red attackers with heavy losses 40 minutes after fight began.

There were few details available on abandonment of Inje itself. The town was retaken last week by South Korean troops as the Communists built up heavy concentrations of men and supplies to the north.

An Eighth Army briefing officer announced that following the South Korean withdrawal, Communist trucks filled with soldiers were observed moving into the town late into the night. Red artillery opened up in a three-hour barrage against South Koreans still northeast of the town.

The Communists who have been preparing a new major spring drive since early May apparently shifted the center of their attack force from the westen front north of Seoul to the Chunchon area in the center of the peninsula.

Bad Weather Boon To Reds

The briefing officer said that "the enemy attitude has changed from relatively light to strong resistance against friendly patrols." He estimated 2,850 Reds were killed or wounded in ground action Tuesday.

Bad weather proved a boon to the Reds and a hindrance to the Allied air arm. Heavy rain and low clouds limited 50 Air Force planes to only 15 sorties after dark. It made a total of only 178 sorties for the day.

Red forces were on the move Tuesday both west and east of Chunchon in the center of the Allied defense line. They hurdled two river defense barriers in front of strong American defense positions.

No Red Peace Feelers, Top Officials Say

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Government authorities said today there have been no peace feelers from the Chinese Communists.

The high command's hope is to force the Reds to seek peace eventually by inflicting heavy losses on them, but so far the enemy has shown no slackening in his determination to throw U. N. forces out of Korea.

A flurry of peace feeler rumors had gone the rounds at the Capitol, evidently set off by misunderstanding of Defense Secretary Marshall's testimony at the MacArthur hearing. This prompted questions to fully informed officials as to just what the situation is and how bright are the prospects for an early peace.

The specific answer was that all the evidence the American government can get indicates that the Reds are still determined to try to expel the U. N. forces from Korea.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White declared today in comment on the rumors at the Capitol that "I know of no peace feelers."

Committee Votes Half-Cent Boost In Gasoline Tax

Prospective Hikes Exceed $6.5 Billion

WASHINGTON, May 15. (AP)—Prospective tax increases mounted above $6,500,000,000 today as the House Ways and Means Committee voted to raise the federal levy on gasoline from 1½ to two cents a gallon.

The half-cent increase is expected to bring in an additional $210,000,000 annually, if approved by House and Senate. The Treasury has asked that the rate be raised to three cents. The committee boggled at the increase, rejecting it tentatively yesterday only to approve it today. An alternative proposal, to reestablish the $5 a year use tax ("windshield tax") on cars, was turned down.

The tax-drafting group voted to cut the tax on domestic telegrams from 25 per cent to 20 per cent, for an estimated $8,000,000 revenue loss. A million dollars of the loss would be offset, however, by raising the rate on bowling alleys and pool tables from $20 to $25 a unit.

The committee rejected a series of other revenue raising proposals, including:

A penny a bottle tax on soft drinks, which with a one-cent per ounce tax on fountain syrups, also rejected, was estimated to be good for $280,000,000 a year.

Taxes on candy and chewing gum at the rate of 20 per cent at the manufacturers' level; estimated revenue, $230,000,000.

Application of the cabaret tax to ballrooms.

A proposed increase in the tax on local telephone service, from 15 to 20 per cent.

A 20 per cent jewelry tax on silver plated flatware—knives, forks and spoons.

A tax on fur-lined and fur-trimmed coats where the fur is the component of chief value.

A tax on electric saws and other power tools used in hobby shops.

Deputies Nod, Adjourn

PARIS, May 15 (AP)—The deputies of the U. S., Britain, France and the Soviet Union met today, but had just about time enough to nod to each other, and then adjourned their 52nd fruitless meeting trying to work out an agenda for a foreign ministers' conference.

Nobody wanted to speak, so the session was adjourned until tomorrow.

Defense Effort Leaders Seek Wider Powers

But Maybank Says Cut Is More Likely

WASHINGTON, May 15. (AP)—The top men of economic mobilization teamed up today in urging pleas for wider emergency powers. But the answer from a key senator was that they may have to give up some authority they already have if they are to save anything at all.

After a day of hearings on the proposal to extend and broaden the Defense Production Act, Chairman Maybank (D-SC) of the Senate Banking Committee told Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle:

"I want to warn the administration it is going to be very, very hard to get any bill passed at all. I don't know if there is going to be any extension."

DiSalle came back with the statement that he has "more confidence in the sense of responsibility of Congress than to think they would not pass" the extension for the emergency law, now due to expire June 30.

The price chief, protesting against any such step by Congress, did agree to bring the committee an estimate of the possible effects if the lawmakers should require relaxation of some of the price controls on farm products. The proposition was put up to him as a price the administration might have to pay to keep any sort of price and wage powers and other economic control authority.

Maybank said he did not advocate the formula but asked for a study of the effects of an amendment which would require that price ceilings on farm products not be set lower than parity or the highest price level in February or March, 1951. The limit now is parity or the highest price between May 24 and June 25, 1950.

Parity is a price level determined by legal formula, designed to be fair to farmers in terms of the cost of things they buy.

Chairman Spence (D-Ky) of the House Banking Committee, which also is busy on the production law, called its extension "absolutely essential."

These generally parallel views, meanwhile, were expressed by other members of the economic high command:

Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston—"We simply cannot mount the defense effort we need" without a stabilized economy and tight curbs on inflation. He said extension and broadening of the defense production act is essential.

Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson—His job is proceeding faster than he expected and the need for curbs may taper off a year from now "if we have some unity." But he said one result will be greater business dislocations late this year and early in 1952.

Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer—It will be "disastrous" if the production act, due to expire June 30, is not extended, and wage-price controls are needed along with other powers.

Mendelssohn Drops Dead During Concert

BALTIMORE, May 15 (AP)—Felix Robert Mendelssohn, concert cellist and great grand nephew of the famous composer, fell dead tonight while giving a concert at the Cadoa Hall.

He was playing Dohnanyi's Concert Piece in D Major, which he played in its world premier in Berlin in 1918.

Mendelssohn fled to this country from Nazi Germany in 1937. Since 1942 he has played with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.

Dealer Getting Rid Of Huge Stock Of TV Sets Via Auction

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—A man had $5,000,000 of television sets on his hands and mighty few buyers.

So he hired a hotel ballroom and began the first large-scale auction of television sets, running full blast from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m., and selling well below wholesale to anyone who raised a hand.

Now in its second day, the auction has cleared 1,300 of the 8,000 sets out of his warehouses, with nearly 50 more going out each hour.

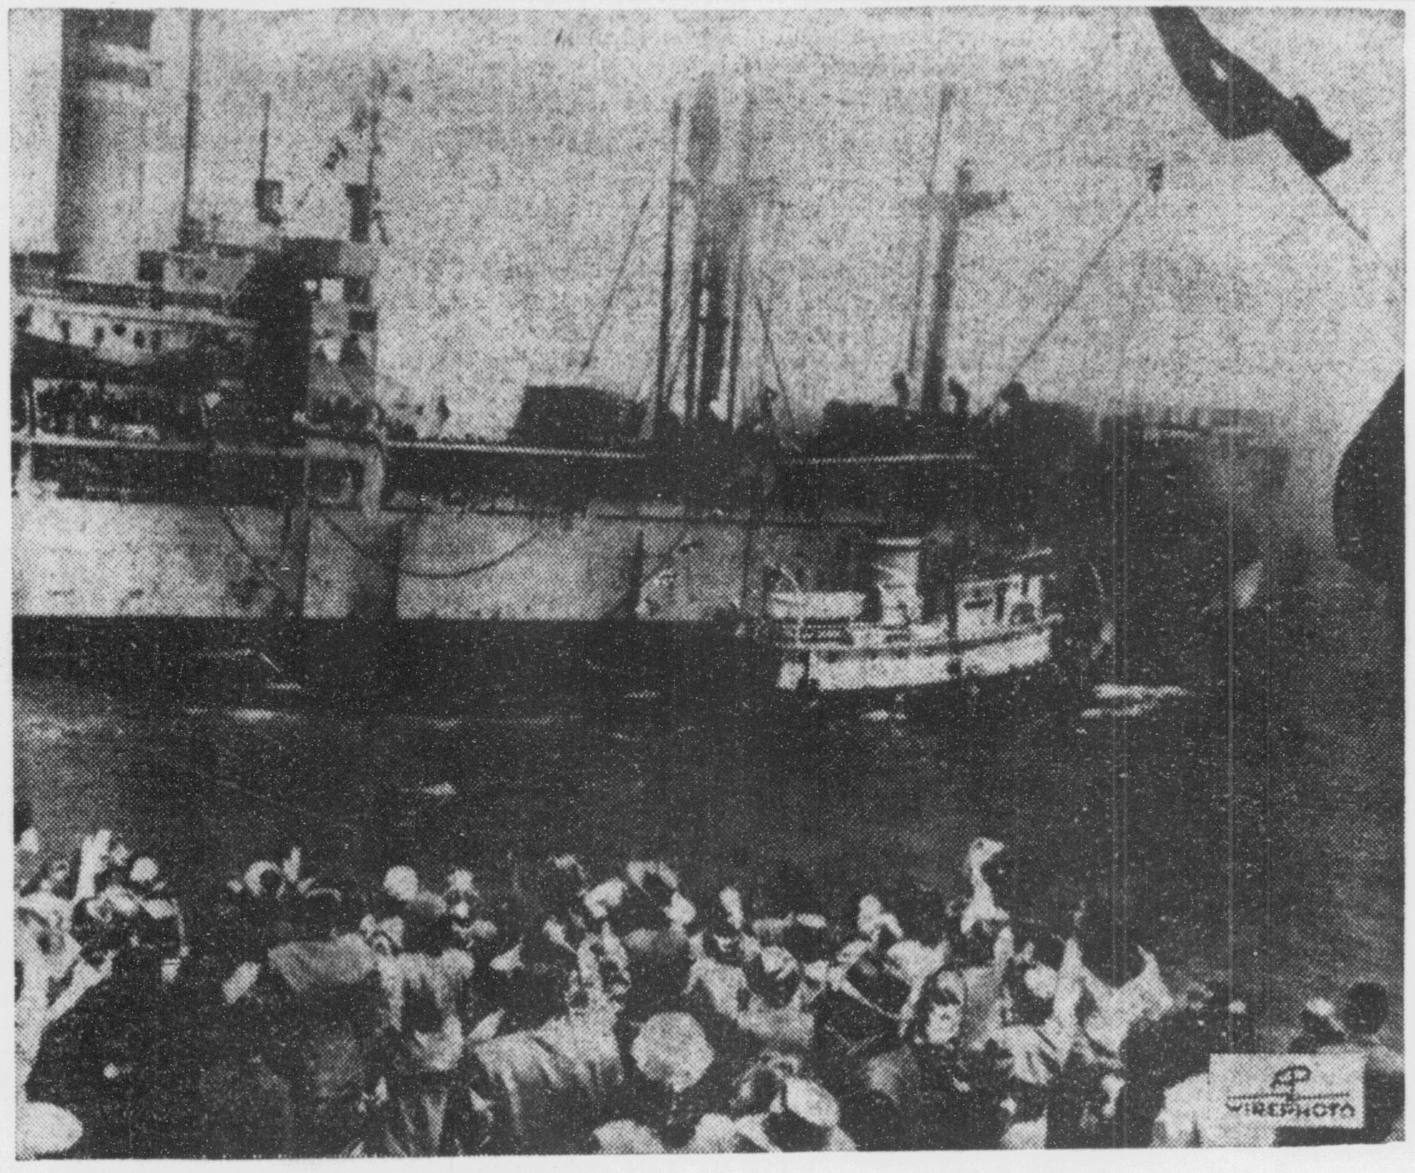
Dollar volume has been running around $125,000 daily.

Prices? A 14-inch table model which retails for $220 sold for $140 today. A 17-inch set retailing at $320 sold for $175. A 21-inch combination including radio, phonograph and built-in bar which listed for $895 sold for $485.

Al Saphin, president of Monarch-Saphin Co., inc., said he's going to keep on selling until his huge stock is gone. He thinks that will take about ten days.

He asserted he bought sets last summer and fall and was heavily stocked when the government tightened up on credit and made the minimum cash down payment 25 per cent.

"We were all sitting around with our tongues hanging out" after that happened," Saphin said, so he decided to auction off his sets.



Returning Korea Veterans Greeted

Friends and relatives aboard a ferryboat (foreground) wave greetings to 1,422 American veterans of Korean fighting who crowd the rails of the transport Lt. Raymond Beaudoin as it steams toward its berth in San Francisco harbor yesterday. The troops were brought home under the Army's rotation plan.

France Would Broaden Planned China Embargo

Proposes Including Transport Materials

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., May 15 (AP)—France moved today to broaden the projected world-wide United Nations embargo against war materials for Communist China to include transportation materials, such as locomotives and steel rails.

French Delegate Francis Lacoste tossed in the proposal. One aim apparently is to prevent the shipment of steel rails and other supplies from West Germany to Peiping.

Soviet Blast Expected

These supplies would be wrapped up within the embargo on arms, ammunition, war materials and supplies for making war materials which was approved yesterday by an 11 to 0 vote of a U. N. sanctions committee.

The Soviet bloc, headed by Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik, is certain to blast the United States and United Nations policies toward Red China and the Korean war in debate in the Political Committee of the U. N. General Assembly, called to meet at 9:30 a. m. E.S.T. Thursday.

British, French Change Minds

That is standard procedure for Malik. But there are reports from reliable quarters that nations usually considered friendly to the United States and the Western Powers may have something to say about testimony which has been given on the U. N. before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees in Washington.

Testimony concerning the amount of outside aid going to Communist China was said in diplomatic circles here have been a major factor in overcoming British and French resistance to an embargo at this time. The British and French held out against a resolution for weeks but suddenly changed their minds last week and welcomed the United States proposal for an embargo.

Gov. Wright Again Aims To Command States Righters

PALM BEACH, Fla., May 15 (AP)—Mississippi's Gov. Fielding L. Wright, who led the southern Democrats' rebellion in 1948, wants to do it again in '52.

This time he wants his "States Rights" supporters to come from the ranks of unhappy Republicans as well as Democrats.

In a speech before the National Cottonseed Products Association today, Gov. Wright outlined a plan which he said would avoid a "splinter" party but nevertheless would bring about a third party coalition under the banner of States' Rights and Americanism.

"The old traditional Republican Party is too reactional to inspire confidence. The present party in power has lost the confidence of the American people and I am convinced will not be returned to office," he declared.

Congress Backs Proposed Arms Embargo On China

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Congress called on the United Nations today to ban shipment of war goods to Communist China.

By unanimous vote, both Senate and House adopted a resolution making the request to the U. N. General Assembly.

The House adopted also a resolution saying the Communist Chinese government should not be allowed to membership in the U. N. This also was approved by unanimous voice vote.

The resolution against sending war materials to Red China is aimed at strengthening the hand of the United States delegation to the U. N.

The delegation is trying to get the U. N. General Assembly to approve an embargo.

Bernard Baruch Hails Marshall

LEXINGTON, Va., May 15 (AP)—Elder Statesman Bernard M. Baruch hailed Defense Secretary Marshall today as the author of the global strategy which saved the free world once and can save it again.

Baruch was the speaker at full-dress military ceremonies honoring the 70-year-old soldier statesman whose military career of more than half a century began here at Virginia Military Institute in 1897.

It was officially Marshall Day at the institute and the day was mainly Marshall. Fifteen of his classmates of the class of '01 were in the brass-sprinkled crowd of some 8,000 that turned out in his honor.

And the old classmates offered him "a delightful respite" at a reunion dinner last night from the big debate on military policy now going on in Washington, Marshall said.

Baruch's tribute to Marshall in a speech dedicating a barracks entrance as the George C. Marshall Arch was the climatic honor to a series given VMI's most distinguished alumnus.

Power-For-Industry Plan Started By AEC

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission announced today the start of a new program to determine the feasibility of private firms producing atomic power for industry and cities.

The announcement said contracts are being signed with four groups of companies to make studies that will help decide costs and other factors involved in atomic plant construction. Also they will help decide whether private firms can construct such plants within the next few years.

An AEC spokesman said a by-product of such plants would be the production of fissionable materials—the stuff out of which atomic weapons are made. By law the government would be the only customer for such materials.

Chandler Won't Run

VERSAILLES, Ky., May 15 (AP)—Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler said tonight he would not enter the governor's race in Kentucky this year.

Truman's Sister Involved In Auto Speeding Case

Was "Sightseeing" In Government Car

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Rep. Keating (R-NY) told the House today Presidents Truman's sister figured in a 75-mile-an-hour speeding incident over the weekend while "sightseeing" in a government limousine.

He said the sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman, was escorted by two U. S. Secret Service guards.

Dryly, Keating commented:

"The President has been taking everybody else in the country for a ride for six years. Why not his own sister?"

Republican House members chuckled as Keating related details of the incident, peppered with gibes at Mr. Truman's "squandering" of American taxpayers' money.

The New York legislator said the episode took place last Saturday night when the government automobile, with Miss Truman as a passenger, was nabbed for speeding at 70 to 75 m.p.h. through Hopewell, N. Y.

Hopewell is a little town near Canandaigua, south of Rochester, N. Y.

Keating said the car was driven by Grady A. Stowe, who gave his occupation as a special U. S. agent assigned to guard a member of the president's family.

In Canandaigua, Deputy Sheriff Arthur Scammel said today Stowe was arrested and fined $20 for doing 70 m.p.h. along two highway routes east of Canandaigua.

The woman riding in Stowe's automobile did not identify herself or get out of the car.

Stowe reported to Secret Service headquarters in Washington that he was going 55 to 60 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone when he was stopped by a deputy sheriff.

Stowe, 33, is listed on Secret Service records as a native of Greenville, S. C., who was assigned to Grandview, Mo., in 1946, to help protect the President's family. He became a uniformed guard in the Secret Service in 1941, served in the Navy 1942-45, and then returned to the guard force.

Ohio Couple Can't Decide Whether To Accept Fortune

AKRON, O., May 15 (AP)—Salesman James N. Gape and his wife couldn't decide today whether they will accept an estate worth nearly a quarter-million dollars.

The estate, in England, includes two huge manor houses on 1,000 acres of rolling, beautiful land, and belonged to his cousin, Mrs. Sibyl Gape. It is worth $254,941 in American money. However, before she died in Caxton, Cambridgeshire, Dec. 30, she specified in her will that Gape must take up "permanent residence in England" within six months of her death. This in effect would mean Gape giving up his American citizenship. U. S. law provides a naturalized citizen who leaves the U. S. and resides in his country of origin for three years or any foreign state for five years loses his citizenship.

It is that, among other things, that makes Gape, British-born but a naturalized citizen, hesitate. The deadline is June 30.

Gape, who is 46, and came to the United States at the age of 12, was out on his rounds as a salesman for the Jenkins Valve Co. But his wife, found at their modest home in neighboring Cuyahoga Falls, spoke for him.

"It would be heartbreaking," she conceded, "to turn down such a fortune. But we still haven't decided what we will do. Leaving America is something hard to do. My husband has been very upset about making such a difficult decision."

General Rejects MacArthur's Plans But Refuses To Reveal Details Of Pre-Ouster Parley

Talk Of Possible Contempt Action Against Chairman Of JCS Follows

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley opened fire on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Korean war plans today but he refused to tell senators anything that was said at the first White House meeting on the MacArthur ouster.

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff declared MacArthur's war proposals "would involve us in the wrong war, at the wrong place, at the wrong time and with the wrong enemy."

With this sweeping declaration, Bradley rejected the MacArthur program for stronger measures against Red China. He also said such a move would "increase the risk of global war" at a time when the United States is not ready for a showdown with Russia.

Then Bradley lined up with Secretary of Defense Marshall in holding out hope the Chinese Reds can be forced into peace terms in Korea without spreading operations beyond that country.

"We think," he said, "that if we can punish the Chinese severely enough in Korea xxx then we will be in a position, and they will be in an attitude, where some kind of an arrangement may be reached and a settlement made."

In the midst of this testimony, the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees' hearing into Asia policy and the MacArthur firing was thrown into sharp dispute when Bradley refused to tell what was said at the meeting on April 6—five days before the General officially was fired.

Contempt Action Possible

The refusal immediately brought talk of possible contempt action to test Bradley's right to refuse but there was no real indication such action would be taken.

"If I have to publicize my recommendations and my discussions," Bradley said, "my value as a (presidential) adviser has been ruined."

He said he could not reveal what was said at the meeting without the permission of President Truman himself. Others present were Secretary of Defense Marshall, Secretary of State Acheson, and Presidential Adviser W. Averell Harriman.

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis) sought to get the information from Bradley during today's session of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees, which are inquiring into Asian policy and MacArthur's ouster.

Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the inquiry group upheld Bradley's position but he said the committee members have "a very effective and thorough way" of deciding the matter if they desire.

"They can overrule the chair," Russell said, "and decide Gen. Bradley in contempt and let the courts pass on the issue once and for all."

Bradley To Testify Again

Sen. Lodge (R-Mass) said: "I do think we might as well face the fact that what we face is the question of citation of centempt." But he said the question should not be pushed at this time because he is convinced the procedure never results in getting the desired information.

Bradley was called back to the witness chair for another session tomorrow, starting at 9 a. m., E.S.T. The transcript of the hearing showed that Chairman Russell (D-Ga) told him: "Be back with us (tomorrow), General. I don't know whether you will have a chance to testify or not."

It was not stated whether this meant the committee might consume tomorrow's time arguing whether to try to compel Bradley to

British Far East Policy Defended By U. N. Delegate

Jebb Praises Truman Limited War Course

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—Sir Gladwyn Jebb defended British Far East policy today against American criticism. He pledged that, despite differences, "Great Britain is wholeheartedly with the United States in the general struggle against Communist-inspired aggression."

Without mentioning either President Truman or Gen. MacArthur by name, he also praised Truman's policy of a "limited war" in Korea as taking "more guts" than the policy of expanding the conflict to China.

Jebb's speech, to the New York City Bar Association and billed as a major policy address, was one of the most forthright exposition of British views since the "greatest debate" began following the ouster of Gen. MacArthur.

Opposes Total Embargo

The British delegate to the U. N. said his government would not support a total embargo on trade with Red China because it would be "cutting off your nose to spite your face" and that it would keep the port of Hong Kong open to such trade.

He said British recognition of the Chinese Reds was not a moral judgment but recognition that they control the mainland. He said, hawever, that Britain would not support Peiping's bid for admission into the U. N. until Peiping ends its aggression in Korea.

Jebb then outlined a four-point policy which he urged Britain and America to follow jointly to prosecute the Korean war and avoid world war III. It was:

1. "We should not take any action which conceivably might result in a quick ending of the war x x x, but which might equally well, if not more probably, result x x x in a wide extension of the conflict.

Backs Negotiated Peace

2. "x x x A world war, even though it may be forced upon us, should not be allowed to occur through any deliberate action on our part."

3. "x x x The word appeasment should be avoided x x x since it can be interpreted as excluding any kind of negotiations—even for a cease fire."

4. "x x x We should, by resolute and determined action in Korea, seek to bring the Chinese to a conference table at which, first of all, a Korean settlement, in harmony with the declared principles of the United Nations and involving the withdrawal of all non-Korean troops, will be negotiated and, this having been done, other subjects of obvious interest to the Chinese will at least be debated."

Reds Reported At U. S. Sub Yard

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 15. (AP)—Navy intelligence and the Federal Bureau of Investigation are investigating American Legion assertions that a Communist cell capable of sabotage is operating at the Portsmouth naval submarine shipyard.

The Navy made this announcement at Boston today. At the same time Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said he has asked the House Un-American Activities Committee to inquire into the charges.

The charges of Communist activity was voiced by Frank Sawyer adjutant of the New Hampshire American Legion, who said "we are convinced that a sufficient amount of evidence exists to warrant a thorough investigation." He added that the Legion had passed on its findings to Sen. Bridges after investigating since October.

The yard is on the border between New Hampshire and Maine. It builds and reconditions submarines.

Reds Strike Two Sharp Blows

Long-Awaited Enemy Drive Might Be Near

Communists Force ROKs From Inje

TOKYO, Wednesday, May 16 (AP)—Chinese and North Korean Communist troops struck two sharp blows in Central Korea today and the stepped-up Red activity indicated the long-awaited Communist push might be imminent.

South Korean troops withdrew from Inje, strategic road center four miles north of the 38th parallel, under Communist pressure. Soon afterwards the Reds moved into the town.

Field dispatches described the new Red thrusts as "heavy probing attacks." They were accompanied by the usual whistle and bugle-blowing that mark the customary Chinese attack.

AP Correspondent Nate Polowetzky at U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said the Chinese struck at Allied positions east of Chunchon at 1:30 a. m. They laid down raking rifle and automatic weapons fire until United Nations forces withdrew.

Allied Guns Disperse Attackers

Then Allied big guns roared and dispersed the Red attackers with heavy losses 40 minutes after fight began.

There were few details available on abandonment of Inje itself. The own was retaken last week by outh Korean troops as the Communists built up heavy concentrations of men and supplies to the orth.

An Eighth Army briefing officer nnounced that following the South orean withdrawal, Communist rucks filled with soldiers were oberved moving into the town late nto the night. Red artillery opened p in a three-hour barrage against outh Koreans still northeast of he town.

The Communists who have been reparing a new major spring drive ince early May apparently shifted he center of their attack force from he westen front north of Seoul to he Chunchon area in the center f the peninsula.

Bad Weather Boon To Reds

The briefing officer said that "the nemy attitude has changed from elatively light to strong resistance gainst friendly patrols." He estiated 2,850 Reds were killed or ounded in ground action Tuesday.

Bad weather proved a boon to the eds and a hindrance to the Allied ir arm. Heavy rain and low clouds mited 50 Air Force planes to only 5 sorties after dark. It made a otal of only 178 sorties for the day.

Red forces were on the move uesday both west and east of hunchon in the center of the llied defense line. They hurdled wo river defense barriers in front f strong American defense positions.

No Red Peace Feelers, Top Officials Say

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Government authorities said today there have been no peace feelers from the Chinese Communists.

The high command's hope is to force the Reds to seek peace eventually by inflicting heavy losses on them, but so far the enemy has shown no slackening in his determination to throw U. N. forces out of Korea.

A flurry of peace feeler rumors had gone the rounds at the Capitol, evidently set off by misunderstanding of Defense Secretary Marshall's testimony at the MacArthur hearing. This prompted questions to fully informed officials as to just what the situation is and how bright are the prospects for an early peace.

The specific answer was that all the evidence the American government can get indicates that the Reds are still determined to try to expel the U. N. forces from Korea.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White declared today in comment on the rumors at the Capitol that "I know of no peace feelers."

Committee Votes Half-Cent Boost In Gasoline Tax

Prospective Hikes Exceed $6.5 Billion

WASHINGTON, May 15. (AP)—Prospective tax increases mounted above $6,500,000,000 today as the House Ways and Means Committee voted to raise the federal levy on gasoline from 1½ to two cents a gallon.

The half-cent increase is expected to bring in an additional $210,000,000 annually, if approved by House and Senate. The Treasury has asked that the rate be raised to three cents. The committee boggled at the increase, rejecting it tentatively yesterday only to approve it today. An alternative proposal, to reestablish the $5 a year use tax ("windshield tax") on cars, was turned down.

The tax-drafting group voted to cut the tax on domestic telegrams from 25 per cent to 20 per cent, for an estimated $8,000,000 revenue loss. A million dollars of the loss would be offset, however, by raising the rate on bowling alleys and pool tables from $20 to $25 a unit.

The committee rejected a series of other revenue raising proposals, including:

A penny a bottle tax on soft drinks, which with a one-cent per ounce tax on fountain syrups, also rejected, was estimated to be good for $280,000,000 a year.

Taxes on candy and chewing gum at the rate of 20 per cent at the manufacturers' level; estimated revenue, $230,000,000.

Application of the cabaret tax to ballrooms.

A proposed increase in the tax on local telephone service, from 15 to 20 per cent.

A 20 per cent jewelry tax on silver plated flatware—knives, forks and spoons.

A tax on fur-lined and fur-trimmed coats where the fur is the component of chief value.

A tax on electric saws and other power tools used in hobby shops.

Deputies Nod, Adjourn

PARIS, May 15 (AP)—The deputies of the U. S., Britain, France and the Soviet Union met today, but had just about time enough to nod to each other, and then adjourned their 52nd fruitless meeting trying to work out an agenda for a foreign ministers' conference.

Nobody wanted to speak, so the session was adjourned until tomorrow.

Defense Effort Leaders Seek Wider Powers

But Maybank Says Cut Is More Likely

WASHINGTON, May 15. (AP)—The top men of economic mobilization teamed up today in urging pleas for wider emergency powers. But the answer from a key senator was that they may have to give up some authority they already have if they are to save anything at all.

After a day of hearings on the proposal to extend and broaden the Defense Production Act, Chairman Maybank (D-SC) of the Senate Banking Committee told Price Stabilizer Michael V. DiSalle:

"I want to warn the administration it is going to be very, very hard to get any bill passed at all. I don't know if there is going to be any extension."

DiSalle came back with the statement that he has "more confidence in the sense of responsibility of Congress than to think they would not pass" the extension for the emergency law, now due to expire June 30.

The price chief, protesting against any such step by Congress, did agree to bring the committee an estimate of the possible effects if the lawmakers should require relaxation of some of the price controls on farm products. The proposition was put up to him as a price the administration might have to pay to keep any sort of price and wage powers and other economic control authority.

Maybank said he did not advocate the formula but asked for a study of the effects of an amendment which would require that price ceilings on farm products not be set lower than parity or the highest price level in February or March, 1951. The limit now is parity or the highest price between May 24 and June 25, 1950.

Parity is a price level determined by legal formula, designed to be fair to farmers in terms of the cost of things they buy.

Chairman Spence (D-Ky) of the House Banking Committee, which also is busy on the production law, called its extension "absolutely essential."

These generally parallel views, meanwhile, were expressed by other members of the economic high command:

Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston—"We simply cannot mount the defense effort we need" without a stabilized economy and tight curbs on inflation. He said extension and broadening of the defense production act is essential.

Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson—His job is proceeding faster than he expected and the need for curbs may taper off a year from now "if we have some unity." But he said one result will be greater business dislocations late this year and early in 1952.

Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer—It will be "disastrous" if the production act, due to expire June 30, is not extended, and wage-price controls are needed along with other powers.

Mendelssohn Drops Dead During Concert

BALTIMORE, May 15 (AP)—Felix Robert Mendelssohn, concert cellist and great grand nephew of the famous composer, fell dead tonight while giving a concert at the Cadoa Hall.

He was playing Dohnanyi's Concert Piece in D Major, which he played in its world premier in Berlin in 1918.

Mendelssohn fled to this country from Nazi Germany in 1937. Since 1942 he has played with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.

Dealer Getting Rid Of Huge Stock Of TV Sets Via Auction

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—A man had $5,000,000 of television sets on his hands and mighty few buyers.

So he hired a hotel ballroom and began the first large-scale auction of television sets, running full blast from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m., and selling well below wholesale to anyone who raised a hand.

Now in its second day, the auction has cleared 1,300 of the 8,000 sets out of his warehouses, with nearly 50 more going out each hour.

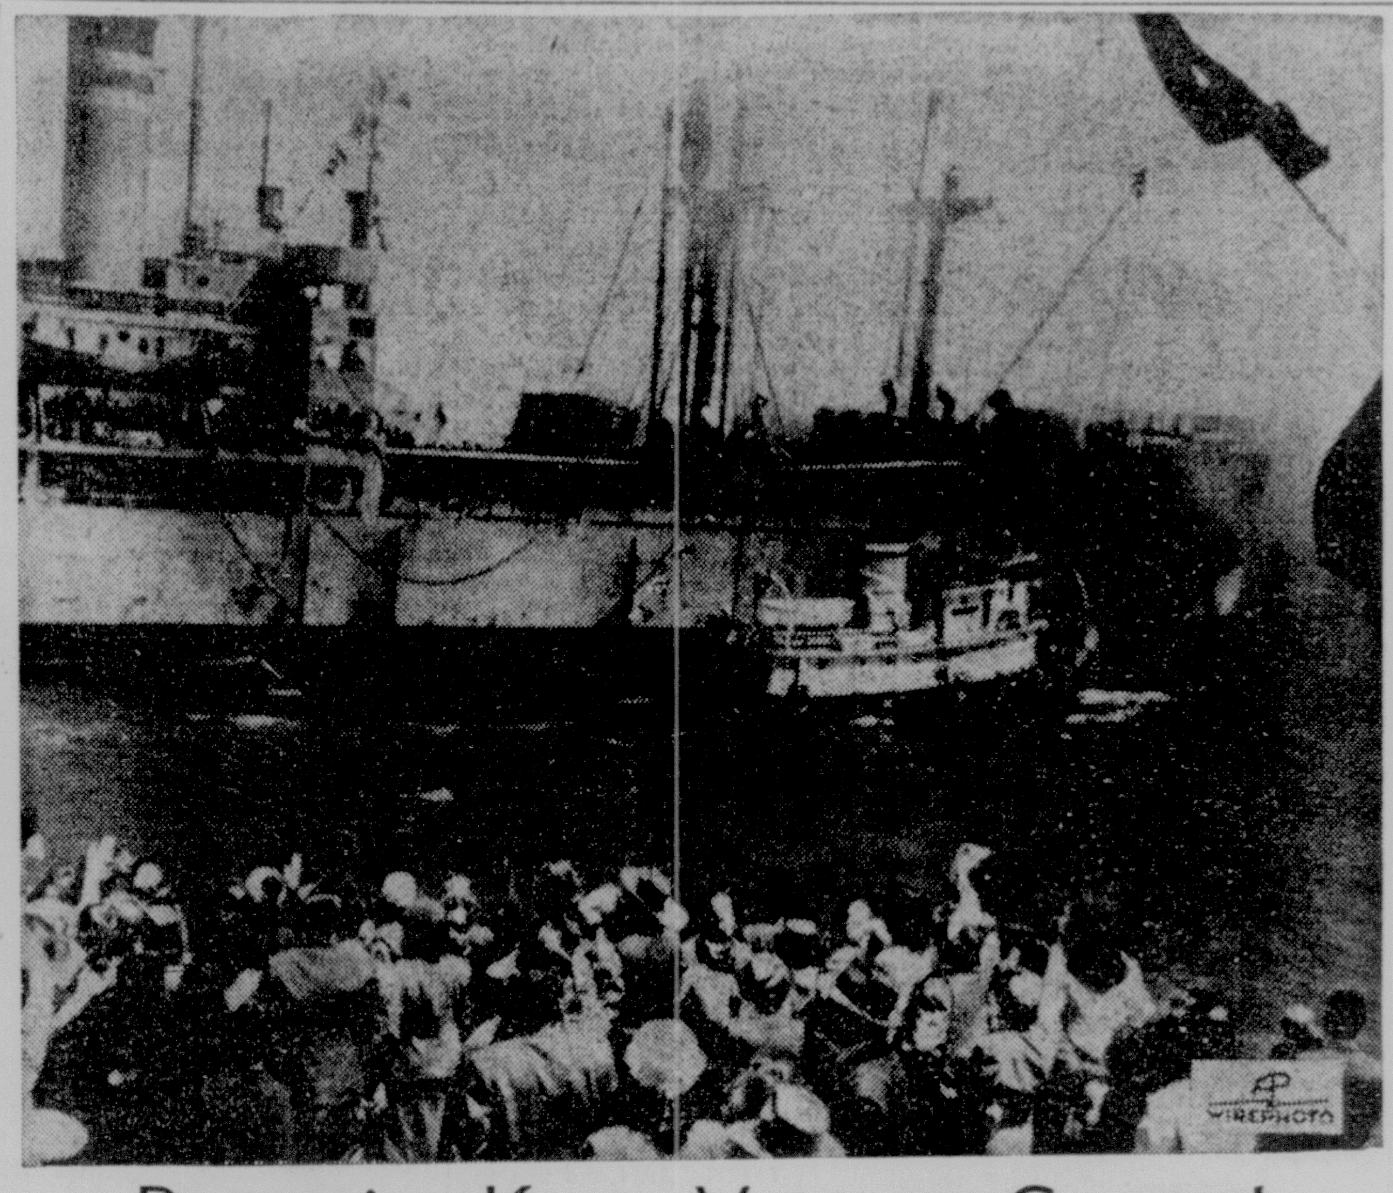
Dollar volume has been running around $125,000 daily.

Prices? A 14-inch table model which retails for $220 sold for $140 today. A 17-inch set retailing at $320 sold for $175. A 21-inch combination including radio, phonograph and built-in bar which listed for $895 sold for $485.

Al Saphin, president of Monarch-Saphin Co., inc., said he's going to keep on selling until his huge stock is gone. He thinks that will take about ten days.

He asserted he bought sets last summer and fall and was heavily stocked when the government tightened up on credit and made the minimum cash down payment 25 per cent.

"We were all sitting around with our tongues hanging out" after that happened," Saphin said, so he decided to auction off his sets.



Returning Korea Veterans Greeted

Friends and relatives aboard a ferryboat (foreground) wave greetings to 1,422 American veterans of Korean fighting who crowd the rails of the transport Lt. Raymond Beaudoin as it steams toward its berth in San Francisco harbor yesterday. The troops were brought home under the Army's rotation plan.

France Would Broaden Planned China Embargo

Proposes Including Transport Materials

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., May 15 (AP)—France moved today to broaden the projected world-wide United Nations embargo against war materials for Communist China to include transportation materials, such as locomotives and steel rails.

French Delegate Francis Lacoste tossed in the proposal. One aim apparently is to prevent the shipment of steel rails and other supplies from West Germany to Peiping.

Soviet Blast Expected

These supplies would be wrapped up within the embargo on arms, ammunition, war materials and supplies for making war materials which was approved yesterday by an 11 to 0 vote of a U. N. sanctions committee.

The Soviet bloc, headed by Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik, is certain to blast the United States and United Nations policies toward Red China and the Korean war in debate in the Political Committee of the U. N. General Assembly, called to meet at 9:30 a. m. E.S.T. Thursday.

British, French Change Minds

That is standard procedure for Malik. But there are reports from reliable quarters that nations usually considered friendly to the United States and the Western Powers may have something to say about testimony which has been given on the U. N. before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees in Washington.

Testimony concerning the amount of outside aid going to Communist China was said in diplomatic circles here have been a major factor in overcoming British and French resistance to an embargo at this time. The British and French held out against a resolution for weeks but suddenly changed their minds last week and welcomed the United States proposal for an embargo.

Gov. Wright Again Aims To Command States Righters

PALM BEACH, Fla., May 15 (AP)—Mississippi's Gov. Fielding L. Wright, who led the southern Democrats' rebellion in 1948, wants to do it again in '52.

This time he wants his "States Rights" supporters to come from the ranks of unhappy Republicans as well as Democrats.

In a speech before the National Cottonseed Products Association today, Gov. Wright outlined a plan which he said would avoid a "splinter" party but nevertheless would bring about a third party coalition under the banner of States' Rights and Americanism.

"The old traditional Republican Party is too reactional to inspire confidence. The present party in power has lost the confidence of the American people and I am convinced will not be returned to office," he declared.

Congress Backs Proposed Arms Embargo On China

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Congress called on the United Nations today to ban shipment of war goods to Communist China.

By unanimous vote, both Senate and House adopted a resolution making the request to the U. N. General Assembly.

The House adopted also a resolution saying the Communist Chinese government should not be allowed to membership in the U. N. This also was approved by unanimous voice vote.

The resolution against sending war materials to Red China is aimed at strengthening the hand of the United States delegation to the U. N.

The delegation is trying to get the U. N. General Assembly to approve an embargo.

Bernard Baruch Hails Marshall

LEXINGTON, Va., May 15 (AP) — Elder Statesman Bernard M. Baruch hailed Defense Secretary Marshall today as the author of the global strategy which saved the free world once and can save it again.

Baruch was the speaker at full-dress military ceremonies honoring the 70-year-old soldier statesman whose military career of more than half a century began here at Virginia Military Institute in 1897.

It was officially Marshall Day at the institute and the day was mainly Marshall. Fifteen of his classmates of the class of '01 were in the brass-sprinkled crowd of some 8,000 that turned out in his honor.

And the old classmates offered him "a delightful respite" at a reunion dinner last night from the big debate on military policy now going on in Washington, Marshall said.

Baruch's tribute to Marshall in a speech dedicating a barracks entrance as the George C. Marshall Arch was the climatic honor to a series given VMI's most distinguished alumnus.

Power-For-Industry Plan Started By AEC

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission announced today the start of a new program to determine the feasibility of private firms producing atomic power for industry and cities.

The announcement said contracts are being signed with four groups of companies to make studies that will help decide costs and other factors involved in atomic plant construction. Also they will help decide whether private firms can construct such plants within the next few years.

An AEC spokesman said a by-product of such plants would be the production of fissionable materials—the stuff out of which atomic weapons are made. By law the government would be the only customer for such materials.

Truman's Sister Involved In Auto Speeding Case

Was "Sightseeing" In Government Car

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Rep. Keating (R-NY) told the House today Presidents Truman's sister figured in a 75-mile-an-hour speeding incident over the weekend while "sightseeing" in a government limousine.

He said the sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman, was escorted by two U. S. Secret Service guards.

Dryly, Keating commented:

"The President has been taking everybody else in the country for a ride for six years. Why not his own sister?"

Republican House members chuckled as Keating related details of the incident, peppered with gibes at Mr. Truman's "squandering" of American taxpayers' money.

The New York legislator said the episode took place last Saturday night when the government automobile, with Miss Truman as a passenger, was nabbed for speeding at 70 to 75 m.p.h. through Hopewell, N. Y.

Hopewell is a little town near Canandaigua, south of Rochester, N. Y.

Keating said the car was driven by Grady A. Stowe, who gave his occupation as a special U. S. agent assigned to guard a member of the president's family.

In Canandaigua, Deputy Sheriff Arthur Scammel said today Stowe was arrested and fined $20 for doing 70 m.p.h. along two highway routes east of Canandaigua.

The woman riding in Stowe's automobile did not identify herself or get out of the car.

Stowe reported to Secret Service headquarters in Washington that he was going 55 to 60 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone when he was stopped by a deputy sheriff.

Stowe, 33, is listed on Secret Service records as a native of Greenville, S. C., who was assigned to Grandview, Mo., in 1946, to help protect the President's family. He became a uniformed guard in the Secret Service in 1941, served in the Navy 1942-45, and then returned to the guard force.

Ohio Couple Can't Decide Whether To Accept Fortune

AKRON, O., May 15 (AP)—Salesman James N. Gape and his wife couldn't decide today whether they will accept an estate worth nearly a quarter-million dollars.

The estate, in England, includes two huge manor houses on 1,000 acres of rolling, beautiful land, and belonged to his cousin, Mrs. Sibyl Gape. It is worth $254,941 in American money. However, before she died in Caxton, Cambridgeshire, Dec. 30, she specified in her will that Gape must take up "permanent residence in England" within six months of her death. This in effect would mean Gape giving up his American citizenship. U. S. law provides a naturalized citizen who leaves the U. S. and resides in his country of origin for three years or any foreign state for five years loses his citizenship.

It is that, among other things, that makes Gape, British-born but a naturalized citizen, hesitate. The deadline is June 30.

Gape, who is 46, and came to the United States at the age of 12, was out on his rounds as a salesman for the Jenkins Valve Co. But his wife, found at their modest home in neighboring Cuyahoga Falls, spoke for him.

"It would be heartbreaking," she conceded, "to turn down such a fortune. But we still haven't decided what we will do. Leaving America is something hard to do. My husband has been very upset about making such a difficult decision."

General Rejects MacArthur's Plans But Refuses To Reveal Details Of Pre-Ouster Parley

Talk Of Possible Contempt Action Against Chairman Of JCS Follows

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley opened fire on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Korean war plans today but he refused to tell senators anything that was said at the first White House meeting on the MacArthur ouster.

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff declared MacArthur's war proposals "would involve us in the wrong war, at the wrong place, at the wrong time and with the wrong enemy."

With this sweeping declaration, Bradley rejected the MacArthur program for stronger measures against Red China. He also said such a move would "increase the risk of global war" at a time when the United States is not ready for a showdown with Russia.

Then Bradley lined up with Secretary of Defense Marshall in holding out hope the Chinese Reds can be forced into peace terms in Korea without spreading operations beyond that country.

"We think," he said, "that if we can punish the Chinese severely enough in Korea xxx then we will be in a position, and they will be in an attitude, where some kind of an arrangement may be reached and a settlement made."

In the midst of this testimony, the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees' hearing into Asia policy and the MacArthur firing was thrown into sharp dispute when Bradley refused to tell what was said at the meeting on April 6—five days before the General officially was fired.

Contempt Action Possible

The refusal immediately brought talk of possible contempt action to test Bradley's right to refuse but there was no real indication such action would be taken.

"If I have to publicize my recommendations and my discussions," Bradley said, "my value as a (presidential) adviser has been ruined."

He said he could not reveal what was said at the meeting without the permission of President Truman himself. Others present were Secretary of Defense Marshall, Secretary of State Acheson, and Presidential Adviser W. Averell Harriman.

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis) sought to get the information from Bradley during today's session of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees, which are inquiring into Asian policy and MacArthur's ouster.

Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the inquiry group upheld Bradley's position but he said the committee members have "a very effective and thorough way" of deciding the matter if they desire.

"They can overrule the chair," Russell said, "and decide Gen. Bradley in contempt and let the courts pass on the issue once and for all."

Bradley To Testify Again

Sen. Lodge (R-Mass) said: "I do think we might as well face the fact that what we face is the question of citation of centempt." But he said the question should not be pushed at this time because he is convinced the procedure never results in getting the desired information.

Bradley was called back to the witness chair for another session tomorrow, starting at 9 a. m., E.S.T. The transcript of the hearing showed that Chairman Russell (D-Ga) told him: "Be back with us (tomorrow), General. I don't know whether you will have a chance to testify or not."

It was not stated whether this meant the committee might consume tomorrow's time arguing whether to try to compel Bradley to

British Far East Policy Defended By U. N. Delegate

Jebb Praises Truman Limited War Course

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—Sir Gladwyn Jebb defended British Far East policy today against American criticism. He pledged that, despite differences, "Great Britain is wholeheartedly with the United States in the general struggle against Communist-inspired aggression."

Without mentioning either President Truman or Gen. MacArthur by name, he also praised Truman's policy of a "limited war" in Korea as taking "more guts" than the policy of expanding the conflict to China.

Jebb's speech, to the New York City Bar Association and billed as a major policy address, was one of the most forthright exposition of British views since the "greatest debate" began following the ouster of Gen. MacArthur.

Opposes Total Embargo

The British delegate to the U. N. said his government would not support a total embargo on trade with Red China because it would be "cutting off your nose to spite your face" and that it would keep the port of Hong Kong open to such trade.

He said British recognition of the Chinese Reds was not a moral judgment but recognition that they control the mainland. He said, hawever, that Britain would not support Peiping's bid for admission into the U. N. until Peiping ends its aggression in Korea.

Jebb then outlined a four-point policy which he urged Britain and America to follow jointly to prosecute the Korean war and avoid world war III. It was:

1. "We should not take any action which conceivably might result in a quick ending of the war x x x, but which might equally well, if not more probably, result x x x in a wide extension of the conflict.

Reds Reported At U. S. Sub Yard

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 15. (AP)—Navy intelligence and the Federal Bureau of Investigation are investigating American Legion assertions that a Communist cell capable of sabotage is operating at the Portsmouth naval submarine shipyard.

The Navy made this announcement at Boston today. At the same time Sen. Bridges (R-NH) said he has asked the House Un-American Activities Committee to inquire into the charges.

The charges of Communist activity was voiced by Frank Sawyer adjutant of the New Hampshire American Legion, who said "we are convinced that a sufficient amount of evidence exists to warrant a thorough investigation." He added that the Legion had passed on its findings to Sen. Bridges after investigating since October.

The yard is on the border between New Hampshire and Maine. It builds and reconditions submarines.

Fearless Fagan, Master Reunited

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—Fearless Fagan, the 400-pound, four-year-old Nubian lion the Army did not want, was back home in Los Angeles today.

The big cat slipped into the limelight a few months ago when his owner, 24-year-old Floyd Humeston, of nearby Thousand Oaks, was drafted into the Army.

The Army wanted Humeston; it did not want Fagan.

So, the lion began to travel. He first went to a park in Venice, Cal., and then to Fort Ord where his young master was stationed. Again the Army said, "no soap."

The Monterey, Cal., Humane Society took over the task of seeing that Fearless Fagan got his meals on time. From there he went on tour with a Columbus, O., circus and then on a short visit to a Columbus zoo.

Meanwhile, Humeston, fearing that he would lose his knack of animal training, managed to line up a deal with a San Francisco theater chain for an exhibition.

Lion and master were reunited at Burbank airport.

Fagan arrived aboard the Flying Tiger Airlines.

Jumbo's Bite Worth $1,550

PITTSBURGH, May 15 (AP)—Arthur P. Shultz of Cheverly, Md., was bitten on the right hand by "Jumbo Rollerhead," a 700-pound pig at the Somerset (Pa) County Fair Sept. 1, 1948.

Shultz filed a $10,000 damage suit against the fair association. The association claimed Shultz teased "Jumbo."

This, Shultz emphatically denied.

That's the way things stood until today when the fair association and Shultz reached a settlement. Federal Judge Nelson Stewart approved an agreement whereby Shultz agreed to settle his claim for $1,550.

Baltimore Judge Gets Pain From This Case

BALTIMORE, May 15 (AP)—Magistrate Avrun Rifman got a pain out of one case yesterday.

Payne blamed Bayne and Bayne blamed Payne for smashing a pane and stealing a pair of shoes.

The accused were Raymond Bayne, 27 and Thomas Payne, 43. They were charged with breaking a clothing store window yesterday and stealing the shoes.

Police Sergeant Dennis Roche said Payne was arrested with the shoes in his pocket.

But as for the pane—Bayne blamed Payne and Payne blamed Bayne.

That was enough for Rifman. He held both in $500 bail for grand jury action.

Scientific Basis Offered For Old Belief Moon Affects Emotions

By JACK McLAUGHLIN

PINEHURST, N. C.—(INS)—The idea that the moon can affect human emotions has fired the imaginations of men for centuries—and now a young psychiatrist offers a scientific basis for the belief.

Dr. Leonard J. Ravitz, of Duke University, told the North Carolina Medical Society of his discovery of a connection between the moon and people's moods.

Ravitz's research resulted from earlier findings which showed that all living beings are complex electrical circuits. Research at Yale University developed methods for measuring the minute electrical currents present in trees and mice. Dr. Ravitz carried the same methods over into the study of human beings.

He took 17 college students, 11 men and six girls, and began testing them with a highly sensitive instrument, the microvoltmeter, which measures the voltage differences between the head and chest.

At the same time the testing was being done, careful notes were taken on the students' moods and personal problems.

When the electrical readings were compared with the record of mood changes, Dr. Ravitz made a startling discovery. There was a definite relationship between the two.

What was even more astonishing is that the variations in electrical voltage showed a cyclical pattern—a pattern that duplicated the phases of the moon. During a full and new moon, the voltage readings were either very high or very low.

Since the electrical readings varied with the students' moods and these voltage changes also showed a direct connection with the moon's cycle, Dr. Ravitz concluded that the moon definitely affected a person's emotions.

Most engine wear comes from engine deposits—Amoco-Gas leaves

NO METALLIC DEPOSIT!

The kind of gas you buy has a direct connection with the bills you have to pay for engine repair.

For science now knows that most engine cylinder wear is caused by deposits remaining after combustion, and contamination. These cause wear, serious wear to pistons, cylinder walls and valves.

Amoco-Gas helps prevent this wear because it contains no harmful ingredients. It leaves no metallic deposit.

Moreover, Amoco-Gas can burn completely because it is all petroleum with no harmful ingredients added. This means more useful power, superior performance and mileage.

Use Amoco-Gas—for longer car life. There's nothing like it!

Mathematician Believes His Tests Show It's Possible To See Future

Is it possible for man to see into the future? Dr. Samuel G. Soal, lecturer in pure mathematics at Queen Mary College of the University of London, answers a dramatic "yes," and the following story tells why.

By JACK McLAUGHLIN

DURHAM, N. C.—(INS)—When Dr. Samuel G. Soal began experiments in telepathy he was frankly skeptical. He did not think it possible for any man to transmit thoughts to another without using one of the five senses.

However, he explained to International News Service today, he devised a test that he hoped would determine whether telepathy is a reality. It involved the use of five playing cards with pictures of animals on them. The subject was to guess which card a "sender" behind a screen was looking at.

There was no communication of any kind between the two persons and a choice was made every three seconds until 25 guesses were made.

By chance, the subject should have guessed one out of five. Anything greater than this was to be evidence of extra-sensory perception, or telepathy.

Experiments with 160 persons ended in failure. The guesses were no better than could be expected by chance. Dr. Soal was more than ever convinced that telepathy was impossible.

But he decided that perhaps this gift was possessed by only a very few. A wealthy friend put an advertisement in a London newspaper offering 500 pounds to anyone scoring 18 out of 25 on the test.

One person answered — Basil Shackleton, a London photographer. Shackleton was so positive he possessed the power of telepathy that Dr. Soal began a series of tests with him. But they too, ended in failure.

Shackleton guessed no better than the rest, but in studying the results of the tests, Dr. Soal noticed a peculiar thing. Shackleton was not guessing the card the sender was looking at, but he was guessing the next card—one that was to be picked three seconds later. And he was doing it eight to ten times out of 25—far greater than could be expected by chance.

Dr. Soal, who is now doing research at Duke University, said he could hardly believe what was happening. The photographer was guessing the card 2-½ seconds before anyone knew what it would be. He was actually looking 2-½ seconds into the future.

Elaborate precautions were then taken to insure that no one knew the card until a fraction of a second before it was picked and the tests were continued until 11,000 guesses were made.

Shackleton guessed one-third of the cards before they were thought of. The mathematical odds against his doing this by chance were a decillion to one. (A decillion is a 1 with 33 zeros after it.) This, said Dr. Soal, amounted to a practical impossibility that it was chance.

Dr. Soal says Shackleton's amazing ability "forces us to re-evaluate our notions of time." He thinks the past, present and future all exist simultaneously in our subconscious mind.

"Philosophers and physicists have long realized that our ideas of time are illusory," Dr. Soal said. "Our conscious mind becomes aware of events as they occur in the present, but the subconscious mind knows the future also. Shackleton was in some way able to foresee the future in his conscious mind a few seconds before it became the present."

Dr. Soal realizes that this explanation sounds fantastic, but he is firmly convinced that his tests show it is so.

Deferment For Students

Yesterday was the deadline (it may be extended) for college students to apply for scholastic aptitude tests to establish eligibility for draft deferment. The tests will be given on May 26, June 16, and June 30, Saturdays, also on Thursday, July 12, for students certifying that their religious principles forbid them to take the test on a Saturday. At least 225,000 of the one million non-veteran males now in college are expected to apply for examination.

The tests will be offered at about 1,200 centers in the United States and territories under the administration of the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N. J. This agency conducts examinations at present for the U. S. Navy, Department of State, Atomic Energy Commission, Military and Naval Academies.

Application blanks and instructions have been made available to students at all 4,000 local boards in the Selective Service system. Each registrant must meet the cost of his transportation to and from a testing center.

The elaborate testing system would have been junked under a proposal by Rep. Kilday (D., Texas) in its original form. On April 4 Kilday offered an amendment to the Military Training and Service bill forbidding educational deferment "as the result of, or on the basis of, any test, examination, selection system, or any other means" conducted by a government agency or private institution.

But the Kilday amendment as adopted by the House on April 11 provided merely: "No local board, appeal board, or other agency of the Selective Service System shall be required to postpone or defer any (student) . . . solely on the basis of any test (or) examination." Thus Selective Service could go ahead with its examinations, but the final decision on deferment would remain with the local boards.

The Senate version of the bill specifically authorizes the President to remove temporarily from training "not to exceed 75,000 persons annually in order to . . . engage in study or research . . . determined by him to be in the national interest." Conferences on the Senate and House versions of the bill were postponed during the Senate MacArthur hearings.

To take the aptitude tests, students must: 1) intend to request occupational deferment; 2) be under 26 years of age; 3) have already begun college or university studies and plan to continue them; 4) be taking the test for the first time. No provision has been made for high school students. Selective Service Director Hershey has said he believes "the great mass of college freshmen will assemble freely next fall without interference from Selective Service."

Students in professional schools of medicine, dentistry, osteopathy, or veterinary medicine would be deferred on the basis of a certificate from the school stating that they are satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course. Students in other graduate schools would present a statement from the school attesting that they are meeting requirements for a degree and are expected to obtain it. Students entering graduate schools would be required either to be in the upper half of the male section of their classes or to score 75 or better on the aptitude test—equal to a score of 120 or better on the Army General Classification Test.

Students entering senior year or taking five- or six-year undergraduate courses would have either to be in the upper three-fourths of the class or to score 70 or better on the aptitude tests. Students entering junior or sophomore year in college would have either to score 70 or better on the aptitude tests or stand, respectively, in the upper two-thirds or upper one-half of the class.

Subsidy Issue Revived

Any expectation that revision of the Defense Production Act would be accomplished with reasonable expedition fades with Mobilization Director Wilson's advocacy of granting authority now for "limited" farm subsidies as a means of rolling back food prices.

He thereby introduces a highly controversial issue and places himself on the side of labor union leaders, who have been highly critical of him in other matters, and in opposition to most farm organizations.

In his appearance before the Senate Banking Committee at the opening of hearings on amendment of the act, Mr. Wilson was represented as supporting all of President Truman's recommendations as presented to Congress last month. But Mr. Truman appeared to urge subsidies only as a last resort.

Either Mr. Truman has changed his mind or Mr. Wilson has gone a step beyond what the President asked for. In any event, the unfavorable reaction to the mobilization director's proposal was immediately manifested by some members of the committee.

Senator Bricker wanted to know, for instance, if the proposal was not in principle a version of Secretary Brannan's plan, rejected by Congress last year. Mr. Wilson admitted it was "in a marginal way," adding that he didn't like the plan, either, but that subsidies would be used only in an emergency.

That is a statement not likely to be readily accepted in view of the aggressive use of subsidies during World War II, once they had congressional authorization, at a cost to the taxpayers of $4,250,000,000 in the 1941-46 period.

Well Rejected

Several months ago the Soviet Union, without explanation, withdrew from negotiations among the United States and the other interested parties for a peace pact with Japan. These negotiations went forward in Russia's absence and have now reached the point where peace with Japan is counted upon this summer.

But now the Soviet Union proposes that a conference of foreign ministers, including a representative of Communist China, be convened within two months to prepare a peace draft for Japan. The gist of the Russian program is a demilitarized Japan, from which American occupation forces would be withdrawn.

In this and other respects, such as admission of Red China to the pact negotiations, the Russian script runs counter to the draft that the United States has presented to the other interested powers. The Soviet outline is a maneuver to split the Western allies and to forestall a separate peace pact between them and Japan.

The United States wants to push through a peace treaty without further delay. A conference of foreign ministers, with Russia participating, to negotiate a peace for Japan would get nowhere.

The Department of State did well to issue an immediate forthright, public rejection of the latest Soviet proposal "which the Soviet Union makes periodically whenever it wants to stall the conclusion of a Japanese peace. It has always been rejected and will be again.'

Rashes May Be Perplexing

DERMATOLOGY is that branch of medicine concerned with the skin and the physician who has made this phase his speciality is known as a dermatologist. His lot is not an easy one because there are more than 2,000 skin disturbances and many are so closely related it may be difficult to tell them apart. Furthermore, the cause so often escapes detection that treatment is necessarily handicapped.

Some blemishes have a preference for certain parts of the body. Acne, for example, favors the face chest, and back. Psoriasis, eczema, and seborrhea are not unusual on the scalp, and cold sores select the lips and other mucous membranes. Contrary to popular opinion, fungous infections account for only a few of the eruptions noted on the hands and feet. Contact dermatitis and bacterial infections are just as prevalent and more disabling.

Individuals with chronic skin disorders are prone to go from one dermatologist to another. The one who is on the case when the eruption disappears is hailed as a hero. This is justifiable in some cases, whereas in others nature should be given some of the credit. Certain outbreaks, for example, are self-limited; they last six to eight weeks and then vanish spontaneously. The physician who is on the job at that time obviously is the man of the hour.

But there are tricks to every trade and the wise dermatologist has found that many miracles occur by letting well enough alone. Skin blemishes are unsightly and the victims are likely to apply anything to obtain relief. They are so insistent, the dermatologist is almost forced to give a prescription. Sometimes the rash continues even though the original lesions are gone. The explanation is that dermatitis has developed because of irritation or sensitivity produced by the medication. Such an outbreak often disappears as soon as all drugs are stopped. Meanwhile, a simple cream may be employed to satisfy man's inherent desire for "something to put on." Overtreatment dermatitis is common, especially among those who think they are suffering from ringworm of the feet. There are other origins of blisters in this area, and they flare up when irritated. The same thing may occur even though ringworm exists; the solution that was strong enough to kill the fungus was also strong enough to burn or irritate the skin.

Many skin disorders are of internal origin, hence salves and ointments are of no value. One of the toughest involves the nervous system and the patient may be doubtful of the physician's skill when he says that the dermatitis is brought on by nerves. The second obstacle is to find the cause of the cause. Why is the patient upset emotionally and why are these cutaneous manifestations occurring? In many, the lesions appear only when the individual is upset; they fade when everything becomes peaceful.

Skin cancer also falls into the realm of the dermatologist. These lesions do not grow as rapidly as other malignancies but when unattended their ultimate fate is the same. Sores that do not heal are open to suspicion; many become crusted but peel before complete healing has taken place. Others ulcerate and may or may not bleed. The lips and cheeks are favorite locations. The pigmented mole also must be treated with respect. Whenever it increases in size or deepens in color, complete removal is likely to be recommended.

TOMORROW: When an enlarged prostate requires treatment.

REDUCING AND PREGNANCY

Mrs. N. writes: Three months ago I started dieting to lose weight and now find I'm pregnant three months. Have I harmed my baby by going on a diet?

REPLY

No. From this point on, eat food that is nourishing but not fattening.

LET HIM DECIDE

A writes: My 23 year old brother, who is entering his third year of medical school, is seeing a girl who is trying to get married. It is a hardship for his family to see him through school and I don't think we should be called upon to support a wife also. This girl says she is willing to work and see him through the hard years but we tell him to wait until he has time to meet different kinds of girls and make enough money to meet responsibilities. But he says he will be too old if he waits until then. What do you think?

REPLY

He is old enough to decide what he wants to do. His financial status should govern his decision rather than the fact that you want him to meet other girls.

JOINT STRAIN

E. O. writes: Are bowlegged people more susceptible to arthritis?

Fabulous Greeks Control Large Part Of World Shipping; Marshall Plan Shipments Paid For Liberty Ships; Rollcall Reveals Vast Empire

(Ed. Note—This is the second column by Drew Pearson on Greek shipping).

WASHINGTON.—While the United States has poured several billion dollars into Greece to prevent that country from going Communist, a little group of Greek shipping men have put across the type of high finance that helps inspire communism.

Paying almost no taxes in their own country, and not carrying Marshall Plan goods to Greece free, as did the government-owned vessels of France, England, Italy, etc., these Greek shipping men bought surplus American Liberty ships at bargain rates and, using Greek government finances to guarantee their deals, now control a large part of the world's shipping.

Meanwhile the American public has been paying heavy taxes to support Greece. Meanwhile also the average Greek citizen living in Greece is only a few steps removed from poverty, while the Greek shipping magnates live in luxury in New York and London.

What they did was to buy 98 surplush Liberty ships with Greek government credit. Immediately thereafter, shipping rates went up, thanks to the shipment of Marshall Plan goods abroad, and in two or three trips the Greek magnates were able to pay for the purchase price of the Liberty ships.

Then they turned around and used the huge profits to buy American oil tankers, and more recently to order construction of some of the biggest tankers in the oil industry. As a result they will almost dominate the long-term oil transport business.

Greek Rollcall

Aristoles S. Onassis, who operates a great tanker fleet through a Panamanian corporation, the Olympic Oil Line has just ordered two 40,000-ton tankers to be built at Hamburg, plus three 21,000-ton tankers. Furthermore he has the cash to pay for them. Onassis also has a fleet of dry cargo vessels under the Panamanian flag, another fleet under the Honduran flag and at least one or two ships under the Norwegian flag. Formerly an Argentine resident, he owns homes in Athens, Greece; and Montevideo, Uruguay; is represented in this country by Simpson, Spence and Young of New York City.

Another fabulous Greek shipping czar is the Callimanopulos combine, owner of the Hellenic Lines, Ltd., and purchasers of two of the original, bargain-rate Liberty ships; also owners of at least one Panamanian shipping company, the General Shipping Corporation, which has been buying American ships and transferring them to the Panamanian flag. Callamanopulos also owns an interest in the Fenton Steamship Company, Ltd.

Plenty of Cash

On March 28, 1946, Callimanopulos reported the following assets to the Maritime Commission: $79,840.94 in cash at the National City Bank of New York; $500,000 in 2½ per cent U. S. bonds; $260,000 in 2¼ per cent U. S. bonds; $58,000 in U. S. certificates of indebtedness. He also reported a joint account with his wife of $23,466.60 in cash in the National City Bank and 1,500 shares of the American Export Line. In escrow, he had $342,500 in 2¼ per cent U. S. bonds and $155,000 in U. S. certificates of indebtedness.

Another Greek magnate, John M. Carras has been buying American ships and transferring them to Panamanian registry under his own name, listing Santa Monica, Calif., as his address. He also owns Cia De Navegacion Las Cruces, S. A., a Panamanian corporation, together with a 25 per cent interest in the Atlantic Maritime Corporation, the Panamanian company controlled by the Livanos Brothers. Carras also has holdings in London, has been vice president and general manager of the Standard Shipbuilding Corporation of San Pedro, Calif.

A. G. Pappadakis owns the Panamanian corporation, Cia Lama De Vapores, which has been buying American vessels for Panamanian registry. Pappadakis also bought one of the original Liberty ships in his own name. On March 30, 1947, he reported to the Maritime Commission that he had $275,000 in American banks.

C. G. Gratsos bought two of the original Liberty ships as C. G. Gratsos and Bros., and another one as Constantine G. Gratsos. He now owns several vessels, flying both the Panamanian and Honduran flags.

On August 1, 1946, Gratsos reported to the Maritime Commission that he had $85,000 in cash in New York banks and large holdings in Draculis Ltd. of London.

Greek Prime Minister

George N. Moatsos and Sophocles E. Venizelos, now premier of Greece, bought an original Liberty ship, and are now listed as the owners of the Compania Maritima Isthmenia, a Panamanian corporation.

M. C. and J. C. Hadjipateras bought one Liberty ship each, are reported to be big operators in the Greek maritime circle. In 1947, M. C. Hadjitpateras informed the Maritime Commission that he had $160,000 in New York banks and 15,000 pounds in London banks; J. C. Hadjipateras reported that he had $210,000 in New York banks and 25,000 pounds in London banks.

John S. Coumantaros is another fabulous Greek shipper who has heavy holdings in Nomikos, Ltd., of London; J. Coumantaros, Ltd., of Buenos Aires; and considerable real estate and shipping interests in Greece, itself. The record of the 98 Liberty ships shows that one was sold to John S. Coumantaros and one sold to Panos S. Coumantaros. John S. also told the Maritime Commission that he had $170,000 in deposit in the National City Bank of New York and other deposits in British and South American banks.

Other Greeks with big shipping interests include Dimitrios J. Chandris; George Coutsouvelis; S. G., Maris A. and Michael A. Embiricos; Leonard, Basil, Nicholas and Michael Goulandris; Constantine Konialidis; Panaghis C. Lemos; Dimitrios Pateras; Nicholas Rethymnis; G., Alexandros and Nomicos Sigalas; Evangelos Nomikos, George Vergottis and D. J. Negroponte. Of these, Constantine Konialidis lists himself as a citizen of Uruguay, but has bought several American ships for various South American registry.

Cleveland's Health Museum was the first such museum established in the Western Hemisphere.

Errors In China

By MARK SULLIVAN

THE MILLIONS of official words that stream out of Senate committee hearings, and the more millions of unofficial words spoken or written in popular discussion, all deal with one broad question, is Gen. MacArthur right or is President Truman right? The question has many angles and facets. The broad answer, likely to reflect the opinions and emotions of most of the people lies in a comparison of the two men and their respective associations with two countries in the Far East—MacArthur's with Japan, Truman's with China.

The comparison is contrast. Japan, when MacArthur took it over, was an enemy nation. MacArthur's taking over was by conquest. China, when Mr. Truman became responsible for our relations with it after becoming President in 1945, was a friend and ally—had been our ally throughout the war and our friend historically. At the end of five years, MacArthur's charge had become our friend. China, after our relations with it had been in charge of the Truman administration for five years, was our enemy, its government a Communist one making war upon us.

While all this is an extremely simplified picture, it is essentially accurate, it is withn the framework of the controversy between and about Presdent Truman and Gen. MacArthur. This picture is largely what the Senate committee dealt with in the six days of its hearings of Secretary of Defense Marshall last week. The committee aimed to determine what is best to do with our present relations with Communist China, a relation of war; whether it is best to adopt a plan about conduct of the present stage of the war, proposed by Gen. MacArthur, or a different thought overlapping one proposed by President Truman. Along with this the committee went deep into the whole history of the Truman Administration policy about China.

With that policy Gen. Marshall had had close association. For more than a year—from December, 1945, to January, 1947—he was in China as a special representative of the President, later he was Secretary of State; still later he became and is now Secretary of Defense.

Answers Were Candid

Many of the questions asked of Secretary Marshall last week had to do with an important part of the policy about China, and his answers were candid. The directive he had received from the Administration was to bring about a truce between the longexisting Nationalist government of China under Chiang Kai-shek and a group that was attacking it. Upon arrival in China Marshall discovered that the leaders of the attacking group were Communists, zealous and truculent ones. Nevertheless Marshall tried (vainly as it turned out) to bring the two groups into an integrated government. The attempt at an integrated government stands as justification for criticism of Marshall's judgment. Critics of his course are on tenable grounds when they say he ought to have known that whenever communism gets a foothold in an existing government it strives hard to take the country all the way into communism. An outstanding example of success in this is Czechoslovakia.

Tragic Error

One detail of the Truman Administration's course about China, now readily recognizable as a tragic error was discouragement of the long-standing and thoroughly anti-Communist Nationalist government under Chiang Kai-shek, resulting in advantage to the anti-Chiang group that is today the Communist government of China. Another error was failure to take with sufficient seriousness warnings of how great a danger to the United States the fall of China to Russian communism would be. The warnings were many and from high sources, including military experts and scholars familiar with world history. The gist of the warnings was that if Russian communism should overrun China, the capacity of the United States to defend itself agianst attack by Russia would come in question. The warnings are now largely supported by present conditions. It is familiar that the Pacific defense line of the United States has been endangered by aggression of Russian communism in China and Korea, and would be more than merely endangered if Formosa should pass under control of Russian communism.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Truman placed upon General MacArthur on January 13 last the responsibility of deciding whether or not to evacuate United Nations troops from Korea—a question of both policy and military importance not only to America but to her allies.

That's the reason why the January 13 message from the President was not a "directive." General MacArthur was to decide, after reading some general observations from the President.

This information, obtained from Capitol Hill sources, is partly revealed in the testimony of General Marshall.

The all-important message which General MacArthur sent to Washington just prior to January 13 asked specific instruction on three points—whether he was to evacuate his troops from Korea, hold on for a limited period, or try to stay on indefinitely. The General asked for such instructions because previous messages to him were not clear. He never did get a direct reply to his queries. Instead, a message in abstract terms came from the President referring to various objectives of the war in Korea and winding up with the comment that the message was not a "directive."

Declined Taking Responsibility

General Collins, who was in Tokyo conferring with General MacArthur at the time, thought Mr. Truman meant that the UN forces were to stay a limited time. General Vandenberg, who was present at the Tokyo conference, expressed the opinion that the President's message meant an indefinite resistance and no evacuation.

General MacArthur himself interpreted the President's message to mean that he should continue indefinitely to resist and that evacuation was not to be considered at all. He promptly notified General Ridgway of this decision.

The interesting thing about the episode is that, despite the presence in Washington of most of the high officials who comprise the National Security Council, including the President, the Administration here declined to take the responsibility for making the real decision of policy at that time in Korea.

While this very important conference was going on in Tokyo, General Collins had with him a copy of the January 12 recommendations of the Joint Chiefs of Staff covering the four points first mentioned in General MacArthur's address to Congress concerning a blockade, the use of Nationalist troops, and air reconnaissance over Manchuria and China's coastal areas.

It was mentioned in the conference but no copy of this memorandum was left with General MacArthur. Nothing was said to him to the effect that, when he did get the January 12 communication—as he did two weeks later by mail—he was to disregard it or to consider it as having been modified by the very general observations made in the January 13 message of the President.

The foregoing illustrates why Senator Russell of Georgia, Democrat, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, notified General Marshall on Monday that the committee had been getting information and messages in "dribbles" and that now it wanted a complete and comprehensive account of the messages exchanged and not just portions of the messages.

Testimony Not Clear

Again and again senators asked the Secretary of Defense to point out in what respects the January 13 message from President Truman to General MacArthur was to be considered as modifying or contradicting the January 12 paper of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Secretary Marshall declined to give this information, stating that he preferred the committee get it from General Bradley.

Senator Russell also pointed out to Secretary Marshall that the committee was desirous of getting a written memorandum stating specifically what directives or orders or policies General MacArthur is alleged to have violated as a forerunner to dismissal. Up to now the testimony of the Secretary of Defense on this has been far from clear.

When other witnesses are put on the stand, it will become apparent that the so-called "directive" of December 6, which asked that all officials here and abroad refrain from making public statements without clearing them with Washington, was interpreted by Washington officials themselves—who advised General MacArthur—as intended to apply to adresses and speeches and not to the commander's comment on military events in Korea nor to conversations or letters. If the latter fact is established—namely, that General MacArthur was so advised subsequent to the December 6 "directive"—this important bit of evidence would throw a good deal of light on the whole controversy. Senators familiar with the background say such evidence exists and will be produced.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Doctrine Of Perfection

FRANKLIN D. Roosevelt tried to establish the doctrine that there are good countries and bad; that there are good dictators and bad ones. Stalin was a good dictator; Hitler and Franco were bad dictators. Chiang Kai-shek, during part of this period, was a good dictator; then he became corrupt.

The doctrine of perfection which Roosevelt applied abroad, neither he nor Harry Truman applied in the United States or among the countries which we supported with our largesse. The Kefauver investigation surely disclosed numerous corruptions in our own country, to say nothing of the existence of a black market during the war which was not without some sanction by official personalities. Some day, when there is another dispensation, investigations will be made into the extraordinary earnings by public officials, during periods of high taxation, when most Americans can barely put away a dollar.

However, that is not the point of this discussion, which is, rather, that when the United States needs and seeks allies, its measure must be their value to the United States. We have been led astray from that basic doctrine by the global baloney which is constantly being sliced for us. We are brought back to it by General Douglas MacArthur, who in his testimony said:

"The basic reason for the support that might be rendered to (Chiang Kai-shek) is . . because the interests of the United States of America coincide with anyone who is opposed to communism. It doesn't necessarily mean that we approve of everything he says or does. But it does mean that he assists us in our resistance to this world menace; and that any choice between him and communism would naturally resolve in his favor."

General Douglas MacArthur knows, as does everybody who has worked in this field, that the Acheson-Marshall-Truman policy on Formosa is unrelated to the needs and purposes of the United States but is a defensive measure to protect their vested interest in their own mistakes. That they should so respond to a situation that can ruin their reputations and destroy their political careers is neither unusual nor unnatural.

Yet, the issue is so much bigger than these men, and as General MacArthur has said, it is not dust that is settling on the soil of Korea but the blood of our sons. If Formosa is unnecessary for the defense of the United States, then there can be no reason for quarreling over this issue, but General MacArthur holds:

"A—It is my own personal opinion that the greatest political mistake we made in a hundred years in the Pacific, was in allowing the Communists to grow in power in China.

"I think, at one stroke, we undid everything, starting from John Hay, through Taft, Leonard Wood, Woodrow Wilson, Henry Stimson, and all those great architects of our Pacific policy.

"I believe it was fundamental, and I believe we will pay for it, for a century.

"Q — Well, let us ask the direct question:

"What would you have done — what would you have advised, under the circumstances that existed back there in 1945 — what would you have done?

"A — I would have given such assistance to the conservative government of China as to have checked the growing tide of communism.

"A very little help and assistance, in my belief, at that time, would have accomplished that purpose.

"Q — For a good many years you have been acquainted, I take it, with the Russians and with the Communist infiltration.

"Would you have sought to have gotten those two forces together?

"A — I did not catch the question.

"Q — Would you have sought to have amalgamated the Commies and Nationalists — have gotten them together?

"A — Just about as much chance as getting them together as that oil and water will mix.

"Q — That was your idea at that time, too, was it not?

"A — It would be then, and always. The whole history of the world shows that."

In that colloquy lies the whole story of the greatest mistake in a century. Time alone can show how damaging, how devastating have been the errors of Teheran and Yalta. But this we do see: MacArthur in five years won the friendship of 80,000,000 conquered Japanese; in the same five years, the Acheson-Marshall-Truman policy lost us the friendship of 450,000,000 Chinese, who for more than a century respected Americans above all other Westerners. They are now satellites of Soviet Russia.

Deferment For Students

Yesterday was the deadline (it may be extended) for college students to apply for scholastic aptitude tests to establish eligibility for draft deferment. The tests will be given on May 26, June 16, and June 30, Saturdays, also on Thursday, July 12, for students certifying that their religious principles forbid them to take the test on a Saturday. At least 225,000 of the one million non-veteran males now in college are expected to apply for examination.

The tests will be offered at about 1,200 centers in the United States and territories under the administration of the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N. J. This agency conducts examinations at present for the U. S. Navy, Department of State, Atomic Energy Commission, Military and Naval Academies.

Application blanks and instructions have been made available to students at all 4,000 local boards in the Selective Service system. Each registrant must meet the cost of his transportation to and from a testing center.

The elaborate testing system would have been junked under a proposal by Rep. Kilday (D., Texas) in its original form. On April 4 Kilday offered an amendment to the Military Training and Service bill forbidding educational deferment "as the result of, or on the basis of, any test, examination, selection system, or any other means" conducted by a government agency or private institution.

But the Kilday amendment as adopted by the House on April 11 provided merely: "No local board, appeal board, or other agency of the Selective Service System shall be required to postpone or defer any (student) . . . solely on the basis of any test (or) examination." Thus Selective Service could go ahead with its examinations, but the final decision on deferment would remain with the local boards.

The Senate version of the bill specifically authorizes the President to remove temporarily from training "not to exceed 75,000 persons annually in order to . . . engage in study or research . . . determined by him to be in the national interest." Conferences on the Senate and House versions of the bill were postponed during the Senate MacArthur hearings.

To take the aptitude tests, students must: 1) intend to request occupational deferment; 2) be under 26 years of age; 3) have already begun college or university studies and plan to continue them; 4) be taking the test for the first time. No provision has been made for high school students. Selective Service Director Hershey has said he believes "the great mass of college freshmen will assemble freely next fall without interference from Selective Service."

Students in professional schools of medicine, dentistry, osteopathy, or veterinary medicine would be deferred on the basis of a certificate from the school stating that they are satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course. Students in other graduate schools would present a statement from the school attesting that they are meeting requirements for a degree and are expected to obtain it. Students entering graduate schools would be required either to be in the upper half of the male section of their classes or to score 75 or better on the aptitude test—equal to a score of 120 or better on the Army General Classification Test.

Students entering senior year or taking five- or six-year undergraduate courses would have either to be in the upper three-fourths of the class or to score 70 or better on the aptitude tests. Students entering junior or sophomore year in college would have either to score 70 or better on the aptitude tests or stand, respectively, in the upper two-thirds or upper one-half of the class.

Subsidy Issue Revived

Any expectation that revision of the Defense Production Act would be accomplished with reasonable expedition fades with Mobilization Director Wilson's advocacy of granting authority now for "limited" farm subsidies as a means of rolling back food prices.

He thereby introduces a highly controversial issue and places himself on the side of labor union leaders, who have been highly critical of him in other matters, and in opposition to most farm organizations.

In his appearance before the Senate Banking Committee at the opening of hearings on amendment of the act, Mr. Wilson was represented as supporting all of President Truman's recommendations as presented to Congress last month. But Mr. Truman appeared to urge subsidies only as a last resort.

Either Mr. Truman has changed his mind or Mr. Wilson has gone a step beyond what the President asked for. In any event, the unfavorable reaction to the mobilization director's proposal was immediately manifested by some members of the committee.

Senator Bricker wanted to know, for instance, if the proposal was not in principle a version of Secretary Brannan's plan, rejected by Congress last year. Mr. Wilson admitted it was "in a marginal way," adding that he didn't like the plan, either, but that subsidies would be used only in an emergency.

That is a statement not likely to be readily accepted in view of the aggressive use of subsidies during World War II, once they had congressional authorization, at a cost to the taxpayers of $4,250,000,000 in the 1941-46 period.

Well Rejected

Several months ago the Soviet Union, without explanation, withdrew from negotiations among the United States and the other interested parties for a peace pact with Japan. These negotiations went forward in Russia's absence and have now reached the point where peace with Japan is counted upon this summer.

But now the Soviet Union proposes that a conference of foreign ministers, including a representative of Communist China, be convened within two months to prepare a peace draft for Japan. The gist of the Russian program is a demilitarized Japan, from which American occupation forces would be withdrawn.

In this and other respects, such as admission of Red China to the pact negotiations, the Russian script runs counter to the draft that the United States has presented to the other interested powers. The Soviet outline is a maneuver to split the Western allies and to forestall a separate peace pact between them and Japan.

The United States wants to push through a peace treaty without further delay. A conference of foreign ministers, with Russia participating, to negotiate a peace for Japan would get nowhere.

The Department of State did well to issue an immediate forthright, public rejection of the latest Soviet proposal "which the Soviet Union makes periodically whenever it wants to stall the conclusion of a Japanese peace. It has always been rejected and will be again.'

Rashes May Be Perplexing

DERMATOLOGY is that branch of medicine concerned with the skin and the physician who has made this phase his speciality is known as a dermatologist. His lot is not an easy one because there are more than 2,000 skin disturbances and many are so closely related it may be difficult to tell them apart. Furthermore, the cause so often escapes detection that treatment is necessarily handicapped.

Some blemishes have a preference for certain parts of the body. Acne, for example, favors the face chest, and back. Psoriasis, eczema, and seborrhea are not unusual on the scalp, and cold sores select the lips and other mucous membranes. Contrary to popular opinion, fungous infections account for only a few of the eruptions noted on the hands and feet. Contact dermatitis and bacterial infections are just as prevalent and more disabling.

Individuals with chronic skin disorders are prone to go from one dermatologist to another. The one who is on the case when the eruption disappears is hailed as a hero. This is justifiable in some cases, whereas in others nature should be given some of the credit. Certain outbreaks, for example, are self-limited; they last six to eight weeks and then vanish spontaneously. The physician who is on the job at that time obviously is the man of the hour.

But there are tricks to every trade and the wise dermatologist has found that many miracles occur by letting well enough alone. Skin blemishes are unsightly and the victims are likely to apply anything to obtain relief. They are so insistent, the dermatologist is almost forced to give a prescription. Sometimes the rash continues even though the original lesions are gone. The explanation is that dermatitis has developed because of irritation or sensitivity produced by the medication. Such an outbreak often disappears as soon as all drugs are stopped. Meanwhile, a simple cream may be employed to satisfy man's inherent desire for "something to put on." Overtreatment dermatitis is common, especially among those who think they are suffering from ringworm of the feet. There are other origins of blisters in this area, and they flare up when irritated. The same thing may occur even though ringworm exists; the solution that was strong enough to kill the fungus was also strong enough to burn or irritate the skin.

Many skin disorders are of internal origin, hence salves and ointments are of no value. One of the toughest involves the nervous system and the patient may be doubtful of the physician's skill when he says that the dermatitis is brought on by nerves. The second obstacle is to find the cause of the cause. Why is the patient upset emotionally and why are these cutaneous manifestations occurring? In many, the lesions appear only when the individual is upset; they fade when everything becomes peaceful.

Skin cancer also falls into the realm of the dermatologist. These lesions do not grow as rapidly as other malignancies but when unattended their ultimate fate is the same. Sores that do not heal are open to suspicion; many become crusted but peel before complete healing has taken place. Others ulcerate and may or may not bleed. The lips and cheeks are favorite locations. The pigmented mole also must be treated with respect. Whenever it increases in size or deepens in color, complete removal is likely to be recommended.

REDUCING AND PREGNANCY

REPLY

No. From this point on, eat food that is nourishing but not fattening.

LET HIM DECIDE

A writes: My 23 year old brother, who is entering his third year of medical school, is seeing a girl who is trying to get married. It is a hardship for his family to see him through school and I don't think we should be called upon to support a wife also. This girl says she is willing to work and see him through the hard years but we tell him to wait until he has time to meet different kinds of girls and make enough money to meet responsibilities. But he says he will be too old if he waits until then. What do you think?

REPLY

He is old enough to decide what he wants to do. His financial status should govern his decision rather than the fact that you want him to meet other girls.

Fabulous Greeks Control Large Part Of World Shipping; Marshall Plan Shipments Paid For Liberty Ships; Rollcall Reveals Vast Empire

(Ed. Note—This is the second column by Drew Pearson on Greek shipping).

WASHINGTON.—While the United States has poured several billion dollars into Greece to prevent that country from going Communist, a little group of Greek shipping men have put across the type of high finance that helps inspire communism.

Paying almost no taxes in their own country, and not carrying Marshall Plan goods to Greece free, as did the government-owned vessels of France, England, Italy, etc., these Greek shipping men bought surplus American Liberty ships at bargain rates and, using Greek government finances to guarantee their deals, now control a large part of the world's shipping.

Meanwhile the American public has been paying heavy taxes to support Greece. Meanwhile also the average Greek citizen living in Greece is only a few steps removed from poverty, while the Greek shipping magnates live in luxury in New York and London.

What they did was to buy 98 surplush Liberty ships with Greek government credit. Immediately thereafter, shipping rates went up, thanks to the shipment of Marshall Plan goods abroad, and in two or three trips the Greek magnates were able to pay for the purchase price of the Liberty ships.

Then they turned around and used the huge profits to buy American oil tankers, and more recently to order construction of some of the biggest tankers in the oil industry. As a result they will almost dominate the long-term oil transport business.

Greek Rollcall

Aristoles S. Onassis, who opererates a great tanker fleet through a Panamanian corporation, the Olympic Oil Line has just ordered two 40,000-ton tankers to be built at Hamburg, plus three 21,000-ton tankers. Furthermore he has the cash to pay for them. Onassis also has a fleet of dry cargo vessels under the Panamanian flag, another fleet under the Honduran flag and at least one or two ships under the Norwegian flag. Formerly an Argentine resident, he owns homes in Athens, Greece; and Montevideo, Uruguay; is represented in this country by Simpson, Spence and Young of New York City.

Another fabulous Greek shipping czar is the Callimanopulos combine, owner of the Hellenic Lines, Ltd., and purchasers of two of the original, bargain-rate Liberty ships; also owners of at least one Panamanian shipping company, the General Shipping Corporation, which has been buying American ships and transferring them to the Panamanian flag. Callamanopulos also owns an interest in the Fenton Steamship Company, Ltd.

Plenty of Cash

On March 28, 1946, Callimanopulos reported the following assets to the Maritime Commission: $79,840.94 in cash at the National City Bank of New York; $500,000 in 2½ per cent U. S. bonds; $260,000 in 2¼ per cent U. S. bonds; $58,000 in U. S. certificates of indebtedness. He also reported a joint account with his wife of $23,466.60 in cash in the National City Bank and 1,500 shares of the American Export Line. In escrow, he had $342,500 in 2¼ per cent U. S. bonds and $155,000 in U. S. certificates of indebtedness.

Another Greek magnate, John M. Carras has been buying American ships and transferring them to Panamanian registry under his own name, listing Santa Monica, Calif., as his address. He also owns Cia De Navegacion Las Cruces, S. A., a Panamanian corporation, together with a 25 per cent interest in the Atlantic Maritime Corporation, the Panamanian company controlled by the Livanos Brothers. Carras also has holdings in London, has been vice president and general manager of the Standard Shipbuilding Corporation of San Pedro, Calif.

A. G. Pappadakis owns the Panamanian corporation, Cia Lama De Vapores, which has been buying American vessels for Panamanian registry. Pappadakis also bought one of the original Liberty ships in his own name. On March 30, 1947, he reported to the Maritime Commission that he had $275,000 in American banks.

C. G. Gratsos bought two of the original Liberty ships as C. G. Gratsos and Bros., and another one as Constantine G. Gratsos. He now owns several vessels, flying both the Panamanian and Honduran flags.

On August 1, 1946, Gratsos reported to the Maritime Commission that he had $85,000 in cash in New York banks and large holdings in Draculis Ltd. of London.

Greek Prime Minister

George N. Moatsos and Sophocles E. Venizelos, now premier of Greece, bought an original Liberty ship, and are now listed as the owners of the Compania Maritima Isthmenia, a Panamanian corporation.

M. C. and J. C. Hadjipateras bought one Liberty ship each, are reported to be big operators in the Greek maritime circle. In 1947, M. C. Hadjitpateras informed the Maritime Commission that he had $160,000 in New York banks and 15,000 pounds in London banks; J. C. Hadjipateras reported that he had $210,000 in New York banks and 25,000 pounds in London banks.

John S. Coumantaros is another fabulous Greek shipper who has heavy holdings in Nomikos, Ltd., of London; J. Coumantaros, Ltd., of Buenos Aires; and considerable real estate and shipping interests in Greece, itself. The record of the 98 Liberty ships shows that one was sold to John S. Coumantaros and one sold to Panos S. Coumantaros. John S. also told the Maritime Commission that he had $170,000 in deposit in the National City Bank of New York and other deposits in British and South American banks.

Other Greeks with big shipping interests include Dimitrios J. Chandris; George Coutsouvelis; S. G., Maris A. and Michael A. Embiricos; Leonard, Basil, Nicholas and Michael Goulandris; Constantine Konialidis; Panaghis C. Lemos; Dimitrios Pateras; Nicholas Rethymnis; G., Alexandros and Nomicos Sigalas; Evangelos Nomikos, George Vergottis and D. J. Negroponte. Of these, Constantine Konialidis lists himself as a citizen of Uruguay, but has bought several American ships for various South American registry.

By MARK SULLIVAN

THE MILLIONS of official words that stream out of Senate committee hearings, and the more millions of unofficial words spoken or written in popular discussion, all deal with one broad question, is Gen. MacArthur right or is President Truman right? The question has many angles and facets. The broad answer, likely to reflect the opinions and emotions of most of the people lies in a comparison of the two men and their respective associations with two countries in the Far East—MacArthur's with Japan, Truman's with China.

The comparison is contrast. Japan, when MacArthur took it over, was an enemy nation. MacArthur's taking over was by conquest. China, when Mr. Truman became responsible for our relations with it after becoming President in 1945, was a friend and ally—had been our ally throughout the war and our friend historically. At the end of five years, MacArthur's charge had become our friend. China, after our relations with it had been in charge of the Truman administration for five years, was our enemy, its government a Communist one making war upon us.

While all this is an extremely simplified picture, it is essentially accurate, it is withn the framework of the controversy between and about Presdent Truman and Gen. MacArthur. This picture is largely what the Senate committee dealt with in the six days of its hearings of Secretary of Defense Marshall last week. The committee aimed to determine what is best to do with our present relations with Communist China, a relation of war; whether it is best to adopt a plan about conduct of the present stage of the war, proposed by Gen. MacArthur, or a different thought overlapping one proposed by President Truman. Along with this the committee went deep into the whole history of the Truman Administration policy about China.

With that policy Gen. Marshall had had close association. For more than a year—from December, 1945, to January, 1947—he was in China as a special representative of the President, later he was Secretary of State; still later he became and is now Secretary of Defense.

Answers Were Candid

Many of the questions asked of Secretary Marshall last week had to do with an important part of the policy about China, and his answers were candid. The directive he had received from the Administration was to bring about a truce between the longexisting Nationalist government of China under Chiang Kai-shek and a group that was attacking it. Upon arrival in China Marshall discovered that the leaders of the attacking group were Communists, zealous and truculent ones. Nevertheless Marshall tried (vainly as it turned out) to bring the two groups into an integrated government. The attempt at an integrated government stands as justification for criticism of Marshall's judgment. Critics of his course are on tenable grounds when they say he ought to have known that whenever communism gets a foothold in an existing government it strives hard to take the country all the way into communism. An outstanding example of success in this is Czechoslovakia.

Tragic Error

One detail of the Truman Administration's course about China, now readily recognizable as a tragic error was discouragement of the long-standing and thoroughly anti-Communist Nationalist government under Chiang Kai-shek, resulting in advantage to the anti-Chiang group that is today the Communist government of China. Another error was failure to take with sufficient seriousness warnings of how great a danger to the United States the fall of China to Russian communism would be. The warnings were many and from high sources, including military experts and scholars familiar with world history. The gist of the warnings was that if Russian communism should overrun China, the capacity of the United States to defend itself agianst attack by Russia would come in question. The warnings are now largely supported by present conditions. It is familiar that the Pacific defense line of the United States has been endangered by aggression of Russian communism in China and Korea, and would be more than merely endangered if Formosa should pass under control of Russian communism.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Truman placed upon General MacArthur on January 13 last the responsibility of deciding whether or not to evacuate United Nations troops from Korea—a question of both policy and military importance not only to America but to her allies.

That's the reason why the January 13 message from the President was not a "directive." General MacArthur was to decide, after reading some general observations from the President.

This information, obtained from Capitol Hill sources, is partly revealed in the testimony of General Marshall.

The all-important message which General MacArthur sent to Washington just prior to January 13 asked specific instruction on three points—whether he was to evacuate his troops from Korea, hold on for a limited period, or try to stay on indefinitely. The General asked for such instructions because previous messages to him were not clear. He never did get a direct reply to his queries. Instead, a message in abstract terms came from the President referring to various objectives of the war in Korea and winding up with the comment that the message was not a "directive."

Declined Taking Responsibility

General Collins, who was in Tokyo conferring with General MacArthur at the time, thought Mr. Truman meant that the UN forces were to stay a limited time. General Vandenberg, who was present at the Tokyo conference, expressed the opinion that the President's message meant an indefinite resistance and no evacuation.

General MacArthur himself interpreted the President's message to mean that he should continue indefinitely to resist and that evacuation was not to be considered at all. He promptly notified General Ridgway of this decision.

The interesting thing about the episode is that, despite the presence in Washington of most of the high officials who comprise the National Security Council, including the President, the Administration here declined to take the responsibility for making the real decision of policy at that time in Korea.

While this very important conference was going on in Tokyo, General Collins had with him a copy of the January 12 recommendations of the Joint Chiefs of Staff covering the four points first mentioned in General MacArthur's address to Congress concerning a blockade, the use of Nationalist troops, and air reconnaissance over Manchuria and China's coastal areas.

It was mentioned in the conference but no copy of this memorandum was left with General MacArthur. Nothing was said to him to the effect that, when he did get the January 12 communication—as he did two weeks later by mail—he was to disregard it or to consider it as having been modified by the very general observations made in the January 13 message of the President.

The foregoing illustrates why Senator Russell of Georgia, Democrat, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, notified General Marshall on Monday that the committee had been getting information and messages in "dribbles" and that now it wanted a complete and comprehensive account of the messages exchanged and not just portions of the messages.

Testimony Not Clear

Again and again senators asked the Secretary of Defense to point out in what respects the January 13 message from President Truman to General MacArthur was to be considered as modifying or contradicting the January 12 paper of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Secretary Marshall declined to give this information, stating that he preferred the committee get it from General Bradley.

Senator Russell also pointed out to Secretary Marshall that the committee was desirous of getting a written memorandum stating specifically what directives or orders or policies General MacArthur is alleged to have violated as a forerunner to dismissal. Up to now the testimony of the Secretary of Defense on this has been far from clear.

When other witnesses are put on the stand, it will become apparent that the so-called "directive" of December 6, which asked that all officials here and abroad refrain from making public statements without clearing them with Washington, was interpreted by Washington officials themselves—who advised General MacArthur—as intended to apply to adresses and speeches and not to the commander's comment on military events in Korea nor to conversations or letters. If the latter fact is established—namely, that General MacArthur was so advised subsequent to the December 6 "directive"—this important bit of evidence would throw a good deal of light on the whole controversy. Senators familiar with the background say such evidence exists and will be produced.

The Doctrine Of Perfection

FRANKLIN D. Roosevelt tried to establish the doctrine that there are good countries and bad; that there are good dictators and bad ones. Stalin was a good dictator; Hitler and Franco were bad dictators. Chiang Kai-shek, during part of this period, was a good dictator; then he became corrupt.

The doctrine of perfection which Roosevelt applied abroad, neither he nor Harry Truman applied in the United States or among the countries which we supported with our largesse. The Kefauver investigation surely disclosed numerous corruptions in our own country, to say nothing of the existence of a black market during the war which was not without some sanction by official personalities. Some day, when there is another dispensation, investigations will be made into the extraordinary earnings by public officials, during periods of high taxation, when most Americans can barely put away a dollar.

However, that is not the point of this discussion, which is, rather, that when the United States needs and seeks allies, its measure must be their value to the United States. We have been led astray from that basic doctrine by the global baloney which is constantly being sliced for us. We are brought back to it by General Douglas MacArthur, who in his testimony said:

"The basic reason for the support that might be rendered to (Chiang Kai-shek) is . . because the interests of the United States of America coincide with anyone who is opposed to communism. It doesn't necessarily mean that we approve of everything he says or does. But it does mean that he assists us in our resistance to this world menace; and that any choice between him and communism would naturally resolve in his favor."

General Douglas MacArthur knows, as does everybody who has worked in this field, that the Acheson-Marshall-Truman policy on Formosa is unrelated to the needs and purposes of the United States but is a defensive measure to protect their vested interest in their own mistakes. That they should so respond to a situation that can ruin their reputations and destroy their political careers is neither unusual nor unnatural.

Yet, the issue is so much bigger than these men, and as General MacArthur has said, it is not dust that is settling on the soil of Korea but the blood of our sons. If Formosa is unnecessary for the defense of the United States, then there can be no reason for quarreling over this issue, but General MacArthur holds:

"A—It is my own personal opinion that the greatest political mistake we made in a hundred years in the Pacific, was in allowing the Communists to grow in power in China.

"I think, at one stroke, we undid everything, starting from John Hay, through Taft, Leonard Wood, Woodrow Wilson, Henry Stimson, and all those great architects of our Pacific policy.

"I believe it was fundamental, and I believe we will pay for it, for a century.

"Q — Well, let us ask the direct question:

"What would you have done — what would you have advised, under the circumstances that existed back there in 1945 — what would you have done?

"A — I would have given such assistance to the conservative government of China as to have checked the growing tide of communism.

"A very little help and assistance, in my belief, at that time, would have accomplished that purpose.

"Q — For a good many years you have been acquainted, I take it, with the Russians and with the Communist infiltration.

"Would you have sought to have gotten those two forces together?

"A — I did not catch the question.

"Q — Would you have sought to have amalgamated the Commies and Nationalists — have gotten them together?

"A — Just about as much chance as getting them together as that oil and water will mix.

"Q — That was your idea at that time, too, was it not?

"A — It would be then, and always. The whole history of the world shows that."

In that colloquy lies the whole story of the greatest mistake in a century. Time alone can show how damaging, how devastating have been the errors of Teheran and Yalta. But this we do see: MacArthur in five years won the friendship of 80,000,000 conquered Japanese; in the same five years, the Acheson-Marshall-Truman policy lost us the friendship of 450,000,000 Chinese, who for more than a century respected Americans above all other Westerners. They are now satellites of Soviet Russia.

Tales Of Heroism Emerge In Wake Of Ship Collision

NORFOLK, Va., May 15 (AP) — Stories of heroism emerged today from the welter of flame, smoke and death that engulfed the seaplane tender Valcour after her collision with the collier Thomas Tracy.

Men on rescue ships leaped overboard and saved the Valcour's men who had jumped from her flaming decks. Men on rescue ships boarded the Valcour and helped her remaining crewmen to fight flames that threatened to explode her ammunition.

The fire-ravaged tender, a big hole in her starboard quarter where the collier rammed her yesterday five miles off Cape Henry, was expected to begin discharging the remainder of her 70,000 gallons of high octane gasoline this afternoon.

The body of one of her crew has been recovered. Four other enlisted men are missing and presumed dead.

After the Valcour's gasoline is discharged, her ammunition will be removed and her fume-filled compartments will be decontaminated. Then a search will be made of four compartments, not yet entered, in the hope of finding the bodies of the four missing men.

Three Of Four Britons Over Age 16 Gamble

LONDON, May 15 (AP)—Three out of every four Britons over the age of 16 gamble on horses, dogs, soccer pools or lotteries, a government survey showed today.

The total wagered is around $1,000,000,000 a year, or $20 a head for the population of 50,000,000.

Gambling is legalized in Britain.

On a single day each spring when the English Derby is run, half the men and a third of the women in the United Kingdom have bets down.

Baltimore Ore Pier Opened By B. & O.

BALTIMORE, May 15 (AP) — A $5,000,000 pier was put into service here today to handle increased shipments of vital iron ore from mines in foreign countries.

The 650-foot long structure, owned by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, will be able to unload 30,000 tons of ore from incoming ships and load it on 500 railroad cars in 24 hours.

One of the chief workhorses in this process is a conveyor belt 1,812 feet long. It carries the ore along the pier and up to a high storage bin with a 500 ton capacity.

Baltimore Pier Roof Collapses, Killing Two

BALTIMORE, May 15 (AP)—The sagging roof on a waterfront pier collapsed as it was being torn down today. Two workmen were killed and six injured.

Dead are William Disharoon, 33, and Raymond Johnson. Both are Baltimore negroes.

A foreman, William D. Jones, said the roof let go after his wrecking crew pulled down one of the pillars supporting it.

Jones said his men had worked through the day rigging the overhead so that at the right time it would topple into the harbor.

Washington County To Buy Vote Machines

HAGERSTOWN, Md., May 15 (AP) —The Washington Board of County Commissioners today authorized the purchase of 95 voting machines at a total cost of $114,285.

The Board of Elections Supervisors were instructed to buy the machines from the low bidder, Automatic Voting Machine Corporation of Jamestown, N. Y. Cost of each machine is $1,203.

The commissioners said they plan to finance the equipment by borrowing at local banks, rather than issuing bonds.

Washington Hospital Plunge Fatal To Nurse

WASHINGTON, May 15. (AP)—Patricia M. Casey, 25, nurse, died today from injuries suffered in a plunge from a fifth-floor window at George Washington Hospital.

She had returned to work yesterday after being ill for a week.

Rejects Reds' Bonus, Pitches No-Hitter

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—Regis King, who refused a $40,000 bonus from the Cincinnati Reds, hurled a no-hit, no-run game for the Manhattan College baseball team against Kings Point today. Manhattan won, 9 to 0.

King rejected the red offer because he wants to be a doctor.

A's Catcher Injured

PHILADELPHIA, May 15 (INS)—Philadelphia Athletic catcher Joe Tipton was hit in the head by a swinging bat in tonight's game with the St. Louis Browns at Shibe Park.

The catcher dropped to the ground and after a quick examination by the Athletics' trainer he was carried from the field unconscious, on a stretcher.

Terps Top Hoyas

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Don Soderberg, Maryland's rapid right hander from Baltimore won his seventh game of the year today as the Terps won their eighth straight with a 4 to 2 win over Georgetown.

Peggy Lee Wins Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif., May 15 (AP)—Peggy Lee, the curvy blonde singer, divorced her guitar-playing husband, Dave Barbour, today with the testimony: "He said he didn't love me any more."

Miss Lee, 30, said she became emotionally upset and lost weight after Barbour, arranger of many of her song-successes, told her he wanted his freedom. Barbour, 37, is now leading his own orchestra.

Md. Appeals Court Again Considers Edwards Case

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 15 (AP)—The life of Thomas A. Edwards, twice convicted of the Glen Burnie murders that shocked Maryland in 1948, was in the hands of the Court of Appeals again tonight.

For the second time in 16 months, the state's high court heard lawyers for the 26-year-old negro gardner demand that he be turned free.

It again heard prosecutors insist that Edwards be hanged for the bloody gun slayings of John Mahlan and Mary Kline, the youthful Glen Burnie couple who met death under a full moon the night of Sept. 17, 1948.

Unlike its first hearing early last year, the court today heard rape suggested as the most likely motive.

Assistant Attorney General Robert M. Thomas, making his first appearance in courtroom probing of one of the state's "most heinous crimes," propounded the rape theory. Little emphasis had been placed on a sex motivation in either of Edwards' two trials in Baltimore Criminal Court or his first appeal.

Thomas pointed to a state medical examiner's report, which found no traces of rape but noted the condition of the girl's body prevented a positive analysis. Torn underclothing also supported the theory, Thomas said.

Two of the six judges immediately expressed skepticism.

"There is very, very thin basis for that," Chief Judge Ogle Marbury said.

Thomas observed the killer may have been frightened by Miss Kline's screams and fired at her after shooting Mahlan.

"A most extraordinary kind of rape that starts out in cold blood by killing the man," Judge Charles Markell said.

The state added robbery as a conceivable motive. Mahlan's wallet has never been found.

Free Mail Bill OK'd

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—A bill to extend the free mail privilege for members of the armed forces, including the Coast Guard, was approved by the Senate Post Office Committee today.

The present law expires June 30.

General Rejects

testify on what was said at the White House.

Sen. Wiley brought up the question of the top-level meeting called to discuss the MacArthur situation.

"All right," Wiley said, "tell us what was said."

Bradley replied: "Senator, at that time I was in a position of a confidential adviser to the President. I do not feel at liberty to publicize what any of us said at that time."

Russell Upholds Bradley

Wiley turned to Sen. Russell and asked if Bradley should be required to answer.

After a lengthy discussion, Russell upheld Bradley by ruling "any matter that transpired in the private conversation between the President and the chief of staff (Bradley) xxx can be protected by the witness if he so desires."

Tonight, eight of the 12 Republicans on the joint inquiry committee met to discuss what should be done about Bradley's refusal to answer.

Wiley told reporters afterward that the group had decided to study the legal precedents overnight and meet again in the morning to decide a course.

If the recommendations should be to seek contempt proceeding, provided Bradley still refuses to answer, the matter then would be brought up for discussion by all 12 Republicans on the inquiry committee, Wiley said.

Wiley said he already has made up his mind that Bradley should be required to answer, but he said he would abide by the decision of the majority of the Republicans.

Thousands Of Toys Destroyed By Fire

MCMECHEN, W. Va., May 15 (AP) —Thousands of children's toys went up in flames today when fire swept the Marx Toy Manufacturing Co. warehouse here today.

A company official said the loss would be at least $1,000,000.

Fire companies from at least five communities in West Virginia and Ohio, across the Ohio River, battled the blaze which broke out about 4 a. m. (EST).

The warehouse, containing about 125,000 cartons of toys of the Christmas trade was destroyed along with two loaded freight cars.

100 Reported Killed Or Injured In Blast

BERLIN, May 15 (INS)—More than 100 persons were reported killed or injured tonight in an explosion at an East German railroad repair shop where workers had been decorated for their ability only hours earlier.

East German sources said the boiler on which the decorated repair crew had been working blew up and crashed into a nursery school nearby.

Truman To Make Two Speeches This Week

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP) — President Truman will make two speeches this week.

He will address the National Conference on Citizenship at 10:45 a. m. (EST) Thursday at the Hotel Statler.

He will speak extemporaneously Friday night at an Armed Forces Day banquet, also at the Statler.

Quake Rocks Italian Area

MILAN, Italy, May 15 (AP)—A violent earthquake shook the northern part of Italy shortly before midnight tonight. Reports from Venice, Verona, Bologna, Pavia, Genoa and other centers told of the shock being felt there.

Three Die In Virginia Rock Quarry Blast

MARTINSVILLE, Va., May 15. (AP) —A premature dynamite explosion ripped through a rock quarry near here late today, killing three men and injuring two others.

One of those killed was identified as Fern Lambert, 36, Knoxville, Tenn., one of three brothers who operate the quarry.

Also killed in the blast were two Henry County negroes—John Finney, 38, Bassett, and Lee Hairston, 40, Martinsville.

Singer Dorothy Kirsten Is Married To Doctor

NEW ORLEANS, May 15 (AP)—Opera Star Dorothy Kirsten and Dr. Eugene Chapman of San Antonio, Tex., were married here today in a quiet ceremony.

The bride wore a gray lace and chiffon street-length dress, the groom a white suit. About a dozen close friends and relatives attended the single-ring ceremony at the St. Charles Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Both Dr. Chapman and Miss Kirsten are once-divorced.

Rosenberg Joins His Wife In Death House

OSSINING, N. Y., May 15 (INS) —Convicted Atomic Spy Julius Rosenberg joined his wife, Ethel, today in Sing Sing Prison's death house.

Both were sentenced to die next week in the electric chair for passing America's top atomic secrets to a Russian espionage ring but carrying out of the death sentence has been deferred automatically by notice of appeal.

Execution of the sentence—if upheld—is not likely to be carried out before next winter at the earliest. The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals' calendar is jammed until June adjournment and the case most likely will wind up in the U. S. Supreme Court.

Tales Of Heroism Emerge In Wake Of Ship Collision

NORFOLK, Va., May 15 (AP) — Stories of heroism emerged today from the welter of flame, smoke and death that engulfed the seaplane tender Valcour after her collision with the collier Thomas Tracy.

Men on rescue ships leaped overboard and saved the Valcour's men who had jumped from her flaming decks. Men on rescue ships boarded the Valcour and helped her remaining crewmen to fight flames that threatened to explode her ammunition.

The fire-ravaged tender, a big hole in her starboard quarter where the collier rammed her yesterday five miles off Cape Henry, was expected to begin discharging the remainder of her 70,000 gallons of high octane gasoline this afternoon.

The body of one of her crew has been recovered. Four other enlisted men are missing and presumed dead.

After the Valcour's gasoline is discharged, her ammunition will be removed and her fume-filled compartments will be decontaminated. Then a search will be made of four compartments, not yet entered, in the hope of finding the bodies of the four missing men.

Three Of Four Britons Over Age 16 Gamble

LONDON, May 15 (AP)—Three out of every four Britons over the age of 16 gamble on horses, dogs, soccer pools or lotteries, a government survey showed today.

The total wagered is around $1,000,000,000 a year, or $20 a head for the population of 50,000,000.

Gambling is legalized in Britain. On a single day each spring when the English Derby is run, half the men and a third of the women in the United Kingdom have bets down.

Baltimore Ore Pier Opened By B. & O.

BALTIMORE, May 15 (AP) — A $5,000,000 pier was put into service here today to handle increased shipments of vital iron ore from mines in foreign countries.

The 650-foot long structure, owned by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, will be able to unload 30,000 tons of ore from incoming ships and load it on 500 railroad cars in 24 hours.

One of the chief workhorses in this process is a conveyor belt 1,812 feet long. It carries the ore along the pier and up to a high storage bin with a 500 ton capacity.

Baltimore Pier Roof Collapses, Killing Two

BALTIMORE, May 15 (AP)—The sagging roof on a waterfront pier collapsed as it was being torn down today. Two workmen were killed and six injured.

Dead are William Disharoon, 33, and Raymond Johnson. Both are Baltimore negroes.

A foreman, William D. Jones, said the roof let go after his wrecking crew pulled down one of the pillars supporting it.

Jones said his men had worked through the day rigging the overhead so that at the right time it would topple into the harbor.

Washington County To Buy Vote Machines

HAGERSTOWN, Md., May 15 (AP)—The Washington Board of County Commissioners today authorized the purchase of 95 voting machines at a total cost of $114,285.

The Board of Elections Supervisors were instructed to buy the machines from the low bidder, Automatic Voting Machine Corporation of Jamestown, N. Y. Cost of each machine is $1,203.

The commissioners said they plan to finance the equipment by borrowing at local banks, rather than issuing bonds.

Washington Hospital Plunge Fatal To Nurse

WASHINGTON, May 15. (AP)—Patricia M. Casey, 25, nurse, died today from injuries suffered in a plunge from a fifth-floor window at George Washington Hospital.

She had returned to work yesterday after being ill for a week.

Rejects Reds' Bonus, Pitches No-Hitter

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—Regis King, who refused a $40,000 bonus from the Cincinnati Reds, hurled a no-hit, no-run game for the Manhattan College baseball team against Kings Point today. Manhattan won, 9 to 0.

King rejected the red offer because he wants to be a doctor.

A's Catcher Injured

PHILADELPHIA, May 15 (INS)—Philadelphia Athletic catcher Joe Tipton was hit in the head by a swinging bat in tonight's game with the St. Louis Browns at Shibe Park.

The catcher dropped to the ground and after a quick examination by the Athletics' trainer he was carried from the field unconscious, on a stretcher.

Terps Top Hoyas

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Don Soderberg, Maryland's rapid right hander from Baltimore won his seventh game of the year today as the Terps won their eighth straight with a 4 to 2 win over Georgetown.

Peggy Lee Wins Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif., May 15 (AP)—Peggy Lee, the curvy blonde singer, divorced her guitar-playing husband, Dave Barbour, today with the testimony: "He said he didn't love me any more."

Miss Lee, 30, said she became emotionally upset and lost weight after Barbour, arranger of many of her song successes, told her he wanted his freedom. Barbour, 37, is now leading his own orchestra.

Md. Appeals Court Again Considers Edwards Case

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 15 (AP)—The life of Thomas A. Edwards, twice convicted of the Glen Burnie murders that shocked Maryland in 1948, was in the hands of the Court of Appeals again tonight.

For the second time in 16 months, the state's high court heard lawyers for the 26-year-old negro gardner demand that he be turned free.

It again heard prosecutors insist that Edwards be hanged for the bloody gun slayings of John Mahlan and Mary Kline, the youthful Glen Burnie couple who met death under a full moon the night of Sept. 17, 1948.

Unlike its first hearing early last year, the court today heard rape suggested as the most likely motive.

Assistant Attorney General Robert M. Thomas, making his first appearance in courtroom probing of one of the state's "most heinous crimes," propounded the rape theory. Little emphasis had been placed on a sex motivation in either of Edwards' two trials in Baltimore Criminal Court or his first appeal.

Thomas pointed to a state medical examiner's report, which found no traces of rape but noted the condition of the girl's body prevented a positive analysis. Torn underclothing also supported the theory, Thomas said.

Two of the six judges immediately expressed skepticism.

"There is very, very thin basis for that," Chief Judge Ogle Marbury said.

Thomas observed the killer may have been frightened by Miss Kline's screams and fired at her after shooting Mahlan.

"A most extraordinary kind of rape that starts out in cold blood by killing the man," Judge Charles Markell said.

The state added robbery as a conceivable motive. Mahlan's wallet has never been found.

Flintstone Club Has Program

The Flintstone Homemakers Club named delegates to the RWSC; had an imaginary trip to Scotland, and received announcements at the meeting Friday at the high school.

Mrs. Katie Oster and Mrs. R. O. Dolly were named delegates to short course, being held at the University of Maryland next month.

It was announced that a rug making demonstration will be held at the Flintstone High School, May 19.

Mrs. J. S. Roland, International Relations chairman, took the group in imagination on a tour of Scotland. She spoke of the "very clean, upright, generous and thrifty people," and the country that is only about twice the size of Maryland, which she pointed out is divided into the Uplands and the Lowlands, with most everyone belonging to a clan, distinguished by the plaids they wear. The speaker also touched on the castles, schools and religion, predominantly Presbyterian; their dances, "Highland Fling;" and the origin of the Airshire, Aberdeen, Angus and Galloway cows and the Clydsdale horse.

Following the talk Mrs. R. O. Dolly, and Mrs. Leah Twigg, Food chairmen, served scones and tea.

Highlights of the meeting of Clothing chairmen with Miss Helen Shelby, specialist from the university, were given by Miss Maude A. Bean and Mrs. B. C. Robinette. The former also reported on the table setting contest. The Music chairman, Mrs. Ruland Gilson, gave the story of the composer of the hymn of the month, "Faith of Our Fathers," and led the group singing of it. Mrs. Harry Bender presided and led the group in repeating the 23rd Psalm by Betty W. Stoffel and the group sang, "America the Beautiful."

A style show, in pageant form, followed by a Mother's Day program was planned by Mrs. Chester Robinette, Mrs. Howard Robinette and Miss Catherine Robinette. A box of candy was given to Mrs. Willie Robinette, the oldest mother present; one to Mrs. Howard Robinette the youngest; and one to Miss Maude A. Bean, "having the largest family."

Mrs. Victor G. Long, Bowman's Addition is a surgical patient in Memorial Hospital.

JUST MARRIED—Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lewis Warner are shown leaving St. Luke's Lutheran Church following their marriage, May 5. The bride is the former Miss Lucille Frances Creegan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Creegan, 608 Louisiana Avenue. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Warner, York, Pa. Behind them are Mrs. John C. Burdette, Jr., Baltimore, who was her cousin's matron of honor; Rev. H. Hall Sharp, who officiated at the ceremony; and Louis Ashby, Roanoke, Va., a former resident, who served as best man.

Delegates Are Named

Plans for the county and state conventions were formulated at the meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the LaVale Fire Company, recently at the fire hall.

The State convention is being held in Cumberland, June 20, 21 and 22. Delegates from the auxiliary named are Mrs. Flo Alexander, Mrs. Elva Schell, Mrs. Virginia Law, Mrs. Leona Long and Mrs. Edith Cessna.

June 7th is the date for the county convention, which is being held in Accident.

A rummage sale will be held May 24 in Cumberland, and anyone having any contributions to make is asked to leave them at the fire hall.

McKinley Chapter, OES To Entertain W. Md. Group

The second caravan of the Past Matrons and Past Patrons Association of Western Maryland will be the guests of McKinley Chapter, No. 12 OES Friday night. The meeting, in the Masonic Temple, will begin at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Clara Shank, president; and Irvin Martin, vice president, will be honored.

Girl Scout Troop 13 Has Investiture, Honor Court

International Program Given

Girl Scout Troop 13 had fly up ceremonies, an investiture, court of honor and International Friendship program at the meeting last evening at the Johnson Heights School.

The meeting opened with the pledge of Allegeance to the flag and everyone singing the National Anthem, with Mrs. Monroe MacKenzie at the piano and leading the singing.

Brownies flying up from Troop 34 were Vera Elaine MacKenzie, Betsy Bartlett and Carol Ann Dunlap. Two girls completed six years in Girl Scouting and had a fly up to the Senior Girl Scouts. They are Charleine Hornbrook and Patricia Weaver.

Twelve girls were invested into Troop 13. Charleine Hornbrook acted as master of ceremonies and read a poem dedicated to mothers. The girls invested were Barbara Shaffer, Doris Kalbaugh, Katherine Ayers, Shirley Bible, Helen Shelley, Gail Garlitz, Maxine Hudson, Brenda Johnson, Mary Callis, Sherry Breighner, Patricia Wheeler and Barbara Fisher.

During the Court of Honor every one of the 29 girls in the troop received badges and certificates earned during the year.

Gifts were presented to the three girls who had perfect attendance all year. They were Charleine Hornbrook, Mary Jane Howell and Elaine Martin.

An International Friendship program was presented under the direction of Mrs. Madeline Hornbrook, leader. The girls each in the official Girl Scout uniform of the country she represented were Janet Kessell, as a French Girl Guide; Gail Garlitz, Australian Girl Guide; Sherry Breighner, Canadian Girl Guide; Patricia Wheeler, India Girl Guide; and Mary Jane Howell, American Girl Scout.

Mrs. Roberta McFarland, executive director of the local Council, spoke on scouting. The girls sang the "Girl Scouts Together" and the program closed with Indian taps.

Refreshments were served by committeewomen, Mrs. Ember Johnson, Mrs. Alonzo Plummer, Mrs. Wilma Brown, Mrs. Robert Lewis, Mrs. Monroe MacKenzie and Mrs. William Bartlett.

Corriganville Pupils Giving "Cinderella"

Corriganville Elementary School will present the operetta "Cinderella" at the Reformed Church hall in Corriganville, Friday evening at 8 o'clock. The production is under the direction of the teachers of the school and music supervisors.

The cast for the two act production includes Carole Brashears as Cinderella; Paul Lohr, the prince; Shirley Turley, the godmother; Verna Hasselrode, step-mother; Margaret Harden and Bessie Foley, the step-sisters; Kenneth Taylor, the duke; and choruses of fairies, cupids, lords and ladies.

The production follows the well known fairy tale of Cinderella planning to go to the prince's ball with the help of her godmother, fairies and cupids; of her changing to the kitchen wench at midnight and the happy ending.

Opening the program will be selections by the primary band and a musical number by the boys glee club.

Plans for the banquet for the graduates will be completed at the meeting of the St. Mary's Mothers Club tomorrow night, and officers are to be installed.

A Mother's Day banquet will be held by the Excelsior Class of Grace Methodist Church tomorrow night at Central YMCA.

Allegany Beauticians Send Invitation To State Group

The Allegany County Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association extended an invitation to the state association at the meeting of the local group Monday night at Central YMCA, at which time Charles Ignozzi, Baltimore, president of the state group, was guest speaker. The state meeting will be held here, sometime in September.

Mrs. Eloise Ack presided and appointed three members to serve on the Legislative committee of the state association and attend the quarterly meetings, in Baltimore. They are Miss Nyna Fey, Mrs. Pauline Smith and Mrs. Virginia Powell.

A contribution of $5 was donated to the Cancer Fund and two new members were received. They are Mrs. Nancy Muir and Mrs. Anna Mary Stoudt. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Alice Sines and Miss Edith Crabtree. Reports of committees were given also. A group volunteered to go to the County Infirmary May 21.

Mr. Ignozzi talked on the amendment proposing shop owners attend meetings in Baltimore and also conducted a round table discussion on membership and ways and means of improving meetings.

Others attending were Mrs. Catherine Welton, Miss Ethel Henry, Mrs. Mabel Gross, Mrs. Pauline Smith, Mrs. Irene Critzman, Miss Fey, Mrs. Virginia Sunderlin, Mrs. Powell, Miss Elsie Henry and Mrs. Esther Smith.

Demonstrations in hooking rugs will be given at 1:30 p. m., Saturday in the Flintstone School by Mrs. James A. Morgan, Mrs. Mabel Shoemaker and Mrs. Chester Robinette. It is not necessary to be a club member to attend.

Flintstone Club Has Program

The Flintstone Homemakers Club named delegates to the RWSC; had an imaginary trip to Scotland, and received announcements at the meeting Friday at the high school.

Mrs. Katie Oster and Mrs. R. O. Dolly were named delegates to short course, being held at the University of Maryland next month.

It was announced that a rug making demonstration will be held at the Flintstone High School, May 19.

Mrs. J. S. Roland, International Relations chairman, took the group in imagination on a tour of Scotland. She spoke of the "very clean, upright, generous and thrifty people," and the country that is only about twice the size of Maryland, which she pointed out is divided into the Uplands and the Lowlands, with most everyone belonging to a clan, distinguished by the plaids they wear. The speaker also touched on the castles, schools and religion, predominantly Presbyterian; their dances, "Highland Fling;" and the origin of the Airshire, Aberdeen, Angus and Galloway cows and the Clydsdale horse.

Following the talk Mrs. R. O. Dolly, and Mrs. Leah Twigg, Food chairmen, served scones and tea.

Highlights of the meeting of Clothing chairmen with Miss Helen Shelby, specialist from the university, were given by Miss Maude A. Bean and Mrs. B. C. Robinette. The former also reported on the table setting contest. The Music chairman, Mrs. Ruland Gilson, gave the story of the composer of the hymn of the month, "Faith of Our Fathers," and led the group singing of it. Mrs. Harry Bender presided and led the group in repeating the 23rd Psalm by Betty W. Stoffel and the group sang, "America the Beautiful."

A style show, in pageant form, followed by a Mother's Day program was planned by Mrs. Chester Robinette, Mrs. Howard Robinette and Miss Catherine Robinette. A box of candy was given to Mrs. Willie Robinette, the oldest mother present; one to Mrs. Howard Robinette the youngest; and one to Miss Maude A. Bean, "having the largest family."

Mrs. Victor G. Long, Bowman's Addition is a surgical patient in Memorial Hospital.

JUST MARRIED—Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lewis Warner are shown leaving St. Luke's Lutheran Church following their marriage, May 5. The bride is the former Miss Lucille Frances Creegan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Creegan, 608 Louisiana Avenue. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Warner, York, Pa. Behind them are Mrs. John C. Burdette, Jr., Baltimore, who was her cousin's matron of honor; Rev. H. Hall Sharp, who officiated at the ceremony; and Louis Ashby, Roanoke, Va., a former resident, who served as best man.

Delegates Are Named

Plans for the county and state conventions were formulated at the meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the LaVale Fire Company, recently at the fire hall.

The State convention is being held in Cumberland, June 20, 21 and 22. Delegates from the auxiliary named are Mrs. Flo Alexander, Mrs. Elva Schell, Mrs. Virginia Law, Mrs. Leona Long and Mrs. Edith Cessna.

June 7th is the date for the county convention, which is being held in Accident.

A rummage sale will be held May 24 in Cumberland, and anyone having any contributions to make is asked to leave them at the fire hall.

McKinley Chapter, OES To Entertain W. Md. Group

The second caravan of the Past Matrons and Past Patrons Association of Western Maryland will be the guests of McKinley Chapter, No. 12 OES Friday night. The meeting, in the Masonic Temple, will begin at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Clara Shank, president; and Irvin Martin, vice president, will be honored.

Girl Scout Troop 13 Has Investiture, Honor Court

International Program Given

Girl Scout Troop 13 had fly up ceremonies, an investiture, court of honor and International Friendship program at the meeting last evening at the Johnson Heights School.

The meeting opened with the pledge of Allegeance to the flag and everyone singing the National Anthem, with Mrs. Monroe MacKenzie at the piano and leading the singing.

Brownies flying up from Troop 34 were Vera Elaine MacKenzie, Betsy Bartlett and Carol Ann Dunlap. Two girls completed six years in Girl Scouting and had a fly up to the Senior Girl Scouts. They are Charleine Hornbrook and Patricia Weaver.

Twelve girls were invested into Troop 13. Charleine Hornbrook acted as master of ceremonies and read a poem dedicated to mothers. The girls invested were Barbara Shaffer, Doris Kalbaugh, Katherine Ayers, Shirley Bible, Helen Shelley, Gail Garlitz, Maxine Hudson, Brenda Johnson, Mary Callis, Sherry Breighner, Patricia Wheeler and Barbara Fisher.

During the Court of Honor every one of the 29 girls in the troop received badges and certificates earned during the year.

Gifts were presented to the three girls who had perfect attendance all year. They were Charleine Hornbrook, Mary Jane Howell and Elaine Martin.

An International Friendship program was presented under the direction of Mrs. Madeline Hornbrook, leader. The girls each in the official Girl Scout uniform of the country she represented were Janet Kessell, as a French Girl Guide; Gail Garlitz, Australian Girl Guide; Sherry Breighner, Canadian Girl Guide; Patricia Wheeler, India Girl Guide; and Mary Jane Howell, American Girl Scout.

Mrs. Roberta McFarland, executive director of the local Council, spoke on scouting. The girls sang the "Girl Scouts Together" and the program closed with Indian taps.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

WASHINGTON

THERE'S plenty of crabbing about the free-spending government.... That it throws money right and left. . . . Also left and right. . . . And back and front. . . . But I have found that most individuals, even in Washington, have some thrifty habits. . . . I started collecting "pet economies" after a newsgal pal, Hope Ridings Miller, first pointed out that some of the richest and most important persons in town are misers in small ways. . . . Even those notoriously extravagant with the government's money are stingy with themselves.

JUSTICE WILLIAM O. DOUGLAS is no spendthrift and neither is his wife. . . . Among other pet economies, she invariably saves all Christmas wrapping paper. "I always put it away until next year and use it again." . . . MRS. OMAR BRADLEY makes the G.I.'s General write on both sides of bridge pads. "I also save old invitations, to write notes on the backs."

All kinds of invitations and announcements and circulars are hoarded by MRS. FRANCIS BIDDLE, wife of the former Attorney General. . . . She uses the backs for writing notes — on poetry. . . . And her husband economizes by doing all the minor repairing and painting on their house.

MRS. CLARK HOWELL, wife of the Atlanta Constitution publisher, saves string and ribbon off presents. . . . Later she presses out the ribbon to use on her own presents.

EVIE ROBERTS' pet economy is pocketbooks. . . . "If I ever have a decent pocketbook, somebody buys it for me," says the wife of the former secretary of the National Democratic Committee.

MARRINER ECCLES, member of the Federal Reserve Board, is a genius at figuring out ways to save money. . . . In private life he says he saves "golf strokes—and I waste far too many of them."

MRS. WALTER GEORGE, "Miss Lucy" as her Senator husband still fondly calls her, hates to throw away a nice-looking box.... Keeps them around for six months or so. . . . Suspects they're fire hazards, but keeps them anyhow.

When JUSTIN MILLER, until recently president of the National Association of Broadcasters, vacations at his California estate, he works from dawn 'til dusk in his garden. . . . The weeds take over when he's away because the millionaire thinks a professional gardener is "sheer extravagance."

MRS. J. HOWARD McGRATH is another economist on boxes and ribbons. . . . Stores them on her third floor until she can use them again.

The price of nylons gives Madame Minister PERLE MESTA a sharp pain in the purse. . . . SEN. ROBERT TAFT saves — on socks . . . . He never throws away a pair that can be darned.

Another sock saver, MRS. JOSEPH FARRINGTON, wife of the Delegate from Hawaii, "can't bear not to mend men's socks."

MRS. LOWELL STOCKMAN saves time and money setting her own hair. . . . This wife of a Congressman from Oregon and both of her daughters give each other home permanents. . . . MRS. FRED VINSON shampoos and waves her own hair, too.

Every four years, GEORGE ALLEN, the former White House jester, argues with himself, "Will I have to buy a new pair of striped trousers for inauguration?" . . . The ones he got back in early New Deal days split out every four years but periodically he tries to squeeze into them rather than invest again.

U. S. Treasurer GEORGIA NEESE CLARK hates to throw away any food. . . . Has her wardrobe made by a "little dressmaker" but her pet economy is saving paper bags.

SEN. HOMER FERGUSON will make any number of excuses to keep from having his car washed. . . . And his wife says she "never buys a new umbrella."

MRS. CHARLES BRANNAN always saves turkey carcasses — gives the Secretary of Agriculture the best soup this side of heaven. . . . Does her own canning as well, and specializes in pepper relish and cranberry jelly.

MRS. STYLES BRIDGES refuses to have a cook, or an interior decorator. . . . But insists her real pet economy is government expenditures.

Connecticut's First Lady, MRS. JOHN DAVIS LODGE, saves elastic bands and hairpins. "I use the elastic bands for my braids. Also, I always sit on my old hats, throw them around and punch them to see if I can give them a different look."

But MRS. RUSSELL LONG beats all. . . . The Louisiana Senatorial lady drawls prettily, "Ah save everything — I jes hay-et to throw anything away!"

With an adequate wardrobe of planned accessories you can accept any spur-of-the-moment invitation!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

HOW DO YOU BUY your accessories? By inspiration or by plan?

If you wait until you receive an intriguing invitation to go dinner-dancing before you buy a swish, dress-up accessory to turn your basic black into a glamor frock, you may find yourself "busting" your budget unnecessarily. Too often a hasty purchase only plays a one-night stand. You discover that it's a poor makeshift for a perfectly chosen accessory.

A much less expensive and more effective way of making quick changes in the appearance of your basic clothes is by anticipating accessory needs and acquiring them with careful thought.

Seasonal Accessories

Right now, for instance, a glimpse at today's date should be warning enough that the first real summery day is near. When it arrives, your current crop of spring accessories will look one season behind. The bunch of mimosa you've been wearing on the lapel of your suit won't look so jaunty in June, the month of roses. The heavily-dotted veiling with which you've been swathing your head to glamorize your black dress will look and feel something like a horse banket when the temperature rises.

Don't wait! Take inventory of your present accessories to decide which must be replaced for summertime. Determine which of your basic clothes you will wear during the summer and for what occasions. Then plan the necessary accessories — and go out and find the ones that will best serve your needs.

By starting now you will have a whole month in which to seek the ones that will be just right — those that will never fail to provide a lift for your clothes, your spirits and your looks, everytime you wear them.

Fashion in Accessories

Before starting your search, consider the accessories which are slated for a long summer run: The open pink rose; starchy, pique bows and gloves in gold or white; crisp lengths of maline to halo your head; handsome, jeweled belts; delicate flower earbobs; gauzy stoles.

The woman of fashion knows that an exquisitely chosen accessory can double the value of any basic costume. Two can triple it. In this day of spiraling prices, it's a good thing to know!

Ancient Hindu Shrine Rebuilt Seventh Time

BOMBAY, India — (AP) — One of Hinduism's ancient and most sacred shrines—the Somnath Temple dedicated to the moon god Siva—was open again to pilgrims today in the small coastal town of Patan after its seventh restoration.

India's President Rajendra Prasad opened the temple, believed first to have been built at the beginning of the Christian era, in a colorful ceremony Friday. The booming of 101 guns and the chanting of "long live Somnath" by 60,000 worshipers accentuated the ceremony.

The dedication was climaxed by the installation of a seven-and-one-half-foot phallic image of black and grey marble called the "Jyotir Lingam," representing the reproductive powers of the moon god.

All last week, Brahmin priests held non-stop religious ceremonies preparing for the installation of the "Lingam" inside the nine-story temple.

As the black and grey column was placed on a 12-foot plinth in the sanctum sanctorum, clays from the Andes, the Alps, the Rocky Mountains and other great mountain ranges were smeared on it. Then water from the seven seas, the Grand Canyon, the Tigris, Yangtse and other great rivers was sprinkled over it.

Thousands of pilgrims arrived by special trains and chartered planes to take part in the rites. Huge kitchens were set up. Mounds of non-rationed food were stocked to feed the multitude and four-foot-deep caldrons were built to hold vegetable curries.

President Prasad told the throng the restoration of the temple — which took five years and cost 20,000,000 rupees ($4,200,000)—represented India's desire for complete religious tolerance, and not any desire for the reestablishment of the old political and social conditions.

The impressive temple, with its many carved images, was first destroyed in 1026 by Mahmud of Ghazni, a Moslem ruler whose hodes swept through the land of the rajahs. It was restored and destroyed several times. It was first believed to have been made of gold, then silver, then wood and finally stone.

The town in which the Somnath Temple stands was originally called Comanatha Patan and was mentioned by Marco Polo in the 13th century and by other famous chroniclers as an important trade center.

Following the dedication ceremonies, a new world academy for the study of Sanskirt and Indian culture was inaugurated by Purshotamadas Tandon, president of the ruling Congress Party. The bearded Tandon told about 200 Sanskirt scholars that India's salvation lay in the revival of her ancient culture.

WASHINGTON

THERE'S plenty of crabbing about the free-spending government.... That it throws money right and left. . . . Also left and right. . . . And back and front. . . . But I have fouhd that most individuals, even in Washington, have some thrifty habits. . . . I started collecting "pet economies" after a newsgal pal, Hope Ridings Miller, first pointed out that some of the richest and most important persons in town are misers in small ways. . . . Even those notoriously extravagant with the government's money are stingy with themselves.

JUSTICE WILLIAM O. DOUGLAS is no spendthrift and neither is his wife. . . . Among other pet economies, she invariably saves all Christmas wrapping paper. "I always put it away until next year and use it again." . . . MRS. OMAR BRADLEY makes the G.I.'s General write on both sides of bridge pads. "I also save old invitations, to write notes on the backs."

All kinds of invitations and announcements and circulars are hoarded by MRS. FRANCIS BIDDLE, wife of the former Attorney General. . . . She uses the backs for writing notes — on poetry. . . . And her husband economizes by doing all the minor repairing and painting on their house.

MRS. CLARK HOWELL, wife of the Atlanta Constitution publisher, saves string and ribbon off presents. . . . Later she presses out the ribbon to use on her own presents.

EVIE ROBERTS' pet economy is pocketbooks. . . . "If I ever have a decent pocketbook, somebody buys it for me," says the wife of the former secretary of the National Democratic Committee.

MARRINER ECCLES member of the Federal Reserve Board, is a genius at figuring out ways to save money. . . . In private life he says he saves "golf strokes—and I waste ar too many of them."

MRS. WALTER GEORGE, "Miss Lucy" as her Senator husband still fondly calls her, hates to throw away a nice-looking box. . . . Keeps them around for six months or so. . . . Suspects they're fire hazards, but keeps them anyhow.

When JUSTIN MILLER, until recently president of the National Association of Broadcasters, vacations at his California estate, he works from dawn 'til dusk in his garden. . . . The weeds take over when he's away because the millionaire thinks a professional gardener is "sheer extravagance."

MRS. J. HOWARD McGRATH is another economist on boxes and ribbons. . . . Stores them on her third floor until she can use them again.

The price of nylons gives Madame Minister PERLE MESTA a sharp pain in the purse. . . . SEN. ROBERT TAFT saves — on socks . . . . He never throws away a pair that can be darned.

Another sock saver, MRS. JOSEPH FARRINGTON, wife of the Delegate from Hawaii, "can't bear not to mend men's socks."

MRS. LOWELL STOCKMAN saves time and money setting her own hair. . . . This wife of a Congressman from Oregon and both of her daughters give each other home permanents. . . . MRS. FRED VINSON shampoos and waves her own hair, too.

Every four years, GEORGE ALLEN, the former White House jester, argues with himself, "Will I have to buy a new pair of striped trousers for inauguration?" . . . The ones he got back in early New Deal days split out every four years but periodically he tries to squeeze into them rather than invest again.

U. S. Treasurer GEORGIA NEESE CLARK hates to throw away any food. . . . Has her wardrobe made by a "little dressmaker" but her pet economy is saving paper bags.

SEN. HOMER FERGUSON will make any number of excuses to keep from having his car washed. . . . And his wife says she "never buys a new umbrella."

MRS. CHARLES BRANNAN always saves turkey carcasses — gives the Secretary of Agriculture the best soup this side of heaven. . . . Does her own canning as well, and specializes in pepper relish and cranberry jelly.

MRS. STYLES BRIDGES refuses to have a cook, or an interior decorator. . . . But insists her real pet economy is government expenditures.

Connecticut's First Lady, MRS. JOHN DAVIS LODGE, saves elastic bands and hairpins. "I use the elastic bands for my braids. Also, I always sit on my old hats, throw them around and punch them to see if I can give them a different look."

But MRS. RUSSELL LONG beats all. . . . The Louisiana Senatorial lady drawls prettily, "Ah save everything — I jes hay-et to throw anything away!"

With an adequate wardrobe of planned accessories you can accept any spur-of-the-moment invitation!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

HOW DO YOU BUY your accessories? By inspiration or by plan?

If you wait until you receive an intriguing invitation to go dinner-dancing before you buy a swish, dress-up accessory to turn your basic black into a glamor frock, you may find yourself "busting" your budget unnecessarily. Too often a hasty purchase only plays a one-night stand. You discover that it's a poor makeshift for a perfectly chosen accessory.

A much less expensive and more effective way of making quick changes in the appearance of your basic clothes is by anticipating accessory needs and acquiring them with careful thought.

Seasonal Accessories

Right now, for instance, a glimpse at today's date should be warning enough that the first real summery day is near. When it arrives, your current crop of spring accessories will look one season behind. The bunch of mimosa you've been wearing on the lapel of your suit won't look so jaunty in June, the month of roses. The heavily-dotted veiling with which you've been swathing your head to glamorize your black dress will look and feel something like a horse banket when the temperature rises.

Don't wait! Take inventory of your present accessories to decide which must be replaced for summertime. Determine which of your basic clothes you will wear during the summer and for what occasions. Then plan the necessary accessories — and go out and find the ones that will best serve your needs.

By starting now you will have a whole month in which to seek the ones that will be just right — those that will never fail to provide a lift for your clothes, your spirits and your looks, everytime you wear them.

Fashion in Accessories

Before starting your search, consider the accessories which are slated for a long summer run: The open pink rose; starchy, pique bows and gloves in gold or white; crisp lengths of maline to halo your head; handsome, jeweled belts; delicate flower earbobs; gauzy stoles.

The woman of fashion knows that an exquisitely chosen accessory can double the value of any basic costume. Two can triple it. In this day of spiraling prices, it's a good thing to know!

Ancient Hindu Shrine Rebuilt Seventh Time

BOMBAY, India — (AP) — One of Hinduism's ancient and most sacred shrines—the Somnath Temple dedicated to the moon god Siva—was open again to pilgrims today in the small coastal town of Patan after its seventh restoration.

India's President Rajendra Prasad opened the temple, believed first to have been built at the beginning of the Christian era, in a colorful ceremony Friday. The booming of 101 guns and the chanting of "long live Somnath" by 60,000 worshipers accentuated the ceremony.

The dedication was climaxed by the installation of a seven-and-one-half-foot phallic image of black and grey marble called the "Jyotir Lingam," representing the reproductive powers of the moon god.

All last week, Brahmin priests held non-stop religious ceremonies preparing for the installation of the "Lingam" inside the nine-story temple.

As the black and grey column was placed on a 12-foot plinth in the sanctum sanctorum, clays from the Andes, the Alps, the Rocky Mountains and other great mountain ranges were smeared on it. Then water from the seven seas, the Grand Canyon, the Tigris, Yangtse and other great rivers was sprinkled over it.

Thousands of pilgrims arrived by special trains and chartered planes to take part in the rites. Huge kitchens were set up. Mounds of non-rationed food were stocked to feed the multitude and four-foot-deep caldrons were built to hold vegetable curries.

President Prasad told the throng the restoration of the temple — which took five years and cost 20,000,000 rupees ($4,200,000)—represented India's desire for complete religious tolerance, and not any desire for the reestablishment of the old political and social conditions.

The impressive temple, with its many carved images, was first destroyed in 1026 by Mahmud of Ghazni, a Moslem ruler whose hodes swept through the land of the rajahs. It was restored and destroyed several times. It was first believed to have been made of gold, then silver, then wood and finally stone.

The town in which the Somnath Temple stands was originally called Comanatha Patan and was mentioned by Marco Polo in the 13th century and by other famous chroniclers as an important trade center.

Following the dedication ceremonies, a new world academy for the study of Sanskirt and Indian culture was inaugurated by Purshotamadas Tandon, president of the ruling Congress Party. The bearded Tandon told about 200 Sanskirt scholars that India's salvation lay in the revival of her ancient culture.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)—WE SURVIVE in Korea for a number of reasons, and not the least of these is a rugged, two-fisted aircraft pioneer named Croil Hunter. He kept open a vital aerial avenue to that ravaged land.

He heads up a good airline named Northwest, now 25 years old and the first to fly out of the U. S. (to Canada) and one of the first to carry the mail.

Airlines in general have taken on an unusual role in the pattern of the United States since coming of age. They are a pool of know-how without which we could no longer meet the emergencies forced upon us by tension and war in the air age.

Hunter, for instance, made the modifications in the B-25 bombers used by Jimmy Doolittle on his still incredible raid on Tokyo, nine years and a month ago. Without those modifications, born of years of airline operation and the need of knowing how to make a plane fly as far as possible on the gasoline it could lift, the heart of the Japanese empire could not have been hit at a time when the free world needed this rousing lift of its morale.

Northwest also re-shaped standard B-24 Liberators into long-range camera planes which were used as trail-blazers before such crucial wartime raids as the one on the Ploesti oil fields, which drained Hitler's crankcase, and the raids on Schweinfurt, which took away the ball-bearings he needed for his war machine.

During World War II, Northwest, just to mention one of the commercial airlines which rendered tremendous service, jumped its personnel from 800 workers to 10,000. It created the tanker planes that flew the Hump to keep the fighting lamps of China glowing until the Army built pipe lines from India to gas up that blockaded country.

Hunter seemed a hopeless visionary in the late 1930's when he applied for a "Northwest Passage" route to the Orient. Sure, Col. Lindbergh and his wife had flown that route and reported favorably on it. But in the public's eye the Lindberghs were fathered by Pegasus and had nothing to do with the human species which rode in airplanes as passengers.

As war came to us, from the Far East, we knew that the framework of Hunter's commercial line up through Alaska, out along the Aleutians and down into the Orient was a priceless piece of pioneering. It was about 2,000 precious miles shorter than the West Coast-Hawaii-Wake route.

On Northwest's private enterprise the Army Air Force built a mammoth chain of bases, costing perhaps more than a billion dollars.

But after the Japs had been routed from those areas, and we had used them to supply our believed ally Russia, and the a-bomb had ended the business in the Far East, the cost of keeping the bases in operation became too prohibitive for the money-short Air Force.

It began to close shop, even to the point of destroying shop and runways so painfully built — to keep them from falling into the hands of a potential enemy who might strike from that point of the globe.

Hunter went into Washington swinging both dukes. He saved this field and that one, leased them from the government, kept them tidy, and along came the end of June, 1950, and the Korean war — with all its urgent needs for supplies by air.

Since the Korean eruption, Northwest has been operating an air lift which pales the historic Berlin air lift. It has carried mountains of arms, supplies, medicine, spare parts and vital personnel to the battlefront, over a once-disputed route which now plainly shows that it saves 4,000 miles on a roundtrip. It hasn't lost a ship or a life.

Oxygen Mask For Airline Passengers Costs 40 Cents

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

DENVER—(AP)—A 40-cent oxygen mask for airline passengers was announced to the Aero Medical Association today.

It is light as a handkechief, you can talk with it on, and if you don't use it you can keep it as a souvenir, or throw it away. The airline makes it a present, free.

A small box containing the first 40 masks was on exhibition here, along with the scientific paper announcing this new step in passenger flying. The mask is for use in a pressurized plane, if pressure is accidentally lost at high altitude. That risk has been worrying the aviation world, because without masks which they can put on almost instantly, passengers will get little air to breathe during the minutes the plane takes to drop to a level where there is good air.

The report was by Dr. Arnold L. Tuttle, medical director United Air-lines, Chicago, Dr. John P. Marberger, University of Illinois at Chicago, and Dr. Uhlrich C. Luft, U. S. Air Force School of Aviation Medicine, Randolph Field, Texas.

The cheaper oxygen masks have up to now cost about 15 dollars each. The new mask is a white semi-transparent plastic. It is shaped just like a little feed bag. It looks like one when worn. It slips on as easily as a Halloween mask, and in the same way, with an elastic that goes around the back of your head.

The top rim of the bag has a light aluminum metal strip that you push with your fingers to fit over nose and cheeks. At the bottom of that bag is a connector which you stick into the plane's oxygen tube alongside your seat.

There is only one size. The doctors said it fits a baby as easily as an adult, and as quickly. There are no valves, and no change required in breathing. Two almost invisible holes in the bag let out the carbon dioxide as it is exhaled from your lungs.

The mask is made by the Ohio Chemical and Surgical Equipment Co., a division of Air Reduction Company, at Cleveland Ohio. The company representative said that aviation companies have ordered masks as soon as they can be made in quantity.

Pricing Experts Will Visit Here

Pricing experts from the Maryland Office of Price Stabilization will be here Thursday and Friday to assist area businessmen in problems resulting from OPS ceiling price regulations.

The men, J. Raymond Rodgers and George Osterman, will set up temporary offices in City Hall Auditorium all day Thursday beginning at 10:30 a. m. and from 7 to 9 p. m. that evening, according to William H. Buchholtz, chairman of the local OPS advisory committee.

On Friday, the pricing experts will be on duty from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., when they will leave for Oakland, where a meeting is scheduled Friday night in the William James Hotel.

Investigate Complaints

Hitchcock emphasized that any residents who have complaints on dustfall are urged to telephone or write to the smoke abatement office.

He said that a thorough investigation has been made by himself or a member of his staff in every complaint that has been brought to the attention of the department.

The office and our records, he added, are open for public inspection at all times.

Hitchcock added that citizens may be more conscious of the present dustfall since it is a lighter type of dust and is more obvious than the older and heavier type.

There are spotty area in the city, he added, citing both local hospitals, but progress is being made.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Ridgedale Playground Association will meet today at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Rose Diehl, 819 Mann's Terrace.

Lindsay F. Phares, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Phares, 529 Patterson Avenue, has been accepted for enrollment with the Freshman Class this fall at Davis and Elkins College, Elkins, W. Va. Phares will graduate in June from Allegany High School.

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the Junior Association of Commerce will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Jaycee office, Liberty Trust Building.

Robert L. Troxell, 223 Fayette Street, was among 238 senior students named on the class honor list at the annual Honors and Awards Day convocation last Friday at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio.

TWUA Will Discuss Contract Changes

Contract negotiations will be discussed at a membership meeting of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the union hall.

Playford Aldridge, president, said the union will probably call a special meeting before June 9, when a 60-day notice of intentions of modifying the contract must be submitted.

He said contract talks must open within 10 days after the notice is sent.

Boy Struck On Head

Ronald Whetsell, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Whetsell, 609 Lincoln Street, was admitted to Memorial Hospital last night about 9:25 o'clock after being struck on the head by a thrown ball at Pennsylvania Avenue field. Hospital attaches said the youth was unconscious when brought to the hospital but regained his senses shortly afterwards.

The boy was admitted for observation and x-rays and his condition was listed as good by authorities.

Whetsell a member of the Kiwanis Hot Stove League team was practicing in the outfield when a transformer shorted and the lights went out. The ball was thrown in the darkness by a teammate.

John Adams, Wiley Ford, W. Va., forfeited $26.45 bond yesterday on a charge of unauthorized use of an automobile owned by the Second National Bank. Authorities said the car was taken Saturday night from the Alexander Service Station, South Centre Street, where Adams was employed. The vehicle was recovered on a local parking lot with the right rear fender and back bumper smashed.

Kelly Run-Off Election Slated

Local 26, Rubber Workers Union (CIO), will hold a run-off election Thursday at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant.

Four Executive Board members, one member of the Labor-Management committee and one member of the Policy committee will be elected.

L. G. Jenkins, chairman of the election committee, said voting will be held Thursday from 6 to 8 a. m.; 2 to 4 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to midnight.

Certified for the run-off were:

Executive Board—James P. Farrell, Earl Harrison, A. J. Jenkins, Delton Johnson, Albert Lynch, B. O. Shaffer, Earl Thompson and F. V. Warnick.

Policy committee—Lester Fatkin and Stanley Zorick.

Labor-Management committee—C. G. Arnold and Paul Ritter.

outlying sections want to tie into the system they can do so as the plant will have sufficient handling capacity.

Hall stated yesterday it now is estimated that a service charge of about $2.60 per capita would be required to handle Cumberland's program alone. If county areas were included the service charge would drop to about $2.20 per capita.

Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., appeared before the board after Hall left to ascertain some features of the plan. He said that many inquiries were noted from residents along George's Creek who were disturbed over the possibility of increased county taxes if the program were adopted outside Cumberland.

Court Probates Will

The will of Mary A. Burall, of Mt. Savage, who died May 7 was probated in Orphans Court yesterday morning. The document names her daughter, Mary Dolores Burall, of Mt. Savage, as executrix and sole beneficiary.

Nursing School Exam Planned At Memorial

The Memorial Hospital School of Nursing will hold its next pre-entrance test at the hospital Saturday, June 23, Mrs. Gladys S. Brooks, director of nurses, announced yesterday.

Application forms can be secured from the office of the School of Nursing. Applications for the June 23 test must be on file not later than Friday, June 1.

A-Bomb Film To Be Shown At Cresaptown

Local 261, International Chemical Workers Union, will present a showing of the new Civil Defense film, "You Can Beat The A-Bomb," at 9 p. m. today in the Cresaptown Fire Hall.

Byron H. Kiser, Jr., local program director, said the film is being offered as a part of the public safety program of the Western Maryland Safety Council.

The film is considered the best information on defense against the A-bomb.

Rev. J. W. Russell Appointed Pastor

The Rev. W. Joyce Russell, formerly assistant pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church here, has been appointed pastor of the newly-created St. Catherine Labourne parish in Montgomery county (Maryland) by the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, archbishop of Washington.

Boundaries of the new parish have not been finally determined, but the church property is located at Viers Mill and Claridge roads.

Father Russell, who assumed his duties Sunday, has been pastor of St. Francis de Sales Church, Benedict, Md., since leaving St. Mary's here in 1946. He was transferred to the Archdiocese of Washington after formerly serving in the Archdiocese of Baltimore.

Father Russell is a brother of the Most Rev. John J. Russell, bishop of Charleston, S. C., and former pastor of St. Patrick's and Nativity parishes in Washington.

21 Selectees Enter Service

Twenty-one selectees of two Allegany county draft boards left here Monday for Martinsburg, W. Va., and subsequent induction into the armed forces.

Two registrants of Cumberland Board No. 27 accompanied the contingent for physical examinations. Thirteen inductees will leave May 28.

Reporting for immediate duty in the Army yesterday were:

Board No. 27 — Paul Howard Couter, 1004 Kentucky Avenue; Robert Patterson Doman, 217 Arch Street; Roy Thomas Carlton, Jr., Route 2, Baltimore Pike; Lowden Fay Bucklew, 408 Arch Street; Robert Boyd Harper, 925 Grand Avenue.

Leonard William Mackereth, Jr., Route 4, this city; Lyle Junior Park, 1114 Lafayette Avenue; Robert Lee Frye, 223 Arch Street; Roy Ralph Rhodes, 14 South Mechanic Street, and William Allen Blizzard, Flintstone. All were born in 1929.

Frostburg Board No. 30—James W. Eisentrout, Donald T. Brode and Robert N. Turley, all of Frostburg; Donald W. Crawford and Lewis E. Wells, both of Lonaconing.

Philip E. Green, Route 2, Frostburg, who was transferred from Cleveland; John D. Egan, Midland; John W. Beeman and Emmett E. Brennan, Barton; Francis D. Cowatch, Jr., Westernport, and Ralph H. Pape, Eckhart.

Court Probates Will

The will of Mary A. Burall, of Mt. Savage, who died May 7 was probated in Orphans Court yesterday morning. The document names her daughter, Mary Dolores Burall, of Mt. Savage, as executrix and sole beneficiary.

Nursing School Exam Planned At Memorial

The Memorial Hospital School of Nursing will hold its next pre-entrance test at the hospital Saturday, June 23, Mrs. Gladys S. Brooks, director of nurses, announced yesterday.

Application forms can be secured from the office of the School of Nursing. Applications for the June 23 test must be on file not later than Friday, June 1.

A-Bomb Film To Be Shown At Cresaptown

Local 261, International Chemical Workers Union, will present a showing of the new Civil Defense film, "You Can Beat The A-Bomb," at 9 p. m. today in the Cresaptown Fire Hall.

Byron H. Kiser, Jr., local program director, said the film is being offered as a part of the public safety program of the Western Maryland Safety Council.

The film is considered the best information on defense against the A-bomb.

Rev. J. W. Russell Appointed Pastor

The Rev. W. Joyce Russell, formerly assistant pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church here, has been appointed pastor of the newly-created St. Catherine Labourne parish in Montgomery county (Maryland) by the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, archbishop of Washington.

Boundaries of the new parish have not been finally determined, but the church property is located at Viers Mill and Claridge roads.

Father Russell, who assumed his duties Sunday, has been pastor of St. Francis de Sales Church, Benedict, Md., since leaving St. Mary's here in 1946. He was transferred to the Archdiocese of Washington after formerly serving in the Archdiocese of Baltimore.

Father Russell is a brother of the Most Rev. John J. Russell, bishop of Charleston, S. C., and former pastor of St. Patrick's and Nativity parishes in Washington.

Miss Keller Enters Beauty Pageant

The third contestant for the "Miss Western Maryland" pageant to be held May 25 at Allegany High School auditorium under sponsorship of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce is Miss Irene Keller, 21, of 112 Maple Street, formerly of Westernport. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Keller, of Piedmont, W. Va.

A graduate of Piedmont High School, she is employed at Pulliam's Record Shop in Keyser, W. Va. Miss Keller is well known as a singer with the George Plummer band. She is five feet, five and one-half inches tall, has brown hair and hazel eyes.

A Millionaire For A Couple Of Days

THERE was a character out west several years ago who, I think, was Death Valley Scotty and who wanted to be a millionaire for a week. As I recall it, he hired a private train and asked a few friends to go along as his guests with the sky as the limit. Recently, this writer was invited to St. Catherine's Island off the coast of Georgia by its owner, Ed Noble, for a couple of days.

"How do we get there?" I asked him.

"We fly," he answered. A little later came a letter with instructions to be at the Newark Airport, Gate I, to take off at ten-thirty.

Always punctual, I got there 15 minutes early and found the owner of the plane and Hugh Baillie, president of the United Press, waiting. It turned out, because of unexpected big business, the proprietor of the aircraft could not go, so he turned the ship over to us, adding generously.

"Make yourselves at home. There is a bar on board, and it's yours over the weekend. If you don't like where you're going, fly somewhere else."

We thanked him, the man slammed the door, and my companion and I settled ourselves comfortably, as the motors started, and we taxied for a takeoff. Here we were just two in this big comfortable vehicle, with a captain, a co-pilot, and a cabin attendant. Talk about being a millionaire for a day or two! We even had stools for our feet.

Our first stop was Washington where we picked up Dr. John Oliver La Gorce, editor of the National Geographic Magazine, and headed for Savannah. When I left, I had a cane for utilitarian purposes and a diet for the gout, from which I had been suffering, in my pocket as well as some pills.

That's a fine thing to start off on a trip like this one with the gout, so I stuck to the rules until we left Washington, and then threw the food chart in the ash can, as I ordered a Scotch and soda. I still kept the pills. We arrived in Savannah 20 minutes after the No. 2 company which had flown straight for Teterboro in the converted bomber belonging to Roy Howard, the newspaper publisher. His caste included Gene Tunney, John Reed Kilpatrick, Bernard Gimbel, William Zeckendorf, a real estate man, and Bill Robinson. Mr. Z made the deal for the United Nations site with Mr. Rockefeller.

Our host met us at the airport with a Greyhound bus carrying a crew of two in which we ambled 45 miles to the dock and tested the acoustics en route. We could have used a couple of introverts in the crowd. This was followed by a boat ride of an hour until we finally dismounted on the island. It has 25,000 acres, is 14 miles long, has a beautiful old mansion, and is populated mostly by black angus cattle, alligators, and mosquitoes.

On the way back from fishing the first day, the caretaker's wife rushed out with a telegram for General Kilpatrick which he read with a solemn expression on his pan and stuck in his pocket without comment. That evening I heard Gene Tunney say to Gimbel,

"Was there any bad news in that message Reed got today?"

"I don't know," answered the other.

At dinner, the former heavyweight champion brought up the telegram again and seemed to have a suspiciously detailed knowledge of its contents. It turned out the message was signed by Ned Irish, one of Kilpatrick's assistants at Madison Square Garden, and warned it was reported the Cardinal was going to forbid the basketball teams of any Catholic school or college playing in the big arena next year because of the recent scandal. It urged the General to try to do something about the matter.

We later found by shrewd cross-examination Mr. Tunney had arranged to send the wire before we left New York which he does occasionally to stir things up. He has done the same thing rather successfully before as when he telegraphed one of two bitter enemies of 20 years' standing signing the other's name suggesting he let bygones be bygones. The surprised party of the first part got an indignant reply, saying he did not want to make up. So if you should happen to receive a telegram inviting you to appear before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee, signed by Senator Herbert R. O'Conor, the new chairman, you had better check to be sure it isn't Tunney pulling your leg.

There's an old saying that "fish and house guests smell after two days." Our host, wearing a relieved expression on his pan, said goodbye and rather faintly added we should make it an annual party. Then he went inside to help clean up the debris. We flew home in style, and I stepped out of the plane at the Westchester County Airport and back into this workaday world, with no symptoms of gout.

New Home Given To Blind Marine

LAKEWOOD, N. J. (AP)—A marine named Ray Marine, who was blinded by Japanese bullets on Iwo Jima, was given a $23,000 home this week by grateful townspeople of Lakewood.

By his side was his fiancee, Mary Jane Shafto. They will be married June 2 and move into the six-room, white frame house on a shady residential street.

The home was built by donations of nickels and dimes and dollars and the labor of many carpenters and builders on weekends. Dealers in material from Long Branch to Barnegat gave the lumber and nails and plaster.

The fund was started by Ocean County Judge Harry E. Newman, publisher of the Lakewood Daily Times. Before long $6,300 had come in to the newspaper and a trust fund was set up.

About 300 persons came to the dedication ceremonies. The trustees of the fund were there, representatives of local veterans groups, county and local officials.

Representatives from the Lakehurst Naval Air Station transmitted the message from the Navy: "Well done."

Finally 25-year-old Raymond Marine mounted the steps of the front porch of his home which he has never seen.

He accepted the key and held it over his head. In a voice choked with emotion, he said:

"When you are asked why we are fighting today, here is your answer."

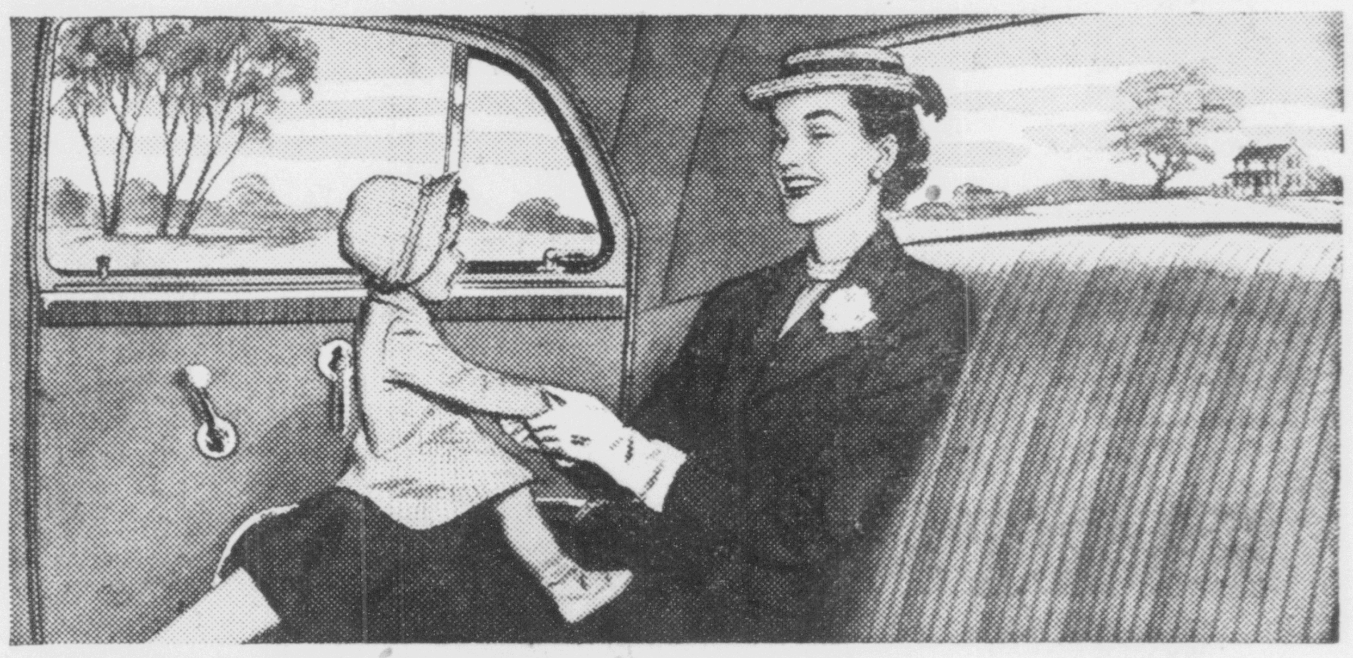
Plymouth's New "Safety-Flow Ride" Takes Bounce Out of Bumps

MOTION PICTURES made by our engineers show how little the new Plymouth goes up and down when passing over a bump, compared to cars that do not have the new "Safety-Flow Ride." New Oriflow shock absorbers, along with balanced weight distribution, synchronized springing, and other engineering features, hold the car closer to a level plane. They give Plymouth the riding qualities of a car weighing a thousand pounds more, in the opinion of Tom McCahill, automotive expert, writing in Mechanix Illustrated.

OUR TEST DRIVERS repeatedly drove the new Plymouth across ditches and deep holes. Instead of the terrific pitching and tossing you'd expect, the car absorbed the impact and stayed under easy control.



"SAFETY-FLOW RIDE" IS SO STEADY, even on rough roads, that you don't worry about giving rear seat passengers a toss or thump. This means peace of mind as well as bodily comfort. It's relaxed and restful—a completely new experience in riding comfort.

HEADS UP! With "Safety-Flow Ride" you can forget about the condition of the road immediately in front of the car and give your entire attention to oncoming traffic, pedestrians, and intersections ahead.

Plymouth's New "Safety-Flow Ride" Takes Bounce Out of Bumps

MOTION PICTURES made by our engineers show how little the new Plymouth goes up and down when passing over a bump, compared to cars that do not have the new "Safety-Flow Ride." New Oriflow shock absorbers, along with balanced weight distribution, synchronized springing, and other engineering features, hold the car closer to a level plane. They give Plymouth the riding qualities of a car weighing a thousand pounds more, in the opinion of Tom McCahill, automotive expert, writing in Mechanix Illustrated.

OUR TEST DRIVERS repeatedly drove the new Plymouth across ditches and deep holes. Instead of the terrific pitching and tossing you'd expect, the car absorbed the impact and stayed under easy control.

"SAFETY-FLOW RIDE" IS SO STEADY, even on rough roads, that you don't worry about giving rear seat passengers a toss or thump. This means peace of mind as well as bodily comfort. It's relaxed and restful—a completely new experience in riding comfort.

HEADS UP! With "Safety-Flow Ride" you can forget about the condition of the road immediately in front of the car and give your entire attention to oncoming traffic, pedestrians, and intersections ahead.

Red Sox Take Little League Opener In 8th

Frank Toler Pitches No-Hitter Against PE

The electric power failed twice as the 1951 Little League and Hot Stove League season got under way last night at Penn Avenue Field but two of the three games were completed as a crowd of approximately 800 looked on.

In the Little League lid lifter, the Red Sox won an overtime slugfest from the Pirates by the score of 16-13.

Campbell and Hines of the Red Sox hit homers.

The game went two extra innings and was decided to the 8th frame.

Due to the power failure, believed to have been caused by the additional lights having too much "drag" on the line, the Hot Stove League opener didn't get under way until 9:30. With the Kiwanis and Optimists tied at 1-1 in the second inning it was decided to halt hostilities and continue play from that point at some other time. At 10 o'clock deadline was set because the boys are of school age.

Frank Toler, former Wellersburg ace, pitched a no-run, no-hit contest as Hercules Powder defeated Potomac Edison in an Industrial Softball League contest, third and final on the program. The score was 7-0.

Toler fanned 15 while Hayden Phillips of P. E. whfifed seven.

Three games are scheduled for today.

The Cardinals and Giants of the Little League will play at 6:15 followed by a game between the Athletics and Senators at 7:30. Kelly-Springfield will meet C. & P. Telephone Company in an Industrial Softball League contest at 9 o'clock. Score:

HERCULES ........... 100 060 0—7 4 2
P. E. ................. 000 000 0—0 0 6
Toler and Cassidy. Phillips and Caldwell.

Mike Mulvey's two-run triple in the top of the 7th inning enabled the F. O. Eagles to defeat the Loyal Order of Moose yesterday at Fort Hill Field for their fourth straight win in the Rocking Chair Softball League. The score was 3-2.

Mulvey's blow broke up a mound duel between Allan Sheetz and "Fats" Weltman.

Harry Minnicks was the Moose team's batting star with a homer, double and single to his credit. Lou Riehl hammered a pair of two-baggers to pace the Eagles.

Bill Underdonk notched his 4th straight win by pitching the Elks to a 7-2 decision over the winless Amvets.

The Elks gathered 12 hits off the slants of Angellatta and Delbrugge.

Junior Hardy led the winners with a double and home to deep left field and Underdonk helped his cause with two singles. Roy Whiteman also rapped two safeties. The Amvets' infield executed three double plays and Schoenadel accounted for two of the losers' six hits.

The Outdoor Club marked up eight runs in the first stanza to wallop the Knights of Columbus at East Side, 9 to 1. Bill Dean led the winners at the plate with a pair of two-base clouts. Jim Morrison was the victor. The scores:

Giants Lose To Pirates

25,838 See Buccos Grab 7-3 Decision

PITTSBURGH, May 15 (AP) — George Strickland's bat hammered out two homers and a single, drove in five runs and gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 7-3 victory over the New York Giants before a crowd of 25,838 tonight at Forbes Field.

Bill Werle, getting his first chance to start when other probable hurlers reported sore arms, gave up only two hits in the first five scoreless innings. Then the Giants landed on him like an avalanche, slapping him for five hits, including Bobby Thomson's homer and Rafael Noble's double. Werle yielded to Vernon Law, who gave up only two hits in the last three innings. Score:

| LaSalle | 2 | 6 | .250 |

Beall High School completed the first half of its Bi-State Baseball Conference schedule with an unblemished record by registering its 7th triumph yesterday at the expense of Allegany High School at Campobello. The score was 4-1.

Enardo Arnone, Beall's star portsider, held the Campers to a double and two singles, struck out four and defeated Ronnie Sisk in a mound duel to notch his 6th conference triumph of the current campaign. Arnone has fanned 65 batters in six games.

Beall sewed up the game in the first inning by scoring two runs. Coach Ed Finzel's defending champions added single tallies in the 3rd and 5th stanzas.

George Miller was the Frostburg team's batting star with a triple and double to his credit in five trips.

Central Upsets Bruce

Beall increased its lead to three full games when Central upset the runner-up Bruce High nine in an 11-inning thriller at Midland Ball Park by the score of 4-3.

Kenneth Burt, pinch-hitting for Nightengale in the 11th singled through short to score Tommy Kelly with the run that gave the decision to Jack Brodie over Bobby Raines in a slab duel.

Kelly beat out a bunt, stole second base and after two out, Burt delivered the winning wallop in the clutch.

Don McKenzie garnered three of the nine hits yielded by Raines who suffered his first loss after four straight wins. The Bruce twirler fanned 15, upping his season's total to 72.

Marple and Fazenbaker shared four of Bruce High's seven hits yielded by Brodie who whiffed nine while posting his initial win of the campaign.

Hyndman Wins Another

Coach Ed McVicker's Hyndman High nine extended its winning streak to four games by handing LaSalle its 6th consecutive setback at Hyndman, 12 to 1. The Explorers have scored only three runs in their last three conference tilts. Hyndman has racked up 36 runs in the last three contests at the expense of Fort Hill, Bruce and LaSalle pitchers.

"Duck" Buskirk made his record 4-2 for the season and shared batting honors with Clay Leldig, top hitter in the circuit, each player getting four-for-four. Leydig, incidentally, sent his batting average soaring to .679—19 hits in 28 trips to the plate. Cunningham collected two of LaSalle's seven hits. Doug Connolly was the loser.

Barton Spills Sentinels

Fort Hill's Sentinels suffered their 4th straight league loss at the hands of Barton High School at Barton, 5 to 3.

Coach Johnny Thomas' Braves put the game on ice in a hurry by scoring four runs in the opening frame. "Tim" Clark and Paul Bailey double and singled to drive in two runs each.

Dickel fanned 12 Barton batsmen while Clark threw the third strike past 10 Sentinels.

Fort Hill threatened in the last frame when Cage tripled and Frye walked but Clark struck out Lewis and Eckard and forced Ritter to pop up.

McGregor and Ronnie Cage collected five of the losers' eight hits, both of the latter's blows being triples.

Red Sox Take Little League Opener In 8th

Frank Toler Pitches No-Hitter Against PE

The electric power failed twice as the 1951 Little League and Hot Stove League season got under way last night at Penn Avenue Field but two of the three games were completed as a crowd of approximately 800 looked on.

In the Little League lid lifter, the Red Sox won an overtime slugfest from the Pirates by the score of 16-13.

Campbell and Hines of the Red Sox hit homers.

The game went two extra innings and was decided to the 8th frame.

Due to the power failure, believed to have been caused by the additional lights having too much "drag" on the line, the Hot Stove League opener didn't get under way until 9:30. With the Kiwanis and Optimists tied at 1-1 in the second inning it was decided to halt hostilities and continue play from that point at some other time. At 10 o'clock deadline was set because the boys are of school age.

Frank Toler, former Wellersburg ace, pitched a no-run, no-hit contest as Hercules Powder defeated Potomac Edison in an Industrial Softball League contest, third and final on the program. The score was 7-0.

Toler fanned 15 while Hayden Phillips of P. E. whfifed seven.

Three games are scheduled for today.

The Cardinals and Giants of the Little League will play at 6:15 followed by a game between the Athletics and Senators at 7:30. Kelly-Springfield will meet C. & P. Telephone Company in an Industrial Softball League contest at 9 o'clock. Score:

HERCULES ............ 100 060 0—7 4 2
P. E. ..................... 000 000 0—0 0 6
Toler and Cassidy. Phillips and Caldwell.

Mike Mulvey's two-run triple in the top of the 7th inning enabled the F. O. Eagles to defeat the Loyal Order of Moose yesterday at Fort Hill Field for their fourth straight win in the Rocking Chair Softball League. The score was 3-2.

Mulvey's blow broke up a mound duel between Allan Sheetz and "Fats" Weltman.

Harry Minnicks was the Moose team's batting star with a homer, double and single to his credit. Lou Riehl hammered a pair of two-baggers to pace the Eagles.

Bill Underdonk notched his 4th straight win by pitching the Elks to a 7-2 decision over the winless Amvets.

The Elks gathered 12 hits off the slants of Angellatta and Delbrugge. Junior Hardy led the winners with a double and home to deep left field and Underdonk helped his cause with two singles. Roy Whiteman also rapped two safeties. The Amvets' infield executed three double plays and Schoenadel accounted for two of the losers' six hits.

The Outdoor Club marked up eight runs in the first stanza to wallop the Knights of Columbus at East Side, 9 to 1. Bill Dean led the winners at the plate with a pair of two-base clouts. Jim Morrison was the victor. The scores:

Giants Lose To Pirates

25,838 See Buccos Grab 7-3 Decision

PITTSBURGH, May 15 (AP) — George Strickland's bat hammered out two homers and a single, drove in five runs and gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 7-3 victory over the New York Giants before a crowd of 25,838 tonight at Forbes Field.

Bill Werle, getting his first chance to start when other probable hurlers reported sore arms, gave up only two hits in the first five scoreless innings. Then the Giants landed on him like an avalanche, slapping him for five hits, including Bobby Thomson's homer and Rafael Noble's double. Werle yielded to Vernon Law, who gave up only two hits in the last three innings. Score:

| LaSalle | 2 | 6 | .250 |

Beall High School completed the first half of its Bi-State Baseball Conference schedule with an unblemished record by registering its 7th triumph yesterday at the expense of Allegany High School at Campobello. The score was 4-1.

Enardo Arnone, Beall's star portsider, held the Campers to a double and two singles, struck out four and defeated Ronnie Sisk in a mound duel to notch his 6th conference triumph of the current campaign. Arnone has fanned 65 batters in six games.

Beall sewed up the game in the first inning by scoring two runs. Coach Ed Finzel's defending champions added single tallies in the 3rd and 5th stanzas.

George Miller was the Frostburg team's batting star with a triple and double to his credit in five trips.

Central Upsets Bruce

Beall increased its lead to three full games when Central upset the runner-up Bruce High nine in an 11-inning thriller at Midland Ball Park by the score of 4-3.

Kenneth Burt, pinch-hitting for Nightengale in the 11th singled through short to score Tommy Kelly with the run that gave the decision to Jack Brodie over Bobby Raines in a slab duel.

Kelly beat out a bunt, stole second base and after two out, Burt delivered the winning wallop in the clutch.

Don McKenzie garnered three of the nine hits yielded by Raines who suffered his first loss after four straight wins. The Bruce twirler fanned 15, upping his season's total to 72.

Marple and Fazenbaker shared four of Bruce High's seven hits yielded by Brodie who whiffed nine while posting his initial win of the campaign.

Hyndman Wins Another

Coach Ed McVicker's Hyndman High nine extended its winning streak to four games by handing LaSalle its 6th consecutive setback at Hyndman, 12 to 1. The Explorers have scored only three runs in their last three conference tilts. Hyndman has racked up 36 runs in the last three contests at the expense of Fort Hill, Bruce and LaSalle pitchers.

"Duck" Buskirk made his record 4-2 for the season and shared batting honors with Clay Leidig, top hitter in the circuit, each player getting four-for-four. Leydig, incidentally, sent his batting average soaring to .679—19 hits in 28 trips to the plate. Cunningham collected two of LaSalle's seven hits. Doug Connolly was the loser.

Barton Spills Sentinels

Fort Hill's Sentinels suffered their 4th straight league loss at the hands of Barton High School at Barton, 5 to 3.

Coach Johnny Thomas' Braves put the game on ice in a hurry by scoring four runs in the opening frame. "Tim" Clark and Paul Bailey double and singled to drive in two runs each.

Dickel fanned 12 Barton batsmen while Clark threw the third strike past 10 Sentinels.

Fort Hill threatened in the last frame when Cage tripled and Frye walked but Clark struck out Lewis and Eckard and forced Ritter to pop up.

McGregor and Ronnie Cage collected five of the losers' eight hits, both of the latter's blows being triples.

Pioneers Score 10th P.V.C. Victory, 18-3

ROMNEY, May 15—Romney High School eliminated Keyser High School from the sectional tournament today by defeating the Mineral Countians by the decisive score of 18 to 3.

The victory was the Pioneers' 10th in 11 starts in the Potomac Valley Conference this season.

Four Keyser pitchers gave up 14 bases on balls and were nicked for 10 safeties, including two doubles by Joe Ely, a triple by Orville Payne and a circuit wallop by Jack Heavener.

Romney will play Fort Ashby next in the finals of the sectional tournament.

Next Tuesday the Pioneers will play at Capon Bridge. Box:

Frosh Are Eligible

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—The sprawling Eastern College Athletic Conference today declared freshmen eligible for varsity competition during the 1951-52 college year. But one of its most important segments, the Ivy group, will not fall in line.

Tech Gives Boot To Two Gridders

ATLANTA, May 15 (AP)—John Weigle, a topflight end from Augusta, Ga., and Rollie Rhodes, a guard from Alexandria, Va., have been dropped from the Georgia Tech football squad, head coach Bobby Dodd disclosed today.

Dodd said the two men were "permanently separated" from the squad for misconduct but did not go into detail.

Weigle, a 195-pound junior, was rated the best offensive end at Tech. Rhodes was a "B" squad player. Brown and Weigle both were letter winners in 1950 and the former was being counted on as number one replacement for Center George Morris.

Cubs Option Lade To Coast League

CHICAGO, May 15 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs reduced their roster to the 25-player limit today by optioning right-handed pitcher Doyle Lade to Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League.

Lade, 30, last year appeared in 30 games and had a 5-6 record for the Cubs. This season, Lade who had an 11-10 Cub record in 1947, failed to pitch an inning.

Duke Snider's Circuit Clout Sinks Cubs, 8-4

Bases Loaded Homer Wins For Brooklyn

CHICAGO, May 15 (AP) — Duke Snider's bases-loaded homer in the seventh, two circuit wallops by league-leader Gil Hodges and another by Jackie Robinson swept the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers to an 8-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs today.

Snider's grand slam blow, after striking out three straight times, wiped out a 4-3 Cub lead and successfully opened the first western swing by the Dodgers before a Wrigley Field ladies' day throng of 29,069, including 17,835 paid. The big smash was Snider's eighth homer of the season.

The winning pitcher was Clyde King, second of three Dodger hurlers. Cal McLish, third of five Cub tossers, was the loser.

Hodges banged the first and last round-trippers in Brooklyn's four-homer assault, his 10th of the season coming as the first Dodger run in the second and his No. 11 completing a five-run punishing for McLish in the seventh.

Robinson's homer, his fifth of the season, came with none aboard in the fourth for a 2-0 Brooklyn lead. Robinson's blow and Hodges' first homer came off Cub starter Bob Rush, who went five innings. Box:

Herring, Diamond Fight At St. Nick's

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—Youthful Jimmy Herring and Artie Diamond come out of the clubs for a network shot tomorrow night at St. Nicholas Arena.. It will be 19-year-old Herring's first crack at the big time.

The middleweight scrap, scheduled for 9:00 p. m. (EST) on CBS radio and tv, will be limited to eight rounds because of Herring's age.

Herring is a veteran of 50 pro fights. He has won 41, lost seven and fought two draws. He has 21 knockout wins.

Diamond, who will be 23 in June has lost only six of 29 fights, winning 15 by knockouts.

Chicago Whips Bosox In 11th

Nelson Fox's Homer Decides Game, 9-7

BOSTON, May 15—(AP)—Nelson Fox poled a two-run homer in the 11th inning today, the first of his major league career, to lead the Chicago White Sox to a 9-7 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

Fox sliced a drive just inside the foul pole in rightfield after a walk to Ed Stewart. Those two runs cracked a 7-7 tie which had existed from the ninth inning.

Harry Dorish, who came on in the eight inning, was the winning pitcher, picking up his first victory against one loss. Ray Scarborough, fourth Bosox hurler, was charged with his first defeat. He has won once.

Chicago Manager Paul Richards pulled an odd bit of strategy in the ninth inning.

With his team ahead by one run and Ted Williams leading off for Boston, Richards summoned left-hander Billy Pierce from the bullpen and moved Dorish from the mound to third-base.

Pierce got Williams on a high, high pop to the shortstop in back of second base.

Dorish then returned to the mound, Pierce to the bench and Floyd Baker went to third, which had been guarded until the last of the ninth by Orestes Minoso.

The other homers were walloped by Ted Williams, his seventh, and by Chicago's Eddie Robinson, his fifth. Box:

Bratton, Gavilan To Meet For Title

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP) — Chicago's Johnny Bratton will seek to add New York recognition to his NBA welterweight title Friday night when he collides with Cuba's Kid Gavilan in a 15-round championship bout.

The hard-hitting 23-year old negro won the NBA crown when he defeated Charlie Fusari. New York will recognize Friday's winner as world champion.

Gavilan, who lost a 15-rounder to Ray Robinson when Sugar Ray was the welter boss, will be a strong favorite to win.

The 25-year old Cuban flash, winner of his last eight fights over formidable opposition, figures to be too smart for the Chicagoan. Bratton, however, is confident he will win. Johnny has won his last five fights, four of them via knockouts.

The 9 p. m. (E.S.T.) bout will be broadcast by ABC and telecast by NBC.

ATLANTA, May 15 (AP)—John Weigle, a topflight end from Augusta, Ga., and Rollie Rhodes, a guard from Alexandria, Va., have been dropped from the Georgia Tech football squad, head coach Bobby Dodd disclosed today.

Dodd said the two men were "permanently separated" from the squad for misconduct but did not go into detail.

Weigle, a 195-pound junior, was rated the best offensive end at Tech. Rhodes was a "B" squad player. Brown and Weigle both were letter winners in 1950 and the former was being counted on as number one replacement for Center George Morris.

Cubs Option Lade To Coast League

CHICAGO, May 15 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs reduced their roster to the 25-player limit today by optioning right-handed pitcher Doyle Lade to Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League.

Lade, 30, last year appeared in 30 games and had a 5-6 record for the Cubs. This season, Lade who had an 11-10 Cub record in 1947, failed to pitch an inning.

Duke Snider's Circuit Clout Sinks Cubs, 8-4

Bases Loaded Homer Wins For Brooklyn

CHICAGO, May 15 (AP) — Duke Snider's bases-loaded homer in the seventh, two circuit wallops by league-leader Gil Hodges and another by Jackie Robinson swept the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers to an 8-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs today.

Snider's grand slam blow, after striking out three straight times, wiped out a 4-3 Cub lead and successfully opened the first western swing by the Dodgers before a Wrigley Field ladies' day throng of 29,069, including 17,835 paid. The big smash was Snider's eighth homer of the season.

The winning pitcher was Clyde King, second of three Dodger hurlers. Cal McLish, third of five Cub tossers, was the loser.

Hodges banged the first and last round-trippers in Brooklyn's four-homer assault, his 10th of the season coming as the first Dodger run in the second and his No. 11 completing a five-run punishing for McLish in the seventh.

Robinson's homer, his fifth of the season, came with none aboard in the fourth for a 2-0 Brooklyn lead. Robinson's blow and Hodges' first homer came off Cub starter Bob Rush, who went five innings. Box:

Herring, Diamond Fight At St. Nick's

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—Youthful Jimmy Herring and Artie Diamond come out of the clubs for a network shot tomorrow night at St. Nicholas Arena. It will be 19-year-old Herring's first crack at the big time.

The middleweight scrap, scheduled for 9:00 p. m. (EST) on CBS radio and tv, will be limited to eight rounds because of Herring's age.

Herring is a veteran of 50 pro fights. He has won 41, lost seven and fought two draws. He has 21 knockout wins.

Diamond, who will be 23 in June has lost only six of 29 fights, winning 15 by knockouts.

BEARD WINS NEW EVENT—Richard "Dick" Beard, above, of Fort Hill High School, won the discus throw in the Allegany County Senior High School Meet Monday at the Stadium by tossing the plate 114 feet, 11 inches. It was an added event to this year's program. Beard also won the running, hop, step and jump and scored 15 points as Fort Hill won the meet for the 5th straight year with a total of 106 tallies.

Agramonte Is Ill

DETROIT, May 15 (AP)—Embrell Davidson, an unbeaten rookie in the heavyweight ranks, will substitute for Omelio Agramonte of Cuba in a May 23 fight here against Clarence Henry of Los Angeles.

Stomach trouble forced Agramonte to withdraw from the 10-round bout, which will be nationally televised.

U. S. To Oppose Japan In Davis Cup Opener

NEW YORK, May 15 (INS)—The United States Davis Cup team, challenging Australia for the coveted international tennis trophy, will face Japan—its first-round foe in the zonal eliminations — at the Louisville, Ky., Boat Club on July 20, 21 and 22.

The U. S. - Japan play will be the only first-round match in the American Zone, the other entrants—Canada, Cuba and Mexico—having drawn byes. In the second round, Canada faces Cuba and Mexico plays the Japan-U. S. winner.

Twenty-one nations have entered European competition. The final interzone winner will play Australia in the challenge round at Sydney, Australia, next Dec. 26, 27 and 28.

Tribe Sells Flores

CELVELAND, May 15 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians reduced their squad to the regulation 25 player today by cutting loose pitchers Jesse Flores and Charley Harris.

Flores was sold outright to San Diego of the Pacific Coast League.

Harris, bought recently from the Philidelphia Athletics, was sent to San Diego on 24-hour recall.

Chicago Whips Bosox In 11th

Nelson Fox's Homer Decides Game, 9-7

BOSTON, May 15—(AP)—Nelson Fox poled a two-run homer in the 11th inning today, the first of his major league career, to lead the Chicago White Sox to a 9-7 triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

Fox sliced a drive just inside the foul pole in rightfield after a walk to Ed Stewart. Those two runs cracked a 7-7 tie which had existed from the ninth inning.

Harry Dorish, who came on in the eight inning, was the winning pitcher, picking up his first victory against one loss. Ray Scarborough, fourth Bosox hurler, was charged with his first defeat. He has won once.

Chicago Manager Paul Richards pulled an odd bit of strategy in the ninth inning.

With his team ahead by one run and Ted Williams leading off for Boston, Richards summoned left-hander Billy Pierce from the bullpen and moved Dorish from the mound to third-base.

Pierce got Williams on a high, high pop to the shortstop in back of second base.

Dorish then returned to the mound, Pierce to the bench and Floyd Baker went to third, which had been guarded until the last of the ninth by Orestes Minoso.

The other homers were walloped by Ted Williams, his seventh, and by Chicago's Eddie Robinson, his fifth. Box:

Bratton, Gavilan To Meet For Title

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP) — Chicago's Johnny Bratton will seek to add New York recognition to his NBA welterweight title Friday night when he collides with Cuba's Kid Gavilan in a 15-round championship bout.

The hard-hitting 23-year old negro won the NBA crown when he defeated Charlie Fusari. New York will recognize Friday's winner as world champion.

Gavilan, who lost a 15-rounder to Ray Robinson when Sugar Ray was the welter boss, will be a strong favorite to win.

The 25-year old Cuban flash, winner of his last eight fights over formidable opposition, figures to be too smart for the Chicagoan. Bratton, however, is confident he will win. Johnny has won his last five fights, four of them via knockouts.

The 9 p. m. (E.S.T.) bout will be broadcast by ABC and telecast by NBC.

"Little Man In Pentagon" Is Successor To Gremlins

By JIM BECKER

WITH THE U. S. MARINES IN KOREA—(AP)—Remember the Gremlins of World War II? There's a new fictional little character in the Korean war who gets the blame for various acts of mischief in the field.

Troops call him "the Little Man in the Pentagon."

He's the "Little Man" who leaves things like spoons and can-openers out of C-rations and invents things like water-resistant towels and tent stoves that function like a combination blast furnace-refrigerator.

This "man" went into action in the early days of the war, when he observed that the C-ration situation was going altogether too smoothly.

The C-ration consists of two cans. One contains meat and vegetables—ham and lima beans or spaghetti, or any of a dozen other mixtures concocted by the army.

Almost all of them can be heated and eaten right in the can.

The other can contains biscuits, candy and coffee. It opens with a coffee-can type of key.

The "Little Man" turned his ingenuity toward the can of meat. He reasoned that to eat the meat would require (1) a spoon and (2) a can opener.

He is tricky, this fellow. In the next shipment of rations he included the can opener—but left out all the spoons. This had the result of reducing strong fighting men to screaming wrecks when faced with an open, steaming can of food and nothing with which to scoop it out.

A month or so ago a new shipment of C-rations began to arrive in Korea. This one, numbered the C-7, has spoons galore—but no can openers.

The "Little Man's" greatest performance came just the other day when new cases of C-rations contained neither spoons nor can-openers.

Right on the box, in bold black letters, the presence of both a spoon and can-opener was advertised on each box.

This "Little Man" spends his spare time working on other items of equipment.

Among his better efforts is the water-resistant towel. This is an olive-drab affair that might fool the novice into thinking it works like a regular bath towel. He would soon find his mistake.

Step out dripping from a shower and grab the towel. Within seconds it is wringing wet and so are you. It is treated with some mysterious chemical which renders it a sopping mass upon contact with ordinary water but never soaks up moisture on the human body.

Masterful as is the invention, the tent stove is a superior job. The tent stove—there are at least 4,000,000 of them in Korea—uses more fuel than an outmoded F-38 fighter plane, but gives off less heat.

It is a circular object and its stove pipes must be opened every hour on the half-hour. When it is blazing merrily away at a fuel consumption rate which causes it to run dry at the coldest possible hour of the morning, it is a physical impossibility to get within three feet of it. Within that radius it throws more heat than a blast-furnace.

Three-feet and one inch from it, however, and you will have to ask if the thing is turned on.

These little refinements are not simple, but they are what the "Little Man in the Pentagon" is paid for.

With the wicked Korean winter a thing of the past, our mythical Pentagonian was forced to exert himself in another direction. He produced probably the most inefficient item of equipment yet devised.

It's a canteen cup. It has a neat rolled edge of aluminum which retains the heat just beautifully. In fact long after the coffee in the cup is cooler than a summer romance on New Year's Eve, the edge of the cup will sear the skin right off the drinker's lip.

There is a petition circulating among the marines and soldiers now and it urges the following sentences upon the "Little Man in the Pentagon":

"He shall spend the next year of his life at the North Pole alternately roasting and freezing around his stove, trying to dry his hands on his soggy towel, searing his lips on a cup of lukewarm coffee and staring at a huge pile of spoons and can-openers—but no C-rations."

PIN-WORMS GO! Jayne's P-W Gets Real Results

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms ... ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do ... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge ... the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Troops call him "the Little Man in the Pentagon."

He's the "Little Man" who leaves things like spoons and can-openers out of C-rations and invents things like water-resistant towels and tent stoves that function like a combination blast furnace-refrigerator.

This "man" went into action in the early days of the war, when he observed that the C-ration situation was going altogether too smoothly.

The C-ration consists of two cans. One contains meat and vegetables—ham and lima beans or spaghetti, or any of a dozen other mixtures concocted by the army.

Almost all of them can be heated and eaten right in the can.

The other can contains biscuits, candy and coffee. It opens with a coffee-can type of key.

The "Little Man" turned his ingenuity toward the can of meat. He reasoned that to eat the meat would require (1) a spoon and (2) a can opener.

He is tricky, this fellow. In the next shipment of rations he included the can opener—but left out all the spoons. This had the result of reducing strong fighting men to screaming wrecks when faced with an open, steaming can of food and nothing with which to scoop it out.

A month or so ago a new shipment of C-rations began to arrive in Korea. This one, numbered the C-7, has spoons galore—but no can openers.

The "Little Man's" greatest performance came just the other day when new cases of C-rations contained neither spoons nor can-openers.

Right on the box, in bold black letters, the presence of both a spoon and can-opener was advertised on each box.

This "Little Man" spends his spare time working on other items of equipment.

Among his better efforts is the water-resistant towel. This is an olive-drab affair that might fool the novice into thinking it works like a regular bath towel. He would soon find his mistake.

Step out dripping from a shower and grab the towel. Within seconds it is wringing wet and so are you. It is treated with some mysterious chemical which renders it a sopping mass upon contact with ordinary water but never soaks up moisture on the human body.

Masterful as is the invention, the tent stove is a superior job. The tent stove—there are at least 4,000,000 of them in Korea—uses more fuel than an outmoded F-38 fighter plane, but gives off less heat.

It is a circular object and its stove pipes must be opened every hour on the half-hour. When it is blazing merrily away at a fuel consumption rate which causes it to run dry at the coldest possible hour of the morning, it is a physical impossibility to get within three feet of it. Within that radius it throws more heat than a blast-furnace.

Three-feet and one inch from it, however, and you will have to ask if the thing is turned on.

These little refinements are not simple, but they are what the "Little Man in the Pentagon" is paid for.

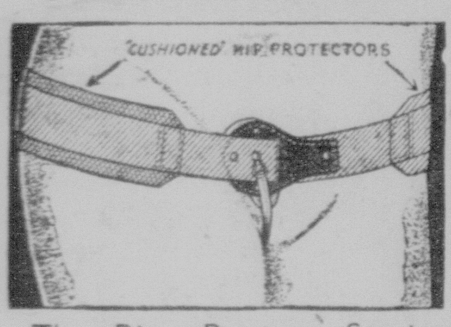
With the wicked Korean winter a thing of the past, our mythical Pentagonian was forced to exert himself in another direction. He produced probably the most inefficient item of equipment yet devised.

It's a canteen cup. It has a neat rolled edge of aluminum which retains the heat just beautifully. In fact long after the coffee in the cup is cooler than a summer romance on New Year's Eve, the edge of the cup will sear the skin right off the drinker's lip.

There is a petition circulating among the marines and soldiers now and it urges the following sentences upon the "Little Man in the Pentagon":

"He shall spend the next year of his life at the North Pole alternately roasting and freezing around his stove, trying to dry his hands on his soggy towel, searing his lips on a cup of lukewarm coffee and staring at a huge pile of spoons and can-openers—but no C-rations."

TRUSS EXPERTS COMING TO CUMBERLAND
TO DEMONSTRATE GRAND NEW SUPPORT



The Rice Rupture Service Experts, personal representatives of William S. Rice, Inc., Adams, N. Y., will be at the Ft. Cumberland Hotel, Cumberland, Md., Friday, May 18. Every ruptured person should take advantage of this great opportunity.

The Rice Method for Reducible Rupture Control is known the world over. You can now see this Method demonstrated and have a Rice Appliance fitted to you. Absolutely no charge unless you are satisfied to keep the Outfit after having the Appliance adjusted and you see how perfectly and comfortably it holds. No harsh, deep-pressing springs; nothing to gouge the flesh and make you sore.

Wear this Appliance for a full thirty day trial and if you are not perfectly satisfied at the end of that time, return it.

Thousands have reported entire satisfaction through using the Rice Appliance. Why suffer the burden of reducible rupture worry if there is a chance to be free from it? Anyway, it will cost you nothing to come in and learn all about the Rice Method and the wonderful opportunity for help it offers. Just ask at hotel desk for the Rice Representatives and they will do the rest. Hours are 10 to 12 a.m., 2 to 5 p.m. or 7 to 9 evening.

Don't miss this great opportunity to see these Experts.

PIN-WORMS GO! Jayne's P-W Gets Real Results

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

Mary Astor

HOLLYWOOD, May 15 (INS)—Barron Polan comes up with as many ideas as his brother-in-law, Jerry Wald. Barron called on me enthusiastically discussing "Meet Me In New York," a motion picture he and Fred Finklehoffa plan to make.

"It's a sequel to 'Meet Me in St. Louis,' the Judy Garland hit," said Barron, "and it continues the story of the Smith family whom you knew so well. Sally Benson, the author and youngest of the Smiths, takes her colorful family from St. Louis to Manhattan.

"We want Mary Astor to play her original role of Mrs. Smith, and we'd like to get Margaret O'Brien for the youngest Smith girl and we'll have Tom Drake again. He played the boy next door. We don't know whether we can get Judy Garland. If we can't we'll try to get Ann Crawley who is opening in Sally's adaptation of Booth Tarkington's 'Seventeen'."

• — • — •

"High Heels" will have a completely unknown cast—and that's straight from Wald and Krasna. Jerry tells me that Howard Hughes goes along with them in the idea of putting new faces in this story about "taxi dancers."

I can see how Howard would go for this. He discovered both Jean Harlow and Jane Russell when no one knew them from beans and built them into great stars.

If he needed any more evidence—look at "The Thing"—the biggest box-office grosser of the season and without one well-known name in the cast.

• — • — •

When the New York Yankees were here playing an exhibition series versus our Hollywood stars, I was the first to tell the world that Joe DiMaggio and his ex-wife, Dorothy Arnold, would remarry.

At that time Joe told me that I wasn't wrong in my predictions, but that the wedding wouldn't take place until late summer, when his team was at the Yankee Stadium and their son could join them in Manhattan.

Now I hear that those high up in sports circles insist Joe and Dorothy are already married. This, however, I was unable to check.

• — • — •

Theres' really no business like show business—and how wonderful to be a part of it! The great stars who appeared at Ciro's for the Examiner fund for the war wounded overseas, gave their time so gladly and happily.

Popular Sophie Tucker circulated around before and after her song numbers getting a big greeting; Tony Martin sang the Jolson songs with such feeling; Dinah Shore so graciously singing her popular numbers (she had to be up, too, at 5:30 and on the set); Dan Dailey dancing better than ever and what a hand he got; George Jessel, that wonderful person who never fails when there's a benefit so witty and so apt in his introductions.

Marion Davies who was one of the hostesses, brought a party of celebrities. She bought a big block of tickets. A nice sum will be realized for our wounded boys.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

When Jack Carson makes his next flying trip to Hollywood he's bringing home a stepmother for his children. She's Lola Albright, leading lady on his TV series.

A tip from Florida is that Phil Berg has sold his fabulous yacht to a Florida millionaire for $400,000.

Dorothy Dandridge continues to pack them in at Mocambo and I'm not surprised. She sings "I've Got You Under My Skin" in the same throaty voice that first won Lena Horne such acclaim. Lena, by the way, is doing terrific business at the Cocoanut Grove.

Lloyd Bacon is trying to buy the original "Show Boat" and bring it to the coast for the purpose of a theater and dinner spot cruising up and down the coast between San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego. For the tired business man thats' some dinner date.

Rosalind Russell and Freddie Brisson are in New York to talk to Leland Hayward about a play he wants Roz to do.

Kay Francis wires me she's going out on a nine-week tour of George Oppenheim's new play, "Mirror, Mirror," which may later hit Broadway. She says her toe is completely healed.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Birthday Meeting

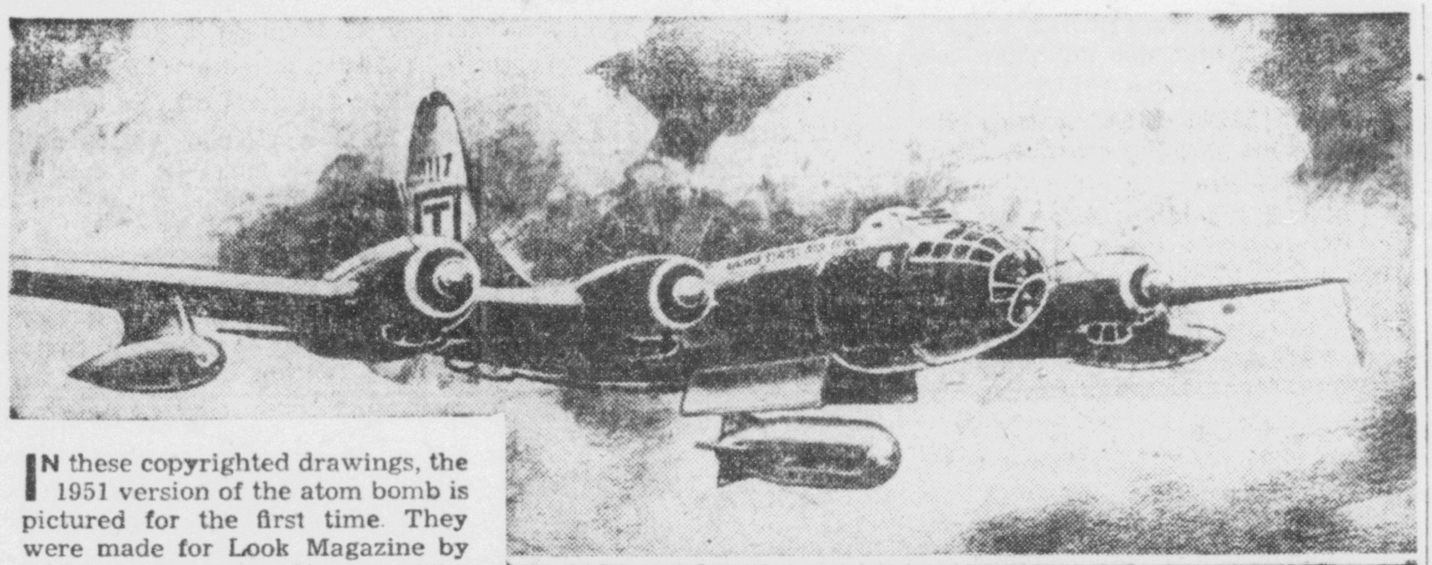
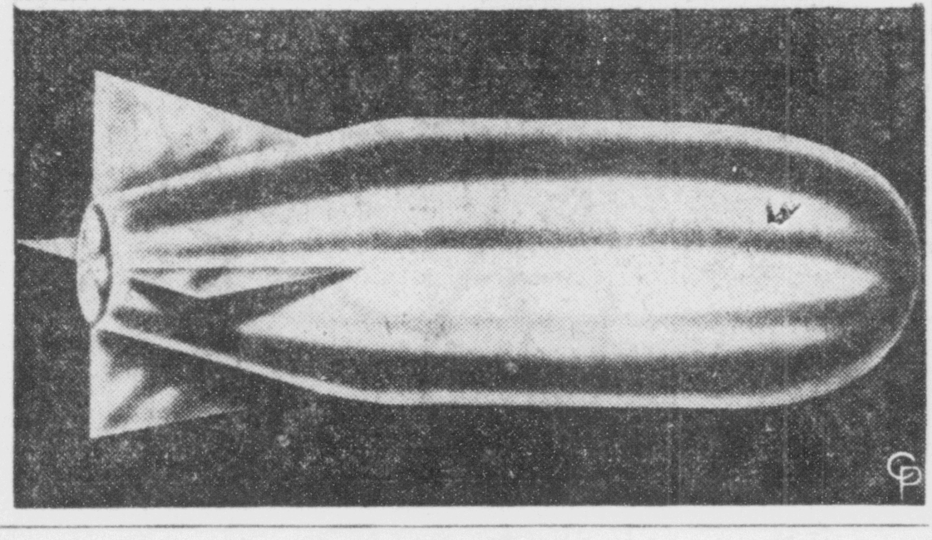
PIEDMONT, W. Va.—The annual birthday meeting of the Women of the Presbyterian Church will be held in the assembly room of the church this evening at 8 o'clock. The program will be presented by Mrs. Roy Cave and refreshments will be served.





IN these copyrighted drawings, the 1951 version of the atom bomb is pictured for the first time. They were made for Look Magazine by cartoonist Jim Berryman, one of the first civilians to have flown on an A-bomb test mission and the first authorized to illustrate and describe the missile's exterior for the public. The report was cleared through the U. S. Air Force for security reasons. The bomb, it was stated, is approximately 20 feet long; 9 to 10 feet in diameter, and weighs 10,000 pounds. It can be set to explode 40 seconds after its release. How the new atom bomb looks when emerging from the bomb bay of a B-50 over target, is shown above. # Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Does "indulgence" make spoiled children?

Answer: Not primarily, says Dr. C. Anderson Aldrich, noted child psychiatrist. "Any one who cares to do so may study, as I have, the early history of spoiled children. In vain will he search for a story of indulgence at the start. With tiresome regularly he will find the same old tale of strict adherence to rigid forms of child training and an inhuman sort of reliance on the theory that affectionate treatment is bad for babies." It is the insecurity which such a start in life creates that makes the spoiled child grab at everything he can get and fly into a rage if his least wish is frustrated.

Is brain surgery based on exact knowledge?

Answer: No, says Drs. Carney Landis, Joseph Zubin and Fred A. Mettler of Columbia University in the Journal of Psychology. No one yet knows certainly just what are the functions of the frontal lobe of the brain, and the consequences of cutting it off from the rest are "ambiguous and uncertain." Neither from the physical nor from the mental standpoint does this type of brain surgery have a specific or predictable effect on the behavior of the patient. It seems mainly to limit his powers of attention and add to his mental and emotional confusion.

Can your reason rule your conscience?

Answer: Never wholly, no matter how sound and correct your thinking may be. You learn to associate punishment or disapproval with certain acts and feelings long before you can think logically, and logical ideas never are entirely successful in wiping out these "first impressions." That is why you cannot do anything that your childish conscience tells you is wrong without feeling some degree of guilt, however, wise or necessary your intelligence may tell you that the once forbidden action now is. But when necessary, such guilt can be much reduced by psychiatric treatment.

Truck Fired On At Mine Entrance

KINGWOOD, W. Va.—State Police reported that two shots were fired Monday at an Industrial Coal Company truck as it was leaving the mine entrance for the tipple.

Investigating officers said one bullet went through the radiator of the truck driven by Ralph Catlett of Kingwood.

Police said the shooting occurred about 8:30 a. m., and quoted Catlett as saying that he saw a movement in the brush in the direction from which he thought the sots came. Tey later found tracks of two men at that spot.

The shooting is believed to have been done by men who have been picketing the non-union mines in Preston county for several weeks.

The Industrial mine is located about 1½ miles from Kingwood.

Hill Becomes New Mayor Of Piedmont

Officials To Take Posts On June 4

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—Allan L. Hill will take office June 4 as new mayor of Piedmont as a result of overwhelming Donald M. Mellor, 555 to 237, in Monday's municipal election.

Both men are veterans of World War 2 and are employed at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. Hill will serve a two-year term.

A total of 790 votes was cast out of an estimated 1,300 qualified registrants. Some 911 votes were cast in the last election.

Hill succeeds the incumbent Mayor Harold Fredlock, who was not a candidate for reelection. Fredlock had served three terms as mayor and three as councilman.

The Citizen's Ticket, headed by Hill, swept two of the three places on the Town Council. Incumbent Eugene Paxton topped the council slate by polling 481 votes and W. Garland Cheshire followed with 473 tallies. The third member of the council who was elected was Norman B. Baughman, who received 453 votes.

Paxton and Cheshire will serve four-year terms, and Baughman will serve for two years.

A surprise in the voting Monday was the failure of incumbent Councilman William T. Davis to retain office. He placed fourth in the balloting with 342 votes. He was a candidate on the Citizen's Ticket along with Edward J. Cheshire, 285 votes, and Charles L. Davis, 230 votes. Cheshire and Davis are former councilmen.

Holdover councilmen are Mervin High and Joseph Maybury. John Ward was not a candidate for reelection as councilman.

Keyser Memorial Dedication Planned

KEYSER, W. Va.—One of the features of the Keyser-B & O Exposition to be held here the week of May 27 will be the unveiling of a Soldier Memorial on Memorial Day, honoring the dead of World Wars I and II and any others who may be numbered among the fighting men on the Korean war front.

The memorial will be of granite and be placed in the city owned park across from the Keyser Fire Hall, and will be paid for by citizens of Keyser.

A few days ago a letter was received from SFC Lewis Blackburn, with the 201st Heavy Armor Field Artillery, Battalion, now stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., in which he enclosed $55 as contributions from men of that battalion as their donation to the memorial fund. The memorial will bear names of veterans who paid dearly in giving their services to their country.

Truck Fired On At Mine Entrance

KINGWOOD, W. Va.—State Police reported that two shots were fired Monday at an Industrial Coal Company truck as it was leaving the mine entrance for the tipple.

Investigating officers said one bullet went through the radiator of the truck driven by Ralph Catlett of Kingwood.

Police said the shooting occurred about 8:30 a. m., and quoted Catlett as saying that he saw a movement in the brush in the direction from which he thought the sots came. Tey later found tracks of two men at that spot.

The shooting is believed to have been done by men who have been picketing the non-union mines in Preston county for several weeks.

The Industrial mine is located about 1½ miles from Kingwood.

Hill Becomes New Mayor Of Piedmont

Officials To Take Posts On June 4

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—Allan L. Hill will take office June 4 as new mayor of Piedmont as a result of overwhelming Donald M. Mellor, 555 to 237, in Monday's municipal election.

Both men are veterans of World War 2 and are employed at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. Hill will serve a two-year term.

A total of 790 votes was cast out of an estimated 1,300 qualified registrants. Some 911 votes were cast in the last election.

Hill succeeds the incumbent Mayor Harold Fredlock, who was not a candidate for reelection. Fredlock had served three terms as mayor and three as councilman.

The Citizen's Ticket, headed by Hill, swept two of the three places on the Town Council. Incumbent Eugene Paxton topped the council slate by polling 481 votes and W. Garland Cheshire followed with 473 tallies. The third member of the council who was elected was Norman B. Baughman, who received 453 votes.

Paxton and Cheshire will serve four-year terms, and Baughman will serve for two years.

A surprise in the voting Monday was the failure of incumbent Councilman William T. Davis to retain office. He placed fourth in the balloting with 342 votes. He was a candidate on the Citizen's Ticket along with Edward J. Cheshire, 285 votes, and Charles L. Davis, 230 votes. Cheshire and Davis are former councilmen.

Holdover councilmen are Mervin High and Joseph Maybury. John Ward was not a candidate for reelection as councilman.

Moorefield Cub Scouts Plan Circus

MOOREFIELD—The Cub Scouts of the local pack No. 61 are putting on a drive to sell tickets for a circus which they will present in a few weeks. Although plans are not completed and acts perfected, the ticket drive is now underway.

Keyser Memorial Dedication Planned

KEYSER, W. Va.—One of the features of the Keyser-B & O Exposition to be held here the week of May 27 will be the unveiling of a Soldier Memorial on Memorial Day, honoring the dead of World Wars I and II and any others who may be numbered among the fighting men on the Korean war front.

The memorial will be of granite and be placed in the city owned park across from the Keyser Fire Hall, and will be paid for by citizens of Keyser.

A few days ago a letter was received from SFC Lewis Blackburn, with the 201st Heavy Armor Field Artillery, Battalion, now stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., in which he enclosed $55 as contributions from men of that battalion as their donation to the memorial fund. The memorial will bear names of veterans who paid dearly in giving their services to their country.

By TALLULAH BANKHEAD

Crosby, the Actor

A WAY back in 1911, or some such — the calendar always confuses me — "Rube" Marquard, a wry-necked left-hander with a sharp curve and a blazing fast ball, waxed so rash as to marry Blossom Seeley, a rowdy little soubrette who could inflame the peasants with a popular song. In a fit of lunacy Miss Seeley decided that her act might be enhanced, her salary rocket, did she share the platform with the "Rube," than a Giant hero. On the dubious theory that as a provider he should be gainfully employed the year round, Mr. Marquard agreed to this conspiracy, shortly found himself on the stage of Hammerstein's Victoria in the heart of Times Square engaged in banter with his mate, even helping her out with a ballad.

A critic, whose name I can't remember, on viewing the act of a Monday afternoon thus appraised the Rube's contribution to stage history: "Marquard can sing as well as Caruso can pitch."

As you may have guessed I'm wrestling with a parable, or an erratic variation thereof. Not so long ago John Crosby, the fugitive conductor of this column, called me of a midnight to suggest that I spin out some 800 words about either the plight or progress of radio and television which, provided it not outrage the canons of good taste or sound subversive, he would use as a guest column. "A guest column?", I rebutted. "Why? Have you succumbed to the singing commercial? Or are you thinking of getting into a more reputable business?"

Mr. Crosby quickly briefed me. An old Francophile he felt that he would be a traitor to his emotions did he not participate in some small degree in the celebration of the 2000th anniversary of the city of Paris, prove by trial and error to his own satisfaction the validity of the ancient axiom, "Champagne is the imprisoned laughter of the peasant girls of France." "Don't you think it's a little late to go into that?" I vollied (from Tennyson's 'vollied and thundered' as in 'The Charge of the Light Brigade'). "I thought you were an old Martini man! Doesn't the Crosby crest bear the inscription, 'Honi soit qui Noilly Prat'?"

"Don't try to measure my motives by your standards," replied Mr. Crosby, a little churlishly I thought. "Will you or won't you?" "Will I or won't I what?" I shouted. I had to shout because my mynah bird had gone berserk and was making nasty cracks about room service. "Write a guest column, witch," replied my gallant foe. "And pronto! I take off at dawn, into the wide blue yonder. Paris calls, and that's a call no man in his right mind can ignore. Ever ride up the Champs Elysees at dusk, through the Arc and into the Bois?"

With that I capitulated, and that's why I'm presently all tangled up with "Rube" Marquard and Blossom Seeley, with 400 words to go. Well, as I said first, I can write as well as Crosby can act. Or can I?

I've seen Crosby act and he has touches of all the Barrymores, Coquelin, E. H. Sothern and Milton Berle. In front of a microphone he also gives off a slight aroma of what is perhaps Virginia's most tasty product. It happened like this.

• — • — •

And some of you may know I have lately been curdling Sabbath evenings as mistress of ceremonies of "The Big Show," six to seven-thirty, NBC. It was on the night of April 8, 1951, that Mr. Crosby crashed into the program, dressed to the nines, his hair on fire, to banter words with the likes of Fred Allen, Rudy Vallee, Jimmy Durante, and Vivian Blaine, to say nothing of this guest whatyumacallit.

Mr. Crosby used a very cunning device to muscle his way into the proceedings. He interrupted Fred Allen to say that he was a messenger from the Newspaper Guild, come to pin a Page-One Award on me "for putting new life into radio," six words which he delivered with both eloquence and conviction. When the ovation from the audience was stilled I bussed Mr. Crosby on the brow (a salute which, since radio is vocal rather than visual, was unseen by an audience conservatively estimated at 30,000,000, not counting Bette Davis). Then I cleared up his identity to Fred and Jimmy, both of whom thought that he was Bing Crosby's son.

I must say that given his head, Crosby took the bit in his mouth, lived up to all the best traditions of my craft. He stole two laughs from Durante, stepped on Allen's lines, and in a spasm of candor named his qualifications as a critic: "A college education, a typewriter and a gall bladder condition." When I suggested that his appearance on 'The Big Show' might enlighten him on the more subtle arcana of the medium, thus enable him to more intelligently judge 'The Big Show,' he acted like that Spartan lad who warmed a starving wolf under his jacket only to have the ungrateful cub eat out his innards. What do you think was the ingrate's last quip? Only this:

"I wrote my review yesterday. It starts off, 'The Big Show' this week was given a tremendous lift by the appearance of yours truly, whose ready wit and charm caused the professionals to turn pale with envy."

• — • — •

Since I'm notorious for my modesty, devoted to self-depreciation, and cramped by a lofty ethical code, I'll not resort to a piece of Crosby treachery in my invasion of his field. Why? Well, dahlings, Crosby will be writing other columns, offering other judgments. I'd better keep a civil tongue in my head.

Radio And Television

By TALLULAH BANKHEAD

Crosby, the Actor

AWAY back in 1911, or some such — the calendar always confuses me — "Rube" Marquard, a wry-necked left-hander with a sharp curve and a blazing fast ball, waxed so rash as to marry Blossom Seeley, a rowdy little soubrette who could inflame the peasants with a popular song. In a fit of lunacy Miss Seeley decided that her act might be enhanced, her salary rocket, did she share the platform with the "Rube," than a Giant hero. On the dubious theory that as a provider he should be gainfully employed the year round, Mr. Marquard agreed to this conspiracy, shortly found himself on the stage of Hammerstein's Victoria in the heart of Times Square engaged in banter with his mate, even helping her out with a ballad.

A critic, whose name I can't remember, on viewing the act of a Monday afternoon thus appraised the Rube's contribution to stage history: "Marquard can sing as well as Caruso can pitch."

As you may have guessed I'm wrestling with a parable, or an erratic variation thereof. Not so long ago John Crosby, the fugitive conductor of this column, called me of a midnight to suggest that I spin out some 800 words about either the plight or progress of radio and television which, provided it not outrage the canons of good taste or sound subversive, he would use as a guest column. "A guest column?", I rebutted. "Why? Have you succumbed to the singing commercial? Or are you thinking of getting into a more reputable business?"

Mr. Crosby quickly briefed me. An old Francophile he felt that he would be a traitor to his emotions did he not participate in some small degree in the celebration of the 2000th anniversary of the city of Paris, prove by trial and error to his own satisfaction the validity of the ancient axiom, "Champagne is the imprisoned laughter of the peasant girls of France." "Don't you think it's a little late to go into that?" I vollied (from Tennyson's 'vollied and thundered' as in 'The Charge of the Light Brigade'). "I thought you were an old Martini man! Doesn't the Crosby crest bear the inscription, 'Honi soit qui Noilly Prat'?"

"Don't try to measure my motives by your standards," replied Mr. Crosby, a little churlishly I thought. "Will you or won't you?" "Will I or won't I what?" I shouted. I had to shout because my mynah bird had gone berserk and was making nasty cracks about room service. "Write a guest column, witch," replied my gallant foe. "And pronto! I take off at dawn, into the wide blue yonder. Paris calls, and that's a call no man in his right mind can ignore. Ever ride up the Champs Elysees at dusk, through the Arc and into the Bois?"

With that I capitulated, and that's why I'm presently all tangled up with "Rube" Marquard and Blossom Seeley, with 400 words to go. Well, as I said first, I can write as well as Crosby can act. Or can I?

I've seen Crosby act and he has touches of all the Barrymores, Coquelin, E. H. Sothern and Milton Berle. In front of a microphone he also gives off a slight aroma of what is perhaps Virginia's most tasty product. It happened like this.

And some of you may know I have lately been curdling Sabbath evenings as mistress of ceremonies of "The Big Show," six to seven-thirty, NBC. It was on the night of April 8, 1951, that Mr. Crosby crashed into the program, dressed to the nines, his hair on fire, to banter words with the likes of Fred Allen, Rudy Vallee, Jimmy Durante, and Vivian Blaine, to say nothing of this guest whatyumacallit.

Mr. Crosby used a very cunning device to muscle his way into the proceedings. He interrupted Fred Allen to say that he was a messenger from the Newspaper Guild, come to pin a Page-One Award on me "for putting new life into radio," six words which he delivered with both eloquence and conviction. When the ovation from the audience was stilled I bussed Mr. Crosby on the brow (a salute which, since radio is vocal rather than visual, was unseen by an audience conservatively estimated at 30,000,000, not counting Bette Davis). Then I cleared up his identity to Fred and Jimmy, both of whom thought that he was Bing Crosby's son.

I must say that given his head, Crosby took the bit in his mouth, lived up to all the best traditions of my craft. He stole two laughs from Durante, stepped on Allen's lines, and in a spasm of candor named his qualifications as a critic: "A college education, a typewriter and a gall bladder condition." When I suggested that his appearance on 'The Big Show' might enlighten him on the more subtle arcana of the medium, thus enable him to more intelligently judge 'The Big Show,' he acted like that Spartan lad who warmed a starving wolf under his jacket only to have the ungrateful cub eat out his innards. What do you think was the ingrate's last quip? Only this:

"I wrote my review yesterday. It starts off, 'The Big Show' this week was given a tremendous lift by the appearance of yours truly, whose ready wit and charm caused the professionals to turn pale with envy."

• — • — •

Since I'm notorious for my modesty, devoted to self-depreciation, and cramped by a lofty ethical code, I'll not resort to a piece of Crosby treachery in my invasion of his field. Why? Well, dahlings, Crosby will be writing other columns, offering other judgments. I'd better keep a civil tongue in my head.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to thank those who in any way helped us during the illness and at the death of our daughter, Linda Diana and especially those who donated flowers and cars and acted as flowerbearers and pallbearers, the Rev. Bruce Shanholtz for his message of hope.
MR. & MRS. HARRY NEALIS & FAMILY

In Memoriam

Our Tribute to Mother
Mrs. Alice K. Robison
Dearest mother you have left us,
And we miss your tender love.
But some day we hope to meet you
In that happy home above.
That the Savior has gone to prepare,
We will meet Him in the air,
And together we shall dwell,
In our home so fair.
It seems we can almost hear,
Your sweet voice kind and true,
We know you cannot come to us,
But we can go to you.
When we meet up Yonder,
And beside the river walk,
Of all the Heavenly Glories,
We can forever talk.
Her children

Cards of Thanks

We wish to thank those who in any way helped us during the illness and at the death of our daughter, Linda Diana and especially those who donated flowers and cars and acted as flowerbearers and pallbearers, the Rev. Bruce Shanholtz for his message of hope.
MR. & MRS. HARRY NEALIS & FAMILY

In Memoriam

Our Tribute to Mother
Mrs. Alice K. Robison
Dearest mother you have left us,
And we miss your tender love,
But some day we hope to meet you
In that happy home above.
That the Savior has gone to prepare,
We will meet Him in the air,
And together we shall dwell,
In our home so fair.
It seems we can almost hear,
Your sweet voice kind and true,
We know you cannot come to us,
But we can go to you.
When we meet up Yonder,
And beside the river walk,
Of all the Heavenly Glories,
We can forever talk.
Her children

Selling Onslaught Forces Sharp Decline In Market

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—The stock market gave way today before a selling onslaught that forced prices down by as much as $5 to $6 a share.

The loss amounted to more than $1,500,000,000 in the quoted value of all listed securities.

Selling pressure reached a peak shortly before noon that was intense enough to put the ticker four minutes behind in reporting business on the floor of the stock exchange.

The congestion lasted about 30 minutes, and thereafter trading progressed at an orderly pace.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $1.60 to $93.50, the sharpest fall since March 13. The industrial component of the average was down $2.20, rails $1.50, and utilities 20 cents.

The day's total volume came to 2,020,000 shares. (Yesterday's total was a slow 1,250,000 shares.)

The market broadened considerably to 1,195 individual issues traded from the total of 1,086 issues yesterday. Today saw the highest total since March 13. There were only 118 issues advancing and 894 issues declining.

The number of new lows for the year expanded sharply to 84 (yesterday there were only 37), and there were but seven new highs for the year established.

There were no plus signs in the list of 15 most active issues. The first five in the list were General Motors off ½ at 50, Universal Laboratories ⅞ at 2¾, RKO Pictures ¼ at 3⅜, Socony-Vacuum ¼ at 31, and Pennsylvania Railroad ⅜ at 20⅜.

"The Authority on Authorities"

VIRTUE ITS OWN REWARD

MAKING the correct bid or play at some crucial stage will usually prove more profitable to your side than will a mistake of some kind. But you must get used to seeing some of your best work go for naught, producing either the same result as if you had erred, or upon rare occasions giving you a worse result. Then is the time to be philosophical and not let it upset you for the ensuing deals.

With that identical bidding at two tables of a team match, West also made the same lead in each case, his fourth-best diamond 4. In each case South called the 9 from dummy. One East put on his K and the A won. The heart A was scored next at this table, then South took the marked finesse of the diamond 10, following it with the Q. He now finessed the heart J, felled the Q with the K and scored the 10 to have seven tricks.

With the black aces available to complete his sure game, he shadow-boxed for an extra trick by leading the spade 6. West won with the Q and raked in two diamonds, then returned the club J to the A. South now decided to score the spade A for his game and give up the last trick to the spade K.

At the other table, when the diamond 9 was played on the lead of the 4, East saw that by playing low and holding up his K he could limit South to two tricks in diamonds instead of three. It was a good play, but made no eventual difference, for South next finessed hearts and then led spades until he had a trick developed in that suit in addition to the A. So he too got nine tricks with two in spades, four in hearts, two in diamonds and one in clubs. East's good play to the first trick gained nothing, but he had the satisfaction of having done the right thing.

After normal bidding West leads the spade 5 against South's No Trump game, the K winning the J and the club Q being sent through? What should East then do?

VIRTUE ITS OWN REWARD

MAKING the correct bid or play at some crucial stage will usually prove more profitable to your side than will a mistake of some kind. But you must get used to seeing some of your best work go for naught, producing either the same result as if you had erred, or upon rare occasions giving you a worse result. Then is the time to be philosophical and not let it upset you for the ensuing deals.

With that identical bidding at two tables of a team match, West also made the same lead in each case, his fourth-best diamond 4. In each case South called the 9 from dummy. One East put on his K and the A won. The heart A was scored next at this table, then South took the marked finesse of the diamond 10, following it with the Q. He now finessed the heart J, felled the Q with the K and scored the 10 to have seven tricks.

With the black aces available to complete his sure game, he shadow-boxed for an extra trick by leading the spade 6. West won with the Q and raked in two diamonds, then returned the club J to the A. South now decided to score the spade A for his game and give up the last trick to the spade K.

At the other table, when the diamond 9 was played on the lead of the 4, East saw that by playing low and holding up his K he could limit South to two tricks in diamonds instead of three. It was a good play, but made no eventual difference, for South next finessed hearts and then led spades until he had a trick developed in that suit in addition to the A. So he too got nine tricks with two in spades, four in hearts, two in diamonds and one in clubs. East's good play to the first trick gained nothing, but he had the satisfaction of having done the right thing.

After normal bidding West leads the spade 5 against South's No Trump game, the K winning the J and the club Q being sent through? What should East then do?

Selling Onslaught Forces Sharp Decline In Market

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—The stock market gave way today before a selling onslaught that forced prices down by as much as $5 to $6 a share.

The loss amounted to more than $1,500,000,000 in the quoted value of all listed securities.

Selling pressure reached a peak shortly before noon that was intense enough to put the ticker four minutes behind in reporting business on the floor of the stock exchange.

The congestion lasted about 30 minutes, and thereafter trading progressed at an orderly pace.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $1.60 to $93.50, the sharpest fall since March 13. The industrial component of the average was down $2.20, rails $1.50, and utilities 20 cents.

The day's total volume came to 2,020,000 shares. (Yesterday's total was a slow 1,250,000 shares.)

The market broadened considerably to 1,195 individual issues traded from the total of 1,086 issues yesterday. Today saw the highest total since March 13. There were only 118 issues advancing and 894 issues declining.

The number of new lows for the year expanded sharply to 84 (yesterday there were only 37), and there were but seven new highs for the year established.

There were no plus signs in the list of 15 most active issues. The first five in the list were General Motors off ½ at 50, Universal Laboratories ⅞ at 2¾, RKO Pictures ¼ at 3⅝, Socony-Vacuum ¼ at 31, and Pennsylvania Railroad ⅝ at 20⅝.

AreaBungalow Destroyed In Morning Blaze

Crosten Home Gutted On Cash Valley Road

An early morning fire yesterday gutted the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oda Crosten and family, about three-quarters of a mile from Corriganville, causing damages estimated at $3,500 according to Fire Chief Harry Martz, Corriganville. The small frame bungalow, located on the Cash Valley Road, caught fire about 2 a. m. No one was injured.

Four fire trucks from the Corriganville and LaVale Volunteer Fire Companies battled the early morning blaze for an hour before bringing it under control. About 500 feet of hose were used, Martz added, and water was pumped from a nearby stream.

Neighboring homes were threatened but firemen managed to keep the blaze confined to the immediate structure.

Cause Is Unknown

Cause of the fire is unknown, and Martz said Crosten was listening to the radio when the fire broke out. He attempted to extinguish the flames with several buckets of water and when it got out of control he notified the fire department.

Martz added the fire got such a start that few belongings were saved. Most of the furnishings were destroyed.

Crosten, an Amcelle worker, and other members of the family are now staying with relatives in the area. Damage to the bungalow was reputed partially covered by insurance.

Explosion Burns Two

Two men were burned about noon yesterday after natural gas backed up into a sewer and exploded at the Star Dye Works, 513 Necessity Street.

An employe, Herbert Stevey, 24, Oldtown, was treated at Allegany Hospital for first degree burns of the face, neck and upper arms.

Central firemen answered a call to the plant at 11:56 a.m. and remained there about an hour. Investigation revealed the blast apparently was set off by a spark from an electric motor.

Damage was confined to the motor.

South End Fire Company answered two calls last evening. A grass fire was reported at the rear of 117 Laing Avenue at 5:36 o'clock but firemen reported no damage. A small blaze was reported in a garage belonging to Mrs. Donald Harden, 401 Springdale Street at 8:45 o'clock. The fire was out upon arrival. No damage was caused.

Dashiell's Term Nears Finish

Edgar A. Dashiell presided at a meeting of the Allegany County Board of Education yesterday afternoon which in all probability was the last he will attend as a board member.

The chairman's term expires at the end of this month. Under the new law adopted at the recent session of the General Assembly this county will have a five-member Board of Education beginning June 1.

This new legislation also provides that at least two members of the board shall be women and at least two members of the political party which polled the second highest number of votes in the most recent gubernatorial election in the state.

Because the other two present board members, Wilbur V. Wilson and Edward J. Ryan, are Democrats like Dashiell, it appears likely that three Republicans, including two women, will be named to the new board by Governor McKeldin.

School Superintendent Charles L. Kopp said that yesterday's meeting was inauspicious.

Labor Meeting Set

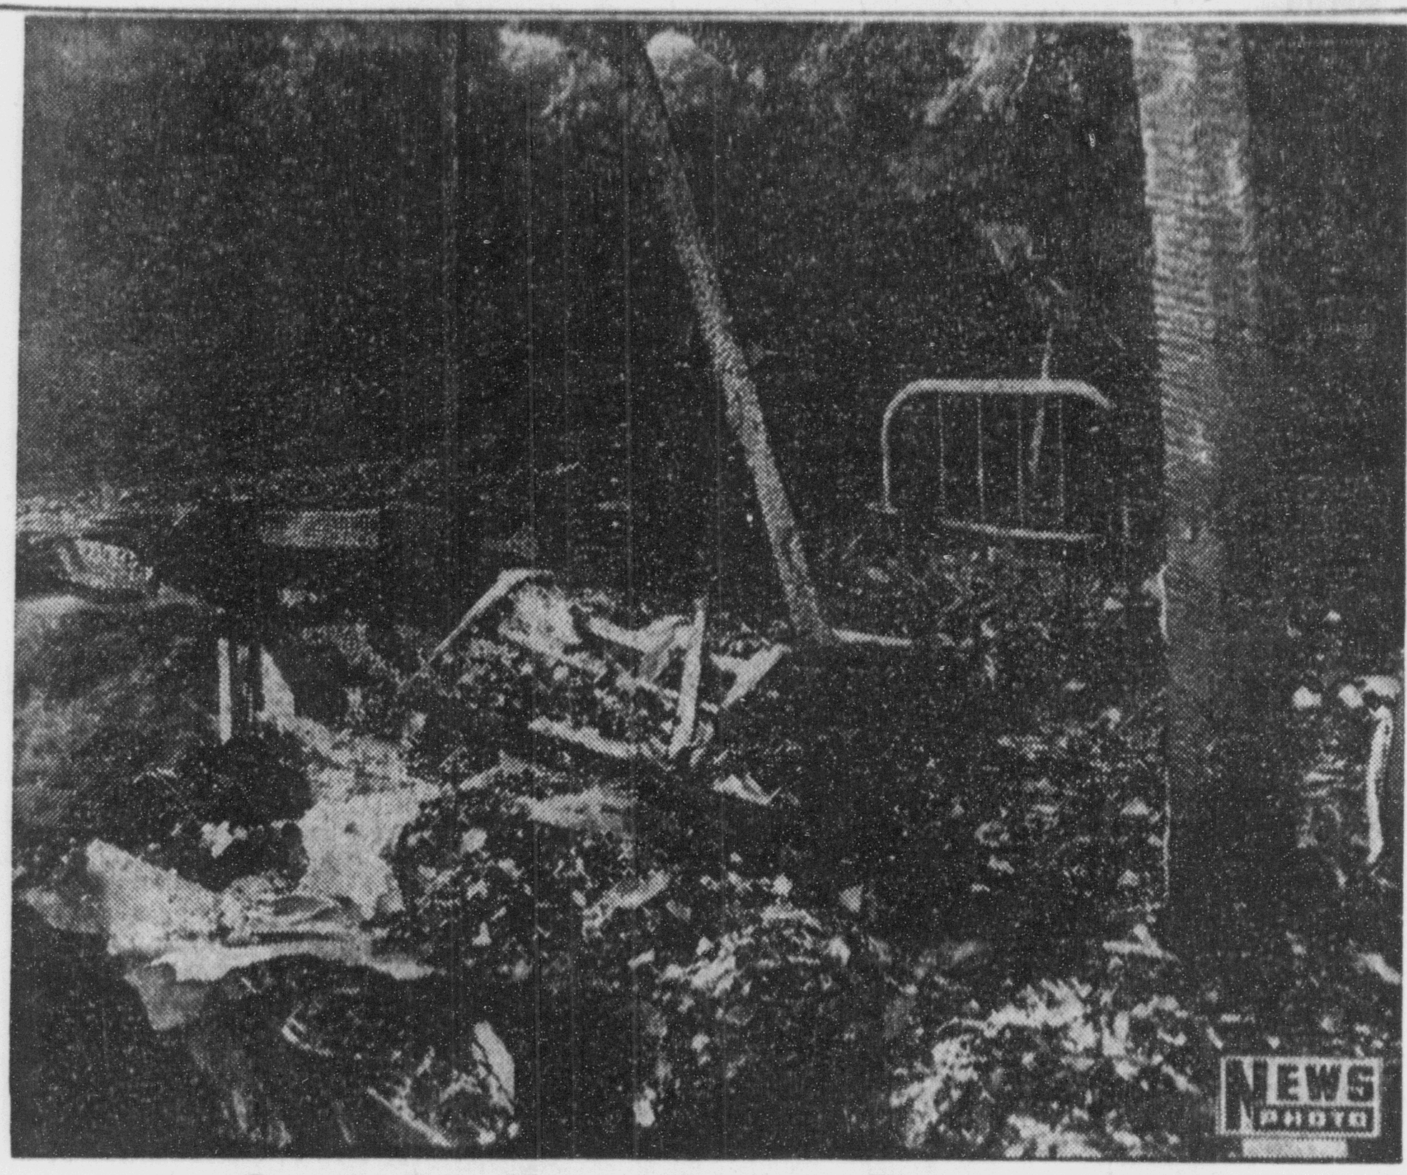
The Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference will meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in Allegany Trades Council Hall.



Cash Valley Home Destroyed

Shown above is an upstairs bedroom of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oda Crosten, near Corriganville on Cash Valley Road, which was gutted by fire early yesterday morning. The bed in which one of two children was sleeping can be seen to the right of the wall completely destroyed in the $3,500 blaze. Four trucks from Corriganville and LaVale Volunteer Fire Companies answered the call about 2:30 a. m. Hose was laid for a distance of 500 feet and water pumped from a nearby stream. Cause of the fire is undertermined according to Fire Chief Harry Martz, Corriganville.

Police Solve Recent Series Of Car Thefts

Three Teen-Agers Sentenced In Cases

Maryland State Police from LaVale Barracks in cooperation with Washington County and Baltimore authorities have cleared up a series of recent auto thefts and three teen-aged youths have been incarcerated as a result of charges pressed in the cases.

Robert Gerald Black, 17, of 406 Riverside Road, Baltimore, was sentenced yesterday morning in Trial Magistrates Court here to one year in the Maryland Reformatory for Males after he pleaded guilty to unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

One Of Three Youths

Black was one of three teen-age youths involved in a series of auto thefts last April, authorities said, the trio having taken cars from Baltimore, Hancock and Frostburg, before being picked up by State Police April 14.

According to local authorities the Baltimore youth and James Edward Farley, 18, and Robert Ernest Paul, 16, also of Baltimore stole an automobile in Baltimore April 14 and drove to Eckhart where they abandoned the car when it became stuck in the mud.

Walking to Frostburg the three boys then took a Ford coupe belonging to Harry Ort and drove to Hancock. At this point Farley and Black stole another car and the trio with Ort's Ford and the second car drove in Howard County where the second car was demolished in a smashup at a gasoline station when the group was chased by the state police.

Sentenced Here

Paul was sentenced to Maryland Training School for Boys until he becomes 18 years of age in Juvenile Court here on a charge of juvenile delinquency and Farley and Black received 30-day jail sentences in Washington County jail on a minor charge resulting from the Hancock theft.

Upon release from the Washington County jail Farley was sentenced to 18 months in Maryland Reformatory for Males in Washington County Circuit Court on an auto larceny charge and state police in Allegany County and Baltimore now hold detainers for the 18-year-old boy on the charges resulting from the thefts in Frostburg and Baltimore.

Black was picked up by local state police upon his release from Washington County jail and brought before Magistrate J. Milton Dick here on the unauthorized use charge in the Ort case.

Detainers Are Held

Detainers are also being held against Black in Baltimore and Washington County, police said.

William H. Geppert Selected For Navy Reserve Promotion

William H. Geppert, assistant state's attorney and member of the U. S. Naval Reserve, has received notification from the Fifth Naval District Intelligence Office, Norfolk, Va., that he has been selected for promotion to the rank of Commander in the Naval Reserve.

In a letter from Captain A. M. Hurst, district intelligence officer, Geppert was told that a selection board which recently convened in Washington had made the selection and that further information on the promotion would be forthcoming from the district commandant.

Geppert has been in the Naval Reserve for 10 years and was ordered to active duty three months prior to Pearl Harbor. He served throughout World War II as a Naval Intelligence Officer and spent two years with the Amphibious Forces in the Pacific. The local attorney took part in operations at Saipan, Guam, Tinian, Leyte, Iwo Jima and Okinawa.

Since 1946 he has served as chairman of the Naval Advisory Committee here and at present is attached to the Naval Reserve Intelligence Division in Norfolk.

Large Construction Program Planned For State Highways

Work Contracts To Total $30,000,000

Contracts for $30,000,000 more work on Maryland highways are expected to be awarded or advertised by the end of this year, State Roads Commission Chairman Russell H. McCain announced.

According to a program which the Commission is formulating for the remainder of the current construction year contracts will provide approximately 60 miles of entirely new roads and about 130 miles of widening, resurfacing and general rehabilitation of present highways.

Included in the program will be extension of each of the five divided highways which have been under construction for several years and which, since they link major population centers, are considered primely important in the development of Maryland's roads system.

These five thoroughfares are the Baltimore-Harrisburg Expressway, Baltimore National Pike, Washington National Pike, Annapolis-Washington Expressway and the highway being built across the Eastern Shore to connect with the Chesapeake Bay Bridge.

In addition to these major projects the 1951 schedule will include construction of some new two-way roads considered necessary but also believed capable of carrying their predictable traffic volume safely without a center parkway.

In announcing the program, following two meetings of the State Roads Commission with the Highway Advisory Council recently named by Governor McKeldin, Chairman McCain said he believed it should provide assurance that there is to be no abrupt abandonment of Maryland's highway improvement program.

Hundreds Witness Strange Object Over Cumberland

People who were talking of flying saucers in Cumberland several weeks ago were shaking their heads in bewilderment again last night after an unusual object was sighted in the skies over the city about 8:30 in the evening.

Hundreds of phone calls flooded the Cumberland NEWS office, state and city police stations and the Cumberland Airport as persons who sighted the phenomonem sought to report it or seek information about it.

Andrew M. Whetzel, 144 Arch Street, who called the NEWS, stated he watched "The Thing" through binoculars and said it appeared to be about a yard long and a foot wide, through the glasses. "It was arched like a rainbow and had two shades of flame shooting from the forward part," Whetzel reported.

The object did not look like an airplane and appeared to be a great distance away as it traveled over the city from the direction of Oldtown and disappeared over the horizon in the northwest.

Defense Rests In Sewer Suit

Closing Arguments Due This Morning

Albert S. Paye, Cumberland engineer, the 15th and last defense witness in the third trial of the $5,000 damage suit by Mrs. Minnie True Droege against the Town of Westernport, testified in Allegany County Circuit Court late yesterday afternoon that the sewer which collapsed under Mrs. Droege's Westernport home was properly constructed and properly maintained.

The engineer, acknowledged he had not inspected the sewer until last February, more than 18 months after the sewer collapsed under Mrs. Droege's house, July 12, 1949. His opinions were based on testimony that he heard at the trial Monday and yesterday.

After Paye left the witness stand around 4:10 p. m., Defense Attorneys Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., and Walter C. Capper rested their case. Mrs. Droege's attorneys, Thomas Lohr Richards and H. Gassaway Shores informed Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, presiding, that they would offer no rebuttal witnesses. Whereupon, Judge Harris excused the 12 jurors until 9:15 a. m. today when the four attorneys will give closing arguments. It is expected the jury will not get the case until about noon.

Most of the other 14 defense witnesses yesterday were past or present Westernport officials. An exception was Frank Snyder, Keyser, W. Va., contractor, who had estimated the costs necessary to repair Mrs. Droege's house after it was damaged by the collapse of the sewer.

Among other witnesses were Mayor George Kight, Police Chief Burza Hanlin, Mrs. Catherine Dailey, town clerk, and Water Commissioner Francis Glass.

Associate Judge George Henderson's judgment for the Town of Westernport after the first trial was reversed by the Maryland Court of Appeals last year. The second trial, last February, closed with a hung jury.

State Official Explains Points In Sewage Plan

County Board Takes No Action In Matter

Some misunderstandings concerning the proposed county authority for handling sewage disposal were cleared up by George L. Hall, chief engineer of the State Department of Health, at a meeting yesterday of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

After hearing Hall's statement the commissioners withheld any action concerning the proposal. They emphasized they have made no decision in the matter and stated that interested county residents will be given a chance to be heard when the matter again comes up for discussion.

Users Will Pay

One fact stressed by Hall was that only the people who use the service will pay for it. He told the commissioners that legislation passed by the recent session of the Maryland General Assembly provides for revenue bond issues to pay the cost of such sewage systems. The bond issues will not affect the borrowing capacity of the county, he added.

Areas mentioned specifically as being more or less within the scope of the plan whereby Cumberland would handle their sewage are LaVale, Cresaptown and intervening areas. In other words, all communities in the county probably would not be brought in but only those in the Cumberland suburban area.

A trunk sewer line would be built from Cresaptown across a section of the Celanese plant property and thence into this city to connect with the interceptor sewers. Residents of Bowling Green, Fairgo and other McMullen Highway communities could, if they desired, tie into the main trunk line by installation of lateral sewer lines, according to Hall.

Hall recommended that the county board get together with the Allegany County Metropolitan Sanitary Commission, the LaVale Sanitary District and determine whether an overall authority for the county, including Cumberland, could not be achieved.

Cumberland intends erecting a $1,480,000 sewage disposal plant. If

Armed Forces Day Programs Are Outlined

Guard To Escort Gen. Olmsted Here

The Armed Forces Day luncheon and park programs have been completed and plans are being organized to escort the principal speaker to Cumberland Saturday for the event, Thomas F. Conlon, general chairman, said yesterday.

The local National Guard plans to rendezvous with Brigadier General George H. Olmsted, deputy assistant chief of staff, Pentagon Building, Washington, D. C., who is the main speaker for the occasion. The Guardsmen will meet the General's entourage on Route 20, West Virginia and escort him to the Blue Bridge across the Potomac River at Ridgeley where a state police escort will pick up the convoy and bring it to the Post Office building. A special reception on the Post Office lawn will be held honoring the general, at 12:15 o'clock.

To Attend Luncheon

Following the reception the general and his escort will attend a luncheon at the B.P.O. Elks home, South Centre Street at 1 p. m.

The invocation at the luncheon will be administered by Rev. Edgar W. Gearhart, pastor of First Christian Church, and Mayor Thomas S. Post will deliver the address of welcome. Associate Judge George Henderson will be the principal speaker at the Elks' Club luncheon and following his address Rabbi H. J. Wilner, B'er Chayim Congregation, will speak. General Olmsted will then deliver a talk and the luncheon will close with benediction by Rev. Father Lewis Glantz, OFM, pastor of SS. Peter and Paul's Catholic Church.

Col. Randolph Millholland will be master of ceremonies for the luncheon affair.

Following the Elks' Club program the general and his party will go to the reviewing stand at Fort Hill High School to witness the giant Armed Forces Day parade which will begin at 3 p. m. from Oldtown Road.

Program At Park

Upon completion of the parade a special program will then be held at Constitution Park with Thomas B. Finan as master of ceremonies.

The park portion of the celebration will begin with the playing of the Star Spangled Banner by Allegany High School band followed by the invocation by Major Elmer Wall, Salvation Army. Mayor Post will again deliver the address of welcome and Rabbi Wilner will speak briefly prior to the principal address by Gen. Olmsted. The benediction will be administered by Fr. Glantz and the program will close with the playing of "God Bless America," by Fort Hill High School band.

A final organizational meeting of the Armed Forces Day committee will be held tonight in the Post Office building at 8 o'clock, Conlon stated. Reservations for the luncheon still are available according to Howard M. Spiker, luncheon chairman.

Ridgeley Woman Hurt In Mishap

The condition of Mrs. Georgia Gray, 22 Perry Street, Ridgeley, is reported as "good" at Memorial Hospital where she was admitted early yesterday following an automobile accident near Greene and South Lee Streets.

The 25-year-old Ridgeley woman suffered injuries to the left leg when the car in which she was riding struck a tree and was wedged between a house near Greene and South Lee Streets.

Mrs. Gray was riding with Howard D. Broomhall, 30, of 6531 Broad Street, Washington, headed north on Greene, when the car went out of control, jumped a curb and hit the tree. Broomhall escaped injury.

Lt. James E. Van, who investigated, said the machine made a right turn into Lee Street after the operator "fell asleep" at the wheel. Considerable damage resulted from the crash but no charges were preferred.

David McKinley, 18, Frostburg, who was seriously hurt May 3 in a traffic mishap on Route 36 near Moscow, continued to improve today at Memorial Hospital. A soldier, he is stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C.

Improving at Allegany Hospital are Ressie L. Teter, 141 Kornhoff Place, and Ivan Lloyd Mills, 215 Hay Street, who were hurt Saturday night in a crash on Dingle Hill.

Equity Suit Filed

An equity suit was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bill of complaint was titled Mrs. Mary G. Walsh vs. Joseph P. Walsh.

WEATHER

How beautiful can the weather get? Yesterday certainly gave Cumberlanders incentive to putter about their gardens and cultivate their flowers. Spring housecleaners are taking advantage of the pretty days. The weather station at Constitution Park reports a high of 86, the warmest day thus far this year, a low of 44 and at 8:30 p. m. the temperature was 75. Yesterday's dewpoint was 45 and humidity 34.5 percent. Today's forecast is for continued fair weather.

Acting City Engineer

William H. Marean, acting city engineer and building engineer, is seen yesterday at his office in City Hall following his temporary appointment Monday. Marean, who has been assistant city engineer for some time, will assume the work of Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, during the latter's leave of absence due to ill health. Marean, a registered professional engineer, has been affiliated with the department for almost 20 years.

Scout Executive Stresses Need For Additional Leaders

James H. Gelwicks, deputy regional executive Boy Scouts of America, Philadelphia, Pa., last night stressed the need for additional manpower to carry out the scouting program on a district level at a meeting of Cumberland District Boy Scouts at Central YMCA.

Speaking before an audience of approximately 40 district cubbers, scouters and den mothers Gelwicks noted that additional commissioner service training for unit leaders was also required to give a better program for the scouts. The tremendous increase in scout membership but lack of additional adult leaders has been the main fault with the current program, Gelwicks said.

The speaker outlined recruiting plans to aid in betterment of the scouting program and explained how available manpower could best be utilized to better advantage.

Prior to last night's district meeting Gelwicks spoke on "Scouts and Rotary" at the weekly Rotary Club luncheon yesterday afternoon at the "Y." Later he conducted a Den Mothers training course.

Gelwicks will visit the Tri-Towns District of Potomac Council today, speaking at the Piedmont, W. Va., Rotary Club at noon and conducting a den mothers training course at Trinity Methodist Church in Piedmont at 2 p. m. He will then speak at the Lonaconing Rotary Club dinner at 6 p. m. prior to attending the Tri-Towns District Scout meeting at the Odd Fellows Hall, Westernport, at 7:30 o'clock. Dr. D. P. Whitworth is chairman of the Tri-Towns District.

Flood Control Work On Greene Street To Begin

Plan To Reroute Traffic Is Made

Preliminary work for construction of a pressure conduit on Greene Street between Walnut Street and Paw Paw alley will get underway this week, army engineers with the local flood control project said yesterday.

Erection of barricades and placing of electric lights will be the first step in commencing the new portion of flood work on the West Side. A blacktop filling will also be placed on one side of the street, covering the curb and sidewalk so vehicular traffic may use the sidewalk to travel on when actual construction work begins, the engineers said.

Plans already have begun to reroute the traffic that normally would use Greene Street over Lee and Washington Streets to Allegany Street and around the work. It is expected that work on Walnut Street will be completed enough that Beall and Paca Streets will not be tied up and traffic may go around the Greene Street area via those routes.

The engineers and construction company are endeavoring to complete the Greene Street phase before racing season begins here in July.

A temporary bridge over the huge sewer ditch on Mechanic and Frederick streets has been built and the streets are now open to vehicular traffic although the block between Frederick and Bedford Streets on Mechanic is still closed.

Work on the Williams Street syphon will begin this week also and engineers expect the syphon to be completed within two weeks, thus closing an open ditch which has blocked the roadway on Williams Street for almost a year. A diversion chamber at the Williams Street B & O railroad crossing is also expected to be finished within the next 10 days to two weeks, thus completing work in that section of town, they noted.

Water Officials To Attend Convention

Two city officials will leave today to attend the annual meeting of the Maryland-Delaware Waterworks Association in Ocean City Thursday and Friday.

They are Water Commissioner George H. Tederick and Simon K. Carroll, city plumber.

BIRTHS

A deed filed in the office of the clerk of circuit court yesterday recorded the sale by Louis R. Dreyer and Phyllis E. Dreyer to Stanley W. Grubb and Betty C. Grubb for about $6,500 or property at 615 Fairview Avenue.

Smoke Engineer Cites Progress In Program Here

Says April Record Is Best In History

Cumberland is enjoying lower dustfall readings than any city in the United States which has a smoke abatement ordinance on its books, George M. Hitchcock, city smoke abatement engineer, reported yesterday.

He said the record was achieved as a result of the splendid cooperation being offered by industries of this city.

Records prove, Hitchcock said, that dustfall in the city is being brought down rapidly to a tolerable medium. He said he hoped chemical analysis would bear out the improvement in relation to irritability.

Hitchcock termed the March dustfall figures as "very good", with last month's results "the best on record" in the city.

During March, 1950, Hitchcock said, when the smoke control work was just getting under way, some 50.06 tons of dust fell in each square mile of the city. By March, of 1950, the dustfall dropped to 43.63 tons and in March, 1951, to 15.61 tons.

Low Record Recalled

April's record breaking 12.34 tons a year average was contrasted to 40.03 tons in 1949 and 36.85 in 1950.

Hitchcock said readings taken at the B. and O. hump in the Thomas Street area, which used to average 300 tons a mile, dropped to 98.21 in April as a result of the Dieselization of power in the Cumberland yards.

At the B. and O. roundhouse, which used to average 190 tons, 42.39 tons were recorded in April.

In fact, Hitchcock said, some parts of Cumberland enjoy cleaner air than at a station set up at Lake Gordon as a control point.

At the lake, far from the industrial area, dustfall averaged 0.12 last month as compared to 0.10 reading at Constitution Park.

Records taken on a yearly basis, he said, showed the same improvement.

Notes Yearly Decrease

The average dustfall in the city in 1949, he reported, was 28.87 tons per square mile. The average rose to 31.24 in 1950 but has been dropping steadily this year.

In January, the average was 26.55; February, 30.33; March, 15.61 and in April, the lowest figure yet, a record reading 12.34.

Referring to West Side complaints, Hitchcock said readings in

Ridgeley Legion Lists Nominees

Officers Will Be Elected June 5

Nomination of officers for the ensuing year was held at a meeting of Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion, Ridgeley, W. Va. last night at the post home. The election meeting will be June 5.

Candidates for Commander are Leo V. Mills, William McCullough; Vice-Commander, William L. Dailey, Eugene Mulligan; Adjutant, Paul F. McFarland, Richard Swick, Financial Officer, Arch Lough, incumbent, unopposed; Historian, Roland S. Tabler, present commander, unopposed.

Sergeant-at-arms, Dorsey Fleight, Charles E. Mulligan, Child Welfare, L. E. Detrick Jr., William C. Knierlem, Service Officer, Roland S. Showers, incumbent, unopposed, Americanism Officer, James McFarland, Richard Tabler, Chaplain, James O. Phillips, incumbent, unopposed, Three-year Trustee, Earl M. Whetsel, unopposed.

Delegates and alternates to the 10th District Convention at the Moorefield Legion Home June 10 were also named.

Six delegates are Commander Roland S. Tabler, Leo V. Mills, W. C. Knierlem, Paul McFarland, Robert Zimmerman, Arch Lough. Alternates K. Albert Wolfe, Roland Showers, Eugene Mulligan, James McFarland, Darby Healy, Richard Swick.

June 14 has been set as the date for the dedication of the new Legion Home in Ridgeley. Representatives have been invited from the Maryland Mountain District and W. Va. 10th District.

New Assistant Fire Chiefs

Three new assistant fire chiefs appointed by the Mayor and Council to assist Fire Chief J. T. Defibaugh, have assumed their new duties. They are Assistant Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, (left) who will be in charge of Civil Defense activities; Assistant Chief Robert C. Long, (center), who will be in charge of the training program, and Assistant Chief James A. Jackson, (right) head of the inspection department. Parker who has been a member of the department since 1925, first served at West Side for several years and then went to East Side Fire Station. Long entered the department in 1937 and has served at Central, East and West Side departments during his career. Jackson, a fireman since 1931, served at Central for about 14 years before going to South End Station, where he was serving at the time of his promotion. All held permanent ratings of captain and Parker and Long were acting assistant chiefs at the time of their promotions.

AreaBungalow Destroyed In Morning Blaze

Crosten Home Gutted On Cash Valley Road

An early morning fire yesterday gutted the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oda Crosten and family, about three-quarters of a mile from Corriganville, causing damages estimated at $3,500 according to Fire Chief Harry Martz, Corriganville. The small frame bungalow, located on the Cash Valley Road, caught fire about 2 a. m. No one was injured.

Four fire trucks from the Corriganville and LaVale Volunteer Fire Companies battled the early morning blaze for an hour before bringing it under control. About 500 feet of hose were used, Martz added, and water was pumped from a nearby stream.

Neighboring homes were threatened but firemen managed to keep the blaze confined to the immediate structure.

Cause Is Unknown

Cause of the fire is unknown, and Martz said Crosten was listening to the radio when the fire broke out. He attempted to extinguish the flames with several buckets of water and when it got out of control he notified the fire department.

Martz added the fire got such a start that few belongings were saved. Most of the furnishings were destroyed.

Crosten, an Amcelle worker, and other members of the family are now staying with relatives in the area. Damage to the bungalow was reputed partially covered by insurance.

Explosion Burns Two

Two men were burned about noon yesterday after natural gas backed up into a sewer and exploded at the Star Dye Works, 513 Necessity Street.

An employe, Herbert Stevey, 24, Oldtown, was treated at Allegany Hospital for first degree burns of the face, neck and upper arms.

Raymond C. Dorn, 106 LeFevre Street, manager of the establishment, received treatment at the scene for facial burns. His hair was singed.

Central firemen answered a call to the plant at 11:56 a.m. and remained there about an hour. Investigation revealed the blast apparently was set off by a spark from an electric motor.

Damage was confined to the motor.

South End Fire Company answered two calls last evening. A grass fire was reported at the rear of 117 Laing Avenue at 5:36 o'clock but firemen reported no damage. A small blaze was reported in a garage belonging to Mrs. Donald Harden, 401 Springdale Street at 8:45 o'clock. The fire was out upon arrival. No damage was caused.

Dashiell's Term Nears Finish

Edgar A. Dashiell presided at a meeting of the Allegany County Board of Education yesterday afternoon which in all probability was the last he will attend as a board member.

The chairman's term expires at the end of this month. Under the new law adopted at the recent session of the General Assembly this county will have a five-member Board of Education beginning June 1.

This new legislation also provides that at least two members of the board shall be women and at least two members of the political party which polled the second highest number of votes in the most recent gubernatorial election in the state.

Because the other two present board members, Wilbur V. Wilson and Edward J. Ryan, are Democrats like Dashiell, it appears likely that three Republicans, including two women, will be named to the new board by Governor McKeldin.

School Superintendent Charles L. Kopp said that yesterday's meeting was inauspicious.

Labor Meeting Set

The Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference will meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in Allegany Trades Council Hall.

Cash Valley Home Destroyed

Shown above is an upstairs bedroom of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oda Crosten, near Corriganville on Cash Valley Road, which was gutted by fire early yesterday morning. The bed in which one of two children was sleeping can be seen to the right of the wall completely destroyed in the $3,500 blaze. Four trucks from Corriganville and LaVale Volunteer Fire Companies answered the call about 2:30 a. m. Hose was laid for a distance of 500 feet and water pumped from a nearby stream. Cause of the fire is undertermined according to Fire Chief Harry Martz, Corriganville.

Police Solve Recent Series Of Car Thefts

Three Teen-Agers Sentenced In Cases

Maryland State Police from LaVale Barracks in cooperation with Washington County and Baltimore authorities have cleared up a series of recent auto thefts and three teen-aged youths have been incarcerated as a result of charges pressed in the cases.

Robert Gerald Black, 17, of 406 Riverside Road, Baltimore, was sentenced yesterday morning in Trial Magistrates Court here to one year in the Maryland Reformatory for Males after he pleaded guilty to unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

One Of Three Youths

Black was one of three teen-age youths involved in a series of auto thefts last April, authorities said, the trio having taken cars from Baltimore, Hancock and Frostburg, before being picked up by State Police April 14.

According to local authorities the Baltimore youth and James Edward Farley, 18, and Robert Ernest Paul, 16, also of Baltimore stole an automobile in Baltimore April 14 and drove to Eckhart where they abandoned the car when it became stuck in the mud.

Walking to Frostburg the three boys then took a Ford coupe belonging to Harry Ort and drove to Hancock. At this point Farley and Black stole another car and the trio with Ort's Ford and the second car drove in Howard County where the second car was demolished in a smashup at a gasoline station when the group was chased by the state police.

Sentenced Here

Paul was sentenced to Maryland Training School for Boys until he becomes 18 years of age in Juvenile Court here on a charge of juvenile delinquency and Farley and Black received 30-day jail sentences in Washington County jail on a minor charge resulting from the Hancock theft.

Upon release from the Washington County jail Farley was sentenced to 18 months in Maryland Reformatory for Males in Washington County Circuit Court on an auto larceny charge and state police in Allegany County and Baltimore now hold detainers for the 18-year-old boy on the charges resulting from the thefts in Frostburg and Baltimore.

Black was picked up by local state police upon his release from Washington County jail and brought before Magistrate J. Milton Dick here on the unauthorized use charge in the Ort case.

Detainers Are Held

Detainers are also being held against Black in Baltimore and Washington County, police said.

Large Construction Program Planned For State Highways

Work Contracts To Total $30,000,000

Contracts for $30,000,000 more work on Maryland highways are expected to be awarded or advertised by the end of this year, State Roads Commission Chairman Russell H. McCain announced.

According to a program which the Commission is formulating for the remainder of the current construction year contracts will provide approximately 60 miles of entirely new roads and about 130 miles of widening, resurfacing and general rehabilitation of present highways.

Included in the program will be extension of each of the five divided highways which have been under construction for several years and which, since they link major population centers, are considered primely important in the development of Maryland's roads system.

These five thoroughfares are the Baltimore-Harrisburg Expressway, Baltimore National Pike, Washington National Pike, Annapolis-Washington Expressway and the highway being built across the Eastern Shore to connect with the Chesapeake Bay Bridge.

In addition to these major projects the 1951 schedule will include construction of some new two-way roads considered necessary but also believed capable of carrying their predictable traffic volume safely without a center parkway.

In announcing the program, following two meetings of the State Roads Commission with the Highway Advisory Council recently named by Governor McKeldin, Chairman McCain said he believed it should provide assurance that there is to be no abrupt abandonment of Maryland's highway improvement program.

Hundreds Witness Strange Object Over Cumberland

People who were talking of flying saucers in Cumberland several weeks ago were shaking their heads in bewilderment again last night after an unusual object was sighted in the skies over the city about 8:30 in the evening.

Hundreds of phone calls flooded the Cumberland NEWS office, state and city police stations and the Cumberland Airport as persons who sighted the phenomonem sought to report it or seek information about it.

Andrew M. Whetzel, 114 Arch Street, who called the NEWS, stated he watched "The Thing" through binoculars and said it appeared to be about a yard long and a foot wide, through the glasses. "It was arched like a rainbow and had two shades of flame shooting from the forward part," Whetzel reported.

The object did not look like an airplane and appeared to be a great distance away as it traveled over the city from the direction of Oldtown and disappeared over the horizon in the northwest.

Defense Rests In Sewer Suit

Closing Arguments Due This Morning

Albert S. Paye, Cumberland engineer, the 15th and last defense witness in the third trial of the $5,000 damage suit by Mrs. Minnie True Droege against the Town of Westernport, testified in Allegany County Circuit Court late yesterday afternoon that the sewer which collapsed under Mrs. Droege's Westernport home was properly constructed and properly maintained.

The engineer, acknowledged he had not inspected the sewer until last February, more than 18 months after the sewer collapsed under Mrs. Droege's house, July 12, 1949. His opinions were based on testimony that he heard at the trial Monday and yesterday.

After Paye left the witness stand around 4:10 p. m., Defense Attorneys Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., and Walter C. Capper rested their case. Mrs. Droege's attorneys, Thomas Lohr Richards and H. Gassaway Shores informed Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, presiding, that they would offer no rebuttal witnesses. Whereupon, Judge Harris excused the 12 jurors until 9:15 a. m. today when the four attorneys will give closing arguments. It is expected the jury will not get the case until about noon.

Most of the other 14 defense witnesses yesterday were past or present Westernport officials. An exception was Frank Snyder, Keyser, W. Va., contractor, who had estimated the costs necessary to repair Mrs. Droege's house after it was damaged by the collapse of the sewer.

Among other witnesses were Mayor George Kight, Police Chief Burza Hanlin, Mrs. Catherine Dailey, town clerk, and Water Commissioner Francis Glass.

Associate Judge George Henderson's judgment for the Town of Westernport after the first trial was reversed by the Maryland Court of Appeals last year. The second trial, last February, closed with a hung jury.

State Official Explains Points In Sewage Plan

County Board Takes No Action In Matter

Some misunderstandings concerning the proposed county authority for handling sewage disposal were cleared up by George L. Hall, chief engineer of the State Department of Health, at a meeting yesterday of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

After hearing Hall's statement the commissioners withheld any action concerning the proposal. They emphasized they have made no decision in the matter and stated that interested county residents will be given a chance to be heard when the matter again comes up for discussion.

Users Will Pay

One fact stressed by Hall was that only the people who use the service will pay for it. He told the commissioners that legislation passed by the recent session of the Maryland General Assembly provides for revenue bond issues to pay the cost of such sewage systems. The bond issues will not affect the borrowing capacity of the county, he added.

Areas mentioned specifically as being more or less within the scope of the plan whereby Cumberland would handle their sewage are LaVale, Cresaptown and intervening areas. In other words, all communities in the county probably would not be brought in but only those in the Cumberland suburban area.

A trunk sewer line would be built from Cresaptown across a section of the Celanese plant property and thence into this city to connect with the interceptor sewers. Residents of Bowling Green, Fairgo and other McMullen Highway communities could, if they desired, tie into the main trunk line by installation of lateral sewer lines, according to Hall.

Hall recommended that the county board get together with the Allegany County Metropolitan Sanitary Commission, the LaVale Sanitary District and determine whether an overall authority for the county, including Cumberland, could not be achieved.

Cumberland intends erecting a $1,480,000 sewage disposal plant. If

William H. Geppert Selected For Navy Reserve Promotion

William H. Geppert, assistant state's attorney and member of the U. S. Naval Reserve, has received notification from the Fifth Naval District Intelligence Office, Norfolk, Va., that he has been selected for promotion to the rank of Commander in the Naval Reserve.

In a letter from Captain A. M. Hurst, district intelligence officer, Geppert was told that a selection board which recently convened in Washington had made the selection and that further information on the promotion would be forthcoming from the district commandant.

Geppert has been in the Naval Reserve for 10 years and was ordered to active duty three months prior to Pearl Harbor. He served throughout World War II as a Naval Intelligence Officer and spent two years with the Amphibious Forces in the Pacific. The local attorney took part in operations at Saipan, Guam, Tinian, Leyte, Iwo Jima and Okinawa.

Since 1946 he has served as chairman of the Naval Advisory Committee here and at present is attached to the Naval Reserve Intelligence Division in Norfolk.

Armed Forces Day Programs Are Outlined

Guard To Escort Gen. Olmsted Here

The Armed Forces Day luncheon and park programs have been completed and plans are being organized to escort the principal speaker to Cumberland Saturday for the event, Thomas F. Conlon, general chairman, said yesterday.

The local National Guard plans to rendezvous with Brigadier General George H. Olmsted, deputy assistant chief of staff, Pentagon Building, Washington, D. C., who is the main speaker for the occasion. The Guardsmen will meet the General's entourage on Route 20, West Virginia and escort him to the Blue Bridge across the Potomac River at Ridgeley where a state police escort will pick up the convoy and bring it to the Post Office building. A special reception on the Post Office lawn will be held honoring the general, at 12:15 o'clock.

To Attend Luncheon

Following the reception the general and his escort will attend a luncheon at the B.P.O. Elks home, South Centre Street at 1 p. m.

The invocation at the luncheon will be administered by Rev. Edgar W. Gearhart, pastor of First Christian Church, and Mayor Thomas S. Post will deliver the address of welcome. Associate Judge George Henderson will be the principal speaker at the Elks' Club luncheon and following his address Rabbi H. J. Wilner, B'er Chayim Congregation, will speak. General Olmsted will then deliver a talk and the luncheon will close with benediction by Rev. Father Lewis Glantz, OFM, pastor of SS. Peter and Paul's Catholic Church.

Col. Randolph Millholland will be master of ceremonies for the luncheon affair.

Following the Elks' Club program the general and his party will go to the reviewing stand at Fort Hill High School to witness the giant Armed Forces Day parade which will begin at 3 p. m. from Oldtown Road.

Program At Park

Upon completion of the parade a special program will then be held at Constitution Park with Thomas B. Finan as master of ceremonies.

The park portion of the celebration will begin with the playing of the Star Spangled Banner by Allegany High School band followed by the invocation by Major Elmer Wall, Salvation Army. Mayor Post will again deliver the address of welcome and Rabbi Wilner will speak briefly prior to the principal address by Gen. Olmsted. The benediction will be administered by Fr. Glantz and the program will close with the playing of "God Bless America," by Fort Hill High School band.

A final organizational meeting of the Armed Forces Day committee will be held tonight in the Post Office building at 8 o'clock, Conlon stated. Reservations for the luncheon still are available according to Howard M. Spiker, luncheon chairman.

Ridgeley Woman Hurt In Mishap

The condition of Mrs. Georgia Gray, 22 Perry Street, Ridgeley, is reported as "good" at Memorial Hospital where she was admitted early yesterday following an automobile accident near Greene and South Lee Streets.

The 25-year-old Ridgeley woman suffered injuries to the left leg when the car in which she was riding struck a tree and was wedged between a house near Greene and South Lee Streets.

Mrs. Gray was riding with Howard D. Broomhall, 30, of 6531 Broad Street, Washington, headed north on Greene, when the car went out of control, jumped a curb and hit the tree. Broomhall escaped injury.

Lt. James E. Van, who investigated, said the machine made a right turn into Lee Street after the operator "fell asleep" at the wheel. Considerable damage resulted from the crash but no charges were preferred.

David McKinley, 18, Frostburg, who was seriously hurt May 3 in a traffic mishap on Route 36 near Moscow, continued to improve today at Memorial Hospital. A soldier, he is stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C.

Improving at Allegany Hospital are Ressie L. Teter, 141 Kornhoff Place, and Ivan Lloyd Mills, 215 Hay Street, who were hurt Saturday night in a crash on Dingle Hill.

Equity Suit Filed

An equity suit was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bill of complaint was titled Mrs. Mary G. Walsh vs. Joseph P. Walsh.

WEATHER

How beautiful can the weather get? Yesterday certainly gave Cumberlanders incentive to putter about their gardens and cultivate their flowers. Spring housecleaners are taking advantage of the pretty days. The weather station at Constitution Park reports a high of 86, the warmest day thus far this year, a low of 44 and at 8:30 p. m. the temperature was 75. Yesterday's dewpoint was 45 and humidity 34.5 percent. Today's forecast is for continued fair weather.

Acting City Engineer

William H. Marean, acting city engineer and building engineer, is seen yesterday at his office in City Hall following his temporary appointment Monday. Marean, who has been assistant city engineer for some time, will assume the work of Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, during the latter's leave of absence due to ill health. Marean, a registered professional engineer, has been affiliated with the department for almost 20 years.

Flood Control Work On Greene Street To Begin

Plan To Reroute Traffic Is Made

Preliminary work for construction of a pressure conduit on Greene Street between Walnut Street and Paw Paw alley will get underway this week, army engineers with the local flood control project said yesterday.

Erection of barricades and placing of electric lights will be the first step in commencing the new portion of flood work on the West Side. A blacktop filling will also be placed on one side of the street, covering the curb and sidewalk so vehicular traffic may use the sidewalk to travel on when actual construction work begins, the engineers said.

Plans already have begun to reroute the traffic that normally would use Greene Street over Lee and Washington Streets to Allegany Street and around the work. It is expected that work on Walnut Street will be completed enough that Beall and Paca Streets will not be tied up and traffic may go around the Greene Street area via those routes.

The engineers and construction company are endeavoring to complete the Greene Street phase before racing season begins here in July.

A temporary bridge over the huge sewer ditch on Mechanic and Frederick streets has been built and the streets are now open to vehicular traffic although the block between Frederick and Bedford Streets on Mechanic is still closed.

Work on the Williams Street syphon will begin this week also and engineers expect the syphon to be completed within two weeks, thus closing an open ditch which has blocked the roadway on Williams Street for almost a year. A diversion chamber at the Williams Street B & O railroad crossing is also expected to be finished within the next 10 days to two weeks, thus completing work in that section of town, they noted.

Water Officials To Attend Convention

Two city officials will leave today to attend the annual meeting of the Maryland-Delaware Waterworks Association in Ocean City Thursday and Friday.

They are Water Commissioner George H. Tederick and Simon K. Carroll, city plumber.

Scout Executive Stresses Need For Additional Leaders

James H. Gelwicks, deputy regional executive Boy Scouts of America, Philadelphia, Pa., last night stressed the need for additional manpower to carry out the scouting program on a district level at a meeting of Cumberland District Boy Scouts at Central YMCA.

Speaking before an audience of approximately 40 district cubbers, scouters and den mothers Gelwicks noted that additional commissioner service training for unit leaders was also required to give a better program for the scouts. The tremendous increase in scout membership but lack of additional adult leaders has been the main fault with the current program, Gelwicks said.

The speaker outlined recruiting plans to aid in betterment of the scouting program and explained how available manpower could best be utilized to better advantage.

Prior to last night's district meeting Gelwicks spoke on "Scouts and Rotary" at the weekly Rotary Club luncheon yesterday afternoon at the "Y." Later he conducted a Den Mothers training course.

Gelwicks will visit the Tri-Towns District of Potomac Council today, speaking at the Piedmont, W. Va., Rotary Club at noon and conducting a den mothers training course at Trinity Methodist Church in Piedmont at 2 p. m. He will then speak at the Lonaconing Rotary Club dinner at 6 p. m. prior to attending the Tri-Towns District Scout meeting at the Odd Fellows Hall, Westernport, at 7:30 o'clock. Dr. D. P. Whitworth is chairman of the Tri-Towns District.

Property Sold

A deed filed in the office of the clerk of circuit court yesterday recorded the sale by Louis R. Dreyer and Phyllis E. Dreyer to Stanley W. Grubb and Betty C. Grubb for about $6,500 or property at 615 Fairview Avenue.

New Assistant Fire Chiefs

Three new assistant fire chiefs appointed by the Mayor and Council to assist Fire Chief J. T. Defibaugh, have assumed their new duties. They are Assistant Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, (left) who will be in charge of Civil Defense activities; Assistant Chief Robert C. Long, (center), who will be in charge of the training program, and Assistant Chief James A. Jackson, (right) head of the inspection department. Parker who has been a member of the department since 1925, first served at West Side for several years and then went to East Side Fire Station. Long entered the department in 1937 and has served at Central, East and West Side departments during his career. Jackson, a fireman since 1931, served at Central for about 14 years before going to South End Station, where he was serving at the time of his promotion. All held permanent ratings of captain and Parker and Long were acting assistant chiefs at the time of their promotions.

Smoke Engineer Cites Progress In Program Here

Says April Record Is Best In History

Cumberland is enjoying lower dustfall readings than any city in the United States which has a smoke abatement ordinance on its books, George M. Hitchcock, city smoke abatement engineer, reported yesterday.

He said the record was achieved as a result of the splendid cooperation being offered by industries of this city.

Records prove, Hitchcock said, that dustfall in the city is being brought down rapidly to a tolerable medium. He said he hoped chemical analysis would bear out the improvement in relation to irritability.

Hitchcock termed the March dustfall figures as "very good", with last month's results "the best on record" in the city.

During March, 1950, Hitchcock said, when the smoke control work was just getting under way, some 50.06 tons of dust fell in each square mile of the city. By March, of 1950, the dustfall dropped to 43.63 tons and in March, 1951, to 15.61 tons.

Low Record Recalled

April's record breaking 12.34 tons a year average was contrasted to 40.03 tons in 1949 and 36.85 in 1950.

Hitchcock said readings taken at the B. and O. hump in the Thomas Street area, which used to average 300 tons a square mile, dropped to 98.21 in April as a result of the Dieselization of power in the Cumberland yards.

At the B. and O. roundhouse, which used to average 100 tons, 42.39 tons were recorded in April.

At the lake, far from the industrial area, dustfall averaged 0.12 last month as compared to 0.10 reading at Constitution Park.

Records taken on a yearly basis, he said, showed the same improvement.

Notes Yearly Decrease

The average dustfall in the city in 1949, he reported, was 28.87 tons per square mile. The average rose to 31.24 in 1950 but has been dropping steadily this year.

In January, the average was 26.55; February, 30.33; March, 15.61 and in April, the lowest figure yet, a record breaking 12.34.

Referring to West Side complaints, Hitchcock said readings in
